Proposed Amendment — 95(2)(a.3)

Letter from Dept. of Finance, July 17, 2006:

Dear [xxx]:

I am writing in response to your letters with respect to paragraph 95(2)(a.3) of the Income Tax Act (the "Act") and clause (d)(ii)(B) of the definition "exempt earnings" in subsection 5907(1) of the Income Tax Regulations (the "Regulations").

Paragraph 95(2)(a.3) of the Act

In your correspondence, you express a concern with respect to the scope of paragraph 95(2)(a.3) in light of clause 95(2)(a)(ii)(E) of the Act.

Paragraph 95(2)(a.3) provides generally that the income for a taxation year of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer resident in Canada derived from indebtedness or lease obligations of persons resident in Canada (or in respect of businesses carried on in Canada) is not to be treated as active business income unless more than 90% of the foreign affiliate's gross revenue for the year from indebtedness or lease obligations is derived from indebtedness and lease obligations of non-resident persons with whom the foreign affiliate deals at arm's length.

In the example provided in your correspondence, you point out that, where the requirements for the application of clause 95(2)(a)(ii)(E) of the Act are met, that clause would treat, as active business income of the foreign affiliate of a taxpayer resident in Canada, the income of the foreign affiliate derived from the interest paid to the foreign affiliate by the taxpayer on a debt of the taxpayer in respect of the taxpayer's foreign insurance business. You point out that paragraph 95(2)(a.3) would, however, result in that same income being included in the foreign accrual property income of the foreign affiliate. You identify the inclusion, because of paragraph 95(2)(a.3), of that income of the foreign affiliate in the foreign accrual property income of the foreign affiliate as being inconsistent with the inclusion of that income of the foreign affiliate in the active business income of the foreign affiliate because of clause 95(2)(a)(ii)(E).

We agree that it would be inappropriate to include an amount of income of a foreign affiliate in its foreign accrual property income because of paragraph 95(2)(a.3) when that same amount of income is included in its active business income under clause 95(2)(a)(ii)(E). Therefore, we are prepared to recommend that paragraph 95(2)(a.3) be amended to provide for consistent treatment of that income as active business income. The recommended amendment to paragraph 95(2)(a.3) would ensure that any particular income of the foreign affiliate derived from indebtedness and lease obligations will not be included, because of paragraph 95(2)(a.3), in computing the foreign affiliate's income from a business other than an active business if the taxpayer is the taxpayer referred to in clause 95(2)(a)(ii)(E) and the particular income would, because of clause 95(2)(a)(ii)(E), be included in computing the income of the foreign affiliate from an active business.

It will be recommended that such an amendment apply to taxation years, of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer, that end after February 27, 2004.

Clause (d)(ii)(B) of the definition "exempt earnings" in subsection 5907(1) of the Regulations

[See under Reg. 5907(1)"exempt earnings" — ed.]

Thank you for writing.

Yours sincerely,

Proposed Amendment — 95(2)(a.3)

Letter from Dept. of Finance, Dec. 18, 2000:

Angelo Nikolakakis, Stikeman Elliott, Toronto

Dear Mr. Nikolakakis:

We are responding to your letters of July 19, July 26 and November 20, 2000 concerning paragraph (b) of the definition "investment business" in subsection 95(1), the interaction of subsection 95(2.2) and paragraph 95(2)(f), and the scope of paragraph 95(2)(a.3) of the Income Tax Act (the "Act").

In your letter of November 20, 2000, you requested that we amend subsection 95(2)(a.3) to preclude its application in respect of an affiliate's income from lease obligations relating to the use of property outside of Canada by persons having no material connection with the relevant taxpayer. You also requested that we confirm our willingness to recommend such an amendment to the Minister of Finance.

We are sympathetic to your request. Therefore, it will be recommended to the Minister of Finance that the Act be amended. The amendment will provide that paragraph 95(2)(a.3) of the Act does not apply to the income derived by a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer from lease obligations of persons (other than the taxpayer or persons that do not deal at arm's length with the taxpayer) relating to the use of property outside of Canada. It will be recommended that the amendment be made effective for taxation years of foreign affiliates that begin after 1999. It will also be recommended that a taxpayer be permitted to elect to have the amendment apply in respect of all the foreign affiliates of the taxpayer in respect of their taxation years commencing after 1994, which was the application date when it was first introduced.

Thank you for bringing these matters to our attention.

Yours sincerely,

Brian Ernewein, Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-392: Meaning of term "share".

Proposed Addition — 95(2)(c.1)–(c.6)

Technical Notes: New paragraphs 95(2)(c.1) to (c.6) put into place a regime that, in general terms, is intended to suspend the recognition of the capital gain that would have arisen upon an internal disposition by a foreign affiliate of a corporation resident in Canada (or a partnership of which the foreign affiliate is a member) of a share of another foreign affiliate of a corporation resident in Canada that is excluded property to the vendor (or would be excluded property to the vendor if the vendor were a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer) if such a disposition would otherwise result in a gain. Generally, this "suspended gain" is recognized when there is an external disposition of the share. See the definitions "specified vendor" and "specified purchaser" [now in 95(1) — ed.] in proposed new subsection 95(3.2) to determine when a disposition of a share of the capital stock of a foreign affiliate of a corporation resident in Canada is an internal disposition. These provisions replace proposed subsections 93(1.4) to (1.6) that were found in the December 20, 2002 proposals.

New paragraphs 95(2)(c.1) to (c.6) will apply to dispositions that occur after December 20, 2002. However, those paragraphs will not apply to a disposition of a share of the capital stock of a foreign affiliate of a corporation resident in Canada by a vendor

- if the disposition of the share is required to be made under an agreement in writing made by the vendor on or before December 20, 2002, or
- if the disposition of the share occurs on or before February 27, 2004 and a valid election in respect of the vendor is made under subsection 133(40) of the enacting legislation.

Where such an election is made, the special rules set out under subsection 133(40) of the enacting legislation will apply. Generally, a modified version of the proposed subsections 93(1.4) to (1.6) that were part of the December 20, 2002 proposals will apply. For details about the election and about those special rules, see the draft enacting legislation that this commentary accompanies. Note also that this current set of proposals provides that, notwithstanding subsections 152(4) to (5), the Minister of National Revenue can make any assessment of a taxpayer's tax, interest and penalties payable under the Act for any taxation year that is necessary to take such an election into account.

(c.1) [application of para. (c.2)] — paragraph (c.2) applies to a specified vendor, in respect of a particular corporation resident in Canada referred to in the definition "specified vendor"

in subsection (3.2), (which specified vendor is referred to in this paragraph and paragraph (c.2) as the "vendor") if

(i) the vendor disposes at any time of a share of the capital stock of a foreign affiliate, of the particular corporation, (which share is referred to in this paragraph, paragraphs (c.2) to (c.4) and subsection (3.3) as the "specified share", which time is referred to in this paragraph and paragraphs (c.2) to (c.4) as the "original disposition time" of the specified share and which foreign affiliate is referred to in paragraphs (c.4) and (c.6) and in subsection (3.3) as the "disposed foreign affiliate") to a person or partnership (referred to in this paragraph as the "purchaser") that is, immediately after that time, a specified purchaser in respect of the particular corporation,

(ii) immediately before the original disposition time, the specified share is excluded property of the vendor (or would be excluded property of the vendor if the vendor were, immediately before the original disposition time, a foreign affiliate of the particular corporation),

(iii) the vendor would, were this Act read without reference to paragraph (c.2), have a taxable capital gain from the disposition of the specified share, and

(iv) none of paragraphs (2)(c), (d) to (e.1) and (e.3) to (e.5) and 88(3)(a) applies to the vendor in respect of the disposition of the share;

Technical Notes: New paragraph 95(2)(c.1) sets out the circumstances under which new paragraph 95(2)(c.2) will apply. Generally, new paragraph 95(2)(c.2) applies to a specified vendor (defined in new subsection 95(3.2)), in respect of a corporation resident in Canada, if:

- the specified vendor disposes of, at any time, a share of the capital stock of a foreign affiliate of the corporation resident in Canada, (referred to here as the "specified share", and which time is referred to here as the "original disposition time" of the specified share and which foreign affiliate is referred to here as the "disposed foreign affiliate") to a person or partnership that is, immediately after that time, a specified purchaser (defined in new subsection 95(3.2) [now in 95(1) — ed.]) in respect of the corporation resident in Canada);
- immediately before the original disposition time, the specified share is excluded property of the specified vendor (or would be excluded property of the specified vendor if the specified vendor were, immediately before the original disposition time, a foreign affiliate of the corporation resident in Canada);
- if the Act were read without reference to paragraph 95(2)(c.2), the specified vendor would have a taxable capital gain from the disposition of the specified share; and
- none of paragraphs 88(3)(a) and 95(2)(c), (d) to (e.1) and (e.3) to (e.5) applies to the specified vendor in respect of the disposition of the share.

Related Provisions: 92(1.4) — Determining ACB of share of foreign affiliate; 95(2)(c.1)(ii) — Windup — continuation of affiliate; 95(2)(n) — Deemed FA and deemed qualifying interest; 95(3.2), (3.3) — Definitions; 95(3.6) — Partnerships and trusts.

(c.2) [suspended gain on internal disposition of FA] — if this paragraph applies to a vendor, the following rules apply:

(i) where the vendor is not a partnership, the vendor's proceeds of disposition (determined without reference to subsection 93(1)) from the disposition of the specified share are deemed to be an amount that is equal to

(A) if clause (B) does not apply to the vendor in respect of the disposition, the total of the vendor's adjusted cost base of the specified share and the amount, if any, that would be designated under subsection 93(1) because of subsection 93(1.1) in respect of the specified share if the specified share was disposed of for consideration equal to its fair market value at the original disposition time of the specified share, or

(B) if the vendor is a controlled foreign affiliate of the particular corporation resident in Canada at the end of the vendor's taxation year that includes the original disposition time of the specified share and the particular corporation so elects in respect of the disposition in prescribed manner and within the prescribed time, the greater of

(I) the amount determined by clause (A) in respect of the specified share, and

(II) the amount that is the lesser of the fair market value of the consideration received by the vendor in respect of the disposition and the amount that the particular corporation designates in the election,

(ii) where the vendor is a partnership of which a particular foreign affiliate of the particular corporation referred to in the definition "specified vendor" in subsection (3.2) is a member, for the purpose of computing the particular foreign affiliate's taxable capital gain from the disposition by the partnership of the specified share, the vendor's proceeds of disposition from the disposition of the specified share are deemed to be an amount that is equal to

(A) if clause (B) does not apply to the vendor in respect of the disposition, the total of the vendor's adjusted cost base of the specified share and the amount of a dividend, if any, that would be deemed by subsection 93(1.2) to have been received immediately before the original disposition time because of subsection 93(1.3) in respect of the specified share in respect of the particular foreign affiliate on the assumptions that

(I) the specified share is a share referred to in subsection 93(1.3) in respect of the particular foreign affiliate,

(II) no other share of the disposed foreign affiliate was disposed of at the original disposition time of the specified share,

(III) the particular foreign affiliate was the only member of the partnership, and

(IV) the specified share was disposed of for consideration equal to its fair market value at the original disposition time of the specified share, or

(B) if the particular foreign affiliate is a controlled foreign affiliate of the particular corporation resident in Canada at the end of particular foreign affiliate's taxation year that includes the original disposition time of the specified share and the particular corporation so elects in respect of the disposition in prescribed manner and within the prescribed time, the greater of

(I) the amount determined by clause (A) in respect of the specified share, and

(II) the amount that is the lesser of the fair market value of the consideration received by the vendor in respect of the disposition and the amount that the particular corporation designates in the election,

(iii) the purchaser's cost of the specified share is deemed to be an amount that is equal to the fair market value, at the original disposition time, of the specified share,

(iv) the vendor's cost of a property that was received as consideration for the disposition of the specified share is deemed to be an amount that is equal to the fair market value of the property at the original disposition time of the specified share, and

(v) the vendor that is a foreign affiliate of the particular corporation resident in Canada or a foreign affiliate of the particular corporation resident in Canada that is a member of a partnership that is the vendor (which vendor or foreign affiliate is referred to in this subparagraph and paragraph (c.3) as the "relevant foreign affiliate") is deemed to have an unadjusted suspended gain in respect of a specified share disposed of, at the original disposition time, by the vendor that is equal to twice the amount, if any, by which

(A) the amount that would, but for the application of this paragraph, have been the relevant foreign affiliate's taxable capital gain in respect of that disposition, if the vendor's proceeds of disposition in respect of that disposition were equal to the fair market value of the consideration received by the vendor in respect of that disposition,

exceeds

(B) the amount of the relevant foreign affiliate's taxable capital gain in respect of that disposition;

Technical Notes: New paragraph 95(2)(c.2) sets out various rules that will apply to the specified vendor and the specified purchaser in respect of the corporation resident in Canada. The rules can be summarized as follows:

- Where the specified vendor is not a partnership, the proceeds of disposition (determined without reference to subsection 93(1)) from the disposition of the specified share (referred to in new subsection 95(2)(c.1)) are deemed to be an amount equal to one of the following two amounts:
  - the total of the specified vendor's adjusted cost base of the specified share and the amount, if any, that would be designated under subsection 93(1) because of subsection 93(1.1) in respect of the specified share if the specified share was disposed of for consideration equal to its fair market value at the original disposition time (referred to in new subsection 95(2)(c.1)) of the specified share (such aggregate referred to here as the "specified amount"), or
  - if the specified vendor is a controlled foreign affiliate of the particular corporation resident in Canada at the end of the specified vendor's taxation year that includes the original disposition time of the specified share and the particular corporation elects in prescribed manner and within the prescribed time (see proposed new section 5915 of the Regulations), the greater of the specified amount and the amount that is the lesser of the fair market value of the consideration received by the specified vendor in respect of the disposition and the amount that the particular corporation designates in the election.
- Where the specified vendor is a partnership of which a particular foreign affiliate of the particular corporation referred to in the definition "specified vendor" in new subsection 95(3.2) is a member, in computing the particular foreign affiliate's taxable capital gain from the disposition by the partnership of the specified share, the specified vendor's proceeds of disposition from the disposition of the specified share are deemed to be an amount that is equal to one of the following amounts:
  - the total of the specified vendor's adjusted cost base of the specified share and the amount of a dividend, if any, that would be deemed by subsection 93(1.2) to have been received immediately before the original disposition time because of subsection 93(1.3) in respect of the specified share in respect of the particular foreign affiliate on the assumptions that the specified share is a share referred to in subsection 93(1.3) in respect of the particular foreign affiliate, no other share of the disposed foreign affiliate was disposed of at the original disposition time of the specified share, the particular foreign affiliate was the only member of the partnership, and the specified share was disposed of for consideration equal to its fair market value at the original disposition time of the specified share (referred to here as the "clause (A) amount"), or
  - if the particular foreign affiliate is a controlled foreign affiliate of the particular corporation resident in Canada at the end of the particular foreign affiliate's taxation year that includes the original disposition time of the specified share and the particular corporation elects in prescribed manner and within the prescribed time (see proposed section 5915 of the Regulations), the greater of the Clause (A) amount and the amount that is the lesser of the fair market value of the consideration received by the vendor in respect of the disposition and the amount that the particular corporation designates in the election.
- The specified purchaser's cost of the specified share is deemed to be the fair market value at the original disposition time of the specified share.
- The specified vendor's cost of property received as consideration for the disposition of the specified share is deemed to be the fair market value of the property at the original disposition time of the specified share.
- The specified vendor that is a foreign affiliate of the particular corporation resident in Canada or a foreign affiliate of the particular corporation resident in Canada that is a member of a partnership that is the specified vendor (here and in the commentary to paragraph 95(2)(c.3) referred to as the "relevant foreign affiliate") is deemed to have an unadjusted suspended gain in respect of a specified share disposed of, at the original disposition time, by the specified vendor that is equal to twice the amount, if any, by which
  - the amount of the taxable capital gain that, but for the application of this paragraph, would have been realized by the relevant foreign affiliate in respect of that disposition, if the specified vendor's proceeds of disposition in respect of that disposition were equal to the fair market value of the consideration received by the specified vendor in respect of the disposition,

exceeds

- the amount of the taxable capital gain that was realized by the relevant foreign affiliate in respect of that disposition.

Federal Budget, Supplementary Information, Feb. 26, 2008: Previously Announced Measures

Budget 2008 confirms the Government's intention to proceed with the following previously announced tax measures, as modified to take into account consultations and deliberations since their release: . . .

- Certain measures relating to the income taxation of foreign affiliates that were released in draft form on February 27, 2004 and have not since been enacted; . . .

Letter from Dept. of Finance, Oct. 20, 2003:

Dear [xxx]:

I am writing in response to your three letters dated August 18, 2003 in connection with subsection 93(1.4) of the Income Tax Act, as proposed in the Legislative Proposals and Explanatory Notes Relating to Income Tax that were announced on December 20, 2002. In each of those letters, you highlighted transactions that involve the disposition of shares, of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer resident in Canada, that are excluded property. You expressed your concern that, if proposed subsection 93(1.4) is enacted as drafted, those dispositions could result in foreign accrual property income (FAPI) to the taxpayer resident in Canada, and you requested that the Act not be amended to introduce subsection 93(1.4) as proposed.

It is our intention to recommend the introduction of amendments to the Act (the "new rule") which, in general terms, would provide that where a specified vendor in respect of a taxpayer resident in Canada makes a disposition (including, for greater certainty, a disposition arising on a redemption, acquisition or cancellation of a share) of a share of a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer, that is excluded property, to a specified purchaser in respect of the taxpayer, no gain would be recognized at the time of that disposition. However, a taxpayer would be permitted to elect an amount of proceeds of disposition, up to the fair market value of the share disposed of, which could result in a gain. In the case of such an election, any such gain would be included in computing FAPI. Therefore, the only FAPI that could arise on such a disposition would be self-imposed.

The new rule would apply only in respect of a disposition of a share of a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer that is excluded property of the specified vendor (or would be excluded property of the specified vendor if the specified vendor were a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer) and only where the disposition would otherwise result in a gain being realized by the specified vendor.

Should our recommendation be acted upon, it is contemplated that the new rule would apply to dispositions occurring after draft implementing legislation is made public. The proposed subsection 93(1.4), with some modifications, would apply to dispositions occurring before that time; however, taxpayers would be given the alternative of applying, in respect of all foreign affiliates of the taxpayer, the new rule to all relevant dispositions occurring after December 20, 2002. For a taxpayer that wishes to apply the new rule to dispositions occurring before its announcement date, certain other related changes to the foreign affiliate regime may also apply with respect to those dispositions.

I trust that this letter addresses your concerns.

Yours sincerely,

Brian Ernewein, Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

(B) where the shares of the new foreign corporation held by the other shareholder on whom the benefit is conferred are excluded property to that shareholder or would be excluded property to that shareholder if that shareholder were a foreign affiliate of the corporation resident in Canada, the amount of the benefit is to be added, immediately after the foreign merger, in computing the adjusted cost base of the shares of the new corporation held at that time by that shareholder;

Application: The February 27, 2004 draft legislation (Part 2 — foreign affiliates), subsec. 133(11), will amend para. 95(2)(d) to read as above, applicable to foreign mergers that occur after February 27, 2004.

Technical Notes: Paragraph 95(2)(d) provides rules that apply to a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that is a shareholder of another foreign affiliate (a "predecessor foreign affiliate") of the taxpayer that participates in a foreign merger and that shareholder receives shares of a new foreign corporation formed on the foreign merger or the foreign parent corporation, as the case may be, in exchange for its shares in the predecessor foreign affiliate.

Paragraph 95(2)(d) is amended to provide the following rules in cases where there has been a foreign merger (other than a foreign merger to which proposed paragraph 95(2)(d.1) applies) of two or more predecessor foreign corporations to form a new foreign corporation that was, immediately after the foreign merger, a foreign affiliate of a corporation resident in Canada, and a particular foreign predecessor corporation to the foreign merger was, immediately before the foreign merger, a foreign affiliate of the corporation resident in Canada.

- the cost of the property to the new foreign corporation, immediately after the foreign merger, is deemed to be equal to the amount so determined to be the particular foreign predecessor corporation's proceeds of disposition of the property,
- each shareholder of the particular foreign predecessor corporation that was, immediately before the foreign merger, a specified vendor in respect of the corporation resident in Canada
  - is deemed to have disposed, on the foreign merger, of each share of the particular foreign predecessor corporation that, immediately before the foreign merger, was held by the shareholder and was excluded property of the shareholder, for proceeds of disposition that are equal to such amount as the corporation resident in Canada elects, in prescribed manner and within the prescribed time (see proposed section 5916 of the Regulations), in respect of the share, that is not less than the adjusted cost base, immediately before the foreign merger, of the share, to the shareholder and is not more than the fair market value, immediately before the foreign merger, of the share,
  - is deemed to have acquired each particular share of the new foreign corporation received on the foreign merger by the shareholder in exchange for a share described in clause (A) for a cost equal to the amount determined by the formula

    where

    A is the total of all amounts each of which is the proceeds of disposition of a share of the predecessor determined above,

    B is the fair market value, immediately after the foreign merger, of the particular share of the new foreign corporation, and

    C is the fair market value, immediately after the foreign merger, of all shares of the new foreign corporation received on the foreign merger by the shareholder,
- the new foreign corporation is deemed to be the same person as, and a continuation of, the particular foreign predecessor corporation
  - for the purposes of paragraphs 95(2)(c.1) to (c.6), in respect of the disposition of a specified share received on the foreign merger by the new foreign corporation and disposed of, on the foreign merger, to the new foreign corporation by the particular foreign predecessor corporation,

- the taxation year of the particular predecessor foreign corporation that would otherwise include the time of the foreign merger is deemed to have ended immediately before that time, and
- where the fair market value of the share of the predecessor corporation exchanged by the shareholder on the foreign merger exceeds the fair market value of the share of the new foreign corporation received on the foreign merger for the exchanged share and it is reasonable to consider all or any portion of the excess as a benefit that the shareholder desired to have conferred on another shareholder of the new foreign corporation, the amount of the benefit
  - is deemed to be income from property that is the shares of the new foreign corporation of the other shareholder, and
  - is to be added to the adjusted cost base of the shares of the new foreign corporation of the other shareholder if they are excluded property.

(d.1) [foreign merger] — where there has been a foreign merger of two or more predecessor foreign corporations, in respect of each of which a taxpayer's surplus entitlement percentage was not less than 90% immediately before the merger, to form a new foreign corporation in respect of which the taxpayer's surplus entitlement percentage immediately after the merger was not less than 90%, other than a foreign merger where, under the income tax law of the country in which the predecessor foreign corporations were resident immediately before the merger, a gain or loss was recognized in respect of any capital property of a predecessor foreign corporation that became capital property of the new foreign corporation in the course of the merger,

(i) each capital property of the new foreign corporation that was a capital property of a predecessor foreign corporation immediately before the merger shall be deemed to have been disposed of by the predecessor foreign corporation immediately before the merger for proceeds of disposition equal to the cost amount of the property to the predecessor foreign corporation at that time; and

(ii) for the purposes of this subsection and the definition "foreign accrual property income" in subsection (1), the new foreign corporation shall, with respect to any disposition by it of any capital property to which subparagraph (i) applied, be deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, the predecessor foreign corporation that owned the property immediately before the merger,

but for greater certainty nothing in this paragraph shall affect the determination of whether any property of a predecessor foreign corporation is disposed of on a foreign merger other than one to which this paragraph applies;

(A) this subsection and the definition "foreign accrual property income" in subsection (1), with respect to any disposition by the new foreign corporation of property owned by the predecessor corporation immediately before the merger, and

(B) paragraphs (c.1) to (c.6), (f.1) to (f.93) and (h) to (h.5),

(iii) for greater certainty, nothing in this paragraph affects the determination of whether any property of a predecessor foreign corporation is disposed of on a foreign merger other than a foreign merger to which this paragraph applies, and

(iv) subsection 87(4) applies to each foreign affiliate of the taxpayer that, immediately before the merger, owned shares of the capital stock of a predecessor foreign corporation as if the reference in that subsection to

(A) the word "amalgamation" were a reference to the expression "foreign merger" and with any other modifications that the circumstances require,

(B) the expression "predecessor corporation" were a reference to the expression "predecessor foreign corporation" and with any other modifications that the circumstances require,

(C) the expression "new corporation" were a reference to the expression "new foreign corporation" and with any other modifications that the circumstances require, and

(D) the expression "adjusted cost base" were a reference to the expression "relevant cost base" and with any other modifications that the circumstances require;

Application: The February 27, 2004 draft legislation (Part 2 — foreign affiliates), subsec. 133(11), will amend para. 95(2)(d.1) to read as above, applicable to foreign mergers that occur after December 20, 2002.

Technical Notes: Paragraph 95(2)(d.1) provides for the rollover of capital property on a foreign merger where certain conditions have been met. One of these conditions (referred to as the "non-recognition condition") is that no gain or loss was recognized, under the income tax law of the country in which the predecessor foreign corporations were resident, in respect of any capital property of a predecessor foreign corporation that became capital property of the new foreign corporation in the course of the foreign merger.

Paragraph 95(2)(d.1) is amended in a number of ways.

First, paragraph 95(2)(d.1) is amended to provide for the rollover of property (including, but not restricted to capital property) on a foreign merger where certain conditions have been met. In addition, the non-recognition condition is amended to require that no income, gain or loss was recognized, under the income tax law of the country in which the predecessor foreign corporations were resident, in respect of any property of a predecessor foreign corporation that became property of the new foreign corporation in the course of the foreign merger.

Second, the amendments to subparagraph 95(2)(d.1)(ii) treat (for the purposes of paragraphs 95(2)(c.1) to (c.6), (f.1) to (f.93) and (h) to (h.5)) the new foreign corporation as the same corporation as and as a continuation of the predecessor foreign corporation.

Third, new subparagraph 95(2)(d.1)(iv) is a consequential to the amendments to paragraph 95(2)(d) and makes subsection 87(4) applicable to the shareholders of the predecessor foreign corporation that are foreign affiliates of the corporation resident in Canada.

Letter from Dept. of Finance, June 9, 2006:

Dear [xxx]:

I am writing in response to your letter dated April 13, 2006 concerning the foreign affiliate proposals announced on February 27, 2004. Proposed paragraph 95(2)(d.1) would be applicable to foreign mergers (within the meaning of subsection 87(8.1)) of predecessor foreign corporations that occur after December 20, 2004. You requested confirmation of certain possible modifications in respect of that proposed paragraph that we have under consideration.

Although the technical details of our intended recommendations for modifications to the foreign affiliate proposals are still being finalized, we can confirm, in general terms, that our recommended modifications in respect of proposed paragraph 95(2)(d.1) would include the following modifications.

First, the 90% surplus entitlement percentage requirement and the foreign tax law non-recognition requirement would no longer be preconditions to the application of proposed paragraph 95(2)(d.1). However, as the paragraph is intended as a rule in the foreign affiliates context, it would not apply unless

- a "specified vendor" (as defined in proposed subsection 95(3.2)) in respect of the taxpayer resident in Canada was, immediately before the foreign merger, a predecessor foreign corporation or a shareholder of a predecessor foreign corporation, and
- the foreign corporation formed on the merger was, immediately after the merger, a "specified purchaser" (as defined in proposed subsection 95(3.2) [now in 95(1) — ed.]) in respect of the taxpayer.

Second, proposed paragraph 95(2)(d.1) would not apply unless the shares of the capital stock of each predecessor foreign corporation that, in the course of the foreign merger, are exchanged for or become shares of the capital stock of the new foreign corporation or the foreign parent corporation have a total fair market value equal to at least 90% of the total fair market value of all shares of the capital stock of the predecessor foreign corporation (other than shares owned by any predecessor foreign corporation that, in the course of the merger, are not exchanged for or become shares of the capital stock of the new foreign corporation or the foreign parent corporation) that are issued and outstanding shares of the capital stock of the predecessor foreign corporation immediately before the merger.

Third, proposed paragraph 95(2)(d.1) would provide that, if a predecessor foreign corporation is a specified vendor in respect of the taxpayer resident in Canada and the new foreign corporation is a specified purchaser in respect of the taxpayer, each property of the new foreign corporation that was, immediately before the foreign merger, a property of the predecessor foreign corporation would be deemed to have been disposed by the predecessor foreign affiliate for proceeds of disposition and acquired by the new foreign corporation at a cost equal to

- the predecessor foreign corporation's "relevant cost base" (as described below) of the property, where the property is an excluded property of the predecessor foreign corporation,
- the predecessor foreign corporation's "relevant cost amount" (as described below), where the property is not an excluded property of the predecessor foreign corporation and the predecessor foreign corporation's relevant cost amount of the property is greater than the fair market value of the property, and
- the predecessor foreign corporation's relevant cost base of the property, in any other case.

Fourth, proposed paragraph 95(2)(d.1) would provide that, if a predecessor foreign corporation is not a specified vendor in respect of the taxpayer resident in Canada and, immediately after the foreign merger, the new foreign corporation is a specified purchaser in respect of the taxpayer, each property of the new foreign corporation that, immediately before the merger, was a property of the predecessor foreign corporation would be deemed to have been acquired by the new foreign corporation at a cost equal to the fair market value of the property.

Fifth, proposed paragraph 95(2)(d.1) would be modified so that subsection 87(4), read in the manner provided by that paragraph, would apply to any specified vendor in respect of the taxpayer resident in Canada where the specified vendor holds shares of the capital stock of the predecessor foreign corporation immediately before the foreign merger. That subparagraph would also be modified so that, in applying subsection 87(4), the references in that subsection to "adjusted cost base" would be read as references to the specified vendor's relevant cost amount (rather than relevant cost base) of those shares.

Sixth, proposed paragraph 95(2)(d.1) would provide that any income or profits taxes paid by or refunded to a predecessor foreign corporation that is a specified vendor in respect of the taxpayer resident in Canada in respect of income, gains or losses computed in accordance with foreign tax laws that arise from the dispositions of property in the course of the foreign merger are not income or profit taxes paid by or refunded to the predecessor foreign corporation. An exception from this rule would be provided to the extent that those taxes paid by or refunded to the predecessor foreign corporation relate to income, gains or losses included in determining the amounts prescribed to be the predecessor foreign corporation's exempt or taxable earnings in respect of the taxpayer.

Finally, the rules in section 95 of the Act would be modified so that, in applying paragraph 95(2)(d.1),

- the predecessor foreign corporation's "relevant cost amount" of the distributed property in respect of the taxpayer resident in Canada would be essentially the amount that would generally result in no gain or loss to the predecessor foreign corporation in respect of the taxpayer in respect of the distribution, and
- the predecessor foreign corporation's "relevant cost base" of the distributed property in respect of the taxpayer would be essentially the greater of
  - the predecessor foreign corporation's relevant cost amount of the distributed property in respect of the taxpayer, and
  - where the predecessor foreign corporation is a controlled foreign affiliate of the taxpayer, the amount elected by the taxpayer (not exceeding the fair market value of the distributed property).

We propose to recommend that the above-mentioned modifications in respect of proposed paragraph 95(2)(d.1) be effective for foreign mergers that occur after December 20, 2002. A taxpayer resident in Canada could, by so electing in respect of all foreign mergers of all its foreign affiliates, opt not to have the first modification described above apply to foreign mergers that occur after December 20, 2002 and during a transition period.

Yours sincerely,

Brian Ernewein, Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

A "specified purchaser" in respect of a corporation resident in Canada is defined in proposed new subsection 95(3.2) [now in 95(1) — ed.].

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-392: Meaning of term "share".

(e.1) [windup of foreign affiliate] — where there has been a liquidation and a dissolution of a foreign affiliate (in this paragraph referred to as the "disposing affiliate") of a taxpayer in respect of which, immediately before the liquidation, the taxpayer's surplus entitlement percentage was not less than 90%, other than a liquidation and a dissolution where, under the income tax law of the country in which the disposing affiliate was resident immediately before the liquidation, a gain or loss was recognized by the disposing affiliate in respect of any capital property distributed by it in the course of the liquidation to another foreign affiliate of the taxpayer resident in that country, the following rules apply:

(i) each capital property of the disposing affiliate that was so distributed to another foreign affiliate of the taxpayer shall be deemed to have been disposed of by the disposing affiliate for proceeds of disposition equal to the cost amount of the property to the disposing affiliate immediately before the distribution,

(ii) for the purposes of this subsection and the definition "foreign accrual property income" in subsection (1), the other affiliate shall, with respect to any disposition by it of capital property to which subparagraph (i) applied, be deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, the disposing affiliate, and

(iii) the other affiliate's proceeds of disposition of the shares of the capital stock of the disposing affiliate disposed of in the course of the liquidation shall be deemed to be the adjusted cost base of those shares to the other affiliate immediately before the disposition;

Proposed Amendment — 95(2)(e.1)

(e.1) [windup of foreign affiliate] — if there has been a liquidation and a dissolution of a foreign affiliate (in this paragraph referred to as the "disposing affiliate") of a taxpayer in respect of which, immediately before the liquidation, the taxpayer's surplus entitlement percentage was not less than 90% (other than a liquidation and a dissolution where, under the income tax law of the country in which the disposing affiliate was resident immediately before the liquidation, any income, gain or loss was recognized by the disposing affiliate in respect of any property distributed by it in the course of the liquidation to another foreign affiliate of the taxpayer):

(i) each property of the disposing affiliate that was so distributed to another foreign affiliate of the taxpayer is deemed to have been disposed of by the disposing affiliate for proceeds of disposition equal to the cost amount of the property to the disposing affiliate immediately before the distribution,

(ii) the other affiliate is deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, the disposing affiliate for the purposes of

(A) this subsection and the definition "foreign accrual property income" in subsection (1), with respect to any disposition by the other affiliate of property owned by the disposing affiliate immediately before the liquidation, and

(B) paragraphs (c.1) to (c.6), (f.1) to (f.93) and (h) to (h.5), and

(iii) the other affiliate's proceeds of disposition of the shares of the capital stock of the disposing affiliate disposed of in the course of the liquidation is deemed to be the adjusted cost base of those shares to the other affiliate immediately before the disposition;

Application: The February 27, 2004 draft legislation (Part 2 — foreign affiliates), subsec. 133(11), will amend para. 95(2)(e.1) to read as above, applicable to liquidations that begin after December 20, 2002.

Technical Notes: Paragraph 95(2)(e.1) provides for the rollover of capital property on a liquidation and a dissolution of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer where certain conditions have been met. One of these conditions (referred to as the "non-recognition condition") is that no gain or loss was recognized, under the income tax law of the country in which the disposing affiliate was resident, by the disposing affiliate in respect of any property of the disposing affiliate that was distributed by the disposing affiliate in the course of the liquidation to another foreign affiliate, of the taxpayer, resident in that country.

Paragraph 95(2)(e.1) is amended in the following ways.

First, paragraph 95(2)(e.1) is amended to provide for the rollover of property (including, but not restricted to, capital property) on a liquidation and a dissolution of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer where certain conditions have been met.

Second, the non-recognition condition in paragraph 95(2)(e.1) is amended to require that no income, gain or loss was recognized, under the income tax law of the country in which the disposing affiliate was resident, by the disposing affiliate in respect of any property of the disposing affiliate that was distributed by the disposing affiliate in the course of the liquidation and dissolution to another foreign affiliate of the taxpayer. The non-recognition condition no longer requires that this other foreign affiliate be resident in the same country as the disposing affiliate.

Third, the amendments to subparagraph 95(2)(e.1)(ii) treat (for the purposes of paragraphs 95(2)(c.1) to (c.6), (f.1) to (f.93) and (h) to (h.5)) the shareholder of the disposing affiliate as the same corporation as the disposing affiliate.

Letter from Dept. of Finance, April 12, 2006:

Dear [xxx]:

I am writing in response to your letters dated December 12, 2005 and January 30, 2006 with respect to proposed subsection 88(3) and paragraph 95(2)(e.1) of the Income Tax Act (the "Act") as contained in the foreign affiliate proposals announced on February 27, 2004 by the Minister of Finance. You have requested confirmation of certain possible modifications to proposed subsection 88(3) and paragraph 95(2)(e.1) and certain other identified related provisions of the Act that would apply to a liquidation and dissolution, after February 27, 2004, of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer resident in Canada.

Subsection 88(3) of the Act

[See under 88(3) — ed.]

Paragraph 95(2)(e.1) of the Act

In your correspondence, you expressed your views about two of the conditions to the application of paragraph 95(2)(e.1) to a liquidation and dissolution of a foreign affiliate (the "disposing foreign affiliate") of a taxpayer resident in Canada into another foreign affiliate of the taxpayer.

The first condition is the requirement that the taxpayer have a surplus entitlement percentage, in respect of the disposing foreign affiliate, of at least 90% immediately before the liquidation of the disposing foreign affiliate (the "90% SEP requirement"). You seek confirmation of our intention to recommend that, as an alternative to meeting the 90% SEP requirement, paragraph 95(2)(e.1) would be available where, immediately before the liquidation, a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer has a 90% or greater fair market value participating equity interest in the disposing foreign affiliate.

The second condition is the requirement that there be no gain or loss recognized, under the income tax laws of the country in which the disposing foreign affiliate was resident immediately before the liquidation, in respect of any property distributed by the disposing foreign affiliate in the course of the liquidation to another foreign affiliate of the taxpayer (the "non-recognition requirement"). You argue for the removal of the non-recognition requirement as a precondition to the application of paragraph 95(2)(e.1) so as to permit rollover treatment in respect of all property (rather than only excluded property) of the disposing foreign affiliate disposed of to any foreign affiliate of the taxpayer in the course of the liquidation and dissolution.

In your view, where proposed paragraph 95(2)(e.1) applies, that rollover treatment should be provided for by deeming the disposing foreign affiliate's proceeds of disposition of the property to be, subject to a relevant cost base election by the taxpayer, the cost amount of the property to the disposing foreign affiliate immediately before the liquidation.

From a tax policy viewpoint, we are sympathetic to the requests made for such revisions to the proposed paragraph 95(2)(e.1). Although the technical details of our intended recommendations for modifications in respect of proposed paragraph 95(2)(e.1) and to the February 2004 foreign affiliate proposals in general are still being finalized, we can confirm, in general terms, that our recommended modifications in respect of that proposed paragraph 95(2)(e.1) of the Act would include the following modifications.

First, the recommended modifications to proposed paragraph 95(2)(e.1) would remove the non-recognition requirement that is a condition to the application of that paragraph.

Second, proposed paragraph 95(2)(e.1) would be amended to provide that it apply to a liquidation and a dissolution of a foreign affiliate (the "disposing foreign affiliate") of a taxpayer resident in Canada if one of the two following alternative tests is met by the taxpayer resident in Canada:

- The taxpayer would, immediately before the time of the earliest distribution of property by the disposing foreign affiliate in respect of shares of the capital stock of the disposing foreign affiliate in the course of the liquidation and the dissolution of the disposing foreign affiliate, have a surplus entitlement percentage in respect of the disposing foreign affiliate of not less than 90% (on the assumption that shares of the capital stock of non-resident corporations owned by any taxpayers resident in Canada and related (otherwise than by virtue of paragraph 251(5)(b) of the Act) to the taxpayer were attributed to the taxpayer.
- A foreign affiliate of the taxpayer that is a shareholder of the disposing foreign affiliate has a 90% or greater fair market value participating equity interest in the disposing foreign affiliate. It would be met if the total fair market value of the properties distributed in the course of the liquidation and dissolution by the disposing foreign affiliate to the shareholder foreign affiliate was not less than 90% of the total fair market value of the properties distributed by the disposing foreign affiliate to all of its shareholders.

Third, the recommended modifications to that proposed paragraph 95(2)(e.1) would provide that, where that paragraph applies to a liquidation and a dissolution of the disposing foreign affiliate of the taxpayer resident in Canada, the following rules would apply (except to the extent that subsection 88(3) would apply to the disposing foreign affiliate and the shareholder of the disposing foreign affiliate in respect of the distribution of the property):

- the disposing foreign affiliate would be deemed to have disposed of each property distributed, in the course of the qualifying liquidation and dissolution, to a shareholder of the disposing foreign affiliate that was, immediately before the distribution, a "specified purchaser" (within the meaning to be assigned by draft subsection 95(3.5) [originally written "95(3.3)", but Finance (Victor Pietrow) has confirmed it should be (3.5) — ed.]) in respect of the taxpayer resident in Canada for proceeds equal to the greater of
  - the "relevant cost amount" of the distributed property to the disposing foreign affiliate in respect of the taxpayer resident in Canada (being essentially the amount that would generally result in no gain or loss to the disposing foreign affiliate in respect of the taxpayer in respect of the disposition of the distributed property), and
  - where the disposing foreign affiliate is a controlled foreign affiliate of the taxpayer resident in Canada, the amount elected by the taxpayer (not exceeding the fair market value of the particular distributed property);
- any gain under subsection 40(3) of the Act of the shareholder from the disposition of a particular share of the disposing foreign affiliate that was redeemed, acquired or cancelled by the disposing foreign affiliate in the course of the liquidation and the dissolution would be deemed to be nil;
- the amounts required to be determined under paragraph 95(2)(e.1) would be determined in Canadian dollars where those amounts are relevant for determining the foreign accrual property income of the disposing foreign affiliate in respect of the taxpayer resident in Canada; and
- the rules listed earlier in this letter numbered as 2 to 9 would apply with necessary changes to fit the context of the shareholders of the disposing foreign affiliate being specified purchasers in respect of the taxpayer resident in Canada rather than the taxpayer.

Fourth, the recommended modifications to paragraph 95(2)(e.1) would clarify that paragraph 95(2)(e.1) applies (except to the extent that subsection 88(3) applies), to the disposing foreign affiliate and its shareholders that are specified purchasers in respect of the taxpayer resident in Canada, in respect of the distribution of the distributed property for the purpose of computing

- the foreign accrual property income, the surplus and tax accounts (as defined in subsection 5907 of the Income Tax Regulations) and the foreign paid-up capital, of the disposing foreign affiliate or any foreign affiliate of the taxpayer resident in Canada or any taxpayer resident in Canada that does not deal at arm's length with that taxpayer resident in Canada that are shareholders of the disposing foreign affiliate, in respect of those taxpayers, and
- the income or capital gains of a taxpayer resident in Canada that, at the time of distribution, was a specified purchaser in respect of the taxpayer resident in Canada and a shareholder (or a member of a partnership that was the shareholder) of the disposing foreign affiliate.

We propose to recommend to the Minister of Finance that these modifications to proposed paragraph 95(2)(e.1) of the Act and the related provisions apply to a liquidation and dissolution of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer resident in Canada that begins after December 20, 2002, except if the taxpayer makes an election that applies in respect of all liquidations and dissolutions of its foreign affiliates. If the taxpayer makes that election, generally the proposals issued on February 27, 2004 would apply.

Thank you for writing.

Yours sincerely,

Brian Ernewein, Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

Proposed Addition — 95(2)(e.2)–(e.6)

(e.2) [application of para. (e.1)] — for the purpose of paragraph (e.1), a redemption, an acquisition or a cancellation of shares of a foreign affiliate of a corporation resident in Canada is deemed to be a liquidation and a dissolution of the foreign affiliate, if

(i) the surplus entitlement percentage of the corporation resident in Canada, in respect of the foreign affiliate, immediately before the redemption, acquisition or cancellation, is more than 90%, the surplus entitlement percentage of the corporation resident in Canada, in respect of the foreign affiliate is, immediately after the redemption, acquisition or cancellation, nil, and the foreign affiliate has no issued and outstanding shares immediately after the redemption, acquisition or cancellation, or

(ii) in the course of the redemption, acquisition or cancellation, property that has a fair market value equal to or greater than 90% of the fair market value, immediately before the redemption, acquisition or cancellation, of the property owned by the foreign affiliate is, because of the redemption, acquisition or cancellation, distributed to the shareholders of the foreign affiliate;

Technical Notes: New paragraph 95(2)(e.2) provides that, for the purpose of new paragraph 95(2)(e.1), a redemption, acquisition or cancellation of the shares of a foreign affiliate of a corporation resident in Canada will be treated as a liquidation and a dissolution of the foreign affiliate if:

- the surplus entitlement percentage of the corporation resident in Canada, in respect of the foreign affiliate, immediately before the redemption, acquisition or cancellation is more than 90%, and the surplus entitlement percentage of the corporation resident in Canada, in respect of the foreign affiliate is, immediately after the redemption, acquisition or cancellation, nil, and the foreign affiliate has no issued and outstanding shares immediately after the redemption, acquisition or cancellation; or
- in the course of the redemption, acquisition or cancellation, property having a fair market value equal to or greater than 90% of the fair market value, immediately before the redemption, acquisition or cancellation, of the property owned by the foreign affiliate is, because of the redemption, acquisition or cancellation, distributed to the shareholders of the foreign affiliate.

New paragraph 95(2)(e.2) applies to redemptions, acquisitions or cancellations that occur after February 27, 2004 other than a redemption, an acquisition or a cancellation of shares of a holder of shares that are required to be made under an agreement in writing made by the holder on or before February 27, 2004.

Related Provisions: 92(1.4) — Determining ACB of share of foreign affiliate; 93(1.4) — No election allowed on disposing of share of foreign affiliate; 95(2)(n) — Deemed FA and deemed qualifying interest; 95(3.2) — Definitions.

(e.3) [rollover to specified purchaser] — if, at a particular time, a shareholder (other than a person resident in Canada), of a foreign affiliate of a particular corporation resident in Canada, that is a specified purchaser in respect of the particular corporation receives (otherwise than in the course of a liquidation and a dissolution of the foreign affiliate or a merger or combination of corporations involving the foreign affiliate) a property from the foreign affiliate as a dividend or distribution on a share of the foreign affiliate, notwithstanding subsection 52(2), the following rules apply:

(i) the foreign affiliate's proceeds of disposition of the property are deemed to be

(A) if the property is excluded property of the foreign affiliate at the particular time, an amount that is equal to the relevant cost base of the property to the foreign affiliate immediately before the particular time, or

(B) in any other case, an amount equal to the fair market value, immediately before the particular time, of the property,

(ii) the cost of the property to the shareholder immediately after the particular time is deemed to be an amount equal to the foreign affiliate's proceeds of disposition of the property determined by subparagraph (i),

(iii) the amount of that dividend or distribution, in respect of the property, is deemed to be equal to the amount of the foreign affiliate's proceeds of disposition of the property determined by subparagraph (i), and

(iv) where, but for this subparagraph, the shareholder would, because of subsection 40(3), have a gain in respect of the share because of the dividend or distribution and the share is excluded property of the shareholder (or would be excluded property of the shareholder if the shareholder were a foreign affiliate of the particular corporation), for the purpose of applying subsection 40(3), the amount prescribed by paragraph 5900(1)(c) of the Regulations to have been paid out of the pre-acquisition surplus of the particular corporation's foreign affiliate from which the property was received, otherwise determined, in respect of the dividend or distribution in respect of the share is deemed to be the lesser of

(A) the amount that, but for this subparagraph, would be so prescribed, and

(B) the amount, not exceeding the amount referred to in clause (A), that the particular corporation elects in prescribed manner and within the prescribed time;

Technical Notes: New paragraphs 95(2)(e.3) to (e.6) put into place a regime that, in general terms, is intended to provide to a foreign affiliate of a corporation resident in Canada the possibility of rollover treatment (and avoidance of gains that will be included in foreign accrual property income) for dispositions of excluded property of the foreign affiliate to a specified purchaser in respect of the corporation resident in Canada. A "specified purchaser" in respect of a corporation resident in Canada is defined in proposed new subsection 95(3.2) [now in 95(1) — ed.].

Paragraphs 95(2)(e.3) to (e.6) apply to a receipt, after February 27, 2004, by a specified purchaser in respect of the corporation resident in Canada from a foreign affiliate of the corporation resident in Canada of property as a dividend or distribution in respect of a share of the foreign affiliate, or as consideration in respect of a redemption, purchase or acquisition of a share of the foreign affiliate. The paragraphs do not apply where the property was received because of a legal obligation of the foreign affiliate that arose on or before February 27, 2004 to pay the dividend or make the distribution, redemption, purchase or acquisition.

New paragraph 95(2)(e.3) provides for the following rules (notwithstanding subsection 52(2)), if, at a particular time, a shareholder (other than a person resident in Canada), of a foreign affiliate of a corporation resident in Canada, that is a specified purchaser (defined in new subsection 95(3.2) [now in 95(1) — ed.]) in respect of the corporation resident in Canada receives (otherwise than in the course of a liquidation and dissolution of the foreign affiliate or a merger or combination of corporations involving the foreign affiliate) a property from the foreign affiliate as a dividend or distribution on a share of the foreign affiliate.

- The foreign affiliate's proceeds of disposition of the property are deemed to be:
  - if the property is excluded property of the foreign affiliate at the particular time, an amount that is equal to the relevant cost base (defined in subsection 95(4)) of the property to the foreign affiliate immediately before the particular time; or
  - in any other case, an amount that is equal to the fair market value, immediately before the particular time, of the property.
- The cost of the property to the shareholder, immediately after the particular time, is deemed to be an amount equal to the foreign affiliate's proceeds of disposition of the property determined above.
- The amount of that dividend or distribution, in respect of the property, is deemed to be equal to the foreign affiliate's proceeds of disposition of the property determined above.
- Where, but for subparagraph 95(2)(e.3)(iv) (the provision described by this paragraph), the shareholder would, because of subsection 40(3), have a gain in respect of the share of the foreign affiliate on or in respect of which the dividend or distribution was received and the share of the foreign affiliate is excluded property of the shareholder (or would be excluded property of the shareholder if the shareholder were a foreign affiliate of the particular corporation), for the purposes of applying subsection 40(3), the amount prescribed by paragraph 5900(1)(c) of the Regulations to have been paid out of the pre-acquisition surplus of the particular foreign corporation's foreign affiliate from which the property was received, otherwise determined, in respect of the dividend or distribution in respect of the share shall be deemed to be the lesser of:

— the amount that, if subparagraph 95(2)(e.3)(iv) did not exist, would be so prescribed; and — the amount — not exceeding the amount that would, if subparagraph 95(2)(e.3)(iv) did not exist, be so prescribed — that the particular corporation elects in prescribed manner and within the prescribed time (see proposed new section 5916 of the Regulations).

Letter from Dept. of Finance, June 6, 2006:

Dear [xxx]:

I am writing in response to your letter dated March 31, 2006 in connection with proposed paragraphs 95(2)(e.3) and (f.4) of the Income Tax Act, as contained in the foreign affiliate proposals announced on February 27, 2004.

You raise issues concerning the tax results that may occur, because of draft subparagraph 95(2)(e.3)(i) or (f.4)(i) of the foreign affiliate proposals, when there is a disposition of a depreciable property, an eligible capital property or a foreign resource property of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer resident in Canada or a partnership of which a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer resident in Canada is a member. Under those proposed subparagraphs, the property is treated as having been disposed of for proceeds of disposition equal to the holder's adjusted cost base of the property (or such greater amount as the taxpayer is permitted to elect). Any income, gain or loss arising from the disposition would be included in computing the foreign affiliate's foreign accrual property income in respect of the taxpayer.

Your concern arises from the fact that, in the case of depreciable property, foreign accrual property income may arise on a disposition to which those provisions apply since the adjusted cost base of the property to the holder may exceed the cost amount of the property to the holder and the taxpayer is not permitted to elect proceeds of disposition for the holder that are equal to the holder's cost amount of the property in order to avoid this undesired result. We also noted your uncertainty as to how those provisions would apply to property (such as resource property or eligible capital property) that is not capital property.

We have previously identified these issues and intend to recommend modifications to the foreign affiliate proposals that would eliminate them. The revisions to proposed subparagraph 95(2)(e.3)(i) or (f.4)(i) would (except where the taxpayer elects otherwise) permit the foreign affiliate to treat its proceeds of disposition in respect of a disposition of an excluded property to be equal to an amount that would result in no immediate income, gain, loss, surplus or deficit in respect of the disposition. The income, gain, loss, surplus or deficit amount that has not been recognized at the time of the disposition would be recognized when the appropriate circumstances occur.

It is anticipated that these revisions to draft subparagraphs 95(2)(e.3)(i) and (f.4)(i) would have the same application date as the application date, of the draft subparagraph.

Yours sincerely,

Brian Ernewein, Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

(i) the foreign affiliate's proceeds of disposition of the property are deemed to be

(A) where the property is excluded property of the foreign affiliate at the particular time, an amount that is equal to the relevant cost base of the property to the foreign affiliate immediately before the particular time, or

(B) in any other case, an amount equal to the fair market value, immediately before the particular time, of the property,

(ii) the cost immediately after the particular time of the property to the shareholder is deemed to be an amount equal to the amount of the foreign affiliate's proceeds of disposition of the property determined by subparagraph (i),

(v) where, but for this subparagraph, the shareholder would, because of subsection 40(3), have a gain in respect of the share referred to in subparagraph (iv) because of the dividend referred to in subparagraph (iii) received by the shareholder in respect of the redemption of the share, for the purposes of applying subsection 40(3), the amount prescribed by paragraph 5900(1)(c) of the Regulations to have been paid out of the pre-acquisition surplus of the foreign affiliate — of the corporation resident in Canada — from which the property was received, otherwise determined, in respect of the dividend referred to in subparagraph (iii) in respect of the share is deemed to be the lesser of

- Where the share of the foreign affiliate redeemed is excluded property of the shareholder (or would be excluded property of the shareholder if the shareholder were a foreign affiliate of the particular corporation), the shareholder is deemed to have disposed of the share for proceeds of disposition equal to the cost amount of the share to the shareholder immediately before the disposition.

  - the amount of the gain as otherwise determined; and
  - such amount, not exceeding the amount of the gain as otherwise determined, as the corporation resident in Canada elects in prescribed manner and within the prescribed time (see proposed section 5916 of the Regulations).

(B) is deemed to be an income or a loss or a taxable capital gain or an allowable capital loss, as the case may be, of the foreign affiliate from the partnership and not to be an income or a loss or a taxable capital gain or an allowable capital loss of any other member of the partnership;

Technical Notes: New paragraph 95(2)(e.6) provides the following rules, for the purposes of applying paragraphs 95(2)(e) and (e.3) to (e.5) for the purposes of determining a foreign affiliate's income from the partnership, if the shareholder of the foreign affiliate of the corporation resident in Canada referred to in those paragraphs is the partnership and the foreign affiliate of the corporation resident in Canada is a member of the partnership.

(i) where that gain or loss is the gain or loss of a controlled foreign affiliate from the disposition of property to which paragraph (c), (d) or (e) or 88(3)(a) applies or from any other disposition of property (other than excluded property), in Canadian currency, and

(ii) in any other case, on the assumption that the currency of the country in which the affiliate is resident or such other currency as is reasonable in the circumstances (in this subparagraph referred to as the "calculating currency") were the currency of Canada and, where subsection 39(2) is applicable, on the further assumptions that

(A) the reference in that subsection to "the currency or currencies of one or more countries other than Canada relative to Canadian currency" were read as a reference to "one or more currencies other than the calculating currency relative to the calculating currency", and

(B) the references therein to "of a country other than Canada" were read as references to "of a country other than the country of the calculating currency", except that in computing any such gain or loss from the disposition of property owned by the affiliate at the time it last became a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer there shall not be included such portion of the gain or loss, as the case may be, as may reasonably be considered to have accrued during the period that the affiliate was not a foreign affiliate of

(iv) any person with whom the taxpayer was not dealing at arm's length,

(v) any person with whom the taxpayer would not have been dealing at arm's length if the person had been in existence after the taxpayer came into existence,

(vi) any predecessor corporation (within the meaning assigned by subsection 87(1)) of the taxpayer or of a person described in subparagraph (iv) or (v), or

(vii) any predecessor corporation (within the meaning assigned by paragraph 87(2)(l.2)) of the taxpayer or of a person described in subparagraph (iv) or (v);

Proposed Amendment — 95(2)(f)

(f) [rules for calculating income of foreign affiliate] — except as otherwise provided in this subdivision and except to the extent that the context otherwise requires, a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer is deemed to be at all times resident in Canada for the purposes of determining, in respect of the taxpayer for a taxation year of the foreign affiliate, each amount that is the foreign affiliate's

(i) capital gain, capital loss, taxable capital gain or allowable capital loss from a disposition of a property, or

(ii) income or loss from a property, from a business other than an active business or from a non-qualifying business;

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 25(2), will amend para. 95(2)(f) to read as above, applicable to taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that begin after October 2, 2007. However,

(a) for taxation years of a foreign affiliate that begin before 2009, subpara. 95(2)(f)(ii) shall be read as follows:

(ii) income or loss from a property or from a business other than an active business; . . .

(c) if the taxpayer elects in writing in respect of all of its foreign affiliates and files the election with the Minister of National Revenue on or before the taxpayer's "election day", the amendment also applies to taxation years of a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer that begin before October 2, 2007 and after the date chosen by the taxpayer under paragraph (d) below, except that subpara. 95(2)(f)(ii) shall be read in its application to those taxation years in the manner described in paragraph (a) above; and

(d) to be valid, an election must include the identification by the taxpayer of its choice of one of the following dates:

(i) December 31, 1994,

(ii) December 20, 2002, or

(iii) February 27, 2004.

For purposes of the above [and for new 95(1)"antecedent corporation", "calculating currency", "designated acquired corporation", "specified person or partnership", "specified predecessor corporation", 95(2)(f.1)-(f.15) and 95(2.6)], the taxpayer's "election day" is the later of the taxpayer's filing-due date for the taxpayer's taxation year that includes the day on which this amendment is assented to, and the day that is one year after that day.

Notwithstanding subsecs. 152(4) to (5), any assessment of a taxpayer's tax, interest and penalties payable under the Act for any taxation year shall be made that is necessary to take into account this amendment.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): Current paragraph 95(2)(f) sets out rules for computing a taxable capital gain and an allowable capital loss of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer resident in Canada from a disposition of property. The rules in paragraph 95(2)(f) address the computation of a gain or loss from a disposition of property whether the disposition is made by the foreign affiliate itself or by a partnership of which the foreign affiliate is a member. Those rules, which consist of a "main rule", a "reading rule", "currency rules" and a "carve-out rule", are relevant for the purposes of computing the foreign affiliate's tax surpluses and deficits in respect of the taxpayer and computing the foreign affiliate's foreign accrual property income (FAPI) or loss (FAPL) in respect of the taxpayer.

- The main rule provides that the taxable capital gain or allowable capital loss of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer from a disposition of property is to be computed in respect of the taxpayer in accordance with Part I of the Act as though the foreign affiliate were resident in Canada.
- The reading rule provides that, in reading Part I of the Act to make that computation, Part I is to be read without reference to section 26 of the Income Tax Application Rules.
- The currency rules provide that the computation of such a gain or loss is to be in the currency determined by subparagraph 95(2)(f)(i) or (ii), as the case may be. As part of the currency rules, subparagraph 95(2)(f)(ii) includes a rule with respect to the reading of subsection 39(2).
- The carve-out rule provides that, in computing any such gain or loss from the disposition of property that was owned by the foreign affiliate at the last time the foreign affiliate became a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer, there is not to be included such portion of the gain or loss as can reasonably be considered to have accrued during the carve-out period, i.e., the period that the foreign affiliate was not a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer or of a person specified in any of current subparagraphs 95(2)(f)(iv) to (vii).

The main rule, reading rule, currency rules and carve-out rule in current paragraph 95(2)(f) are replaced by the main, reading, currency and carve-out rules in new paragraphs 95(2)(f) to (f.15). Furthermore, the reference to the persons specified in current subparagraphs 95(2)(f)(iii) to (vii) is replaced by a reference to the persons specified in the new definition "specified person or partnership" in subsection 95(1). This definition, on the one hand, specifically excludes "designated acquired corporations", as newly defined in subsection 95(1), but, on the other hand, is expanded upon by the deeming rules in new subsection 95(2.6).

New paragraph 95(2)(f) sets out the new version of the "main rule". It provides that, except as otherwise provided in subdivision i of Division B of Part I of the Act and except to the extent that the context otherwise requires, a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer is deemed to be at all times resident in Canada for the purposes of determining, in respect of the taxpayer for a taxation year of the foreign affiliate, each amount that is the foreign affiliate's

- capital gain, capital loss, taxable capital gain or allowable capital loss from a disposition of a property, or
- income or loss from a property, from a business other than an active business or from a nonqualifying business.

New paragraph 95(2)(f) deals with the computation of a broader range of amounts than under the main rule in current paragraph 95(2)(f), which dealt only with the computation of the foreign affiliate's taxable capital gain or allowable capital loss from a disposition of property.

Letter from Dept. of Finance, Dec. 18, 2000:

Angelo Nikolakakis, Stikeman Elliott, Toronto

Dear Mr. Nikolakakis:

We are responding to your letters of July 19, July 26 and November 20, 2000 concerning paragraph (b) of the definition "investment business" in subsection 95(1), the interaction of subsection 95(2.2) and paragraph 95(2)(f), and the scope of paragraph 95(2)(a.3) of the Income Tax Act (the "Act").

In your letter of July 26, 2000, you informed us that, in administering subsection 95(2)(f) of the Act, the Canada Customs and Revenue Agency was not applying subsection 95(2.2) of the Act. While the scope of subsection 95(2.2) of the Act appears to encompass paragraph 95(2)(f), the provision is not completely suitable for that paragraph. Consequently, you have requested that we recommend an amendment to the Act that would introduce a new subsection similar to subsection 95(2.2) that would be more suitable for paragraph 95(2)(f) of the Act. You have also requested that we confirm our willingness to recommend such an amendment to the Minister of Finance.

For the reasons cited in your letter, we are prepared to recommend to the Minister of Finance that the Act be amended to introduce a new subsection which will specifically address the situation outlined in your letter. The effect of this provision would be to treat a non-resident corporation as becoming a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer at the beginning of the non-resident corporation's taxation year in which it last became a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer. This provision would apply where it became a foreign affiliate as a result of an acquisition of shares and it remained a foreign affiliate at the end of the year. It will not apply for the purpose of determining if any taxable capital gain or allowable capital loss realized by the non-resident corporation in that year or a subsequent year may reasonably be considered to have accrued during the period that the non-resident corporation was not a foreign affiliate of the persons described in subparagraphs 95(2)(f)(iii) to (vii) of the Act. It will be recommended that this new provision have application to taxation years of foreign affiliates ending after 1999. . . .

Thank you for bringing these matters to our attention.

Yours sincerely,

Brian Ernewein, Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

Letter from Dept. of Finance, Feb. 12, 2001:

Angelo Nikolakakis, Stikeman Elliott, Toronto

Dear Mr. Nikolakakis:. . .

Scope of Paragraph 95(2)(f)

You are also concerned that pre-acquisition transactions on income account rather than on capital account can result in FAPI in the year in which a non-resident corporation becomes a foreign affiliate. You are concerned that paragraph 95(2)(k) does not fully address this concern and as a result you are requesting an amendment to paragraph 95(2)(f) of the Act. You want to extend the scope of paragraph 95(2)(f) so that FAPI will not include income accruing or realised before a particular non-resident corporation becomes a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer resident in Canada.

Your request has merit and, consequently, we will recommend to the Minister of Finance (the "Minister") that an amendment be made to paragraph 95(2)(f) of the Act. This amendment will have the effect of excluding from the FAPI of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer the income of the foreign affiliate that is accrued or realised before it becomes a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer.

[See also under 95(2)(i) — ed.]

Effective Date

It will be recommended that the amendments be made effective for taxation years commencing after announcement date. It will also be recommended that taxpayer be permitted to elect to have the amendments apply to the 1994 and subsequent taxation years of foreign affiliates where the taxpayer so elects in respect of all the taxpayer's foreign affiliates.

Thank you for taking the time to express your concerns and we trust this letter addresses most of them.

Yours sincerely,

Brian Ernewein, Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

Letter from Dept. of Finance, June 4, 2001:

Dear [xxx]:

We are responding to your letter of May 28, 2001, asking us to confirm our intention to recommend to the Minister of Finance that an amendment be made to paragraph 95(2)(f) of the Income Tax Act (the "Act").

We will recommend to the Minister that an amendment be made to paragraph 95(2)(f) of the Act that will, if adopted, have the effect of excluding from the foreign accrual property income (FAPI) of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer the income of the foreign affiliate that was accrued or realized before it becomes a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer, whether such FAPI arises from dispositions of capital property or otherwise. It will be recommended that this amendment, if adopted, apply to taxation years of foreign affiliates commencing after 2000.

I trust that this meets your requirements.

Yours sincerely,

Brian Ernewein, Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

Letter from Dept. of Finance, Sept. 1, 2006:

Dear [xxx]:

I am writing in response to your letter dated July 6, 2006 and other communications in which you express concerns with respect to paragraphs 95(2)(f) and (f.1) of the Income Tax Act (the "Act") in their application to a proposed transaction.

In your letter, you describe the following proposed transactions:

1. Target, a taxable Canadian corporation, owns all the shares of a controlled foreign affiliate (FA1).
2. FA1 owns shares of another foreign affiliate (FA2).
3. Parent, a taxable Canadian corporation, proposes to acquire all the shares of Target. Parent would incorporate Acquisitionco (a taxable Canadian corporation) to acquire all the shares of Target.
4. Acquisitionco would amalgamate with Target pursuant to section 87 of the Act to form Amalco and bump the cost amount of the shares of FA1 to their fair market value pursuant to paragraph 88(1)(d).
5. After the amalgamation, it is proposed that FA1 dispose of the FA2 shares for fair market value cash consideration. The cash realized on the disposition of the FA2 shares would then be distributed by FA1 back to Amalco.

You indicate that, at the time of the acquisition of Target, FA1 would have an accrued capital gain on its shares of FA2 which are not excluded property of FA1. You also indicated that, at the time of the acquisition of Target, FA2 may have income that would be included in the foreign accrual property income of FA2.

You are concerned that, after Acquisitionco and Target amalgamate, paragraph 95(2)(f) of the Act will not apply to permit FA1 to exclude, in computing its foreign accrual property income in respect of Amalco, the portion of the gain realized on the disposition of the FA2 shares that accrued before the time that Acquisitionco acquired control of Target. You are also concerned that, after Acquisitionco and Target amalgamate, paragraph 95(2)(f.1) will not apply to permit FA1 to exclude, in computing its foreign accrual property income in respect of Amalco, the portion of its income that accrued before the time that Acquisitionco acquired control of Target. You are of the view that, in your example, control of Acquisitionco was acquired in an arm's length transaction and, in computing FA1's foreign accrual property income in respect of Amalco, paragraphs 95(2)(f) and (f.1) should apply to permit FA1 to exclude the portion of FA1's gain realized on the disposition of the FA2 shares and the portion of FA1's income that accrued before the time that Acquisitionco acquired control of Target.

We agree that it would be appropriate to amend paragraphs 95(2)(f) and (f.1) in a manner that would permit FA1 to exclude, in computing FA1's foreign accrual property income in respect of Amalco, the portion of FA1's gain realized on the disposition of the FA2 shares and FA1's income that accrued before the time that Acquisitionco acquired control of Target. We are, therefore, prepared to recommend that those paragraphs be amended in a manner that would achieve those results in the circumstances described in your letter. We would be recommending that the amendment to paragraphs 95(2)(f) and (f.1) be applicable for the purposes of computing the foreign accrual property income in respect of a taxpayer resident in Canada for taxation years of foreign affiliates that begin after the announcement date of draft legislation incorporating the amendment. However, if a taxpayer so elects in respect of all its foreign affiliates, the taxpayer would be permitted to have that amendment apply for the purposes of computing the foreign accrual property income in respect of the taxpayer for taxation years of foreign affiliates that begin after February 27, 2004.

We would anticipate that our recommendation, if adopted, would be included in a future technical bill or as part of the amended version of the foreign affiliate proposals that were announced on February 27, 2004.

Thank you for writing.

Yours sincerely,

Brian Ernewein, General Director–Legislation, Tax Policy Branch

Letter from Dept. of Finance, Feb. 22, 2008:

Dear [xxx]:

I am writing in response to your correspondence dated January 23, 2008 with respect to paragraphs 95(2)(f) and (f.1) of the Income Tax Act (Act).

As you know, draft paragraphs 95(2)(f) to (f.2) and certain related draft amendments to the Act were released on October 2, 2007. However, as mentioned in the draft explanatory notes to Bill C-28 that were released on November 21, 2007, those draft paragraphs and related draft amendments were withdrawn for further consideration in response to submissions received and were not included in Bill C-28. I confirm that it is still our intention to recommend to the Minister of Finance that those draft paragraphs and related draft amendments be enacted, with such revisions, if any, from the draft released on October 2, 2007 that are appropriate to respond to submissions from stakeholders.

While I cannot offer any assurance that either the Minister of Finance or Parliament will agree with our recommendations, I hope that this statement of our intentions is helpful to you.

Thank you for writing.

Yours sincerely,

Brian Ernewein, General Director–Legislation, Tax Policy Branch

Related Provisions: 92(1.4) — Determining ACB of share of foreign affiliate; 95(2)(e.1)(ii) — Windup — continuation of affiliate; 95(2)(f.1), (f.11) — Additional rules; 95(2)(f.12)–(f.15) — Currency to be used in calculations; 95(2)(n) — Deemed FA and deemed qualifying interest; 248(10) — Series of transactions or events; 261 — Functional currency reporting.

Regulations: 5903(1), (3) (deductible loss); 5907(5) (capital gain rules to be used).

Proposed Addition — 95(2)(f.1)–(f.15)

(f.1) [calculating income of foreign affiliate] — in computing an amount described in paragraph (f) in respect of a property or a business, there is not to be included any portion of that amount that can reasonably be considered to have accrued, in respect of the property (including for the purposes of this paragraph any property for which the property was substituted) or the business, while no person or partnership that held the property or carried on the business was a specified person or partnership in respect of the taxpayer referred to in paragraph (f);

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): New paragraph 95(2)(f.1) sets out the new version of the "carve-out rule". It provides that, in computing an amount described in new paragraph 95(2)(f), in respect of a property or a business, there is not to be included any portion of that amount that can reasonably be considered to have accrued, in respect of the property (including for these purposes any property for which the property was substituted) or the business, while no person or partnership that held the property or carried on the business was a "specified person or partnership" in respect of the taxpayer.

The expression "specified person or partnership" is newly defined in subsection 95(1). The expression "specified predecessor corporation" is also newly defined in subsection 95(1) and is relevant for the definition "specified person or partnership" (as well as for new subsection 95(2.6)). The expression "designated acquired corporation", also newly defined in subsection 95(1), is also relevant for the definition "specified person or partnership". The expression "antecedent corporation" is newly defined in subsection 95(1) and is relevant for the definitions "designated acquired corporation" and "specified predecessor corporation".

A "specified person or partnership", in respect of a taxpayer, at any time, is the taxpayer or a person (other than a "designated acquired corporation"), or a partnership, that is at that time

(a) a person (other than a partnership) that is resident in Canada and does not, at that time, deal at arm's length with the taxpayer,

(b) a "specified predecessor corporation" of the taxpayer or of a "specified person or partnership" in respect of the taxpayer,

(c) a foreign affiliate of — the taxpayer,

— a person that is at that time a specified person or partnership in respect of the taxpayer because of (a) or (b), or

— a partnership that is at that time a specified person or partnership in respect of the taxpayer because of (d), or

(d) a partnership a member of which is at that time a specified person or partnership in respect of the taxpayer because of any of (a) to (c).

A "specified predecessor corporation" of a particular corporation is - an antecedent corporation of the particular corporation,

- a predecessor corporation (within the meaning assigned by subsection 87(1)) in respect of an amalgamation by which the particular corporation was formed, or
- a specified predecessor corporation of a specified predecessor corporation of the particular corporation.

A "designated acquired corporation" of a taxpayer is a particular antecedent corporation of the taxpayer if

- the taxpayer or another antecedent corporation of the taxpayer acquired control of the particular antecedent corporation, and
- the taxpayer or the other antecedent corporation, as the case may be, dealt at arm's length (otherwise than because of a right referred to in paragraph 251(5)(b)) with the particular antecedent corporation immediately before the acquisition of control or a series of transactions or events that includes the acquisition of control.

An "antecedent corporation" of a particular corporation is

- a predecessor corporation (within the meaning assigned by subsection 87(1)) in respect of an amalgamation to which subsection 87(11) applied and by which the particular corporation was formed,
- a corporation that was wound-up into the particular corporation in a winding-up to which subsection 88(1) applied, or
- an antecedent corporation of an antecedent corporation of the particular corporation.

Example 1

The following example illustrates the operation of the definition "designated acquired corporation" in conjunction with new paragraphs 95(2)(f) and (f.1).

Facts:

1. Parent and Target are corporations resident in Canada that deal with each other at arm's length.

2. FA1 and FA2 are foreign affiliates of Target. Target owns all of the shares of FA1, a non-resident corporation. FA1 owns all of the shares of FA2, also a non-resident corporation.

3. Parent forms Acquireco, a corporation resident in Canada. Parent owns all of the shares of Acquireco.

4. Acquireco purchases all of the shares of Target on May 1, 2008.

5. Target and Acquireco amalgamate on June 1, 2008 (under an amalgamation to which subsection 87(11) applies) to form Amalco.

6. At the time of the acquisition of control of Target, FA1 has an accrued capital gain of $1 million on its shares of FA2 which are not excluded property of FA1

7. On June 1, 2010, FA1 disposes of the shares of FA2 and has a capital gain of $2.5 million from that disposition.

Results:

A. Target is a specified predecessor corporation of Amalco (the taxpayer). As such, absent the "designated acquired corporation" rule, Target would be a "specified person or partnership" in respect of Amalco. In computing FA1's capital gain in respect of Amalco in FA1's taxation year that includes June 1, 2010, FA1 would thus, in accordance with new paragraphs 95(2)(f) to (f.15), be required to recognize the full gain of $2.5 million from the disposition of the FA2 shares, even though $1 million of the $2.5 million gain accrued while Parent and Target were dealing with each other at arm's length and that same gain was indirectly recognized by Target's shareholders at the time of their disposition of Target's shares to Acquireco..

B. The "designated acquired corporation" rule ensures that the $1 million portion of the gain accrued in Target before the takeover is excluded in computing FA1's capital gain from the disposition of the FA2 shares. However, that portion of the gain that accrued while FA1 was a foreign affiliate of Acquireco (i.e., from May 1, 2008 to June 1, 2008) or Amalco (i.e., after June 1, 2008) will be included in computing FA1's capital gain from the disposition of the FA2 shares as Acquireco and Amalco would each be a specified person or partnership in respect of Amalco and would not be a designated acquired corporation.

C. Similarly, if instead of a gain FA1 had a loss from the disposition of the FA2 shares, any portion of that loss that accrued before the acquisition of control of Target would be excluded in computing FA1's capital loss from the disposition of the FA2 shares.

Note that it is expected that the Income Tax Regulations will be amended to provide that the surplus balances of a foreign affiliate of a designated acquired corporation would be reduced in appropriate circumstances, and without regard to whether a "bump" is claimed under paragraph 88(1)(d). Such an amendment is expected to be prospective from the date of the announcement of the details thereof.

New subsection 95(2.6) contains a deeming rule for the purposes of paragraphs (a) to (d) of the definition "specified person or partnership". The subsection provides that, for the purposes of those paragraphs, if a person or partnership (the "taxpayer") is not dealing at arm's length with another person or partnership (the "particular person") at a particular time, a special rule applies. The special rule provides that the taxpayer is treated as having existed and as not having dealt at arm's length with the particular person, nor with each specified predecessor corporation of the particular person, throughout the period that began when the particular person or the specified predecessor corporation, as the case may be, came into existence and that ends at the particular time. This special rule applies regardless of whether the taxpayer actually existed during that period.

The following example illustrates the operation of new subsection 95(2.6) in conjunction with new paragraphs 95(2)(f) and (f.1).

Facts:

1. From 2000 to 2007, Canco 1 (a corporation resident in Canada) owns all of the shares of Canco 2 (a corporation resident in Canada), which in turn owns all of the shares of FA (a non-resident corporation). During that time, property of FA that is not excluded property (within the meaning of subsection 95(1)) accrues a gain of $1,000,000.

2. On January 1, 2008, Canco 2 is liquidated into Canco 1, in a winding-up to which subsection 88(1) applies, thereby resulting in the shares of FA that are held by Canco 2 being transferred to Canco 1.

3. On June 1, 2008, Canco 1 forms Canco 3 (a corporation resident in Canada) and transfers the shares of FA to Canco 3.

4. Immediately after the transfer of FA shares to Canco 3, FA disposes of the non-excluded property and realizes a gain of $1,000,000.

Results:

Because Canco 3 did not exist while the gain on the non-excluded property accrued in FA, the result (in the absence of subsection 95(2.6)) would be that the gain accrued while the non-excluded property was held by a person (FA) that was not a specified person or partnership in respect of Canco 3 (FA is a foreign affiliate of Canco 2 but Canco 2 cannot be said to be dealing at non-arm's length with Canco 3). This would cause that gain to be carved-out under paragraph 95(2)(f.1).

However, subsection 95(2.6) causes Canco 3 to be non-arm's length with Canco 1 and thus causes Canco 1 to be a specified person or partnership in respect of Canco 3 back to the year 2000. Since subsection 88(1) applies on the liquidation of Canco 2 into Canco 1, Canco 2 is an antecedent corporation of Canco 1 and therefore is a specified predecessor corporation of Canco 1. Canco 2 is thus a specified person or partnership in respect of Canco 3 by virtue of paragraph (b) of that definition, and FA is a specified person or partnership in respect of Canco 3 by virtue of subparagraph (c)(ii) of that definition, during the entire gain accrual period. As a result, the $1,000,000 accrued gain on the nonexcluded property of FA is considered to have accrued while the person (FA) that held the property was a specified person or partnership in respect of Canco 3 and the carve-out rule in paragraph 95(2)(f.1) would not apply.

Alternatively, since FA is also a foreign affiliate of Canco 1 throughout the gain accrual period and subsection 95(2.6) deems Canco 3 (the taxpayer) to be not dealing at arm's length with Canco 1 (the particular person) in the years 2000 to 2007, the carve-out rule in paragraph 95(2)(f.1) could, without regard to Canco 2, be found not to apply.

(f.11) [calculating income of foreign affiliate] — in determining an amount described in paragraph (f) for a taxation year of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer,

(i) if the amount is described in subparagraph (f)(i), this Act is to be read without reference to section 26 of the Income Tax Application Rules, and

(ii) if the amount is described in subparagraph (f)(ii),

(A) this Act is to be read without reference to subsections 14(1.01) to (1.03), 17(1) and 18(4) and section 91, except that, where the foreign affiliate is a member of a partnership, section 91 is to be applied to determine the income or loss of the partnership and for that purpose subsection 96(1) is to be applied to determine the foreign affiliate's share of that income or loss of the partnership, and

(B) if the foreign affiliate has, in the taxation year, disposed of a foreign resource property in respect of a country, it is deemed to have designated, in respect of the disposition and in accordance with subparagraph 59(1)(b)(ii) for the taxation year, the amount, if any, by which

(I) the amount determined under paragraph 59(1)(a) in respect of the disposition

exceeds

(II) the amount determined under subparagraph 59(1)(b)(i) in respect of the disposition;

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): New paragraph 95(2)(f.11) incorporates the "reading rule" from current paragraph 95(2)(f) and provides reading rules and a deeming rule that are required by the expansion of the general rule in new paragraph 95(2)(f) to income or loss from property, from a business other than an active business, and from a non-qualifying business.

The new paragraph provides that, in determining an amount described in new paragraph 95(2)(f) for a taxation year of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer, if the amount is described in subparagraph 95(2)(f)(i), the Act is to be read without reference to section 26 of the Income Tax Application Rules. If the amount is described in subparagraph 95(2)(f)(ii), two consequences follow. First, the Act is to be read without reference to subsections 14(1.01) to (1.03), 17(1) and 18(4) and section 91, except that, where the foreign affiliate is a member of a partnership, section 91 is to be applied to determine the income or loss of the partnership and for that purpose subsection 96(1) is to be applied to determine the foreign affiliate's share of that income or loss of the partnership. Second, if the foreign affiliate has, in the taxation year, disposed of a foreign resource property in respect of a country, it is treated as having designated, in accordance with subparagraph 59(1)(b)(ii), the amount, if any, by which the amount determined under paragraph 59(1)(a) in respect of the disposition exceeds the amount determined under subparagraph 59(1)(b)(i) in respect of the disposition.

Related Provisions: 95(2)(e.1)(ii) — Windup — continuation of affiliate; 95(2)(f.12)–(f.15) — Currency to be used in calculations; 95(2)(n) — Deemed FA and deemed qualifying interest; 261 — Functional currency reporting.

(f.12) [currency to be used for foreign affiliate] — a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer shall determine each of the following amounts using its calculating currency for a taxation year:

(i) subject to paragraph (f.13), each capital gain, capital loss, taxable capital gain and allowable capital loss of the foreign affiliate for the taxation year from the disposition, at any time, of a property that, at that time, was an excluded property of the foreign affiliate,

(ii) its income or loss for the taxation year from each active business carried on by it in the taxation year in a country, and

(iii) its income or loss that is included in computing its income or loss from an active business for the taxation year because of paragraph (a);

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): New paragraphs 95(2)(f.12) to (f.15) set out the new version of the "currency rules".

The new definition "calculating currency" in subsection 95(1) is relevant for those paragraphs. The "calculating currency", for a taxation year of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer, is either the currency of the country in which the foreign affiliate is resident at the end of the taxation year or any currency that the taxpayer demonstrates to be reasonable in the circumstances. Note that the reference to "any currency" is meant to include Canadian currency.

New paragraph 95(2)(f.12) provides that a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer shall determine each of the following amounts in its calculating currency for a taxation year:

- Subject to paragraph 95(2)(f.13), each capital gain, capital loss, taxable capital gain and allowable capital loss from the disposition of a capital property that was an excluded property;
- Its income or loss from each active business carried on by it in a country; and
- Its income or loss that is included in computing its income or loss from an active business for the taxation year because of paragraph 95(2)(a).

Related Provisions: 95(2)(f.13)-(f.15) — Rules; 261(5)(e), 261(5)(b)(i) — Functional currency reporting.

(f.13) [currency to be used for foreign affiliate] — where the calculating currency of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer is a currency other than Canadian currency, the foreign affiliate shall determine the amount included in computing its foreign accrual property income, in respect of the taxpayer for a taxation year of the foreign affiliate, attributable to its capital gain or taxable capital gain, from the disposition of an excluded property in the taxation year, in Canadian currency by converting the amount of the capital gain, or taxable capital gain, otherwise determined under subparagraph (f.12)(i) using its calculating currency for the taxation year into Canadian currency using the rate of exchange quoted by the Bank of Canada at noon on the day on which the disposition was made;

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): New paragraph 95(2)(f.13) applies where the calculating currency of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer is a currency other than Canadian currency. The paragraph provides that the foreign affiliate shall determine the amount included in computing its foreign accrual property income that is attributable to its capital gain or taxable capital gain, from the disposition of an excluded property, in Canadian currency by converting the amount of the capital gain, or taxable capital gain, otherwise determined under subparagraph 95(2)(f.12)(i) using its calculating currency for the taxation year into Canadian currency using the rate of exchange quoted by the Bank of Canada at noon on the day on which the disposition was made.

Related Provisions: 261(5)(h) — Functional currency reporting.

(f.14) [currency to be used for foreign affiliate] — a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer shall determine using Canadian currency each amount of its income, loss, capital gain, capital loss, taxable capital gain or allowable capital loss for a taxation year, other than an amount to which paragraph (f.12) or (f.13) applies;

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): New paragraph 95(2)(f.14) provides that a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer shall determine in Canadian currency each amount of its income, loss, capital gain, capital loss, taxable capital gain or allowable capital loss for a taxation year, other than an amount to which paragraph 95(2)(f.12) or (f.13) applies.

Related Provisions: 261(5)(h)(i)(A) — Functional currency reporting — meaning of "Canadian currency".

(f.15) [currency to be used for foreign affiliate] — for the purpose of applying subparagraph (f.12)(i), the reference in subsection 39(2) to "the currency or currencies of one or more countries other than Canada relative to Canadian currency" is to be read as a reference to "one or more currencies other than the calculating currency relative to the calculating currency" and the references in that subsection to "of a country other than Canada"are to be read as references to "other than the calculating currency";

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): New paragraph 95(2)(f.15) is a reading rule for subsection 39(2) that replaces the reading rule contained in current subparagraph 95(2)(f)(ii). Subsection 39(2) sets out rules that apply when a taxpayer realizes a gain or loss because of a fluctuation in currency exchange rates. New paragraph 95(2)(f.15) ensures that for the purpose of applying new subparagraph 95(2)(f)(i), subsection 39(2) reflects the concept of a "calculating currency".

Related Provisions: 261(5)(h)(i) — Functional currency reporting.

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 25(2), will add paras. 95(2)(f.1) to (f.15), applicable to taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that begin after October 2, 2007. However,

[amending bill, s. 25(6)(c)] if the taxpayer elects in writing in respect of all of its foreign affiliates and files the election with the Minister of National Revenue on or before the taxpayer's "election day" [see Application annotation to new 95(2)(f)], the amendment also applies to taxation years of a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer that begin before October 2, 2007 and after the date chosen by the taxpayer under paragraph (d) below; and

(d) to be valid, an election must include the identification by the taxpayer of its choice of one of the following dates:

(i) December 31, 1994,

(ii) December 20, 2002, or

(iii) February 27, 2004.

Notwithstanding subsecs. 152(4) to (5), any assessment of a taxpayer's tax, interest and penalties payable under the Act for any taxation year shall be made that is necessary to take into account this amendment.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): New paragraphs 95(2)(f) to (f.15) and subsection 95(2.6) and the definitions "antecedent corporation", "calculating currency", "designated acquired corporation", "specified person or partnership" and "specified predecessor corporation" in subsection 95(1) apply to taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that begin after October 2, 2007. However, there are three transitional rules.

First, if the taxpayer elects in writing in respect of all of its foreign affiliates and files the election with the Minister of National Revenue on or before the taxpayer's "election day", those provisions also apply to taxation years, of the foreign affiliates, that begin before October 2, 2007 and after one of the three following dates, as chosen by the taxpayer in its election:

1. December 31, 1994,

2. December 20, 2002, or

3. February 27, 2004.

Second, for foreign affiliate taxation years that begin before 2009, new subparagraph 95(2)(f)(ii) of the Act is to be read without reference to the expression "income from a non-qualifying business". This is because the definition "income from a non-qualifying business" in subsection 95(1) applies only to foreign affiliate taxation years that begin after 2008.

Third, a taxpayer may — by making a valid election — opt to have a transitional version of new subsection 95(2.6) apply to taxation years of foreign affiliates of the taxpayer that began after October 2, 2007 and before July 14, 2008. That transitional version is a modified version of the rule announced on October 2, 2007. It provides that, for the purposes of paragraphs (a) to (d) of the definition "specified person or partnership" in subsection 95(1), in determining whether, at a particular time, a person was not, at a time (the "prior time") that is before the particular time and at which that person did not exist, dealing at arm's length with another person, where the person exists at the particular time but did not exist at the prior time,

- the person is deemed to exist at the prior time, and
- if the person is related to another person at the particular time, the person is deemed to have been related to that other person at the prior time.

In this connection, the taxpayer's "election day" means the later of (i) the taxpayer's filing-due date for the taxpayer's taxation year that includes the day on which the legislation enacting these amendments receives Royal Assent and (ii) the day that is one year after Royal Assent.

Proposed Addition — 95(2)(f.3)–(f.94)

(f.3) [application of para. (f.4)] — paragraph (f.4) applies to a specified vendor, in respect of a particular corporation resident in Canada referred to in the definition "specified vendor" in subsection (3.2), (which specified vendor is referred to in this paragraph and paragraphs (f.4), (f.8) and (f.9) as the "vendor") if

(i) the vendor disposes at any time of a property (which property is referred to in this paragraph and paragraphs (f.4) and (f.5) and (f.7) to (f.9) as the "specified property" and which time is referred to in this paragraph and paragraphs (f.4), (f.5), (f.8) and (f.9) as the "original disposition time" of the specified property) to a person or partnership (in this paragraph referred to as the "purchaser") that is, immediately after that time, a specified purchaser in respect of the particular corporation,

(ii) immediately before the original disposition time, the specified property is excluded property of the vendor (or would be excluded property of the vendor if the vendor were, immediately before the original disposition time, a foreign affiliate of the particular corporation), and

(iii) the vendor would, were this Act read without reference to paragraph (f.4), have income or a taxable capital gain from the disposition of the specified property;

Technical Notes: New paragraphs 95(2)(f.3) to (f.9) put into place a regime that, in general terms, is designed to suspend the recognition of the income or capital gain that would otherwise arisen upon an internal disposition of an excluded property. Generally, this "suspended gain" is recognized at the time the property is disposed of in an external disposition. This regime replaces the rules found in existing subsection 5907(5.1) of the Regulations and the rules found in proposed subsections 5907(5.1) to (5.3) of the Regulations that were part of the December 20, 2002 proposals.

New paragraphs 95(2)(f.3) to (f.9) will apply to dispositions of property that occur after February 27, 2004. However, those paragraphs will not apply to a disposition by a vendor that is required to be made under an agreement in writing made by the vendor on or before February 27, 2004.

New paragraph 95(2)(f.3) provides the circumstances under which new paragraph 95(2)(f.4) applies to a specified vendor (defined in new subsection 95(3.2)) in respect of a particular corporation resident in Canada if the following conditions are met:

- the specified vendor disposes at any time of a property that, at that time, is excluded property of the vendor (or would be excluded property of the vendor if the vendor were, at that time, a foreign affiliate of the particular corporation) to a person or partnership that is, immediately after that time, a specified purchaser (defined in new subsection 95(3.2) [now in 95(1) — ed.]) in respect of the particular corporation, and
- if this Act were read without reference to paragraph 95(2)(f.4), the specified vendor would have income or a taxable capital gain from the disposition of the property.

In new paragraphs 95(2)(f.4) and (f.5) and (f.7) to (f.9), the specified vendor is referred to as the "vendor", the time of the disposition of the excluded property is referred to as the "original disposition time" and the property is referred to as the "specified property".

Related Provisions: 95(2)(e.1)(ii) — Windup — continuation of affiliate; 95(2)(f.6)(i) — Exclusion of para. (f.3); 95(2)(f.7) — Designated replacement property deemed continuation of specified property; 95(2)(f.8) — Where part of specified property disposed of; 95(2)(f.9) — Designated replacement property acquired by specified purchaser; 95(2)(n) — Deemed FA and deemed qualifying interest; 95(3.2), (3.4) — Definitions; 95(3.6) — Partnerships and trusts.

(f.4) [suspended gain on internal disposition of excluded property] — if this paragraph applies to a vendor in respect of a particular disposition of specified property referred to in paragraph (f.3), the following rules apply:

(i) the vendor's proceeds from the disposition of the specified property are deemed to be

(A) if clause (B) does not apply to the vendor in respect of the disposition, an amount equal to the vendor's adjusted cost base of the specified property at the original disposition time, or

(B) if the vendor that is a foreign affiliate of the particular corporation resident in Canada is a controlled foreign affiliate of the particular corporation resident in Canada at the end of that vendor's taxation year that includes the original disposition time of the specified property and the particular corporation so elects in respect of the disposition in prescribed manner and within the prescribed time, the greater of

(I) the amount determined by clause (A) in respect of the specified property, and

(II) the amount that is the lesser of the fair market value of the consideration received by that vendor in respect of the disposition and the amount that the particular corporation designates in the election,

(ii) the purchaser's cost of the specified property is deemed to be an amount that is equal to the fair market value of the specified property at the original disposition time,

(iii) the vendor's cost of a particular property that was received as consideration for the disposition of the specified property is deemed to be the fair market value of the particular property at the original disposition time, and

(iv) the vendor that is a foreign affiliate of the particular corporation resident in Canada or a foreign affiliate of the particular corporation resident in Canada that is a member of a partnership that is the vendor (which vendor or foreign affiliate is referred to in this subparagraph and subparagraph (f.5) as the "relevant foreign affiliate") is deemed to have an unadjusted suspended income or gain in respect of a specified property disposed of, at the original disposition time, by the specified vendor that is equal to the amount, if any, by which

(A) the amount that is the income or twice the amount of the taxable capital gain, as the case may be, that, but for the application of this paragraph, would have been realized by the relevant foreign affiliate in respect of that disposition,

exceeds

(B) the amount that is the income or twice the amount of the taxable capital gain, as the case may be, that was realized by the relevant foreign affiliate in respect of that disposition;

Technical Notes: New paragraph 95(2)(f.4) sets out rules that apply to a vendor and a purchaser in respect of a particular disposition of specified property referred to in new paragraph 95(2)(f.3). In new paragraph 95(2)(f.4), the specified vendor is referred to as the "vendor", the time of the disposition of the excluded property is referred to as the "original disposition time" and the property is referred to as the "specified property". The rules can be summarized as follows:

- The vendor's proceeds from the disposition of the specified property are deemed to be equal to the vendor's adjusted cost base of the specified property at the original disposition time (referred to in here in this commentary as the "relevant ACB amount") or, if the vendor that is a foreign affiliate of the particular corporation resident in Canada is a controlled foreign affiliate of the particular corporation resident in Canada at the end of that vendor's taxation year that includes the original disposition time of the specified property and the particular corporation resident in Canada so elects in prescribed manner and within the prescribed time (see proposed new section 5916 of the Regulations), the proceeds from the disposition of the property can be equal to an amount greater than the relevant ACB amount, but cannot exceed the fair market value of the specified property at the original disposition time.

- The cost to the purchaser of the specified property is deemed to be equal to the fair market value of the specified property at the original disposition time.

- The cost to the vendor of a particular property that was received as consideration for the disposition of the specified property is deemed to be the fair market value of the particular property at the original disposition time.

- The foreign affiliate of the particular corporation resident in Canada that is the vendor or that is a member of a partnership that is the vendor (which foreign affiliate is referred to in subparagraph 95(2)(f.4)(iv) and in paragraph 95(2)(f.5) as the "relevant foreign affiliate") is deemed to have an unadjusted suspended income or gain in respect of a specified property disposed of, at the original disposition time, equal to the amount, if any, by which — the amount that is the income or twice the amount of the taxable capital gain, as the case may be, that, but for the application of this paragraph, would have been realized by the relevant foreign affiliate in respect of that disposition,

  exceeds

  — the amount that is the income or twice the amount of the taxable capital gain, as the case may be, that was realized by the relevant foreign affiliate in respect of that disposition.

(f.5) [deemed gain later] — the relevant foreign affiliate referred to in subparagraph (f.4)(iv) is deemed to have income or a capital gain from the disposition of the specified property equal to the amount prescribed to be the adjusted suspended income or gain in respect of the specified property and to have paid to the government of a country an amount equal to the amount prescribed to be the adjusted allocable tax in respect of the adjusted suspended income or gain in respect of the specified property at the earlier of

(i) the first time, after the original disposition time, that a specified purchaser in respect of the particular corporation that holds, immediately before that first time, the specified property makes a triggering disposition of the specified property, and

(ii) the first time, after the original disposition time, that a specified purchaser in respect of the particular corporation (which specified purchaser is referred to in this paragraph and paragraphs (f.8) and (f.9) as the "current holder") that holds, immediately before that first time, the specified property ceases to be a specified purchaser in respect of the particular corporation otherwise than because of a specified discontinuance of the current holder;

Technical Notes: New paragraph 95(2)(f.5) deems the relevant foreign affiliate referred to in subparagraph 95(2)(f.4)(iv) to have income or a taxable capital gain from the disposition of the specified property equal to the amount prescribed to be the adjusted suspended income or gain (see proposed new subsection 5913(1) of the Regulations) in respect of the specified property and to have paid to the government of a country an amount equal to the amount prescribed by regulation to be the adjusted allocable tax (see proposed new subsection 5913(2) of the Regulations) in respect of the adjusted suspended income or gain in respect of the specified property at the earlier of

- the first time, after the original disposition time, that a specified purchaser in respect of the particular corporation that holds, immediately before that first time, the specified property and makes a triggering disposition (see definition in subsection 95(3.4)) of the specified property, or

- the first time, after the original disposition time, that a specified purchaser in respect of the particular corporation (which specified purchaser is referred to here and in paragraphs 95(2)(f.8) and (f.9) as the "current holder") that holds, immediately before that first time, the specified property, and ceases, at that first time, to be a specified purchaser in respect of the particular corporation otherwise than because of a specified discontinuance of the current holder.

(f.6) [exclusion of para. (f.3)] — paragraph (f.3) does not apply to a disposition of a property by a person or partnership if

(i) any of paragraphs (2)(c), (c.2), (d), (d.1) (e), (e.1), and (e.3) to (e.5) and subsections 85.1(5) and 88(3) applies to the person or partnership in respect of the disposition of the property, or

(ii) the property was disposed of

(A) in the ordinary course of an active business of the person or partnership, or

(B) as an adventure or concern in the nature of trade;

Technical Notes: New paragraph 95(2)(f.6) ensures that paragraph 95(2)(f.3) will not apply to a disposition of a property by a person or partnership if

- any of subsections 85.1(5) and 88(3) and paragraphs 95(2)(c), (c.2), (d), (d.1), (e), (e.1), (e.3), (e.4) and (e.5) applies to the person or partnership in respect of the disposition of the property, or

- the property was disposed of in the ordinary course of an active business of the person or partnership or was disposed of as an adventure or concern in the nature of trade.

(f.8) [where part of specified property disposed of] — for the purposes of paragraphs (f.3) to (f.7) and (f.9) and subsection (3.4), if, at any time, part of a specified property (which specified property is referred to in this paragraph as the "initial specified property") is disposed of by a current holder and the remaining part of the specified property is retained by the current holder,

(i) the part (referred to in this paragraph as the "part interest") of the initial specified property disposed of, at that time, is deemed to be a specified property of the current holder,

(ii) the portion of the unadjusted suspended income or gain attributable to the part interest is deemed to be that proportion of the adjusted suspended income or gain in respect of the whole of the initial specified property that the fair market value at that time of the part interest is of the fair market value at that time of the initial specified property,

(iii) the part (referred to in this paragraph as the "remaining interest") of the initial specified property not disposed of at that time is deemed to be a specified property of the current holder that was disposed of at the original disposition time, and

(iv) the amount of income or gain that would have been realized on the disposition of the remaining interest at the original disposition time is deemed to be the amount, if any, by which the unadjusted suspended income or gain in respect of the initial specified property exceeds the amount determined by subparagraph (ii) to be the unadjusted suspended income or gain in respect of the part interest;

Technical Notes: New paragraph 95(2)(f.8) provides that for the purposes of paragraph 95(2)(f.3) to (f.7) and (f.9) and subsection 95(3.4), where, at any time, part of a specified property (referred to here as the "initial specified property") is disposed of by a current holder (defined in new paragraph 95(2)(f.5)) and the remaining part of the specified property is retained by the current holder, the following rules apply:

- The part (referred to here as the "part interest") of the initial specified property disposed of, at that time, is deemed to be a specified property of the current holder.
- The portion of the unadjusted suspended income or gain attributable to the part interest is deemed to be that proportion of the adjusted suspended income or gain in respect of the whole of the initial specified property that the fair market value at that time of the part interest is of the fair market value at that time of the initial specified property.
- The part (referred to here as the "remaining interest") of the initial specified property not disposed of at that time is deemed to be a specified property of the current holder that was disposed of at the original disposition time.
- The amount of income or gain that would have been realized on the disposition of the remaining interest at the original disposition time is deemed to be the amount, if any, by which the unadjusted suspended income or gain in respect of the initial specified property exceeds the amount determined to be the unadjusted suspended income or gain in respect of the part interest.

(f.9) [replacement of specified property] — for the purposes of paragraphs (f.3) to (f.8), if a current holder disposes, at a particular time, of the whole of a specified property (referred to in this paragraph as the "initial specified property") and as part of a transaction, or series of transactions or events, that includes the disposition of the initial specified property, a specified purchaser in respect of the particular corporation acquires a designated replacement property in respect of the initial specified property,

(i) the designated replacement property (referred to in this paragraph as the "remaining interest") is deemed to be a specified property of the current holder that was disposed of at the original disposition time,

(ii) the unadjusted suspended income or gain in respect of the remaining interest is deemed to be that proportion of the unadjusted suspended income or gain in respect of the whole of the initial specified property (determined without reference to subparagraph (iii)) that the fair market value of the remaining interest, at the time it was acquired, is of the fair market value, at the particular time, of the initial specified property, and

(iii) the unadjusted suspended income or gain in respect of the initial specified property is deemed to be the amount, if any, by which the unadjusted suspended income or gain in respect of the initial specified property (determined without reference to this subparagraph) exceeds the amount determined by subparagraph (ii) to be the unadjusted suspended income or gain in respect of the remaining interest;

Technical Notes: New paragraph 95(2)(f.9) provides that for the purposes of paragraphs 95(2)(f.3) to (f.8), if a current holder (defined in new paragraph 95(2)(f.5)) disposes, at any particular time, of the whole of a specified property (referred to here as the "initial specified property") and as part of a transaction, or series of transactions or events, that includes the disposition of the initial specified property, a specified purchaser (defined in new subsection 95(3.2) [now in 95(1) — ed.]) in respect of the particular corporation acquires a designated replacement property (referred to here as the "remaining interest") in respect of the initial specified property, the following rules apply:

- The remaining interest is deemed to be a specified property of the current holder that was disposed of at the original disposition time. (Subparagraph 95(2)(f.9)(i))
- The unadjusted suspended income or gain in respect of the remaining interest is deemed to be that portion of the unadjusted suspended income or gain in respect of the whole of the initial specified property (determined without reference to subparagraph 95(2)(f.9)(iii)) that the fair market value of the remaining interest, at the time it was acquired, is of the fair market value, at the particular time, of the initial specified property. (Subparagraph 95(2)(f.9)(ii))
- The unadjusted suspended income or gain in respect of the initial specified property is deemed to be the amount, if any, by which the unadjusted suspended income or gain in respect of the initial specified property (determined without reference to subparagraph 95(2)(f.9)(iii)) exceeds the amount determined by subparagraph 95(2)(f.9)(ii) to be the unadjusted suspended income or gain in respect of the remaining interest. (f.91) [eligible capital property and depreciable property] — if, at a particular time, a non-resident corporation that, immediately before the particular time, was not a foreign affiliate of a particular taxpayer resident in Canada, or of a person or partnership that would — if the particular taxpayer were a taxpayer referred to in paragraphs (2)(f)(iii) to (viii) — be described by any of those subparagraphs (the particular taxpayer or each of those persons or partnerships being referred to in this paragraph and paragraphs (f.92), (f.93) and (f.94) as a "particular Canadian shareholder", the non-resident corporation being referred to in this paragraph and paragraph (f.92) as a "particular foreign affiliate" in respect of the particular Canadian shareholder and the particular time being referred to in this paragraph and paragraph (f.92) as the "status change time" in respect of the particular foreign affiliate of the particular Canadian shareholder) becomes a foreign affiliate of the particular Canadian shareholder, the following rules apply in computing the particular foreign affiliate's foreign accrual property income in respect of the particular Canadian shareholder or a person or partnership that would — if the person or partnership were a taxpayer referred to in subparagraphs (2)(f)(iii) to (viii) — be described by any of those subparagraphs (the particular Canadian shareholder or each of those persons or partnerships is referred to in paragraph (f.92) as a "relevant shareholder") for any taxation year of the particular foreign affiliate that ends after the status change time:

(i) for the purpose of determining the cumulative eligible capital of the particular foreign affiliate, at the beginning of its taxation year that includes the status change time in respect of the particular foreign affiliate in respect of the particular Canadian shareholder, in respect of each business other than an active business carried on by the particular foreign affiliate in that taxation year, the particular foreign affiliate is deemed to have disposed, immediately before the beginning of that taxation year, of each eligible property at that time of the particular foreign affiliate in respect of each business carried on by the particular foreign affiliate that is, at that time, a business other than an active business, for proceeds equal to the cost to the particular foreign affiliate of the eligible property at the time of that disposition,

(ii) for the purpose of determining the cost of eligible property to the particular foreign affiliate, and the cumulative eligible capital of the particular foreign affiliate, for its taxation year that includes the status change time in respect of the particular foreign affiliate in respect of the particular Canadian shareholder and for each subsequent taxation year, in respect of each business other than an active business carried on by the particular foreign affiliate in that taxation year or subsequent taxation year, the particular foreign affiliate is deemed to have acquired, immediately after the beginning of its particular taxation year that includes the status change time in respect of the particular foreign affiliate in respect of the particular Canadian shareholder, each eligible property of the particular foreign affiliate, immediately before the beginning of the particular year, in respect of each business carried on by the particular foreign affiliate that is immediately before the beginning of the particular year a business, other than an active business, at a cost equal to the lesser of

(A) the fair market value of the eligible property at the status change time, and

(B) the cost to the particular foreign affiliate of the eligible property immediately before the beginning of the particular year,

(iii) eligible property, in respect of a business carried on by the particular foreign affiliate, means a property, right or thing in respect of which the particular foreign affiliate has, after 1971 and before the status change time, made an eligible capital expenditure in respect of the business,

(iv) for the purpose of determining the undepreciated capital cost to the particular foreign affiliate, at the beginning of its taxation year that includes the status change time in respect of the particular foreign affiliate in respect of the particular Canadian shareholder, of its depreciable capital property used or held in the course of carrying on a business, other than an active business, of the particular foreign affiliate in that taxation year,

(A) the particular foreign affiliate is deemed to have disposed, immediately before the beginning of that taxation year, of each depreciable capital property of the particular foreign affiliate, held by the particular foreign affiliate and used or held in the course of carrying on a business of the particular foreign affiliate that is a business other than an active business immediately before the beginning of that year, for proceeds equal to the capital cost to the particular foreign affiliate of the depreciable property at the beginning of that year, and

(B) at the time that is immediately after the time of that disposition, the particular foreign affiliate's undepreciated capital cost of its depreciable capital property, in respect of each such business that is a business other than an active business, is deemed to be nil, and

(v) for the purpose of determining the capital cost and undepreciated capital cost to the particular foreign affiliate of its depreciable capital property used or held in the course of carrying on each business other than an active business carried on by the particular foreign affiliate, for its taxation year that includes the status change time in respect of the particular foreign affiliate in respect of the particular Canadian shareholder and for subsequent taxation years, the particular foreign affiliate is deemed to have acquired, at the time that is immediately after the beginning of its particular taxation year that includes the status change time in respect of the particular foreign affiliate in respect of the particular Canadian shareholder, each depreciable capital property (each such depreciable capital property referred to in this subparagraph and paragraph (f.93) as a "specified depreciable property") that was owned by the particular foreign affiliate and used or held by the particular foreign affiliate, at the time that is immediately before the beginning of the particular taxation year, in the course of the carrying on of a business, other than an active business, of the particular foreign affiliate, at that time, at a capital cost equal to the lesser of

(A) the fair market value of the specified depreciable property at the status change time, and

(B) the capital cost to the particular foreign affiliate of the specified depreciable property at the time immediately before the beginning of the particular taxation year;

Technical Notes: In general terms, new paragraphs 95(2)(f.91) to (f.93) introduce rules relating to the determination of the cost of eligible capital property, and the capital cost and the undepreciated capital cost of depreciable capital property, of a non-resident corporation that becomes a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer resident in Canada for the purposes of computing the foreign affiliate's foreign accrual property income in respect of the taxpayer resident in Canada or in respect of a specified party in respect of the taxpayer resident in Canada. These rules complement the rules in new paragraph 95(2)(f.2) and are comparable to but not the same as the rules, in existing subsections 111(5.1) and (5.2), that apply when control of a corporation has been acquired.

New paragraph 95(2)(f.91) provides certain additional rules for computing the foreign accrual property income of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer in respect of the taxpayer.

New paragraph 95(2)(f.91) applies if, at a particular time, a non-resident corporation that, immediately before the particular time, was not a foreign affiliate of a particular taxpayer resident in Canada, or of a person or partnership that would — if the particular taxpayer were a taxpayer referred to in paragraphs 95(2)(f)(iii) to (viii) — be described by any of those subparagraphs (the particular taxpayer or each of those persons or partnerships being referred to in this paragraph and new paragraphs 95(2)(f.92), (f.93) and (f.94) as a "particular Canadian shareholder") becomes a foreign affiliate of the particular Canadian shareholder.

The non-resident corporation is referred to in this paragraph and paragraph 95(2)(f.92) as a "particular foreign affiliate" in respect of the particular Canadian shareholder. The particular time is referred to in this paragraph and in paragraph 95(2)(f.92) as the "status change time" in respect of the particular foreign affiliate of the particular Canadian shareholder.

New paragraph 95(2)(f.91) provides rules that apply in computing the particular foreign affiliate's foreign accrual property income in respect of the particular Canadian shareholder or a person or partnership that would — if the person or partnership were a taxpayer referred to in subparagraphs 95(2)(f)(iii) to (viii) — be described by any of those subparagraphs (the particular Canadian shareholder or each of those persons or partnerships being referred to in paragraph 95(2)(f.92) as a "relevant shareholder") for any taxation year of the particular foreign affiliate that ends after the status change time.

Those rules can be summarized as follows:

- For the purpose of determining the cumulative eligible capital of the particular foreign affiliate in respect of the particular Canadian shareholder, at the beginning of the particular foreign affiliate's taxation year that includes the status change time, in respect of each business (other than an active business) carried on by the particular foreign affiliate in that taxation year, the particular affiliate is deemed to have disposed, immediately before the beginning of that taxation year, of each "eligible property" (see third paragraph, below) of the particular foreign affiliate, at the time of that disposition, in respect of each business (other than an active business) carried on by the particular foreign affiliate at the time of that disposition, for proceeds equal to the cost to the particular foreign affiliate of the eligible property at the time of that disposition.

- For the purpose of determining the cost of eligible property to the particular foreign affiliate in respect of the particular Canadian shareholder, and the cumulative eligible capital of the particular foreign affiliate in respect of the particular Canadian shareholder, for its taxation year that includes the status change time in respect of the particular foreign affiliate in respect of the particular Canadian shareholder and for each subsequent taxation year, in respect of each business (other than an active business) of the particular foreign affiliate in that taxation year or subsequent taxation year, the particular foreign affiliate is deemed to have acquired, immediately after the beginning of its particular taxation year that includes the status change time in respect of the particular foreign affiliate in respect of the particular Canadian shareholder, each eligible property of the particular foreign affiliate, immediately before the beginning of the particular year, in respect of each business carried on by the particular foreign affiliate that is, immediately before the beginning of the particular year, a business (other than an active business) of the particular foreign affiliate, at a cost equal to the lesser of
  - — the fair market value of the eligible property at the status change time, and
  - — the cost to the particular foreign affiliate of the eligible property immediately before the beginning of the particular year.
- "Eligible property" in respect of a business carried on by the particular foreign affiliate is a property, right or thing in respect of which the particular foreign affiliate has, after 1971 and before the status change time, made an eligible capital expenditure in respect of the business.
- For the purpose of determining, at the beginning of the particular foreign affiliate's taxation year that includes the status change time in respect of the foreign affiliate in respect of the particular Canadian shareholder, the undepreciated capital cost to the particular foreign affiliate of a depreciable capital property used or held by the particular foreign affiliate in the course of carrying on a business other than an active business of the particular foreign affiliate in that taxation year,
  - — the particular foreign affiliate is deemed to have disposed, immediately before the beginning of that taxation year, of each depreciable capital property of the particular foreign affiliate, held by the particular foreign affiliate and used or held in the course of carrying on a business of the particular foreign affiliate that is a business (other than an active business) immediately before the beginning of that taxation year, for proceeds equal to the capital cost to the particular foreign affiliate of the depreciable property at the beginning of that year, and
  - — at the time that is immediately after the time of that disposition, the particular foreign affiliate's undepreciated capital cost of its depreciable capital property, in respect of each such business that is a business other than an active business, is deemed to be nil.
- For the purpose of determining the capital cost and undepreciated capital cost to the particular foreign affiliate in respect of the particular Canadian shareholder of its depreciable capital property used or held in the course of carrying on each business (other than an active business) carried on by the particular foreign affiliate, for the particular foreign affiliate's taxation year that includes the status change time in respect of the particular foreign affiliate in respect of the particular Canadian shareholder and for its subsequent taxation years, the particular foreign affiliate is deemed to have acquired, at the time that is immediately after the beginning of its taxation year that includes the status change time, each depreciable capital property (each such depreciable capital property referred to in this subparagraph and paragraph 95(2)(f.93) as a "specified depreciable property") that was owned by the particular foreign affiliate and used or held by the particular foreign affiliate, immediately before the beginning of the foreign affiliate's taxation year that includes the status change time, in the course of carrying on a business of the particular foreign affiliate other than an active business, at a capital cost equal to the lesser of
  - — the fair market value of the specified depreciable property at the status change time, and
  - — the capital cost to the particular foreign affiliate of the specified depreciable property immediately before the beginning of the foreign affiliate's taxation year that includes the status change time.

New paragraph 95(2)(f.91) applies in respect of non-resident corporations that become foreign affiliates of a particular taxpayer resident in Canada after February 27, 2004.

Related Provisions: 95(2)(e.1)(ii) — Windup — continuation of affiliate; 95(2)(f.94) — Where relevant FA wound up or merged; 95(2)(n) — Deemed FA and deemed qualifying interest.

(f.92) [cumulative eligible capital] — in applying paragraph (a) of the description of E in the definition "cumulative eligible capital" in subsection 14(5) in respect of a particular disposition, that occurs after the beginning of the taxation year of a particular foreign affiliate of a relevant shareholder that includes the status change time in respect of the particular foreign affiliate in respect of the particular Canadian shareholder, by the particular foreign affiliate of a relevant shareholder, in respect of which a particular consideration (that was eligible property that was in existence at the time immediately before the status change time) was provided by the particular foreign affiliate, the particular foreign affiliate's proceeds from the particular disposition, are deemed to be the amount, if any, determined by the formula

where

A is the particular foreign affiliate's proceeds from the particular disposition, as otherwise determined,

B is the lesser of

(i) the amount, if any, by which

(A) the fair market value, of the eligible property, immediately before the status change time in respect of the particular Canadian shareholder

exceeds

(B) the particular foreign affiliate's cost, of the eligible property, immediately before the particular disposition, and

(ii) the amount, if any, by which the particular foreign affiliate's proceeds from the particular disposition, as otherwise determined, exceeds the particular foreign affiliate's cost of the eligible property immediately before the particular disposition, and

C is the lesser of

(i) the amount, if any, by which

(A) the particular foreign affiliate's cost, of the eligible property, immediately before the beginning of the taxation year of the particular foreign affiliate that included the status change time in respect of the particular Canadian shareholder

(B) the fair market value of the eligible property immediately before the status change time in respect of the particular Canadian shareholder, and

(ii) the amount, if any, by which the particular foreign affiliate's proceeds from the particular disposition, as otherwise determined, exceeds the particular foreign affiliate's cost of the eligible property immediately before the particular disposition;

Technical Notes: New paragraph 95(2)(f.92) is consequential to new paragraph 95(2)(f.91). It provides that, in applying paragraph (a) of the description of E in the definition "cumulative eligible capital" in subsection 14(5) in respect of a particular disposition that occurs after the beginning of the taxation year of a particular foreign affiliate that includes the status change time (defined in paragraph 95(2)(f.91)) in respect of the particular foreign affiliate in respect of the particular Canadian shareholder, (defined in paragraph 95(2)(f.91)), by the particular foreign affiliate (defined in paragraph 95(2)(f.91)) of a relevant shareholder (defined in paragraph 95(2)(f.91)), in respect of which a particular consideration (that was eligible property defined in paragraph 95(2)(f.91) that was in existence at the time immediately before the status change time was provided by the particular foreign affiliate, the particular foreign affiliate's proceeds from the particular disposition, are deemed to be the amount, if any, determined by the formula

where

A is the particular foreign affiliate's proceeds from the particular disposition, as otherwise determined,

B is the lesser of

— the amount, if any, by which

- the fair market value, of the eligible property, immediately before the status change time in respect of the particular Canadian shareholder

exceeds

- the particular foreign affiliate's cost, of the eligible property, immediately before the particular disposition, and

— the amount, if any, by which the particular foreign affiliate's proceeds from the particular disposition, as otherwise determined, exceeds the particular foreign affiliate's cost of the eligible property, immediately before the particular disposition, and

— the amount, if any, by which

• the particular foreign affiliate's cost, of the eligible property, immediately before the beginning of the taxation year of the particular foreign affiliate that included the status change time in respect of the particular Canadian shareholder

• the fair market value, of the eligible property, immediately before the status change time in respect of the particular Canadian shareholder, and

— the amount, if any, by which the particular foreign affiliate's proceeds from the particular disposition, as otherwise determined, exceeds the particular foreign affiliate's cost of the eligible property, immediately before the disposition.

New paragraph 95(2)(f.92) applies in respect of non-resident corporations that become foreign affiliates after February 27, 2004.

Related Provisions: 95(2)(e.1)(ii) — Windup — continuation of affiliate; 95(2)(f.94) — Where relevant FA wound up or merged; 95(2)(n) — Deemed FA and deemed qualifying interest; 257 — Formula amount cannot calculate to less than zero.

(f.93) [disposition of depreciable property] — if, at any time after the beginning of the taxation year of the particular foreign affiliate that includes the status change time in respect of the particular foreign affiliate in respect of the particular Canadian shareholder, the particular foreign affiliate disposes of a particular specified depreciable property, the particular foreign affiliate's proceeds from the disposition of the particular specified depreciable property are deemed to be the amount, if any, determined by the formula

where

A is the particular foreign affiliate's proceeds of disposition in respect of the disposition of the particular specified depreciable property, as otherwise determined,

B is the lesser of

(i) the amount, if any, by which

(A) the fair market value, of the particular specified depreciable property, immediately before the status change time in respect of the particular Canadian shareholder

exceeds

(B) the particular foreign affiliate's capital cost of the particular specified depreciable property, immediately before the disposition, and

(ii) the amount, if any, by which the particular foreign affiliate's proceeds from the disposition of the particular specified depreciable property, as otherwise determined, exceed the particular foreign affiliate's capital cost of the specified depreciable property at the time immediately before the time of the disposition, and

(i) the amount, if any, by which

(A) the particular foreign affiliate's capital cost of the particular specified depreciable property immediately before the beginning of the taxation year of the particular foreign affiliate that includes the status change time in respect of the particular Canadian shareholder

(B) the fair market value of the particular specified depreciable property at the time immediately before the status change time in respect of the particular Canadian shareholder, and

(ii) the amount, if any, by which the particular foreign affiliate's proceeds from the disposition of the particular specified depreciable property, as otherwise determined, exceed the particular foreign affiliate's capital cost of the particular specified depreciable property, immediately before the disposition;

Technical Notes: New paragraph 95(2)(f.93) is consequential to new paragraph 95(2)(f.91). It provides that if, at any time after the beginning of the taxation year of the particular foreign affiliate (defined in paragraph 95(2)(f.91)) that includes the status change time (defined in paragraph 95(2)(f.91)) in respect of the particular foreign affiliate in respect of the particular Canadian shareholder (defined in paragraph 95(2)(f.91)), the particular foreign affiliate disposes of a particular specified depreciable property (defined in paragraph 95(2)(f.91)), the particular foreign affiliate's proceeds from the disposition of the particular specified depreciable property are deemed to be the amount, if any, determined by the formula

where

A is the particular foreign affiliate's proceeds of disposition in respect of the disposition of the particular specified depreciable property, as otherwise determined,

B is the lesser of

— the amount, if any, by which

• the fair market value, of the particular specified depreciable property, immediately before the status change time in respect of the particular Canadian shareholder

exceeds

• the particular foreign affiliate's capital cost of the particular specified depreciable property, immediately before the disposition, and

— the amount, if any, by which the particular foreign affiliate's proceeds from the disposition of the particular specified depreciable property, as otherwise determined, exceed the particular foreign affiliate's capital cost of the particular specified depreciable property immediately before the time of the disposition, and

— the amount, if any, by which

• the particular foreign affiliate's capital cost of the particular specified depreciable property immediately before the beginning of the taxation year of the particular foreign affiliate that includes the status change time in respect of the particular Canadian shareholder

• the fair market value of the particular specified depreciable property at the time immediately before the status change time in respect of the particular Canadian shareholder, and — the amount, if any, by which the particular foreign affiliate's proceeds from the disposition of the particular specified depreciable property, as otherwise determined, exceed the particular foreign affiliate's capital cost of the particular specified depreciable property, immediately before the disposition.

(f.94) [where relevant foreign affiliate wound up or merged] — for the purposes of paragraphs (f.5) and (f.91) to (f.93), if the relevant foreign affiliate referred to in paragraph (f.5) or the particular foreign affiliate referred to in any of paragraphs (f.91) to (f.93) (which relevant foreign affiliate or particular foreign affiliate, as the case may be, is referred to in this paragraph as the "specified foreign affiliate") has been wound up into another non-resident corporation (referred to in this paragraph as the "foreign parent corporation") or merged or combined with one or more other non-resident corporations to form one non-resident corporate entity (referred to in this paragraph as the "new foreign corporation"), the foreign parent corporation or the new foreign corporation, as the case may be, is deemed to be the same corporation as and a continuation of the specified foreign affiliate, if

(i) the surplus entitlement percentage of the particular corporation resident in Canada, immediately before the merger or combination or the winding-up, in respect of the specified foreign affiliate is not less than 90%, and

(ii) the surplus entitlement percentage of the particular corporation resident in Canada, immediately after the merger or combination or the winding-up, in respect of the foreign parent corporation or new foreign corporation, as the case may be, is not less than 90%;

(iii) an exempt interest (in this paragraph, as defined by subsection 94.1(1)) of the particular foreign affiliate in a non-resident entity included a participating interest

(A) that is held, in the particular taxation year, by the particular foreign affiliate, and

(B) that is, throughout the period, in the particular taxation year, during which the particular foreign affiliate held the participating interest, property used or held by the particular foreign affiliate principally for the purpose of gaining or producing income from a business that is not an investment business,

(iv) the definition "fresh-start year" in subsection 94.3(1) did not apply and a reference in section 94.3 to a fresh-start year, of the particular non-resident entity in respect of the particular foreign affiliate, were a reference to a taxation year of the particular non-resident entity

(A) that ends in a taxation year of the particular foreign affiliate that begins after 2006,

(B) that begins immediately after a preceding taxation year of the particular non-resident entity at the end of which

(I) the particular non-resident entity was not a foreign investment entity,

(II) the particular foreign affiliate did not hold a participating interest in the particular non-resident entity (other than an exempt interest), or

(III) the particular foreign affiliate was not a controlled foreign affiliate of the particular taxpayer,

(C) at the end of which the particular non-resident entity is a foreign investment entity in which the particular foreign affiliate holds a participating interest that is not an exempt interest, and

(D) at any time in which the particular foreign affiliate is a controlled foreign affiliate of the particular taxpayer,

(v) an election for the particular taxation year made under paragraph (a) of the definition "carrying value", or paragraph (a) of the definition "financial statements", in subsection 94.1(1), paragraph 94.1(2)(e), (h) or (j), subparagraph (a)(iii) of the description of D in the definition "mark-to-market formula" in subsection 94.2(1), subparagraph 94.2(2)(b)(i) or 94.2(3)(b)(iii) or paragraph 94.3(3)(b) were required to be filed under that provision in respect of the particular foreign affiliate for the purpose of computing the particular foreign affiliate's foreign accrual property income in respect of the particular taxpayer, by, and only by, the particular taxpayer, with the Minister on or before the filing-due date of the particular taxpayer for the particular taxpayer's taxation year in which the particular taxation year ends,

(vii) the amount determined under the definition "deferral amount" in subsection 94.2(1) did not include the portion of that amount that can reasonably be considered to have accrued during the period that the particular foreign affiliate was not a foreign affiliate of any person described in any of subparagraphs (f)(iii) to (vii),

(viii) the reference in subsection 94.2(19) to "in computing the capital dividend account of the corporation" were read in respect of the particular foreign affiliate as a reference to "and the corporation is a foreign affiliate, of a taxpayer, to which paragraph 95(2)(g.3) applies, in computing the amount prescribed to be the foreign affiliate's exempt surplus and taxable surplus in respect of the taxpayer",

(ix) any form, information or notification, in respect of a participating interest in a non-resident entity held in the particular taxation year by the particular foreign affiliate, that is required under any of sections 94.1 to 94.4 to be filed or included with the particular foreign affiliate's return of income for the particular taxation year were required to be filed or included with, and only with, the particular taxpayer's return of income for the particular taxpayer's taxation year in which the particular taxation year ends, and

(x) designations and notifications made, and information provided, by the particular taxpayer in a form referred to in subparagraph (ix) were made or provided by the particular foreign affiliate;

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 1 — NRTs and FIEs), subsec. 19(7), will add para. 95(2)(g.3), applicable to taxation years, of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer, that begin after 2006, except that they also apply to a taxation year of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that begins before 2007 if ss. 94.1 to 94.4 apply to that taxation year of the foreign affiliate.

Technical Notes: New paragraph 95(2)(g.3) provides rules for the purpose of computing the foreign accrual property income of a particular foreign affiliate of a particular taxpayer for a particular taxation year of the particular foreign affiliate, in respect of the particular taxpayer if the particular foreign affiliate holds a property that is a participating interest in a particular non-resident entity in the particular taxation year. In this case, the amount required under sections 94.1 to 94.4 to be included (or that may be deducted) in computing the particular foreign affiliate's foreign accrual property income, in respect of the particular taxpayer, from a property that is the participating interest, is to be computed as if

- the particular affiliate were a taxpayer resident in Canada throughout the particular year,
- subparagraph (a)(i) of the definition "exempt interest" in subsection 94.1(1) applied to the particular foreign affiliate in respect of the participating interest only where
  - the particular foreign affiliate is a controlled foreign affiliate of the particular taxpayer at the end of the particular taxation year, and
  - the particular non-resident entity is a controlled foreign affiliate of the particular taxpayer at the end of the particular non-resident entity's taxation year that ends in the particular year,
- an exempt interest of a particular affiliate in a non-resident entity included a participating interest
  - that is held, in the particular taxation year, by the particular foreign affiliate, and
  - that is, throughout the period in the particular year during which the particular affiliate held the participating interest, used or held by the particular foreign affiliate principally for the purpose of gaining or producing income from a business that is not an investment business,
- a "fresh-start year" (relevant in computing the foreign affiliate's "income allocation" and "loss allocation" under the accrual regime in section 94.3) of the particular non-resident entity in respect of the particular affiliate were its taxation year (at the end of which the particular affiliate holds an interest in it and it is a foreign investment entity and at any time in which the particular affiliate is a CFA of the Canadian taxpayer) that ends in a taxation year of the particular affiliate that begins after 2006 and that immediately follows a taxation year of the particular non-resident entity in respect of which subsection 94.1(3) would not have been applicable to the foreign affiliate,
- the Canadian taxpayer (rather than the particular affiliate) were required to make a number of the elections, designations, notifications and provisions of information under sections 94.1 to 94.4 in connection with the particular affiliate's participating interests in foreign investment entities. In addition, the Minister in sending a demand for information to the particular affiliate under subparagraph 94.1(2)(e)(iii) or 94.3(2)(b)(iii), or any of paragraphs 94.1(2)(i) or (p) to (r) or 94.2(2)(d), is required to send the demand also to the Canadian taxpayer in connection with the particular affiliate's participating interests in foreign investment entities,
- the particular affiliate's "deferral amount" determined under the definition of that expression in subsection 94.2(1) does not include the portion of the amount that can reasonably be considered to have accrued during the period that the particular affiliate was not a foreign affiliate of the Canadian taxpayer and certain other specified persons, and
- the reference in subsection 94.2(19) to the expression "in computing the capital dividend account of the corporation" were read in respect of the affiliate as a reference to the expression "in computing the amount prescribed to be the particular affiliate's exempt surplus and taxable surplus in respect of the taxpayer".

Letter from Dept. of Finance, Aug. 11, 2003:

Dear [xxx]:

Thank you for your letter of April 23, 2003, concerning the application, to property held by a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer, of the provisions contained in the legislative proposals on foreign investment entities ("FIE proposals") that were tabled as a Notice of Ways and Means Motion on October 11, 2002.

Under the FIE Proposals, a taxpayer would generally be required to include in computing the taxpayer's income for a taxation year certain amounts — determined under proposed section 94.1 or 94.2 of the Income Tax Act — in respect of a participating interest of the taxpayer in a FIE. However, these rules generally would not apply to a participating interest that is an exempt interest, as defined in proposed subsection 94.1(1) of the Act, of the taxpayer in a FIE. You are concerned that proposed paragraph 95(2)(g.3) of the Act — which would determine the manner in which sections 94.1 to 94.3 would apply in computing the foreign accrual property income ("FAPI") of a foreign affiliate, of a taxpayer, that holds a participating interest in a FIE — may apply to include in computing the foreign affiliate's FAPI an amount that would otherwise be treated as "income from an active business" as defined by subsection 95(1) of the Act.

We are prepared to recommend a modification to the provisions contained in the FIE Proposals. Proposed paragraph 95(2)(g.3) would be modified so that, in computing the FAPI of a foreign affiliate, sections 94.1 to 94.3 would apply as if an "exempt interest" of the foreign affiliate in a FIE included a participating interest in the FIE that is, throughout the period that it is held by the foreign affiliate, used or held by the foreign affiliate principally for the purpose of gaining or producing income from a business that is not an investment business, within the meaning of subsection 95(1) of the Act. As a result, proposed subsection 94.1(3) of the Act would not apply in respect of such a participating interest to cause the foreign affiliate to have income under proposed sections 94.1 or 94.2 that would be included in computing the foreign affiliate's FAPI. We will recommend that these modifications be effective for the same period as the FIE proposals generally.

Of course, we cannot offer any assurance that either the Minister of Finance or Parliament will agree with the recommendation that we intend to make in this regard. Nonetheless, we trust that this statement of our position is helpful.

Thank you for writing.

Yours sincerely,

Brian Ernewein, Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

(h) [Repealed]

Proposed Addition — 95(2)(h)–(h.5)

(h) [application of para. (h.1)] — paragraph (h.1) applies to a specified vendor in respect of a particular taxpayer resident in Canada (which specified vendor is referred to in this paragraph and paragraphs (h.1) and (h.2) as the "vendor") if

(i) the vendor disposes at any time of a property (which property is referred to in this paragraph and paragraphs (h.1) to (h.5) as the "specified property" and which time is referred to in this paragraph and paragraphs (h.1) to (h.5) as the "original disposition time" of the specified property) that, at that time, is not depreciable property, eligible capital property or an excluded property, of the vendor (or would not be excluded property of the vendor if the vendor were, at that time, a foreign affiliate of the particular taxpayer) to a person or partnership (referred to in paragraph (h.1) as the "purchaser") that is, immediately after that time, a specified purchaser in respect of the particular taxpayer, and

(ii) the vendor would, were this Act read without reference to paragraph (h.1), have a loss or allowable capital loss from the disposition of the specified property;

Technical Notes: New paragraphs 95(2)(h) to (h.5) put into place a regime that, in general terms, is designed to suspend the recognition of the loss that would otherwise be incurred upon an internal disposition of a property that is not an excluded property, a depreciable property or an eligible capital property. Generally, this "suspended loss" is recognized at the time the property is disposed of in an external disposition. The rules are comparable to but not the same as the rules found in subsection 40(3.4). See the definitions "specified vendor" and "specified purchaser" in proposed new subsection 95(3.5) to determine when a disposition is an internal disposition.

New paragraphs 95(2)(h) to (h.5) apply to dispositions of property after February 27, 2004 other than where the disposition of property is required to be made under a written agreement made by the vendor of the property on or before February 27, 2004.

New paragraph 95(2)(h) provides that new paragraph 95(2)(h.1) applies to a specified vendor in respect of a particular taxpayer resident in Canada (see definition of "specified vendor" in subsection 95(3.5) and such specified vendor referred in here and paragraph (h.1) as the "vendor") if

- the vendor disposes at any time (referred to here and in paragraphs 95(2)(h.1) to (h.5) as the "original disposition time") of a property (referred to here and in paragraphs 95(2)(h.1) to (h.5) as the "specified property") that, at that time, is not a depreciable property, eligible capital property or an excluded property of the vendor (or would not be excluded property of the vendor if the vendor were, at that time, a foreign affiliate of the particular taxpayer) to a person or partnership (referred to here as the "purchaser") that is, immediately after that time, a specified purchaser in respect of the particular taxpayer, and
- the vendor would have a loss or an allowable capital loss from the disposition of the specified property, if this Act were read without reference to paragraph 95(2)(h.1).

The expressions "original disposition time", "specified property", "vendor" and "purchaser" are described in new paragraph 95(2)(h) and are then referred to throughout new paragraphs 95(2)(h.1) to 95(2)(h.5).

Related Provisions: 95(3.5) — Definitions; 95(3.6) — Partnerships and trusts.

(h.1) [suspended loss on internal disposition of excluded property] — if this paragraph applies to a vendor in respect of a disposition of specified property referred to in paragraph (h), the following rules apply:

(i) the vendor's proceeds from the disposition of the specified property are deemed to be an amount that is equal to the vendor's adjusted cost base of the specified property at the original disposition time,

(ii) the purchaser's cost of the specified property is deemed to be an amount that is equal to the fair market value of the specified property at the original disposition time,

(iii) the vendor's cost of a particular property that was received as consideration for the disposition of the specified property is deemed to be the fair market value of the particular property at the original disposition time,

(iv) the vendor that is a foreign affiliate of the particular taxpayer resident in Canada or a foreign affiliate of the particular taxpayer resident in Canada that is a member of a partnership that is the vendor (which vendor or foreign affiliate is referred to in this subparagraph as the "relevant foreign affiliate") is deemed to have an unadjusted suspended loss or capital loss in respect of the specified property disposed of, at the original disposition time, by the vendor that is equal to the amount, that is the loss or twice the amount of the allowable capital loss, as the case may be, that, but for the application of this paragraph, would have been realized by the relevant foreign affiliate in respect of that disposition, and

(v) notwithstanding subsection 40(3.3), subsection 40(3.4) does not apply to the vendor in respect of the disposition of the specified property;

Technical Notes: New paragraph 95(2)(h.1) provides the following rules for the vendor in respect of the disposition of the specified property.

- The vendor's proceeds from the disposition of the specified property are deemed to be an amount that is equal to the vendor's adjusted cost base of the specified property at the original disposition time (see paragraph 95(2)(h)).
- The purchaser's cost of the specified property is deemed to be an amount that is equal to the fair market value of the specified property at the original disposition time.
- The vendor's cost of a particular property that was received as consideration for the disposition of the specified property is deemed to be the fair market value of the particular property at the original disposition time.
- The vendor that is a foreign affiliate of the particular taxpayer or a foreign affiliate of the particular taxpayer that is a member of a partnership that is the vendor (referred to here as the "relevant foreign affiliate") is deemed to have an unadjusted suspended loss or capital loss in respect of the specified property, at the original disposition time, by the vendor that is equal to the amount, that, but for the application of this paragraph, would have been the relevant foreign affiliate's loss or twice the amount of the allowable capital loss, as the case may be, in respect of that disposition, if the vendor's proceeds of disposition in respect of that disposition were equal to the fair market value of the specified property.
- Notwithstanding subsection 40(3.3), subsection 40(3.4) does not apply to the vendor in respect of the disposition of the specified property.

Related Provisions: 95(2)(h) — Conditions for para. (h.1) to apply; 95(2)(h.2) — Timing of deemed loss for relevant foreign affiliate; 95(2)(h.3) — Designated replacement property deemed to be specified property; 95(2)(h.4) — Where part of specified property disposed of; 95(2)(h.5) — Designated replacement property acquired by specified purchaser; 95(3.5) — Definitions; 95(3.6) — Partnerships and trusts.

(h.2) [timing of deemed loss] — the relevant foreign affiliate referred to in paragraph (h.1) is deemed to have a loss or capital loss from the disposition of the specified property equal to the amount prescribed to be the adjusted suspended loss or capital loss in respect of the specified property and to have received from the government of a country an amount equal to the amount prescribed to be the adjusted allocable tax refund in respect of the adjusted suspended loss or capital loss in respect of the specified property at the earlier of

(i) the first time, after the original disposition time, that a specified purchaser in respect of the particular taxpayer (which specified purchaser is referred to in paragraphs (h.4) and (h.5) as the "current vendor") that holds, immediately before that first time, the specified property makes a triggering disposition of the specified property, and

(ii) the first time, after the original disposition time, that a specified purchaser in respect of the particular taxpayer (which specified purchaser is referred to in this subparagraph as the "current holder") that holds, immediately before that first time, the specified property ceases to be a specified purchaser in respect of the particular taxpayer otherwise than because of a specified discontinuance of the current holder;

Technical Notes: New paragraph 95(2)(h.2) provides that the relevant foreign affiliate referred to in paragraph 95(2)(h.1) is deemed to have a loss or capital loss from the disposition of the specified property equal to the amount prescribed by regulation to be the adjusted suspended loss or capital loss (see proposed new subsection 5914(1) of the Regulations) in respect of the specified property. New paragraph 95(2)(h.2) also provides that the relevant foreign affiliate referred to in paragraph 95(2)(h.1) is deemed to have received from the government of a country an amount equal to the amount prescribed by regulation to be the adjusted allocable tax refund (see proposed new subsection 5914(2) of the Regulations) in respect of the adjusted suspended loss or capital loss in respect of the specified property. The adjusted suspended loss or capital loss and the adjusted allocable tax refund will arise at the earlier of

- the first time, after the original disposition time, that a specified purchaser (see subsection 95(3.5)) in respect of the particular taxpayer (referred to in paragraphs 95(2)(h.4) and (h.5) as the "current vendor") that holds, immediately before that first time, the specified property makes a triggering disposition (see subsection 95(3.5)) of the specified property.

- the first time, after the original disposition time, that a specified purchaser in respect of the particular taxpayer (referred to here as the "current holder") that holds, immediately before that first time, the specified property, ceases at that time to be a specified purchaser in respect of the particular taxpayer otherwise than because of a specified discontinuance (see subsection 95(3.5)) of the current holder.

Technical Notes: New paragraph 95(2)(h.3) provides that for the purposes of paragraphs 95(2)(h.1), (h.2), (h.4) and (h.5) and subsection 95(3.5), a designated replacement property referred to in clause (b)(ii)(A), (B) or (C) of the definition "triggering disposition" in subsection 95(3.5) is deemed to be the same property as the specified property referred to in that clause.

(h.4) [where part of specified property disposed of] — for the purposes of paragraphs (h.1) to (h.3) and (h.5) and subsection (3.5) if, at any time, part of a specified property (which specified property is referred to in this paragraph as the "initial specified property") is disposed of by a current vendor and the remaining part of the specified property is retained by the current vendor,

(i) the part (referred to in this paragraph as the "part interest") of the initial specified property disposed of, at that time, is deemed to be a specified property of the current vendor,

(ii) the portion of the unadjusted suspended loss or capital loss attributable to the part interest is deemed to be that proportion of the adjusted suspended loss or capital loss in respect of the whole of the initial specified property that the fair market value at that time of the part interest is of the fair market value at that time of the initial specified property,

(iii) the part (referred to in this paragraph as the "remaining interest") of the initial specified property not disposed of at that time is deemed to be a specified property of the current vendor that was disposed of at the original disposition time, and

(iv) the amount of loss or capital loss that would have been realized on the disposition of the remaining interest at the original disposition time is deemed to be the amount, if any, by which the unadjusted suspended loss or capital loss in respect of the initial specified property exceeds the amount determined by subparagraph (ii) to be the unadjusted suspended loss or capital loss in respect of the part interest;

Technical Notes: New paragraph 95(2)(h.4) provides that for the purposes of paragraphs 95(2)(h.1) to (h.3) and (h.5) and subsection 95(3.5), where at any time, part of a specified property (referred to here as the "initial specified property") is disposed of by a current vendor and the remaining part of the specified property is retained by the current vendor, the following rules apply:

- The part (referred to here as the "part interest") of the initial specified property disposed of, at that time, shall be deemed to be a specified property of the current vendor.
- The portion of the unadjusted suspended loss or capital loss attributable to the part interest is deemed to be that proportion of the adjusted suspended loss or capital loss in respect of the whole of the initial specified property that the fair market value at that time of the part interest is of the fair market value at that time of the initial specified property. (Subparagraph 95(2)(h.4)(ii))
- The part (referred to here as the "remaining interest") of the initial specified property not disposed of at that time is deemed to be a specified property of the current vendor that was disposed of at the original disposition time.
- The amount of loss or capital loss that would have been realized on the disposition of the remaining interest at the original disposition time is deemed to be the amount, if any, by which the unadjusted suspended loss or capital loss in respect of the initial specified property exceeds the amount determined by subparagraph 95(2)(h.4)(ii) to be the unadjusted suspended loss or capital loss in respect of the part interest.

(h.5) [designated replacement property acquired by specified purchaser] — for the purposes of paragraphs (h.1) to (h.4) and subsection (3.5), if a current vendor disposes, at any particular time, of the whole of a specified property (referred to in this paragraph as the "initial specified property") and as part of a transaction, or series of transactions or events, that includes the disposition of the initial specified property, a specified purchaser in respect of the particular taxpayer acquires a designated replacement property in respect of the initial specified property,

(i) the designated replacement property (referred to in this paragraph as the "remaining interest") is deemed to be a specified property of the current vendor that was disposed of at the original disposition time,

(ii) the unadjusted suspended loss or capital loss in respect of the remaining interest is deemed to be that proportion of the unadjusted suspended loss or capital loss in respect of the whole of the initial specified property (determined without reference to subparagraph (iii)) that the fair market value of the remaining interest, at the time it was acquired, is of the fair market value, at the particular time, of the initial specified property, and

(iii) the unadjusted suspended loss or capital loss in respect of the initial specified property is deemed to be the amount, if any, by which the unadjusted suspended loss or capital loss in respect of the initial specified property (determined without reference to this subparagraph) exceeds the amount determined by subparagraph (ii) to be the unadjusted suspended loss or capital loss in respect of the remaining interest;

Technical Notes: New paragraph 95(2)(h.5) provides that for the purposes of paragraphs 95(2)(h.1) to (h.4) and subsection 95(3.5), if a current vendor disposes, at any particular time, of the whole of a specified property (referred to here as the "initial specified property") and as part of a transaction, or series of transactions or events, that includes the disposition of the initial specified property, a specified purchaser in respect of the taxpayer acquires a designated replacement property (see the definition "triggering disposition" in subsection 95(3.5)) in respect of the initial specified property, the following rules apply:

- The designated replacement property (referred to here as "the remaining interest") is deemed to be a specified property of the current vendor that was disposed of at the original disposition time. (Subparagraph 95(2)(h.5)(i))
- The unadjusted suspended loss or capital loss in respect of the remaining interest is deemed to be that portion of the unadjusted suspended loss or capital loss in respect of the whole of the initial specified property (determined without reference to subparagraph 95(2)(h.5)(iii)) that the fair market value of the remaining interest, at the time it was acquired, is of the fair market value, at the particular time, of the initial specified property. (Subparagraph 95(2)(h.5)(ii))
- The unadjusted suspended loss or capital loss in respect of the initial specified property is deemed to be the amount, if any, by which the unadjusted suspended loss or capital loss in respect of the initial specified property (determined without reference to subparagraph 95(2)(h.5)(iii)) minus the amount determined by subparagraph 95(2)(h.5)(ii) to be the unadjusted suspended loss or capital loss in respect of the remaining interest. (j.2) [policy reserves in respect of insurance business] — if this paragraph applies in respect of a specified taxation year of an operator, in computing the operator's income or loss from the foreign business for the specified taxation year and each subsequent taxation year or fiscal period in which the foreign business is carried on by the operator

(i) the operator is deemed to carry on the foreign business in Canada throughout that part of the specified taxation year, and of each of those subsequent taxation years or fiscal periods, in which the foreign business is carried on by the operator, and

(ii) for the purposes of Part XIV of the Regulations,

(A) the operator is deemed to be required by law to report to, and to have been subject to the supervision of, the regulatory authority referred to in subparagraph (j.1)(v), and

(B) where the operator is a life insurer and the foreign business is a life insurance business, the life insurance policies issued in the conduct of that business are deemed to be life insurance policies in Canada;

Application: The February 27, 2004 draft legislation (Part 2 — foreign affiliates), subsec. 133(17), will add paras. 95(2)(j.1) and (j.2), applicable to taxation years, of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer, that begin after December 20, 2002 (or after 1994 if the Fresh Start s. 95 Election is filed — see Application note to 95(1)"taxable Canadian business").

Technical Notes: New paragraphs 95(2)(j.1) and (j.2) ensure that a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer resident in Canada that carries on an insurance business is eligible to claim certain policy reserves in connection with an insurance business in computing its foreign accrual property income.

New paragraph 95(2)(j.1) provides that new paragraph 95(2)(j.2) applies in respect of a particular taxation year of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer and in respect of a particular fiscal period of a partnership at the end of which a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer is a member of the partnership (which foreign affiliate or partnership is referred to as the "operator" and which particular taxation year or particular fiscal period is referred to as the "specified taxation year") if in the specified taxation year

- the operator carries on a business (referred to as a "foreign business"),
- the foreign business includes the insuring of risks,
- the foreign business is not, at any time, a "taxable Canadian business" (as newly defined in subsection 95(1)),
- the foreign business is
  - an investment business, or
  - a business the activities of which include activities deemed by paragraph 95(2)(a.2) or (b) to be a separate business, other than an active business, carried on by the affiliate, and
- in respect of the foreign business, the operator would, if it were a corporation carrying on the foreign business in Canada, be required by law to report to, and be subject to the supervision of, a regulatory authority that is the Superintendent of Financial Institutions or a similar authority of a province.

New paragraph 95(2)(j.2) provides that in computing an operator's income or loss from the foreign business for the specified taxation year and each subsequent taxation year or fiscal period in which the foreign business is carried on by the operator

- the operator is deemed to carry on the foreign business in Canada throughout that part of the specified taxation year, and of each of those subsequent taxation years or fiscal periods, in which the foreign business is carried on by the operator, and
- for the purposes of Part XIV of the Regulations,
  - the operator is deemed to be required by law to report to, and to have been subject to the supervision of, the regulatory authority referred to in subparagraph 95(2)(j.1)(v), and
  - if the operator is a life insurer and the foreign business is a life insurance business, the life insurance policies issued in the conduct of that business are deemed to be life insurance policies in Canada.

For information about the new definition "taxable Canadian business", see the commentary to subsection 95(1).

In connection with the application of these new paragraphs, note the rule in new paragraph 95(2)(k.7) [now 95(2)(u) — ed.]. For detail, see the commentary for paragraph 95(2)(k.7) [see Technical Notes book or database, under 95(2)(u) — ed.].

These new paragraphs apply to taxation years, of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer, that begin after December 20, 2002. These amendments are included in the Fresh Start Section 95 Election package described [under 95(1)"taxable Canadian business" — ed.]

Absent a Fresh Start Section 95 Election by a taxpayer resident in Canada in respect of the taxpayer's foreign affiliate, subsection 1402(2) of the Regulations (which was repealed by P.C. 1999-1154, SOR/99-269, dated June 23, 1999) ensures, if the foreign affiliate of the taxpayer resident in Canada itself is the operator, that a result similar to the result afforded the foreign affiliate by new paragraphs 95(2)(j.1) and (j.2) is afforded the foreign affiliate for the 1995 and prior taxation years of the foreign affiliate of the taxpayer resident in Canada.

(k) [change in business — fresh start rule] — where, in a particular taxation year, a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer

(i) carries on an investment business outside Canada and, in the preceding taxation year, that business was not an investment business of the affiliate (or the definition "investment

business" in subsection (1) did not apply in respect of the business in the preceding taxation year), or

(ii) is deemed by paragraph (a.1), (a.2), (a.3) or (a.4) to carry on a separate business, other than an active business, and, in the preceding taxation year, that paragraph did not apply to deem the affiliate to be carrying on that separate business, for the purpose of computing the income of the affiliate from the investment business or the separate business as the case may be (in this subsection referred to as the "foreign business") for the particular year and each subsequent taxation year in which the foreign business is carried on,

(iii) the affiliate shall be deemed

(A) to have begun to carry on the foreign business in Canada at the later of the time the particular year began or the time that it began to carry on the foreign business, and

(B) to have carried on the foreign business in Canada throughout that part of the particular year and each such subsequent taxation year in which the foreign business was carried on by it,

(iv) where the foreign business of the affiliate is a business in respect of which, if the foreign business were carried on in Canada, the affiliate would be required by law to report to a regulating authority in Canada such as the Superintendent of Financial Institutions or a similar authority of a province, the affiliate shall be deemed to have been required by law to report to and to have been subject to the supervision of such regulating authority, and

(v) paragraphs 138(11.91)(c) to (f) apply to the affiliate for the particular year in respect of the foreign business as if

(A) the affiliate were the insurer referred to in subsection 138(11.91),

(B) the particular year of the affiliate were the particular year of the insurer referred to in that subsection, and

(C) the foreign business of the affiliate were the business of the insurer referred to in that subsection;

Proposed Amendment — 95(2)(k)

(k) [conditions for para. (k.1) to apply] — paragraph (k.1) applies in respect of a particular taxation year of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer and in respect of a particular fiscal period of a partnership at the end of which a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer is a member of the partnership (which foreign affiliate or partnership is referred to in this paragraph and paragraph (k.1) as the "operator" and which particular taxation year or particular fiscal period is referred to in this paragraph and paragraph (k.1) as the "specified taxation year") if

(i) in the specified taxation year, the operator carries on a business (referred to in this paragraph and, subject to paragraph (k.6), in paragraph (k.1), as a "foreign business"),

(ii) the foreign business is not, at any time in the specified taxation year, a taxable Canadian business,

(iii) in the specified taxation year, the foreign business is

(A) an investment business,

(B) a business whose activities include activities deemed by any of paragraphs (a.1) to (b) to be a separate business, other than an active business, carried on by the affiliate, or

(C) a business the income from which is included by paragraph (l) in computing the affiliate's income from property for the specified taxation year, and

(iv) in the taxation year of the affiliate or the fiscal period of the partnership that includes the day that is immediately before the beginning of the specified taxation year,

(A) the affiliate or partnership carried on the foreign business,

(B) the foreign business was not, at any time, a taxable Canadian business, and

(C) the foreign business was not described in any of clauses (iii)(A) to (C);

Application: The February 27, 2004 draft legislation (Part 2 — foreign affiliates), subsec. 133(17), will amend para. 95(2)(k) to read as above, applicable to taxation years, of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer, that begin after December 20, 2002 (or after 1994 if the Fresh Start s. 95 Election is filed — see Application note to 95(1)"taxable Canadian business").

If the Fresh Start s. 95 Election is made, then in applying cl. 95(2)(k)(iv)(C) for taxation years, of all foreign affiliates of the taxpayer, that begin before December 21, 2002, that clause is to be read in respect of those affiliates as follows:

(C) either

(I) the foreign business was not described in any of clauses (iii)(A) to (C), or

(II) the definition "investment business" in subsection (1) did not apply in respect of the foreign business in the specified taxation year;

In applying subpara. 95(2)(k)(iv) (before the amendment above) to taxation years, of foreign affiliates of a taxpayer, that end after 1999 and begin before December 21, 2002, that subpara. is, unless the taxpayer makes the Fresh Start s. 95 Election, to be read as follows:

(iv) if the foreign business of the affiliate is a business in respect of which the affiliate would, if the foreign business were carried on in Canada, be required by law to report to a regulating authority in Canada such as the Superintendent of Financial Institutions or a similar authority of a province,

(A) the affiliate is deemed to be required by law to report to and to be subject to the supervision of such regulating authority, and

(B) if the affiliate is a life insurer and the foreign business of the affiliate is a life insurance business, the life insurance policies issued in the conduct of that business are deemed to be life insurance policies in Canada, and

Technical Notes: Paragraph 95(2)(k) provides fresh start rules that, in general terms, are triggered if there is one of two types of changes to the business activities of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer resident in Canada, namely:

- in a particular taxation year, the foreign affiliate of the taxpayer resident in Canada carries on an investment business outside Canada and, in the preceding taxation year, that business was not an investment business (as defined in subsection 95(1)) of the foreign affiliate, or
- in a particular taxation year, the foreign affiliate of the taxpayer resident in Canada is deemed by paragraph 95(2)(a.1), (a.2), (a.3) or (a.4) to carry on a separate business, other than an active business, and, in the preceding taxation year, the foreign affiliate was not deemed by that paragraph to be carrying on that separate business.

Paragraph 95(2)(k) refers to that investment business or that separate business as the "foreign business".

The fresh start rules, set out in paragraph 95(2)(k), also apply where a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer resident in Canada begins to carry on a particular business in the particular year and the particular business was an investment business of the foreign affiliate (or was comprised of activities deemed by paragraph 95(2)(a.1), (a.2), (a.3) or (a.4) to be a separate business, other than an active business, carried on by the foreign affiliate).

These fresh start rules apply for the purpose of computing the foreign accrual property income (FAPI), of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer resident in Canada in respect of the taxpayer, from a foreign business for a particular taxation year of the foreign affiliate and for each subsequent taxation year in which the foreign business is considered to be carried on. In general terms, the fresh start rules provide for the following in computing the foreign affiliate's FAPI in respect of the taxpayer from the foreign business for those years:

- The foreign affiliate is deemed to have begun to carry on the foreign business in Canada at the later of the time the particular taxation year began and the time the foreign affiliate began carrying on the foreign business. The foreign affiliate is also deemed to have carried on the foreign business in Canada throughout that part of the particular taxation year and each subsequent taxation year in which the foreign business is considered to be carried on by the foreign affiliate.
- Where the foreign business is a business in respect of which the foreign affiliate would, if the foreign business were carried on in Canada, be required by law to report to a regulating authority such as the federal Superintendent of Financial Institutions or a similar authority of a province, the foreign affiliate is deemed to have been subject to the supervision of such a regulating authority.
- Paragraphs 138(11.91)(c) to (f) apply to the foreign affiliate in respect of the foreign business as if the foreign affiliate were the insurer referred to in subsection 138(11.91), the particular taxation year were the particular year referred to in those paragraphs and the foreign business were the business of the insurer referred to in those paragraphs.

The fresh start rules in subparagraph 95(2)(k) ensure that the income of the foreign affiliate from the foreign business is calculated using Canadian tax rules. For example, the rule deeming the foreign affiliate to be subject to the supervision of a regulating authority permits the foreign affiliate to claim certain reserves in respect of insurance policies in connection with the foreign business. As well, there is a deemed disposition and reacquisition of property used or held in the foreign business immediately before the beginning of the particular taxation year. The fresh start rules ensure that income or losses accruing in prior periods do not enter into the income calculations for the foreign business in the particular taxation year or in subsequent taxation years.

A number of amendments are made to these fresh start rules. Note that paragraph 95(2)(k) is being divided into amended paragraph 95(2)(k) and new paragraph 95(2)(k.1). Amended paragraph 95(2)(k) defines the circumstances to which the fresh start rules apply, and new paragraph 95(2)(k.1) contains the substantive provisions of the fresh start rules.

Amended paragraph 95(2)(k) provides that new paragraph 95(2)(k.1) applies in respect of a particular taxation year of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer resident in Canada and in respect of a particular fiscal period of a partnership at the end of which a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer resident in Canada is a member of the partnership (which foreign affiliate or partnership is referred to as the "operator" and which particular taxation year or particular fiscal period is referred to as the "specified taxation year") if the following four conditions are met:

- in the specified taxation year, the operator carries on a business (referred to in amended paragraph 95(2)(k) and, subject to new paragraph 95(2)(k.6), in new paragraph 95(2)(k.1), as a "foreign business"),
- the foreign business is not, at any time in the specified taxation year, a "taxable Canadian business",
- in the specified taxation year, the foreign business is
  - — an investment business (clause 95(2)(k)(iii)(A)),
  - — a business the activities of which include activities deemed by any of paragraphs 95(2)(a.1) to (b) to be a separate business, other than an active business, carried on by the foreign affiliate (clause 95(2)(k)(iii)(B)), or
  - — a business the income from which is included by paragraph 95(2)(l) in computing the foreign affiliate's income from property for the specified taxation year (clause 95(2)(k)(iii)(C)), and

- in the taxation year of the foreign affiliate, or fiscal period of the partnership, that includes the day that is immediately before the beginning of the specified taxation year)
  - — the foreign affiliate or the partnership carried on the foreign business,
  - — the foreign business was not, at any time, a "taxable Canadian business", and
  - — the foreign business was not described in any of clauses 95(2)(k)(iii)(A), (B) and (C).

In connection with the first of these conditions, see the commentary to new subparagraph 95(2)(k.6).

Letter from Dept. of Finance, Jan. 8, 2001:

Dear [xxx]:. . .

You have also requested amendments to paragraph 95(2)(k) of the Act. The purpose of these amendments would be to permit a foreign affiliate of a Canadian multinational insurer to deduct reserves in respect of foreign life insurance policies in computing its foreign accrual property income derived from carrying on a foreign life insurance business. We are sympathetic to this request. Consequently, we will recommend such amendments to the Minister of Finance. The amendments will be similar to those suggested in your letter and will be effective for taxation years ending after 1999.

Thank you for bringing these matters to our attention.

Yours sincerely,

Brian Ernewein, Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

(k.1) [change in business — fresh start rule] — if this paragraph applies in respect of a specified taxation year of an operator, in computing the operator's income or loss from the foreign business, and in computing the operator's capital gain or capital loss from the disposition of property used or held in the course of carrying on the foreign business, for the specified taxation year and each subsequent taxation year or fiscal period in which the foreign business is carried on by the operator

- if a particular property is deemed, because of the application of subparagraph 95(2)(k.1)(iii) and paragraph 138(11.91)(e), to have been disposed of in the preceding taxation year by the operator (which disposition is referred to in this subparagraph as a "particular disposition" of the particular property),
  - the amount of the foreign affiliate's income, gain or loss (which income, gain or loss is referred to in this subparagraph as the "deferred amount") derived from the operator's income, gain or loss from the particular disposition of the particular property
    - is to be included in computing the foreign affiliate's income, gain or loss for its taxation year that includes the last day of the operator's taxation year or fiscal period in which the particular property is disposed of by the operator in a disposition that is not the particular disposition, and
    - is not to be included in computing the foreign affiliate's income, gain or loss for its taxation year that includes the time of the particular disposition of the particular property, and
  - the portion of the income taxes paid by the foreign affiliate to, or recovered by the foreign affiliate from, the government of a country other than Canada that may reasonably be considered to relate to the deferred amount is not to be included in determining income taxes paid to or recovered in respect of any other income, gain or loss of the foreign affiliate.

In general terms, the amendments to paragraphs 95(2)(k) and (k.1) can be summarized as follows:

First, the amendments ensure that the fresh start rules apply not only if the particular business is carried on by a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer resident in Canada, but also if the particular business is carried on by a partnership of which a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer resident in Canada is a member. These amendments ensure, in the case of partnerships, that the fresh start rules will work on the basis of fiscal periods of the partnership and will therefore be relevant in the computation of the foreign affiliate 's foreign accrual property income for the foreign affiliate's taxation year that includes a fiscal period to which the fresh start rules apply. In amended paragraph 95(2)(k) and new paragraph 95(2)(k.1), the expression "operator" refers to the foreign affiliate (if the foreign affiliate directly carries on the particular business) or to the partnership (if the foreign affiliate carries on the particular business through the partnership).

Second, the amendments ensure that the fresh start rules are no longer triggered if the operator begins to carry on the particular business in the specified taxation year and did not carry on the particular business in the preceding taxation year. However, it is possible that, in such a situation, new paragraphs 95(2)(j.1) and (j.2) may apply. For further detail, see the commentary to new paragraphs 95(2)(j.1) and (j.2).

Third, the amendments ensure that the type of change in business activities that triggers the fresh start rules is a change that meets the following conditions:

- in the specified taxation year, the operator carries on a business (a "foreign business"),
- in the specified taxation year, the foreign business is
  - an investment business,
  - a business whose activities include activities deemed by any of paragraphs 95(2)(a.1) to (b) to be a separate business (other than an active business) carried on by the foreign affiliate, or
  - a business the income from which is included by paragraph 95(2)(l) in computing the foreign affiliate's income from property for the specified taxation year,
- in the preceding taxation year or fiscal period, the foreign affiliate or the partnership carried on the foreign business, and
- in that preceding taxation year or fiscal period, the foreign business was not described in any of clauses 95(2)(k)(iii)(A), (B) and (C).

Fourth, new paragraph 95(2)(k) provides that, in order for the fresh start rules to be triggered, the foreign business of the operator

- cannot, at any time in the specified taxation year, be a taxable Canadian business of the operator, and
- cannot, at any time in the preceding taxation year or fiscal period, have been a taxable Canadian business of the foreign affiliate or the partnership.

For more detail, see the commentary to the new definition "taxable Canadian business" in subsection 95(1).

Fifth, new paragraph 95(2)(k.1) provides that life insurance policies issued by a foreign business of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer resident in Canada in the conduct of that business are deemed to be life insurance policies in Canada if

- the operator would be required by law to report to the Superintendent of Financial Institutions or to a similar authority of a province in respect of the foreign business if the operator were a corporation carrying on the foreign business,
- the foreign business is a life insurance business, and
- the operator is a life insurer.

This new rule ensures that the operator is eligible to claim certain policy reserves in connection with the life insurance business.

Sixth, new paragraph 95(2)(k.1) makes it clear that, in applying paragraph 138(11.91)(e) to the fresh start rules, the reference in paragraph 138(11.91)(e) to "property owned by it at that time that is designated insurance property in respect of the business" is to be read as a reference to "property owned or held by it at that time that is used or held by the insurer in the particular taxation year in the course of carrying on the insurance business".

Seventh, consequential to the repeal of paragraph 138(11.91)(f), the reference, in the fresh start rules, to "paragraphs 138(11.91)(c) to (f)" is changed to read "paragraphs 138(11.91)(c) to (e)". For more detail, see the commentary to subsection 138(11.91).

Eighth, subparagraph 95(2)(k.1)(iv) provides that the income, gain or loss from the deemed disposition of a particular property under subparagraph 95(2)(k.1)(iii) is only to be included in computing the foreign affiliate's income, gain or loss in the taxation year in which the property is disposed of in a transaction other than the deemed disposition. The recognition of foreign income tax recoveries paid or recovered that is related to the deferred income, gain or loss is to matched with the recognition of that income, gain or loss.

New paragraphs 95(2)(k) and (k.1) apply to taxation years of foreign affiliates of a taxpayer resident in Canada that begin after December 20, 2002. These amendments are included in the Fresh Start Section 95 Election package described [under 95(1)"taxable Canadian business" — ed.]

However, note that this set of proposals sets out a number of transitional rules with respect to the application of paragraphs 95(2)(k) and (k.1).

First, in applying new paragraph 95(2)(k.1) for taxation years, of a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer, that begin on or before February 27, 2004, that paragraph is to be read without reference to subparagraph 95(2)(k.1)(iv).

Second, in the case where the taxpayer has made a valid Fresh Start Section 95 Election, in applying new clause 95(2)(k)(iv)(C), for taxation years, of all foreign affiliates of the taxpayer, that begin before December 21, 2002, that clause is to be read in respect of those affiliates as follows:

(C) either

(I) the foreign business was not described in any of clauses (iii)(A) to (C), or

(II) the definition "investment business" in subsection (1) did not apply in respect of the foreign business in the specified taxation year;

Third, in applying existing subparagraph 95(2)(k)(iv) to taxation years of foreign affiliates of a taxpayer, that end after 1999 and begin before December 21, 2002, that subparagraph is, unless the taxpayer makes a valid Fresh Start Section 95 Election, to be read as follows:

(iv) if the foreign business of the affiliate is a business in respect of which the affiliate would, if the foreign business were carried on in Canada, be required by law to report to a regulating authority in Canada such as the Superintendent of Financial Institutions or a similar authority of a province,

(A) the affiliate is deemed to be required by law to report to and to be subject to the supervision of such regulating authority, and

(B) if the affiliate is a life insurer and the foreign business of the affiliate is a life insurance business, the life insurance policies issued in the conduct of that business are deemed to be life insurance policies in Canada, and

Facts

Forco, a wholly-owned foreign affiliate of Canco, is deemed to carry on an investment business. The principal purpose of Forco's business is to derive income from trading or dealing in securities. The particular taxation year of Forco in respect of which paragraphs 95(2)(k) and (k.1) apply to the investment business is its taxation year ended December 31, 1995 (its "1995 taxation year"). Forco had acquired only one security for $10 million. The fair market value of the security was $12 million at the end of its taxation year that ended on December 31, 1994 (its "1994 taxation year"). Assume, for the purposes of this example, that Canco has made a valid Fresh Start Section 95 Election.

Application of paragraphs 95(2)(k) and (k.1)

Forco is deemed to have, at the end of its 1994 taxation year, disposed of all the securities used or held by it in respect of the investment business. The amount of $2 million (i.e., $12 million minus $10 million) would be added to the "earnings" of Forco in the taxation year in which it disposed of the securities. Following the deemed reacquisition of the securities at the beginning of its 1995 taxation year, Forco would have $12 million as the cost of its securities for the purposes of computing its income from the investment business. (k.2) [conditions for para. (k.3) to apply] — paragraph (k.3) applies in respect of a particular taxation year of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer or in respect of a particular fiscal period of a partnership at the end of which a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer is a member of the partnership (which foreign affiliate or partnership is referred to in this paragraph and paragraph (k.3) as the "operator" and which particular taxation year or particular fiscal period is referred to in this paragraph and paragraph (k.3) as the "specified taxation year") if

(i) in the taxation year of the affiliate, or fiscal period of the partnership, (which taxation year or fiscal period is referred to in this paragraph and paragraph (k.3) as "the preceding taxation year") that includes the day immediately before the beginning of the specified taxation year, the affiliate or partnership carried on a business (which is referred to in this paragraph and, subject to paragraph (k.6), in paragraph (k.3), as a "foreign business"),

(ii) the foreign business was not, at any time in the preceding taxation year, a taxable Canadian business,

(iii) in the preceding taxation year, the foreign business was

(A) an investment business,

(B) a business whose activities included activities deemed by any of paragraphs (a.1) to (b) to be a separate business, other than an active business, carried on by the affiliate, or

(C) a business the income from which is included by paragraph (l) in computing the affiliate's income from property for the preceding taxation year, and

(iv) either

(A) at any time in the specified taxation year, the operator carries on the foreign business and

(I) the foreign business is an active business that is not a taxable Canadian business, or

(II) all or substantially all of the fair market value of the property of the operator used or held by the operator in the course of carrying on the foreign business is attributable to property of the operator that is excluded property, or

(B) at no time in the specified taxation year does the operator carry on the foreign business;

Technical Notes: New paragraphs 95(2)(k.2) and (k.3) operate together and, in general terms, provide for fresh start rules that are triggered if a business carried on that is not an active business of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer resident in Canada (or a business of a partnership of which the foreign affiliate is a member) becomes, in a particular taxation year of the foreign affiliate or in a particular fiscal period of the partnership (as the case may be), an active business. These fresh start rules apply in computing the foreign affiliate's foreign accrual property income (FAPI) in respect of the taxpayer from that business for the preceding taxation year or fiscal period.

Paragraph 95(2)(k.2) provides that paragraph 95(2)(k.3) applies in respect of a particular taxation year of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer or in respect of a particular fiscal period of a partnership at the end of which a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer is a member of the partnership (which foreign affiliate or partnership is referred to as the "operator" and which particular taxation year or particular fiscal period is referred to as the "specified taxation year") if the following four conditions are met:

- in the preceding taxation year of the foreign affiliate or fiscal period of the partnership (which taxation year or fiscal period is referred to in this paragraph and paragraph (k.3) as the "preceding taxation year") that includes the day immediately before the beginning of the specified taxation year, the foreign affiliate or the partnership carried on a business (which is referred to in paragraph 95(2)(k.2) and, subject to paragraph (k.6), in paragraph 95(2)(k.3), as the "foreign business"),
- the foreign business was not, at any time in the preceding taxation year, a "taxable Canadian business",
- in the preceding taxation year, the foreign business was
  - an investment business (clause 95(2)(k.2)(iii)(A)),
  - a business whose activities included activities deemed by any of paragraphs 95(2)(a.1) to (b) to be a separate business, other than an active business, carried on by the affiliate (clause 95(2)(k.2)(iii)(B)), or
  - a business the income from which is included by paragraph 95(2)(l) in computing the affiliate's income from property for that preceding taxation year or fiscal period (clause 95(2)(k.2)(iii)(C)), and
- either
  - at any time in the specified taxation year the operator carries on the foreign business, and
    - the foreign business is an active business that is not a "taxable Canadian business" (subclause 95(2)(k.2)(iv)(A)(I), or
    - all or substantially all of the fair market value of the property of the operator used or held by the operator in the course of carrying on the foreign business is attributable to property of the operator that is excluded property (subclause 95(2)(k.2)(iv)(A)(II)), or
  - at no time in the specified taxation year does the operator carry on the foreign business.

In connection with the first of these four conditions, see the commentary on new subparagraph 95(2)(k.6).

For detail on the new definition "taxable Canadian business", see the commentary to subsection 95(1).

The fresh start rules in paragraph 95(2)(k.3) provide that, in computing the operator's income or loss from the foreign business and in computing the operator's capital gain or capital loss from the disposition of property used or held in the course of carrying on the foreign business, for the preceding taxation year or fiscal period referred to in paragraph 95(2)(k.2) and for the specified taxation year of the operator and the operator's subsequent taxation years or fiscal periods,

- the operator is deemed to have ceased to carry on the foreign business in Canada at the beginning of the specified taxation year, and

- subject to subparagraph 95(2)(k.3)(iii), paragraphs 138(11.91)(c) to (e) apply to the operator for the specified taxation year in respect of the foreign business as if
  - the operator were the "insurer" referred to in subsection 138(11.91),
  - the specified taxation year of the operator were the "particular taxation year" of the insurer referred to in that subsection,
  - the foreign business of the operator were the business of the insurer referred to in that subsection,
  - the reference in paragraph 138(11.91)(e) to "property owned by it at that time that is designated insurance property in respect of the business" were read as a reference to "property owned or held by it at that time that is used or held by the insurer in the particular taxation year in the course of carrying on the insurance business", and
  - where, under subparagraph 95(2)(k.3)(iii), the taxpayer elects in prescribed manner and within the prescribed time (see proposed new section 5918 of the Regulations), to have that subparagraph apply in respect of every property that is deemed, because of the application of subparagraph 95(2)(k.3)(ii) and paragraph 138(11.91)(e), to have been disposed of in the specified taxation year by the operator (each such property referred to as the "particular property" and each such disposition referred to as the "particular disposition" of the particular property"), the following rules apply:
    - the amount of the foreign affiliate's income, gain or loss (which income, gain or loss is referred to as the "deferred amount") derived from the operator's income, gain or loss from a particular disposition of a particular property
      - is to be included in computing the foreign affiliate's foreign accrual property income in respect of the taxpayer for the foreign affiliate's taxation year that includes the last of the operator's taxation year or fiscal period in which the particular property is disposed of by the operator in a disposition that is not the particular disposition, and
      - is not to be included in computing the foreign affiliate's foreign accrual property income in respect of the taxpayer for the foreign affiliate's taxation year that includes the last day of the operator's taxation year or fiscal period that includes the time of the particular disposition of the particular property, and
    - the portion, of the income taxes paid by the foreign affiliate to, or recovered by the foreign affiliate from, the government of a country other than Canada that may reasonably be considered to relate to the deferred amount is not to be included in determining income taxes paid to or recovered in respect of any other income, gain or loss of the foreign affiliate.

Paragraphs 95(2)(k.2) and (k.3) ensure that, if a foreign business that is an active business in the specified taxation year was not an active business in the immediately preceding taxation year or fiscal period, as the case may be, any accrued gains will be included in computing the FAPI of the foreign affiliate in that preceding taxation year or fiscal period. The active business income of the foreign affiliate will reflect income, gains and losses accruing in the specified taxation year and in subsequent taxation years or fiscal periods, as the case may be. The reference, in subsection 95(2)(k.3), to paragraphs 138(11.91)(c) to (e), ensures that, immediately before the beginning of the specified taxation year, there is a deemed disposition and deemed reacquisition of property used or held in the foreign business.

New paragraphs 95(2)(k.2) and (k.3) apply to taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that begin after December 20, 2002. However, this set of proposals provides that, in applying new paragraph 95(2)(k.2) for taxation years, of a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer, that begin on or before February 27, 2004, that paragraph is to be read without reference to subclause 95(2)(k.2)(iv)(A)(II).

Example

Facts

Forco, a wholly-owned foreign affiliate of Canco, carried on a particular business that was an investment business throughout its taxation year that ended December 31, 2004. Forco is resident in a country that is a designated treaty country for the purposes of Part LIX of the Regulations. In its taxation year that ended December 31, 2005 (its "2005 taxation year"), business activities constitute an active business.

At the end of its 2004 taxation year, Forco owned capital property with a cost amount of $6 million, and inventory with a cost amount of $2 million, that was property used or held in the course of carrying on this business. At the end of that taxation year, the fair market value of Forco's capital property was $10 million and the fair market value of its inventory was $4 million.

Forco would be deemed to have, immediately before the end of its 2004 taxation year, disposed of all of its property for proceeds equal to fair market value of that property at that time.

In connection with the deemed disposition of the capital property, Forco would be deemed to have a capital gain of $4 million (i.e., $10 million minus $6 million). Therefore, the taxable capital gain would be $2 million. Subject to a taxpayer election described below, the $2 million of taxable capital gains will be included in computing Forco's FAPI for the 2004 taxation year. Following the deemed reacquisition of the capital property at the end of its 2004 taxation year, Forco would have a cost in the amount of $10 million for the capital property.

Subject to a taxpayer election described below, in connection with the deemed disposition of the inventory, Forco would be deemed to have income of $2 million that would be included in computing the foreign accrual property income of Forco for its 2004 taxation year. Following the deemed reacquisition of the inventory at the end of its 2004 taxation year, Forco would have a cost in the amount of $4 million for the inventory.

For fresh starts in taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer resident in Canada commencing after December 20, 2002, where the taxpayer elects (subparagraph 95(2)(k.3)(iv)), the gain and income arising because of the application of paragraph 95(2)(k.3) can be recognized by the foreign affiliate in the year the property is disposed of by foreign affiliate in a disposition other a disposition deemed, because of the application of subparagraph 95(2)(k.3)(ii) and paragraph 138(11.91)(e), to have occurred.

(k.3) [fresh start rule where business becomes active business] — if this paragraph applies in respect of a specified taxation year of an operator, in computing the operator's income or loss from the foreign business, and in computing the operator's capital gain or capital loss from the disposition of property used or held in the course of carrying on the foreign business, for the preceding taxation year or fiscal period referred to in paragraph (k.2) and for the specified taxation year of the operator and the operator's subsequent taxation years or fiscal periods

(i) the operator is deemed to have ceased to carry on the foreign business in Canada at the beginning of the specified taxation year,

(ii) subject to subparagraph (iii), paragraphs 138(11.91)(c) to (e) apply to the operator for the specified taxation year in respect of the foreign business as if

(A) the operator were the insurer referred to in subsection 138(11.91),

(B) the specified taxation year of the operator were the particular taxation year of the insurer referred to in that subsection,

(C) the foreign business of the operator were the business of the insurer referred to in that subsection,

(D) the reference in paragraph 138(11.91)(e) to "property owned by it at that time that is designated insurance property in respect of the business" were read as a reference to "property owned or held by it at that time that is used or held by it in the particular taxation year in the course of carrying on the insurance business", and

(iii) where the taxpayer so elects, in prescribed manner and within the prescribed time, to have this subparagraph apply in respect of each property that is deemed, because of the application of subparagraph (ii) and paragraph 138(11.91)(e), to have been disposed of in the specified taxation year by the operator (each such property referred to in this subparagraph as a "particular property" and each such disposition of a particular property referred to in this subparagraph as a "particular disposition" of the particular property)

(A) the amount of the foreign affiliate's income, gain or loss (which income, gain or loss is referred to in this subparagraph as the "deferred amount") derived from the operator's income, gain or loss from a particular disposition of a particular property

(I) is to be included in computing the foreign affiliate's foreign accrual property income in respect of the taxpayer for the foreign affiliate's taxation year that includes the last day of the operator's taxation year or fiscal period in which the particular property is disposed of by the operator in a disposition that is not the particular disposition, and

(II) is not to be included in computing the foreign affiliate's foreign accrual property income in respect of the taxpayer for the foreign affiliate's taxation year that includes the last day of the operator's taxation year or fiscal period that includes the time of the particular disposition of the particular property, and

(k.4) [fresh start rule where income partly taxed in Canada] — if at any time a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer resident in Canada, or a partnership at the end of the fiscal period of which includes that time a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer resident in Canada is a member of the partnership, (which foreign affiliate or partnership is referred to in this paragraph as the "operator"), carries on a business both outside Canada and in Canada and income from the particular part of that business that is carried on in Canada is income from a taxable Canadian business, the following rules apply for the purposes of paragraphs (k) to (k.3):

(i) the particular part of the business is deemed to be, at that time, a separate business,

(ii) the assets used, or held, at that time primarily in the course of carrying on the particular part of the business are deemed to be, at that time, used or held in the course of carrying on the separate business,

(iii) any liability incurred, and any reserve established, at that time in the course of carrying on the particular part of the business are deemed to be, at that time, incurred or established in the course of carrying on the separate business, and

(iv) the transactions conducted at that time in the particular part of the business are deemed to be transactions conducted, at that time, in the separate business;

Technical Notes: The fresh start rules provided for in new paragraphs 95(2)(k) and (k.1) and in new paragraphs 95(2)(k.2) and (k.3), respectively, do not apply to a business the income from which is subject to tax under Part I of the Act. New paragraph 95(2)(k.4) provides for a rule to deal with the situation where income from part of the business is subject to tax under Part I.

New paragraph 95(2)(k.4) provides that, if at any time a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer resident in Canada, or a partnership at the end of the fiscal period of which includes that time a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer resident in Canada is a member of the partnership, (which foreign affiliate or partnership is referred to as the "operator"), carries on a business both outside Canada and in Canada and income from that particular part of that business that is carried on in Canada is income from a taxable Canadian business, the following rules apply for the purposes of paragraphs 95(2)(k) to (k.3):

- the particular part of the business is deemed to be, at that time, a separate business,
- the assets used, or held, at that time primarily in the course of carrying on the particular part of the business are deemed to be, at that time, used or held in the course of carrying on the separate business,

New paragraph 95(2)(k.4) applies to taxation years, of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer, that begin after December 20, 2002. This new paragraph is included in the Fresh Start Section 95 Election package described [under 95(1)"taxable Canadian business" — ed.]

Related Provisions: 95(2)(u) — Tiers of partnerships; 253 — Whether business carried on in Canada.

(k.5) [conditions for para. (k.6) to apply] — paragraph (k.6) applies for the purposes of paragraphs (k.1) and (k.3) in respect of a particular business of an operator if

(i) the particular business is the operator's foreign business for the specified taxation year described in paragraph (k) or for the preceding taxation year described in subparagraph (k.2)(i), and

(ii) the activities of the particular business for that specified or preceding taxation year include particular activities deemed by any of paragraphs (a.1) to (b) to be a separate business, other than an active business, carried on by the foreign affiliate for that specified or preceding taxation year and the particular activities were not all the activities of the particular business in that specified or preceding taxation year;

Technical Notes: New paragraph 95(2)(k.6), in combination with new paragraph 95(2)(k.5), provides application rules for the purposes of new paragraphs 95(2)(k.1) and (k.3).

New paragraph 95(2)(k.5) provides that new paragraph 95(2)(k.6) applies for the purpose of paragraphs 95(2)(k.1) and (k.3) in respect of a particular business of an operator if

New paragraphs 95(2)(k.5) and (k.6) apply to taxation years, of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer, that begin after December 20, 2002.

These new paragraphs are included in the Fresh Start Section 95 Election package described [under 95(1)"taxable Canadian business" — ed.]

(B) by

(I) another foreign affiliate of the taxpayer in respect of which the taxpayer has a qualifying interest throughout the year, or

(IV) the second and third affiliates are resident in and subject to income taxation in the same country, and

(V) the amounts paid or payable are relevant in computing the liability for income taxes in that country of the members of a group of corporations composed of the second affiliate and one or more other foreign affiliates of the taxpayer (the shares of which are excluded property) that are resident and subject to income taxation in that country and in respect of which the taxpayer has a qualifying interest throughout the year, or

(E) by the taxpayer, where the taxpayer is a life insurance corporation resident in Canada (in this clause referred to as the "insurer"), to the extent that those amounts that were paid or payable were for expenditures that are deductible in the year or a subsequent taxation year by the insurer in computing its income or loss from carrying on its life insurance business outside Canada and are not deductible in the year or a subsequent taxation year in computing its income or loss from carrying on its life insurance business in Canada,

(2.2) Qualifying interest throughout year — For the purposes of paragraphs (2)(a) and (g), a non-resident corporation that is not a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer in respect of which the taxpayer has a qualifying interest throughout a particular taxation year is deemed to be a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer in respect of which the taxpayer has a qualifying interest throughout that particular taxation year if

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 25(3), will amend the opening words of subsec. 95(2.2) to read as above, applicable to taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that begin after 1994. However, the opening words shall, in their application to taxation years of a foreign affiliate that begin after 1994 and before 2009, be read as follows:

(2.2) Rule for paragraphs (2)(a) and (g) — For the purposes of paragraphs (2)(a) and (g),

Notwithstanding subsecs. 152(4) to (5), any assessment of a taxpayer's tax, interest and penalties payable under the Act for any taxation year shall be made that is necessary to take into account this amendment.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): Current subsection 95(2.2) provides rules for the purposes of subsection 95(2) (except paragraph 95(2)(f)). Those rules are essentially aimed at cases where a taxpayer acquires or ceases to have a qualifying interest in, or becomes or ceases to be related to, a non-resident corporation.

Specifically, in certain circumstances a non-resident corporation that is not a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer in respect of which the taxpayer has a qualifying interest throughout a particular taxation year but was such a foreign affiliate at the beginning or the end of the particular year is deemed to be a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer in respect of which the taxpayer has a qualifying interest throughout that particular taxation year.

Similarly, for foreign affiliate taxation years that end before 2009, in certain circumstances a non-resident corporation that was not related to a taxpayer and a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer throughout a particular taxation year but was so related at the beginning or the end of the particular year is deemed to related to the taxpayer and the foreign affiliate of the taxpayer throughout that particular taxation year.

These deeming rules are intended to apply only for the purposes of paragraphs 95(2)(a) and (g). Subsection 95(2.2) is amended to confirm this intention. This amendment applies to taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that begin after 1994.

(a) a person or partnership has, in that particular taxation year, acquired or disposed of shares of the capital stock of that non-resident corporation or of any other corporation and, because of that acquisition or disposition, that non-resident corporation becomes or ceases to be a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer in respect of which the taxpayer has a qualifying interest, and

(b) at the beginning of that particular taxation year or at the end of that particular taxation year, the non-resident corporation is a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer in respect of which the taxpayer has a qualifying interest.

History: Subsec. 95(2.2) amended by 2007, c. 35, subsec. 26(19), applicable as described in the History at the end of s. 95. The subsec. formerly read:

For the purpose of subsection (2),

(a) a non-resident corporation that was not a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer in respect of which the taxpayer had a qualifying interest throughout a particular taxation year shall be deemed to be a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer in respect of which the taxpayer had a qualifying interest throughout that year where

(i) a person has, in that year, acquired or disposed of shares of that non-resident corporation or any other corporation and, because of that acquisition or disposition, that non-resident corporation became or ceased to be a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer in respect of which the taxpayer had a qualifying interest, and

(ii) at the beginning of that year or at the end of that year, the non-resident corporation was a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer in respect of which the taxpayer had a qualifying interest; and

(b) a non-resident corporation that was not related to a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer and the taxpayer throughout a particular taxation year shall be deemed to be related to the foreign affiliate of the taxpayer and that taxpayer throughout that year where

(i) a person has, in that year, acquired or disposed of shares of that non-resident corporation or any other corporation and, because of that acquisition or disposition, that non-resident corporation became or ceased to be a non-resident corporation that was related to the foreign affiliate of the taxpayer and the taxpayer, and

(ii) at the beginning of that year or at the end of that year, the non-resident corporation was related to the foreign affiliate of the taxpayer and the taxpayer.

The opening words of subsec. 95(2.2) amended by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 73(9) to replace "paragraph (2)(a)" with "subsection (2)", applicable to taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that begin after November 1999 except that, where the taxpayer so elects in writing and files the election with the Minister of National Revenue before the day of the taxpayer's filing-due date for the taxation year that includes June 14, 2001, the amendment applies to taxation years, of all of its foreign affiliates, that began after 1994 and, notwithstanding subsecs. 152(4) to (5), any assessment of a taxpayer's tax payable under the Act for any of those taxation years shall be made that is necessary to take into account the application of the amendment.

Subsec. 95(2.2) added by 1995, c. 21, subsec. 46(6), applicable to taxation years of foreign affiliates of taxpayers that begin after 1994 except that, where there has been a change in the taxation year of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer in 1994 and after February 22, 1994, the new subsection applies to taxation years of such foreign affiliate of the taxpayer that end after 1994, unless

(a) such foreign affiliate had requested that change in the taxation year in writing before February 22, 1994 from the income taxation authority of the country in which it was resident and subject to income taxation; or

(b) the first taxation year of such foreign affiliate that began after 1994 began at a time in 1995 that is earlier than the time that that taxation year would have begun if there had not been that change in the taxation of such foreign affiliate.

Proposed Addition — 95(2.201)

(2.201) Controlled foreign affiliate throughout year — For the purposes of paragraphs (2)(a) and (g), a non-resident corporation is deemed to be a controlled foreign affiliate of a taxpayer throughout a taxation year of the non-resident corporation if

(a) in the taxation year, a person or partnership acquires or disposes of shares of the capital stock of a corporation and, because of the acquisition or disposition, the non-resident corporation becomes or ceases to be a controlled foreign affiliate of the taxpayer; and

(b) at either or both of the beginning and end of the taxation year, the non-resident corporation is a controlled foreign affiliate of the taxpayer.

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 25(4), will add subsec. 95(2.201), applicable to taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that end after 1999. However,

(a) subject to para. (b) below, for taxation years of a foreign affiliate that begin before December 21, 2002, the reference to "for the purposes of paragraphs (2)(a) and (g)" shall be read as a reference to "for the purpose of paragraph (2)(a)"; and

(b) if the taxpayer has made a valid election under subsec. 26(46) of S.C. 2007, c. 35 (Budget and Economic Statement Implementation Act, 2007), the amendment applies to taxation years of a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer that begin after 1994.

Notwithstanding subsecs. 152(4) to (5), any assessment of a taxpayer's tax, interest and penalties payable under the Act for any taxation year shall be made that is necessary to take into account this amendment.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): Section 95 is amended by adding new subsection 95(2.201). The new subsection provides that, for the purposes of paragraphs 95(2)(a) and (g), a non-resident corporation is deemed to be a controlled foreign affiliate of a taxpayer throughout a taxation year of the non-resident corporation if two conditions are met. First, a person or partnership must acquire or dispose of shares of a corporation and, because of the acquisition or disposition, become or cease to be a controlled foreign affiliate of the taxpayer. Second, at either or both of the beginning and end of the taxation year, the non-resident corporation must be a controlled foreign affiliate of the taxpayer.

New subsection 95(2.201), in providing this result in connection with a controlled foreign affiliate of a taxpayer, is thus similar to current subsection 95(2.2), which provides an interpretive rule in connection with a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer in respect of which the taxpayer has a qualifying interest.

New subsection 95(2.201) is applicable to taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that end after 1999. There are two transitional rules:

1. As the criterion that a non-resident corporation be a controlled foreign affiliate of a taxpayer was introduced into paragraph 95(2)(g) effective for taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that begin after December 20, 2002 (absent the Global Election mentioned below), the rules in subsection 95(2.201) apply only for the purposes of paragraph 95(2)(a) for foreign affiliate taxation years that begin before December 21, 2002.

2. However, if the taxpayer has made a valid election under subsection 26(46) of the Budget and Economic Statement Implementation Act, 2007, S.C. 2007, c. 35 (informally known as a Global Election), which invokes an earlier application of various amendments to the Act (including paragraphs 95(2)(a) and (g)), the amendment to subsection 95(2.201) will apply to taxation years of all foreign affiliates of the taxpayer that begin after 1994.

(2.21) Rule re subsec. (2.2) — Subsection (2.2) does not apply for the purpose of paragraph (2)(a) in respect of any income or loss referred to in that paragraph, of a particular foreign affiliate of the taxpayer, to the extent that that income or loss can reasonably be considered to have been realized or to have accrued before the earlier of

(a) the time at which the particular affiliate became, as determined without reference to subsection (2.2), a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer in respect of which the taxpayer had a qualifying interest, and

(b) the time at which the particular affiliate became, as determined without reference to subsection (2.2), a foreign affiliate of another person resident in Canada in respect of which the other person resident in Canada had a qualifying interest, where

(i) the taxpayer is a corporation,

(ii) the taxpayer did not exist at the beginning of the taxation year,

(iii) the particular affiliate became a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer in the taxation year because of a disposition, in the taxation year, of shares of the capital stock of the particular affiliate to the taxpayer by the other person resident in Canada, and

(iv) the other person resident in Canada was, immediately before that disposition, related to the taxpayer.

Related Provisions: 95(2)(n) — Deemed FA and deemed qualifying interest; 95(2)(y) — Look-through rule for partnerships.

History: Subsec. 95(2.21) added by 2007, c. 35, subsec. 26(19), applicable as described in the History at the end of s. 95.

(2.3) Application of para. (2)(a.1) — Paragraph (2)(a.1) does not apply to a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer in respect of a sale or exchange of property that is currency or a right to purchase, sell or exchange currency where

(a) the taxpayer is

(i) a bank, a trust company, a credit union, an insurance corporation or a trader or dealer in securities or commodities resident in Canada, the business activities of which are subject by law to the supervision of a regulating authority such as the Superintendent of Financial Institutions or a similar authority of a province, or

(ii) a subsidiary wholly-owned corporation of a corporation described in subparagraph (i);

(b) the sale or exchange was made by the affiliate in the course of a business conducted principally with persons with whom the affiliate deals at arm's length, if

(i) the business is principally carried on in the country (other than Canada) under whose laws the affiliate is governed and any of exists, was (unless the affiliate was continued in any jurisdiction) formed or organized, or was last continued, or

(ii) the affiliate is a foreign bank, a trust company, a credit union, an insurance corporation or a trader or dealer in securities or commodities and the activities of the business are regulated

(A) under the laws of the country under whose laws the affiliate is governed and any of exists, was (unless the affiliate was continued in any jurisdiction) formed or organized, or was last continued, and under the laws of each country in which the business is carried on through a permanent establishment (as defined by regulation) in that country,

(B) under the laws of the country (other than Canada) in which the business is principally carried on, or

(C) if the affiliate is related to a corporation, under the laws of the country under the laws of which that related corporation is governed and any of exists, was (unless that related corporation was continued in any jurisdiction) formed or organized, or was last continued, if those regulating laws are recognized under the laws of the country in which the business is principally carried on and all of those countries are members of the European Union; and

(c) the terms and conditions of the sale or exchange of such property are substantially the same as the terms and conditions of similar sales or exchanges of such property by persons dealing at arm's length.

History: Para. 95(2.3)(b) amended by 2007, c. 35, subsec. 26(20), applicable as described in the History at the end of s. 95. The para. formerly read:

(b) the sale or exchange was made in the course of a business carried on by the affiliate principally with persons with whom the affiliate deals at arm's length in the country under whose laws the affiliate was formed or continued and exists and is governed and in which the business is principally carried on by it; and

Subsec. 95(2.3) added by 1995, c. 21, subsec. 46(6), applicable to taxation years of foreign affiliates of taxpayers that begin after 1994 except that, where there has been a change in the taxation year of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer in 1994 and after February 22, 1994, the new subsection applies to taxation years of such foreign affiliate of the taxpayer that end after 1994, unless

(a) such foreign affiliate had requested that change in the taxation year in writing before February 22, 1994 from the income taxation authority of the country in which it was resident and subject to income taxation; or

(b) the first taxation year of such foreign affiliate that began after 1994 began at a time in 1995 that is earlier than the time that that taxation year would have begun if there had not been that change in the taxation of such foreign affiliate.

Regulations: 8202 (meaning of "permanent establishment" for 95(2.3)(b)).

(2.4) Application of para. (2)(a.3) — Paragraph (2)(a.3) does not apply to a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer in respect of its income derived directly or indirectly from indebtedness to the extent that

(a) the income is derived by the affiliate in the course of a business conducted principally with persons with whom the affiliate deals at arm's length carried on by it as a foreign bank, a trust company, a credit union, an insurance corporation or a trader or dealer in securities or commodities, the activities of which are regulated under the laws

(i) of the country under whose laws the affiliate is governed and any of exists, was (unless the affiliate was continued in any jurisdiction) formed or organized, or was last continued and of each country in which the business is carried on through a permanent establishment (as defined by regulation) in that country,

(ii) of the country in which the business is principally carried on, or

(iii) if the affiliate is related to a corporation, of the country under the laws of which that related corporation is governed and any of exists, was (unless that related corporation was continued in any jurisdiction) formed or organized, or was last continued, if those regulating laws are recognized under the laws of the country in which the business is principally carried on and all of those countries are members of the European Union, and

(b) the income is derived by the affiliate from trading or dealing in the indebtedness (which, for this purpose, consists of income from the actual trading or dealing in the indebtedness and interest earned by the affiliate during a short term holding period on indebtedness acquired by it for the purpose of the trading or dealing) with persons (in this subsection referred to as "regular customers") with whom it deals at arm's length who were resident in a country other than Canada in which it and any competitor (which is resident in the country in which the affiliate is resident and regulated in the same manner the affiliate is regulated in the country under whose laws the affiliate was formed or continued and exists and is governed and in which its business is principally carried on) compete and have a substantial market presence, and, for the purpose of this subsection, an acquisition of indebtedness from the taxpayer shall be deemed to be part of the trading or dealing in indebtedness described in paragraph (b) where the indebtedness is acquired by the affiliate and sold to regular customers and the terms and conditions of the acquisition and the sale are substantially the same as the terms and conditions of similar acquisitions and sales made by the affiliate in transactions with persons with whom it deals at arm's length.

History: Para. 95(2.4)(a) amended by 2007, c. 35, subsec. 26(21), applicable as described in the History at the end of s. 95. The para. formerly read:

Subsec. 95(2.4) added by 1995, c. 21, subsec. 46(6), applicable to taxation years of foreign affiliates of taxpayers that begin after 1994 except that, where there has been a change in the taxation year of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer in 1994 and after February 22, 1994, the new subsection applies to taxation years of such foreign affiliate of the taxpayer that end after 1994, unless

(a) such foreign affiliate had requested that change in the taxation year in writing before February 22, 1994 from the income taxation authority of the country in which it was resident and subject to income taxation; or

(b) the first taxation year of such foreign affiliate that began after 1994 began at a time in 1995 that is earlier than the time that that taxation year would have begun if there had not been that change in the taxation of such foreign affiliate.

Regulations: 8202 (meaning of "permanent establishment" for 95(2.4)(a)).

(2.41) Application of para. (2)(a.3) — Paragraph (2)(a.3) does not apply to a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer resident in Canada in respect of the foreign affiliate's income for a taxation year derived, directly or indirectly, from indebtedness of persons resident in Canada or from indebtedness in respect of businesses carried on in Canada (referred to in this subsection as the "Canadian indebtedness") if

(a) the taxpayer is, at the end of the foreign affiliate's taxation year

(i) a life insurance corporation resident in Canada, the business activities of which are subject by law to the supervision of the Superintendent of Financial Institutions or a similar authority of a province, or

(ii) a corporation resident in Canada that is a subsidiary controlled corporation of a corporation described in subparagraph (i);

(b) the Canadian indebtedness is used or held by the foreign affiliate, throughout the period in the taxation year that that Canadian indebtedness was used or held by the foreign affiliate, in the course of carrying on a business (referred to in this subsection as the "foreign life insurance business") that is a life insurance business carried on outside Canada (other than a business deemed by paragraph (2)(a.2) to be a separate business other than an active business), the activities of which are regulated

(i) under the laws of the country under whose laws the foreign affiliate is governed and any of exists, was (unless the foreign affiliate was continued in any jurisdiction) formed or organized, or was last continued, and

(ii) under the laws of the country, if any, in which the business is principally carried on;

(c) more than 90% of the gross premium revenue of the foreign affiliate for the taxation year in respect of the foreign life insurance business was derived from the insurance or reinsurance of risks (net of reinsurance ceded) in respect of persons

(i) that were non-resident at the time at which the policies in respect of those risks were issued or effected, and

(ii) that were at that time dealing at arm's length with the foreign affiliate, the taxpayer and all persons that were related at that time to the foreign affiliate or the taxpayer; and

(i) to fund a liability or reserve of the foreign life insurance business, or

(ii) as capital that can reasonably be considered to have been required for the foreign life insurance business.

(2)(a.3) — If, at any time in a taxation year of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer referred to in paragraph (2)(a.3), a life insurance corporation resident in Canada is the taxpayer referred to in paragraph (2)(a.3) or is a person who controls, or is controlled by, such a taxpayer, a particular indebtedness or a particular lease obligation of the life insurance corporation is, for the purposes of that paragraph, deemed, at that time, not to be an indebtedness or a lease obligation of a person resident in Canada, to the extent of the portion of the particular indebtedness or lease obligation that can reasonably be considered to have been issued by the life insurance corporation to the foreign affiliate

(a) in respect of the life insurance corporation's life insurance business carried on outside Canada; and

(b) not in respect of

(i) the life insurance corporation's life insurance business carried on in Canada, or

History: Subsec. 95(2.42) added by 2007, c. 35, subsec. 26(22), applicable as described in the History at the end of s. 95.

(2.5) Definitions for para. (2)(a.3) — For the purpose of paragraph (2)(a.3),

"excluded income" and "excluded revenue" for a taxation year in respect of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer mean, respectively, income or revenue, that is

(a) derived directly or indirectly from a specified deposit with a prescribed financial institution,

(b) derived directly or indirectly from a lease obligation of a person (other than the taxpayer or a person that does not deal at arm's length with the taxpayer) relating to the use of property outside Canada, or

(c) included in computing the affiliate's income for the year from carrying on a business through a permanent establishment in Canada;

Proposed Amendment — 95(2.5)"excluded income" and "excluded revenue"

Letter from Dept. of Finance, July 17, 2006:

Dear [xxx]:

I am writing in response to correspondence to Mr. Wallace Conway in which you express your concern with respect to the wording of paragraph (b) of the definitions "excluded income" and "excluded revenue" for the purpose of paragraph 95(2)(a.3) of the Income Tax Act, which are set out in subsection 95(2.5) of the Act.

Paragraph 95(2)(a.3) includes, in computing the income from a business other than an active business of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer resident in Canada, the foreign affiliate's income (other than excluded income) derived directly or indirectly from most forms of indebtedness or lease obligations of persons resident in Canada or in respect of businesses carried on in Canada. That paragraph goes on to provide for a de minimis test so that such income from indebtedness or lease obligations is not included in computing the foreign affiliate's income from a business other than an active business if more than 90% of the foreign affiliate's gross revenue (other than excluded revenue) derived directly or indirectly from indebtedness or lease obligations was from non-resident persons with whom the foreign affiliate deals at arm's length.

Paragraph (b) of the definitions "excluded income" and "excluded revenue" in subsection 95(2.5) provides that the foreign affiliate's income or revenue, respectively, is excluded income or excluded revenue where it is derived directly or indirectly from a lease obligation of a person (other than the taxpayer or a person that does not deal at arm's length with the taxpayer) relating to the use of property outside Canada.

In the example provided in your correspondence, a controlled foreign affiliate (Forco) of a corporation resident in Canada (Canco) carries on an active business of leasing property throughout the world. As well, 95 percent of Forco's gross revenue ("good revenue") derived from indebtedness or lease obligations is derived from lease obligations of non-resident corporations, with which Forco deals at arm's length, relating to the use of property outside Canada and 5 percent ("bad revenue") is derived from lease obligations of persons resident in Canada relating to the use of property in Canada, For the purposes of this letter, we presume that all of those lease obligations of those non-resident corporations relate to the use of the leased property outside Canada in the course of a business carried on by those non-residents through a permanent establishment outside Canada.

You argue that, in the circumstances of that example, Canco should be entitled to rely on the de minimis rule in paragraph 95(2)(a.3), since more than 90% of Forco's gross revenue from indebtedness or lease obligations is derived from lease obligations of non-resident persons with whom Forco deals at arm's length relating to the use (in the course of carrying on a business outside Canada) of property outside Canada, You note that, based on the wording of paragraph (b) of the "excluded revenue" definition, it would appear that the de minimis rule would not apply, as all of Forco's "good revenue" would be "excluded revenue".

From a tax policy perspective, we agree with you that Forco should, in the circumstances of that example, be entitled to rely on the de minimis rule in paragraph 95(2)(a.3) of the Act. Accordingly, we are prepared to recommend that paragraph (b) of the definitions "excluded income" and "excluded revenue" in subsection 95(2.5) be amended so that income or revenue, respectively, of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer resident in Canada is described by paragraph (b) of those definitions only if it is income or revenue of the foreign affiliate that is derived directly or indirectly from a particular person resident in Canada (other than the taxpayer or a person that does not deal at arm's length with the taxpayer) relating to the use of property outside Canada in the course of a business carried on by the particular person through a permanent establishment outside Canada.

We will recommend that such an amendment to the Act be effective for taxation years of foreign affiliates of a taxpayer that begin after the announcement date of draft legislation incorporating that amendment. However, if a taxpayer so elects in respect of all its foreign affiliates, the taxpayer would be permitted to have that amendment apply with the same coming-into-force as provided for the excluded income and excluded revenue definitions in subsection 95(2.5) as enacted by statutory amendment in 2001.

Thank you for writing.

Yours sincerely,

Brian Ernewein, Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

Letter from Dept. of Finance, July 17, 2006:

Dear [xxx]:

I am writing in response to your letter dated April 13, 2006 concerning the definition "specified discontinuance" in proposed subsection 95(3.3) of the Income Tax Act (the "Act"), as contained in the foreign affiliate proposals that were announced on February 27, 2004.

In the example provided in your letter, a foreign affiliate (FA1) of a corporation resident in Canada (Canco) holds shares of another foreign affiliate (FA2) of Canco that are excluded property of FA1. FA1 disposes of those shares to another foreign affiliate (FA3) of Canco or to a Canadian subsidiary ("Cansub") of Canco, as the case may be, (the "internal purchaser"). You also indicate that, as part of a series of transactions that includes that internal disposition of FA2 shares by FA1, the shares of the internal purchaser are being disposed of by Canco to persons that are not specified purchasers in respect of Canco. You also mention that, at the end of that series, the internal purchaser will cease to be a specified purchaser in respect of Canco.

As you noted, proposed paragraph 95(2)(c.2) would, for surplus purposes, defer the recognition of FA1's gain realized on the disposition of the FA2 shares until, in accordance with proposed paragraph 95(2)(c.3), there is a triggering disposition (as defined in proposed subsection 95(3.3)) of those shares or until the internal purchaser ceases to be a specified purchaser in respect of Canco (otherwise than because of a "specified discontinuance" of the internal purchaser).

In your example, the internal purchaser will cease to be a specified purchaser in respect of Canco since, as part of a series of transactions or events that includes the disposition of the FA2 shares to the internal purchaser, the shares of the internal purchaser are to be sold to an external purchaser. Consequently, you are of the view that FA1's gain from the disposition of the FA2 shares to the internal purchaser should be recognized when the shares of the internal purchaser are sold. However, under paragraph (c) of the definition "specified discontinuance" in proposed subsection 95(3.3), there will be a specified discontinuance of the internal purchaser because the sale of the shares of the internal purchaser by Canco to the external purchaser is part of a series of transactions or events that includes the disposition of the shares of FA2 to the internal purchaser.

We agree with your conclusion that, in the example provided, there should not be a specified discontinuance of the internal purchaser since, at the end of the series of transactions or events in which the shares of FA2 and the internal purchaser are sold, the internal purchaser is no longer a specified purchaser of Canco (and the FA2 shares are no longer held within the group). We are, therefore, prepared to recommend that the test in paragraph (c) of the proposed definition "specified discontinuance" in subsection 95(3.3) be modified. The modified test would treat a disposition of participating interests (such as the shares of the internal purchaser in your example) in the current holder in respect of the corporation resident in Canada as a specified discontinuance of the current holder only if, after the disposition, any entity that is a specified purchaser in respect of the corporation resident in Canada holds any right or interest in respect of the specified shares (the FA2 shares in your example) or the participating interests (the shares of the internal purchaser in your example) or any property that tracks the value of the specified shares or the participating interests. If our recommendation is acted upon, the revisions to the definition "specified discontinuance" in proposed subsection 95(3.3) would have the same application date as the application date of that definition.

We note that similar issues arise with respect to paragraph (c) of the definitions of "specified discontinuance" in proposed subsections 95(3.4) and (3.5) and we would thus recommend a comparable change to paragraph (c) of those definitions.

Thank you for writing.

Yours sincerely,

Brian Ernewein, Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

"triggering disposition", of a specified share in respect of a particular corporation resident in Canada, means the first disposition, after the original disposition time, of the specified share to a person or partnership that is, immediately after that first disposition, not a specified purchaser in respect of the particular corporation resident in Canada, but does not include

(a) a disposition of the specified share in respect of the particular corporation resident in Canada that arises in the course of

(B) property that, immediately before the commencement of the transaction or event or of the series, was property (or property substituted for such property) of the disposed foreign affiliate that, immediately before that commencement, had a total fair market value that was greater than 50% of the total fair market value, immediately before that commencement, of all of the property (other than contributed property) of the disposed foreign affiliate;

Subsection 95(3.3) applies after December 20, 2002.

Letter from Dept. of Finance, May 11, 2005:

Dear [xxx]:

I am writing in response to your correspondence dated April 4, 2005 to Mr. Wallace Conway in which you express your concern with respect to the wording of the definition "triggering disposition" in proposed subsection 95(3.3) of the Income Tax Act. That proposed subsection is contained in the proposals announced by the Minister of Finance on February 27, 2004 in connection with foreign affiliates.

In the example provided in your correspondence, a foreign affiliate (FA1) of a corporation resident in Canada holds shares ("specified shares" within the meaning of proposed paragraph 95(2)(c.1) of the Act) of the capital stock of another foreign affiliate (FA2) of the corporation resident in Canada that are excluded property. FA1 disposes of those specified shares of FA2 to another foreign affiliate (FA3) of the corporation resident in Canada. As part of the same series of transactions that includes that first disposition (the internal disposition), those specified shares of FA2 are disposed of by FA3 to an arm's length party (the external disposition) that is not a "specified purchaser" in respect of the corporation resident in Canada.

As you note in your correspondence, the internal disposition of the specified shares (i.e., the disposition by FA1 to FA3) would be subject to the rules in proposed paragraphs 95(2)(c.2) and (c.3) which suspend, in certain circumstances, gains that, but for those paragraphs, would have otherwise been derived from the internal disposition of the specified shares. You indicate that the external disposition of the specified shares (i.e., the disposition by FA3 to the arm's length party) should be a "triggering disposition" in respect of the internal disposition. However, you are concerned that the current wording of paragraph (b) of the definition "triggering disposition" in proposed subsection 95(3.3) would not produce that result. That paragraph results in a particular disposition of a specified share not being a triggering disposition of the specified share if that particular disposition of the specified share is part of a series of transactions or events that includes the acquisition, by a specified purchaser in respect of the particular corporation resident in Canada, of the specified share. Since, in your example, the internal disposition by FA1 to FA3 of the specified shares and the external disposition by FA3 to the arm's length party of the specified shares are part of the same series of transactions or events, the external disposition would be disqualified from being a triggering disposition in respect of the internal disposition that would permit the release of the suspended gains. You submit that such a result would not be appropriate if, as in your example, at the end of that series of transactions or events, the arm's length party is the holder of the specified shares and is not a specified purchaser in respect of the corporation resident in Canada and, at that time, no entity that is a specified purchaser in respect of the corporation resident in Canada holds any right or interest in respect of the specified shares or any property the value of which tracks the value of the specified shares.

From a tax policy perspective, we agree that, in the circumstances described in your example, the external disposition of the specified shares by FA3 to the arm's length party should qualify as a triggering disposition and result in a release of the suspended gains in respect of the internal disposition of the specified shares. Accordingly, we are prepared to recommend that paragraph (b) of the definition "triggering disposition" contained in proposed subsection 95(3.3) of the Act be revised. Under our recommendation, the revised wording of that paragraph (which describes a non-triggering disposition) would include a requirement that, at the end of the series of transactions or events that includes the internal and external dispositions of the specified shares, a specified purchaser (in respect of the particular corporation resident in Canada referred to in that paragraph) holds the specified shares or, in general terms, some other right or interest in respect of the specified shares or any property the value of which tracks the value of the specified shares.

In your correspondence, you also note that similar concerns arise in connection with paragraph (b) of the definitions of "triggering disposition" in proposed subsections 95(3.4) and (3.5) of the Act in the February 2004 proposals. A recommendation will be made that those definitions be revised in the same fashion.

Yours sincerely,

Brian Ernewein, Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

- a property (which property is referred to for the purposes of paragraphs 95(2)(h.3) and (h.5) as a "designated replacement property") the fair market value of which is determined primarily by reference to property that is the specified property or properties from which the specified property primarily derived its fair market value at the original disposition time.

Subsection 95(3.5) applies after December 20, 2002.

Related Provisions: 95(2)(h.3) — Designated replacement property deemed to be specified property; 95(2)(h.4) — Where part of specified property disposed of; 95(2)(h.5) — Designated replacement property acquired by specified purchaser; 95(3.2) — Definitions; 95(3.3)"triggering disposition", 95(3.4)"triggering disposition" — Definitions for other purposes; 95(3.6) — Partnerships and trusts; 248(10) — Series of transactions or events.

(3.6) Partnerships and trusts — For the purposes of paragraphs (2)(c.1) to (c.5), (e.3) to (e.5), (f.3) to (f.9) and (h) to (h.5) and subsections (3.2) to (3.5), in determining if a non-resident corporation is a foreign affiliate of a particular corporation resident in Canada or of a particular taxpayer resident in Canada, as the case may be, in circumstances where, at any time, a person or partnership (referred to in this subsection as the "holder") is a member of a partnership, or has a beneficial interest in a trust (other than an exempt trust),

(a) the partnership or the trust, as the case may be, is deemed to be a non-resident corporation having capital stock of a single class divided into 100 issued shares;

(b) the holder is deemed to own at that time that proportion of the issued shares of that class that

(i) the fair market value, at that time, of the holder's partnership interest in the partnership or of the holder's beneficial interest in the trust, as the case may be,

is of

(ii) the fair market value, at that time, of all partnership interests in the partnership or of all beneficial interests in the trust; and

(c) for the purpose of paragraph (b), the fair market value, at any time, of the holder's beneficial interest in a trust (other than a non-discretionary trust within the meaning assigned by subsection 17(15)) is deemed to be the fair market value, at that time, of all beneficial interests in the trust.

Technical Notes: New subsection 95(3.6) provides rules to be used in determining if a non-resident corporation is a foreign affiliate of a particular corporation resident in Canada or of a particular taxpayer resident in Canada for the purposes of paragraphs 95(2)(c.1) to (c.5), (e.3) to (e.5), (f.3) to (f.9) and (h) to (h.5) and subsections 95(3.2) to (3.5) where a person or partnership is a member of a partnership or a beneficiary under a trust.

New subsection 95(3.6) provides that in determining if a non-resident corporation is a foreign affiliate of a particular corporation resident in Canada or of a particular taxpayer resident in Canada, as the case may be, in circumstances where, at any time, a person or partnership (which person or partnership is referred to here as the "holder") is a member of a partnership, or has a beneficial interest in a trust (other than an exempt trust),

- the partnership or trust, as the case may be, is deemed to be a non-resident corporation having capital stock of a single class divided into 100 issued shares,
- the holder is deemed to own at that time that proportion of the issued shares of that class that the fair market value of the holder's partnership interest in the partnership or of the holder's beneficial interest in the trust, as the case may be, is of the fair market value at that time of all partnership interests in the partnership or of all beneficial interests in the trust, as the case may be, and
- the fair market value, at any time, of the holder's beneficial interest in a trust (other than a non-discretionary trust within the meaning assigned by subsection 17(15)) is deemed to be the fair market value, at that time, of all beneficial interests in the trust.

Related Provisions: 95(3.2) — Definitions.

(3.7) Anti-avoidance — 150 beneficiaries — If it can be reasonably considered that one of the main reasons that an entity holds, at any time, a capital interest in a trust is to cause the trust to satisfy the condition in paragraph (b) of the definition "exempt trust" in subsection (3.2), the trust is deemed not to have satisfied at that time that condition.

Technical Notes: New subsection 95(3.7) provides that if it can be reasonably considered that one of the main reasons that an entity holds, at any time, a capital interest in a trust is to cause the trust to satisfy the condition in paragraph (b) of the definition "exempt trust" in subsection 95(3.2) [now in 95(1) — ed.], the trust is deemed not to have satisfied at that time that condition.

Subsection 95(3.7) applies after December 20, 2002.

(3.8) Computing exempt surplus — No amount is to be included in computing the exempt surplus of a foreign affiliate (other than a controlled foreign affiliate) of a particular corporation resident in Canada in respect of a gain of that foreign affiliate arising on a disposition, described in any of paragraphs (2)(d) and (e) and (e.3) to (e.5), of excluded property if it may reasonably be considered that one of the main reasons for the claiming of a relevant cost base, or for electing proceeds of disposition, in excess of the adjusted cost base of the excluded property disposed of was the creation of exempt surplus of that foreign affiliate in respect of the particular corporation resident in Canada (or in respect of a corporation resident in Canada with which the particular corporation resident in Canada does not deal at arm's length), having regard to, amongst other things, the following:

(a) the amount of any foreign income tax paid by that foreign affiliate in respect of the gain arising on the disposition;

(b) the amount of any distribution made, or dividend paid, on or after the disposition, to the particular corporation resident in Canada or a corporation resident in Canada with which the particular corporation resident in Canada does not deal at arm's length; and

(c) the amount of any election under section 93 made in respect of a disposition of a share of a foreign affiliate of the particular corporation resident in Canada or of a share of a foreign affiliate of a corporation resident in Canada with which the particular corporation resident in Canada does not deal at arm's length.

Technical Notes: New subsection 95(3.8) is an anti-avoidance rule to prevent the premature recognition of exempt surplus (the non-taxable portion of a capital gain) on an internal sale of excluded property to which any of proposed new paragraphs 95(2)(d) and (e) and (e.3) to (e.5) applies. Although capital gains on internal sales of excluded property, to which those paragraphs apply, create foreign accrual property income, where the foreign affiliate is not a controlled foreign affiliate of the particular corporation resident in Canada the particular corporation resident in Canada is not subjected to Canadian tax on that foreign accrual property income. Therefore, the particular corporation resident in Canada can be advantaged on an internal disposition of excluded property by claiming a relevant cost base, or electing proceeds of disposition, greater than the adjusted cost base of the property disposed of, in particular where the foreign jurisdiction does not tax capital gains. Where the foreign jurisdiction does tax capital gains, the particular corporation resident in Canada may wish to recognize gains because of the foreign taxes paid and the desire to create taxable surplus to match the related taxes, which would be appropriate where the amount of tax reflects Canadian tax rates on capital gains.

New subsection 95(3.8) provides that no amount may be added to the exempt surplus of a foreign affiliate of a particular corporation resident in Canada in respect of the gain arising on the internal disposition of excluded property if it is reasonable to conclude that one of the main reasons for claiming a relevant cost base, or electing proceeds of disposition, greater than the adjusted cost base of the property disposed of on that internal disposition was the creation of exempt surplus in respect of the particular corporation resident in Canada or in respect of a corporation resident in Canada with which the particular corporation resident in Canada does not deal at arm's length.

The factors to consider in making this determination include the following:

- the amount of foreign income tax paid,
- the amount of distribution made, or dividend paid, to the particular corporation resident in Canada or to a corporation resident in Canada with which the particular corporation resident in Canada does not deal at arm's length, and
- the amount of any election under section 93 made in respect of a disposition of a share of a foreign affiliate of the particular corporation resident in Canada or of a share of a foreign affiliate of a corporation resident in Canada with which the particular corporation resident in Canada does not deal at arm's length.

Subsection 95(3.8) applies after December 20, 2002.

Application: The February 27, 2004 draft legislation (Part 2 — foreign affiliates), subsec. 133(29), will add subsecs. 95(3.1) to (3.8), applicable as follows:

(i) subsec. (3.1), to taxation years, of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer, that begin after December 20, 2002. However, if a taxpayer so elects in writing and files the election with the Minister of National Revenue on or before the taxpayer's filing-due date for the taxpayer's taxation year that includes the day on which this Act is assented to, the subsec. applies to taxation years, of all foreign affiliates of the taxpayer, that begin after 1994;

(ii) subsecs. (3.2) to (3.7), after December 20, 2002; and

(iii) subsec. (3.8), to dispositions that occur after February 27, 2004.

Note: the definitions "eligible trust", "exempt trust", "specified fixed interest" and "specified purchaser", formerly defined in subsec. 95(3.2) above (and also in subsec. 95(3.5) in the case of "specified purchaser"), are now defined in subsec. 95(1).

(4) Definitions — In this section,

"direct equity percentage" at any time of any person in a corporation is the percentage determined by the following rules:

(a) for each class of the issued shares of the capital stock of the corporation, determine the proportion of 100 that the number of shares of that class owned by that person at that time is of the total number of issued shares of that class at that time, and

(b) select the proportion determined under paragraph (a) for that person in respect of the corporation that is not less than any other proportion so determined for that person in respect of the corporation at that time, and the proportion selected under paragraph (b), when expressed as a percentage, is that person's direct equity percentage in the corporation at that time;

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-392: Meaning of term "share".

"equity percentage" at any time of a person, in any particular corporation, is the total of

(a) the person's direct equity percentage at that time in the particular corporation, and

(b) all percentages each of which is the product obtained when the person's equity percentage at that time in any corporation is multiplied by that corporation's direct equity percentage at that time in the particular corporation except that for the purposes of the definition "participating percentage" in subsection (1), paragraph (b) shall be read as if the reference to "any corporation" were a reference to "any corporation other than a corporation resident in Canada";

Related Provisions: 94(1)(d) — Deemed ownership in trust deemed to be corporation for FAPI purposes; 149.1(1)"equity percentage" — Meaning of term for private foundation corporate-holding rules.

"relevant cost base" to a foreign affiliate of property at any time means the adjusted cost base to the affiliate of the property at that time or such greater amount as the taxpayer claims not exceeding the fair market value of the property at that time.

(4.1) Application of subsec. 87(8.1) — In this section, the expressions "foreign merger", "predecessor foreign corporation", "new foreign corporation" and "foreign parent corporation" have the meanings assigned by subsection 87(8.1).

(i) before February 25, 1998 and in a taxation year of the taxpayer for which the taxpayer's normal reassessment period, as defined in subsec. 152(3.1), has not ended before 1999, or

(ii) after 1994 and before February 25, 1998 and in a taxation year of the taxpayer in which the taxpayer was exempt from tax under s. 149, unless the taxpayer elects by notifying the Minister of National Revenue in writing, before January 1, 2000, that the amendment not apply to the taxpayer in respect of the merger or combination.

The subsec. formerly read:

(4.1) In this section, the expressions "foreign merger", "predecessor foreign corporation" and "new foreign corporation" have the meanings assigned by subsection 87(8.1).

(5) Income bonds or debentures issued by foreign affiliates — For the purposes of this subdivision, an income bond or income debenture issued by a corporation (other than a corporation resident in Canada) shall be deemed to be a share of the capital stock of the corporation unless any interest or other similar periodic amount paid by the corporation on or in respect of the bond or debenture was, under the laws of the country in which the corporation was resident, deductible in computing the amount for the year on which the corporation was liable to pay income or profits tax imposed by the government of that country.

Technical Notes: Subsections 95(5) to (7) contain special rules of application that apply for purposes of the foreign affiliate and controlled foreign affiliate regimes.

These subsections are amended so that they do not apply for purposes of the non-resident trust and foreign investment entity regimes in new sections 94 to 94.4.

(iii) each share of the capital stock of a corporation that is owned at that time by the taxpayer and each share of the capital stock of a corporation that is owned at that time by any person with whom the taxpayer does not deal at arm's length.

(B) by

(i) a person or partnership has, in that year, acquired or disposed of shares of the capital stock of the non-resident corporation or any other corporation and, because of that acquisition or disposition, the non-resident corporation became (or would have become, if paragraph 251(5)(b) did not apply to rights contained in the agreement under which the person acquired the shares), or ceased to be, a non-resident corporation that was related to the taxpayer or to the taxpayer and the foreign affiliate of the taxpayer, and

(ii) at the beginning, or at the end, of that year, the non-resident corporation was related to the taxpayer or to the taxpayer and the foreign affiliate of the taxpayer.

(b) if a taxpayer elects in writing and files the election with the Minister of National Revenue on or before the taxpayer's filing-due date for the taxpayer's taxation year that includes the day on which this Act is assented to, subsection 95(2.2) of the Act, as enacted by subsection (19), also applies to taxation years, of all its foreign affiliates, that begin after 1994 and end before 2000, as though subsection 95(2.2) of the Act, as enacted by subsection (19), read as follows:

(2.2) For the purpose of subsection (2), other than paragraph (2)(f),

(A) a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer in respect of which the taxpayer had a qualifying interest, or

(B) related to the taxpayer and to the particular affiliate, and

(ii) the time at which a non-resident corporation (other than the particular affiliate), or a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer (other than the particular affiliate), referred to in paragraph (2.2)(a) became, as determined without reference to subsection (2.2), a foreign affiliate, of another person resident in Canada, in respect of which the other person resident in Canada had a qualifying interest (or became, as determined without reference to subsection (2.2), related to the other person resident in Canada and to the particular affiliate), where

(A) the taxpayer is a corporation,

(B) the taxpayer did not exist at the beginning of the taxation year,

(C) the particular affiliate became a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer in the taxation year because of a disposition, in the taxation year, of shares of the capital stock of the particular affiliate to the taxpayer by the other person resident in Canada, and

Proposed Amendment — Global Section 95 Election

Dept. of Finance news release 2008-048, June 27, 2008: Government of Canada Eases Tax Compliance Burden for Internationally-Engaged Canadian Businesses

The Honourable Jim Flaherty, Minister of Finance, today proposed changes to the Income Tax Act for Canadian businesses with foreign affiliates and those that report earnings in a foreign currency.

"Our government is committed to creating a corporate tax system that is both fair and internationally competitive," said Minister Flaherty. "The proposals I am announcing today will improve the tax system and will assist Canadian businesses in complying with the tax law."

Foreign Affiliates

Bill C-28, the second Budget 2007 implementation bill, provided substantial tax relief for Canadian businesses, including the historic corporate income tax rate reductions announced in the 2007 Economic Statement. In addition, the bill, which received Royal Assent on December 14, 2007, implemented a number of amendments to the Income Tax Act relating to foreign affiliates.

Included in the bill were provisions which allow taxpayers to elect retroactive application of some of these foreign affiliate amendments. However, in response to concerns that the deadline for filing these elections is too tight — for example, a taxpayer with a December 31, 2007 year-end must file these elections by June 30, 2008 — the Government is proposing to extend the filing deadline for these elections by 18 months. These proposals are set out in more detail in the attached annex.

Annex

Foreign Affiliates

Bill C-28, which received Royal Assent on December 14, 2007, included a number of amendments to the Income Tax Act that implement various foreign affiliate proposals announced in Budget 2007 as well as related foreign affiliate proposals announced on February 27, 2004.

In this context, Bill C-28 contains a one-time election (commonly referred to as the "Global Election") which allows taxpayers to elect retroactive application of a block of foreign affiliate amendments. In addition to the Global Election, there are various other foreign affiliate amendments in Bill C-28 that allow for separate one-time elections. In the case of both of the Global Election and the separate elections, the elections apply to all foreign affiliates of the particular taxpayer.

As enacted, Bill C-28 requires that a taxpayer wishing to make the Global Election or a separate election must do so by filing the election with the Minister of National Revenue on or before the taxpayer's filing-due date for the taxpayer's taxation year that includes the day on which the bill received Royal Assent. Since corporate filing-due dates are generally six months after year-end, this means that a taxpayer with a December 31, 2007 year-end must file these elections by June 30, 2008.

The Government has received comments from stakeholders, in respect of both the Global Election and the separate elections, expressing concern with the current election deadline. To address these concerns, it is proposed that the filing deadline for both the Global Election and the separate elections be extended by 18 months.

[For the functional currency proposals see under 261(4) — ed.]

(47) If a taxpayer has made what would, but for this subsection, be a valid election under subsection (46) and the taxpayer has, on or before the taxpayer's filing-due date for the taxpayer's taxation year that includes the day that is the third anniversary of the day on which this Act is assented to, filed with the Minister of National Revenue a notice in writing to revoke the election, the election is deemed, otherwise than for the purpose of this subsection, never to have been made.

(48) Notwithstanding subsections 152(4) to (5) of the Act, any assessment of a taxpayer's tax, interest and penalties payable under the Act for any taxation year shall be made that is necessary to take an election referred to in any of subsections (35), (38), (40), (42) and (44) to (46), or a revocation referred to in subsection (47), into account.

Paragraph 96(1)(d) is amended by adding a new subparagraph (iii). The new subparagraph applies where partnership property includes a participating interest in a particular non-resident entity. Pursuant to that subparagraph, sections 94.1 to 94.4 are to apply to the partnership for the particular taxation year in respect of the participating interest

- where the taxpayer is resident in Canada and, at the end of the particular non-resident entity's taxation years that end in the particular taxation year of the partnership, the particular non-resident entity is not a controlled foreign affiliate of the partnership, as if the participating interest were not an exempt interest that is described by subparagraph (a)(i) of the definition "exempt interest" in subsection 94.1(1),

  - that ends in a taxation year of the particular affiliate that begins after 2006,
  - that begins immediately after the preceding taxation year of the particular non-resident entity, at the end of which the particular non-resident entity was not a foreign investment entity or at the end of which the partnership property did not include a participating interest in the particular non-resident entity (other than an exempt interest), and

(1.01) Income allocation to former member — If, at any time in a fiscal period of a partnership, a taxpayer ceases to be a member of the partnership

(a) for the purposes of subsection (1) and sections 34.1, 34.2, 101, 103 and 249.1, and notwithstanding paragraph 98.1(1)(d), the taxpayer is deemed to be a member of the partnership at the end of the fiscal period; and

(b) for the purposes of the application of paragraph (2.1)(b) and subparagraphs 53(1)(e)(i) and (viii) and (2)(c)(i) to the taxpayer, the fiscal period of the partnership is deemed to end

(i) immediately before the time at which the taxpayer is deemed by subsection 70(5) to have disposed of the interest in the partnership, where the taxpayer ceased to be a member of the partnership because of the taxpayer's death, and

(ii) immediately before the time that is immediately before the time that the taxpayer ceased to be a member of the partnership, in any other case.

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 91(1), will add subsec. 96(1.01), applicable in respect of a taxpayer, in the case where the taxpayer ceases to be a member of a partnership because of the taxpayer's death, to 2003 et seq.; and in any other case, to 1995 et seq.

Technical Notes: New subsection 96(1.01) generally applies to the 1995 and subsequent taxation years. Paragraph 96(1.01)(a) deems a taxpayer who is a former member of a partnership to be a member at the end of the fiscal period in which the taxpayer ceased to be a member, for the purpose of allocating partnership income or loss for that period. This new provision clarifies that, although a taxpayer may have ceased to be a member of a partnership before the end of the partnership's fiscal period, an amount of the income or loss of the partnership is allocable to the taxpayer under subsection 96(1). The amount so allocated is relevant to certain calculations relating to partnership income or loss, including the calculation of the adjusted cost base of the former member of the partnership immediately before the taxpayer ceased to be member.

New subsection 96(1.01) applies notwithstanding the rule in paragraph 98.1(1)(d) that would otherwise deem a former partnership member with a residual interest not to be a member of the partnership for the purposes of certain provisions of the Act.

New paragraph 96(1.01)(a) does not require that partnership income or loss be calculated immediately after a member leaves the partnership. The income or loss allocation, including that of the former member, continues to be calculated after the end of the partnership's fiscal period. In some circumstances the fiscal period of a partnership may end in a taxation year of the former member that is after the taxation year in which the partnership interest was disposed of. It is, therefore, possible that a member will not be required to report a partnership income allocation until the taxation year following that in which a capital gain or loss on the disposition of the partnership interest is required to be reported.

New paragraph 96(1.01)(b) clarifies that an income or loss allocation for the "stub period" during which a taxpayer was a member is included in the calculation of the adjusted cost base of the partnership interest at the time the former member disposes of the interest or a residual interest. The income or loss allocation will affect the calculation of a capital loss under paragraph 98.1(1)(c) or subsection 100(2). Subsection 96(1.01) may ameliorate certain situations where, under the existing provisions of the Act, a former member may have been required to report a capital gain in the year that the person left the partnership, only to be offset by a capital loss in a subsequent year.

Example

Ms. Brown was a partner in XYZ Partnership until June 30. The fiscal period of the partnership ends December 31. The adjusted cost base of her partnership interest on January 1 was Nil. From January to June 30 she withdrew $16,000 in capital.

Just before the end of the partnership's fiscal period, all the partners agree that Ms. Brown's share of income for the period was $20,000. On December 30 she was paid $4,000 in satisfaction of her residual interest.

A summary of Ms. Brown's adjusted cost base is as follows:

		Adjusted Cost Base
January 1, Year 1:		Nil
January 31, Drawings	$<16,000>	<16,000>
Retirement of Ms. Brown, June 30
December 30
— Share of income for 6 months	20,000	4,000
— Payout of rights to equity	4,000	Nil
December 31 — Fiscal period ends

In the result, Ms. Brown is allocated $20,000 income under subsection 96(1.01). The adjusted cost base of her interest immediately before she retired on June 30 was $4,000 (i.e., $20,000 less $16,000). She is deemed by paragraph 98.1(1)(b) to have disposed of her residual interest on December 31 for proceeds of disposition of $4,000, such that she has no capital gain or loss on the disposition.

Subparagraph 53(1)(e)(v) requires that "rights or things" (referred to in subsection 70(2)) in respect of the partnership interest of a deceased partner be included in the adjusted cost base of the partnership interest of the deceased. This provision is no longer relevant to income of the partnership to which a partner is entitled at the time of death, since new subsection 96(1.01) applies to the allocation of partnership income for the fiscal period in which the taxpayer dies. However, subparagraph 53(1)(e)(v) continues to apply in respect of other rights or things, if any, to which the deceased taxpayer is entitled through the partnership that are required to be included in the income of the deceased taxpayer under subsection 70(2).

(ii) a partnership that at any time has ceased to exist or would, but for subsection 98(1), have ceased to exist, and either have agreed to make such an allocation or to the taxpayer's spouse, common-law partner, estate or heirs or to any person referred to in subsection (1.3), the taxpayer, spouse, common-law partner, estate, heirs or person, as the case may be, shall be deemed to be a member of the partnership; and

(b) all amounts each of which is an amount equal to the share of the income or loss referred to in this subsection allocated to a taxpayer from a partnership in respect of a particular fiscal period of the partnership shall, notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, be included in computing the taxpayer's income for the taxation year in which that fiscal period of the partnership ends.

Proposed Amendment — Election that 96(1.7) not apply for 2000

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 91(5), will enact the transitional rule below for subsec. 96(1.7):

91. (5) If a taxpayer, who is a member of a partnership at the end of a particular fiscal period, of the partnership, that ends in the taxpayer's 2000 taxation year, so elects in writing and files the election with the Minister of National Revenue on or before the taxpayer's filing-due date for the taxpayer's taxation year in which this Act [Bill C-10] is assented to,

(a) subsection 96(1.7) of the Act does not apply to the taxpayer's 2000 taxation year;

(b) the taxpayer is deemed to have a capital gain, a capital loss or a business investment loss in respect of the partnership for the particular fiscal period equal to the amount of the taxable capital gain, the allowable capital loss or the allowable business investment loss in respect of the partnership for the particular fiscal period, as the case may be, multiplied by the reciprocal of the fraction in paragraph 38(a) of the Act that applies to the partnership for the particular fiscal period;

(c) the amount of a capital gain, a capital loss or a business investment loss determined under paragraph (b) is deemed to be a capital gain, a capital loss or a business investment loss, as the case may be, of the taxpayer from a disposition of a capital property on the day that the particular fiscal period ends; and

(d) except as provided by this subsection, no amount shall be included in computing the taxpayer's taxable capital gains, allowable capital losses and allowable business investment losses in respect of the taxable capital gains, allowable capital losses and allowable business investment losses of the partnership for the particular fiscal period.

Technical Notes: The calculation of the capital gains inclusion rate of a taxpayer for the 2000 taxation year takes into account the net capital gains or losses of the taxpayer for the year 2000 other than those allocated by a partnership. It is the inclusion rate of the taxpayer, determined without reference to the allocated partnership gains, that is applied to the taxpayer's share of the partnership gains in determining the taxable capital gains of the taxpayer derived from the partnership capital gains. As a result, taxpayers with different inclusion rates report different amounts of taxable capital gains in respect of capital gains allocated to the taxpayer by a partnership.

Subclause 91(5) of the Income Tax Amendment Act, 2006 introduces a special transitional rule under which members of a partnership may elect to treat capital gains and losses allocated to them by a partnership as their own capital gains and losses for the purpose of calculating the taxpayer's capital gains inclusion rate for the year 2000. The gains and losses will be considered to have been realized by the taxpayer on the day on which the fiscal period of the partnership ends.

If a taxpayer so elects, subsection 96(1.7) will not apply. The taxpayer will be deemed to have realized (on the day on which the fiscal period of the partnership ends in the taxpayer's 2000 taxation year) a capital gain, a capital loss or a business investment loss in respect of the partnership equal to the amount of the taxable capital gain, the allowable capital loss or the allowable business investment loss, as the case may be, of the partnership allocated to the taxpayer, multiplied by the reciprocal of the fraction in paragraph 38(a) that applied to the partnership for the particular fiscal period. Where the inclusion rate for the partnership cannot be determined, the rules in subsection 96(1.7) apply to determine the inclusion rate of the partnership. This capital gain, capital loss or business investment loss is deemed to be a capital gain, capital loss or business investment loss, as the case may be, of the taxpayer from a disposition of a capital property on the day that the particular fiscal period ends.

Interpretation Bulletins: See list at end of s. 96.

(1.71) Application — Where the fraction referred to in the description of C in subsection (1.7) cannot be determined by a taxpayer in respect of a fiscal period of a partnership that ended before February 28, 2000, or includes February 28, 2000 or October 17, 2000, for the purposes of subsection (1.7), the fraction is deemed to be

(a) where the fiscal period ended before or began before February 28, 2000, 3/4;

(b) where the fiscal period began after February 27, 2000 and before October 18, 2000, 2/3; and

(c) in any other case, 1/2.

History: Subsec. 96(1.71) added by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 74(4), applicable to fiscal periods that begin after 2000.

(1.8) Loan of property — For the purposes of subsection 56(4.1) and sections 74.1 and 74.3, where an individual has transferred or lent property, either directly or indirectly, by means of a trust or by any other means whatever, to a person and the property or property substituted therefor is an interest in a partnership, the person's share of the amount of any income or loss of the partnership for a fiscal period in which the person was a specified member of the partnership shall be deemed to be income or loss, as the case may be, from the property or substituted property.

Related Provisions: 248(5) — Substituted property.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-511R: Interspousal and certain other transfers and loans of property. See also at end of s. 96.

Proposed Addition — 96(1.9)

(1.9) Application of ss. 94.1 to 94.4 — If an exempt taxpayer (as defined in subsection 94.1(1)) for a taxation year is a member of a partnership at any time in the year, in applying paragraphs (1)(f) and (g) and 53(1)(e) and (2)(c) to the taxpayer for a fiscal period of the partnership that ends in the year this Act is to be read without reference to sections 94.1 to 94.4.

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 1 — NRTs and FIEs), subsec. 20(2), will add subsec. 96(1.9), applicable to fiscal periods that begin after 2006, except that it also applies to a fiscal period of a partnership that begins before 2007 if ss. 94.1 to 94.4 apply to that fiscal period of the partnership.

Technical Notes: New subsection 96(1.9) is relevant where an "exempt taxpayer" (in general, an individual who has been resident in Canada for fewer than 60 months or certain persons exempted by subsection 149(1) from tax on their taxable incomes) is a member of a partnership and the partnership invests in a foreign investment entity. In these circumstances, the exempt taxpayer's share of the partnership's income or loss is computed without regard to sections 94.1 to 94.4. For further details on the application of section 94.2 to partnerships, see the commentary on new subsections 94.2(6) to (8).

(2) Construction — The provisions of this subdivision shall be read and construed as if each of the assumptions in paragraphs (1)(a) to (g) were made.

(2.1) Limited partnership losses [at-risk rule] — Notwithstanding subsection (1), where a taxpayer is, at any time in a taxation year, a limited partner of a partnership, the amount, if any, by which

(a) the total of all amounts each of which is the taxpayer's share of the amount of any loss of the partnership, determined in accordance with subsection (1), for a fiscal period of the partnership ending in the taxation year from a business (other than a farming business) or from property

(b) the amount, if any, by which

(i) the taxpayer's at-risk amount in respect of the partnership at the end of the fiscal period

exceeds the total of

(ii) the amount required by subsection 127(8) in respect of the partnership to be added in computing the investment tax credit of the taxpayer for the taxation year,

(iii) the taxpayer's share of any losses of the partnership for the fiscal period from a farming business, and

(iv) the taxpayer's share of

(A) the foreign resource pool expenses, if any, incurred by the partnership in the fiscal period,

(B) the Canadian exploration expense, if any, incurred by the partnership in the fiscal period,

(C) the Canadian development expense, if any, incurred by the partnership in the fiscal period, and

(D) the Canadian oil and gas property expense, if any, incurred by the partnership in the fiscal period, shall

(c) not be deducted in computing the taxpayer's income for the year,

(d) not be included in computing the taxpayer's non-capital loss for the year, and

(e) be deemed to be the taxpayer's limited partnership loss in respect of the partnership for the year.

(2.3) Idem — For the purposes of subsection (2.2), where a taxpayer has acquired the taxpayer's partnership interest at any time from a transferor other than the partnership, the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer of that interest shall be computed as if the cost to the taxpayer of the interest were the lesser of

(a) the taxpayer's cost otherwise determined, and

(b) the greater of

(i) the adjusted cost base of that interest to the transferor immediately before that time, and

(ii) nil,

and where the adjusted cost base of the transferor cannot be determined, it shall be deemed to be equal to the total of the amounts determined in respect of the taxpayer under paragraphs (2.2)(c) and (d) immediately after that time.

(2.4) Limited partner — For the purposes of this section and sections 111 and 127, a taxpayer who is a member of a partnership at a particular time is a limited partner of the partnership at that time if the member's partnership interest is not an exempt interest (within the meaning assigned by subsection (2.5)) at that time and if, at that time or within 3 years after that time,

(a) by operation of any law governing the partnership arrangement, the liability of the member as a member of the partnership is limited (except by operation of a provision of a statute of Canada or a province that limits the member's liability only for debts, obligations and liabilities of the partnership, or any member of the partnership, arising from negligent acts or omissions or misconduct that another member of the partnership or an employee, agent or representative of the partnership commits in the course of the partnership business while the partnership is a limited liability partnership);

(a) by operation of any law governing the partnership arrangement, the liability of the member as a member of the partnership is limited (except by operation of a provision of a statute of Canada or a province that limits the member's liability only for debts, obligations and liabilities of the partnership, or any member of the partnership, arising from negligent acts or omissions, from misconduct or from fault of another member of the partnership or an employee, an agent or a representative of the partnership in the course of the partnership business while the partnership is a limited liability partnership);

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 91(2), will amend para. 96(2.4)(a) to read as above, applicable after June 20, 2001.

Technical Notes: Subsection 96(2.4) provides an extended definition of "limited partner" for the purpose of applying the limited partnership at-risk rules in subsection 96(2.2).

Paragraph 96(2.4)(a) provides that a member of a partnership is a "limited partner" if, by operation of law governing the partnership agreement, the liability of the member as a member is limited. However, paragraph 96(2.4)(a) does not apply in cases where a member's liability is limited by operation of a statutory provision of Canada or of a province that limits the member's liability only for the debts, obligations and liabilities of a limited liability partnership (or of any member of the partnership) arising from negligent acts or omissions of another member of the partnership (or of an employee, agent or representative of the partnership) in the course of the partnership business and while the partnership is a limited liability partnership.

The Province of Quebec has amended its legislation concerning partnerships to allow partners to carry on their activities within a limited liability partnership. That legislation refers to the civil law concept of "fault/fautes". The English version of paragraph 96(2.4)(a) does not refer to the civil law concept of "fault" and is amended to do so, effective after June 20, 2001.

Proposed Amendment — 96(2.4)(a) — ACB adjustment

Letter from Dept. of Finance, July 11, 2003: See under 40(3.1).

(b) the member or a person not dealing at arm's length with the member is entitled, either immediately or in the future and either absolutely or contingently, to receive an amount or to obtain a benefit that would be described in paragraph (2.2)(d) if that paragraph were read without reference to subparagraphs (ii) and (vi);

(c) one of the reasons for the existence of the member who owns the interest

(i) can reasonably be considered to be to limit the liability of any person with respect to that interest, and

(ii) cannot reasonably be considered to be to permit any person who has an interest in the member to carry on that person's business (other than an investment business) in the most effective manner; or

(d) there is an agreement or other arrangement for the disposition of an interest in the partnership and one of the main reasons for the agreement or arrangement can reasonably be considered to be to attempt to avoid the application of this subsection to the member.

(a) by operation of any law which governs the partnership arrangement, the liability of the taxpayer in the taxpayer's capacity as a member of the partnership, is limited;

(b) the taxpayer or a person with whom the taxpayer does not deal at arm's length is entitled to receive an amount or obtain a benefit that would be described in paragraph (2.2)(d) if it were read without reference to subparagraphs (2.2)(d)(ii) and (vi);

(c) one of the reasons for the existence of the taxpayer who owns the interest

(i) may reasonably be considered to be to limit the liability of any other person with respect to that interest, and

(ii) may not reasonably be considered to be to permit any person who has an interest in the taxpayer to carry on that person's business (other than an investment business) in the most effective manner; or

(d) there is an agreement or other arrangement for the disposition of an interest in the partnership and one of the main reasons for the agreement or arrangement may reasonably be considered to be to attempt to avoid the application of this subsection to the taxpayer.

(a) the amount was used by the partnership to make an expenditure required to be made pursuant to the terms of a written agreement entered into by it before February 26, 1986, or to repay a loan, debt or contribution of capital that had been received or incurred in respect of any such expenditure,

(b) the amount was raised pursuant to the terms of a prospectus, preliminary prospectus or registration statement filed before February 26, 1986 with a public authority in Canada pursuant to and in accordance with the securities legislation of Canada or of any province, and, where required by law, accepted for filing by that public authority, or

(c) the amount was used for the activity that was carried on by the partnership on February 25, 1986 but was not used for a significant expansion of the activity

(d) a partnership in respect of which paragraph (b) applies shall be considered to have been actively carrying on a business on a regular and a continuous basis immediately before February 26, 1986 and continuously thereafter until the earlier of the closing date, if any, stipulated in the document referred to that paragraph and January 1, 1987, and

(e) an expenditure shall not be considered to have been required to be made pursuant to the terms of an agreement where the obligation to make the expenditure is conditional in any way on the consequences under this Act relating to the expenditure and the condition has not been satisfied or waived before June 12, 1986.

However, the amended subsec. is before December 21, 2002, to be read without reference to ", (4.2)" and "(1.02)"; and before 2007 (or, where ss. 94.1 to 94.4 apply to a fiscal period of the partnership that begins before 2007, before the first day of the first fiscal period of the partnership to which ss. 94.1 to 94.4 apply), to be read without reference to "sections 94.1 to 94.3, paragraph 95(2)(g.3)".

Technical Notes: Subsection 96(3) provides rules that apply if a member of a partnership makes an election under certain provisions of the Act for a purpose that is relevant to the computation of the member's income from the partnership. In such a case, the election will be valid only if it is made on behalf of all the members of the partnership and the member had authority to act for the partnership.

Subsection 96(3) is amended, generally for taxation years that end after February 27, 2000, to apply for the purposes of an election under subsections 14(1.01) and (1.02) in respect of the disposition of an eligible capital property.

Subsection 96(3) is also amended so that

- after 2004, it applies for the purposes of elections under new sections 94.1 to 94.3 and paragraph 95(2)(g.3), and
- after December 20, 2002, it applies for the purposes of elections under subsection 13(4.2).

(a) the agreement, designation or election is not valid unless

(i) it was made or executed on behalf of the taxpayer and each other person who was a member of the partnership during the fiscal period, and

(ii) the taxpayer had authority to act for the partnership;

(b) unless the agreement, designation or election is invalid because of paragraph (a), each other person who was a member of the partnership during the fiscal period shall be deemed to have made or executed the agreement, designation or election; and

(c) notwithstanding paragraph (a), any agreement, designation or election deemed by paragraph (b) to have been made or executed by any person shall be deemed to be a valid agreement, designation or election made or executed by that person.

The opening words of subsec. 96(3) amended by 1994, c. 8, s. 11, applicable to fiscal periods ending after December 2, 1992. [However, 1994, c. 8 unintentionally deleted the reference to 15.2. (5.1) Special cases — Where, in the opinion of the Minister, the circumstances of a case are such that it would be just and equitable

(a) to permit an election under subsection 97(2) or 98(3) to be made after the day that is 3 years after the day on or before which the election was required by subsection (4) to be made, or

(c) the election or amended election is made in prescribed form, and

(d) an estimate of the penalty in respect of the election or amended election is paid by the taxpayer referred to in subsection 97(2) or by the persons referred to in subsection 98(3), as the case may be, when the election or amended election is made, and where this subsection applies to the amendment of an election, that election shall be deemed not to have been effective.

(i) ¼ of 1% of the amount by which the fair market value of the property disposed of by the taxpayer referred to therein at the time of disposition exceeds the amount agreed on by the taxpayer and the members of the partnership in the election or amended election, for each month or part of a month during the period commencing with the day on or before which the election is required by subsection (4) to be made and ending on the day the election or amended election is made, and

(ii) an amount, not exceeding $8,000, equal to the product obtained by multiplying $100 by the number of months each of which is a month all or part of which is during the period referred to in subparagraph (i); and

(b) where the election is made under subsection 98(3), an amount equal to the lesser of

(i) ¼ of 1% of the amount by which

(A) the total of all amounts of money and the fair market value of partnership property received by the persons referred to therein as consideration for their interests in the partnership at the time that the partnership ceased to exist

(7) Unpaid balance of penalty — The Minister shall, with all due dispatch, examine each election and amended election referred to in paragraph (5)(a) or (5.1)(c), assess the penalty payable and send a notice of assessment to the taxpayer or persons, as the case may be, and the taxpayer or persons, as the case may be, shall pay forthwith to the Receiver General the amount, if any, by which the penalty so assessed exceeds the total of all amounts previously paid on account of that penalty.

(8) Foreign partnerships — For the purposes of this Act, where at a particular time a person resident in Canada becomes a member of a partnership, or a person who is a member of a partnership becomes resident in Canada, and immediately before the particular time no member of the partnership is resident in Canada, the following rules apply for the purpose of computing the partnership's income for fiscal periods ending after the particular time:

(a) where, at or before the particular time, the partnership held depreciable property of a prescribed class (other than taxable Canadian property),

(i) no amount shall be included in determining the amounts for any of A, C, D and F to I in the definition "undepreciated capital cost" in subsection 13(21) in respect of the acquisition or disposition before the particular time of the property, and

(ii) where the property is the partnership's property at the particular time, the property shall be deemed to have been acquired, immediately after the particular time, by the partnership at a capital cost equal to the lesser of its fair market value and its capital cost to the partnership otherwise determined;

(b) in the case of the partnership's property that is inventory (other than inventory of a business carried on in Canada) or non-depreciable capital property (other than taxable Canadian property) of the partnership at the particular time, its cost to the partnership shall be deemed to be, immediately after the particular time, equal to the lesser of its fair market value and its cost to the partnership otherwise determined;

(c) any loss in respect of the disposition of a property (other than inventory of a business carried on in Canada or taxable Canadian property) by the partnership before the particular time shall be deemed to be nil; and

(d) where ⅔ of the cumulative eligible capital in respect of a business carried on at the particular time outside Canada by the partnership exceeds the total of the fair market value of each eligible capital property in respect of the business at that time, the partnership shall be deemed to have, immediately after that time, disposed of an eligible capital property in respect of the business for proceeds equal to the excess and to have received those proceeds.

Related Provisions: 96(9) — Anti-avoidance.

History: Subsec. 96(8) added by 1994, c. 21, s. 44, applicable to a particular partnership where a person or partnership becomes a member of the particular partnership after December 21, 1992, or where a member of the particular partnership becomes resident in Canada after August 30, 1993, except that before May 1994, the subsec. shall be read without reference to para. (d).

(9) Idem — For the purpose of applying subsection (8), where it can reasonably be considered that one of the main reasons that there is a member of the partnership who is resident in Canada is to avoid the application of that subsection, the member shall be deemed not to be resident in Canada.

Proposed Amendment — 96(9)

(9) Application of foreign partnership rule — For the purposes of applying subsection (8) and this subsection,

(a) where it can reasonably be considered that one of the main reasons that a member of a partnership is resident in Canada is to avoid the application of subsection (8), the member is deemed not to be resident in Canada; and

(b) where at any time a particular partnership is a member of another partnership,

(i) each person or partnership that is, at that time, a member of the particular partnership is deemed to be a member of the other partnership at that time,

(ii) each person or partnership that becomes a member of the particular partnership at that time is deemed to become a member of the other partnership at that time, and

(iii) each person or partnership that ceases to be a member of the particular partnership at that time is deemed to cease to be a member of the other partnership at that time.

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 1 — NRTs and FIEs), subsec. 20(4), will amend subsec. 96(9) to read as above, applicable to fiscal periods that begin after June 22, 2000.

Technical Notes: Subsection 96(8) provides rules that apply where, at a particular time, a Canadian resident becomes a member of a partnership, or a person who is a member of such a partnership becomes a resident of Canada. Where, immediately before the particular time no member of the partnership was resident in Canada, these rules apply in computing the income of the partnership for fiscal periods ending after the particular time. In general terms, the rules in subsection 96(8) are designed to prevent losses accrued while a partnership had no Canadian resident partners from being used to reduce Canadian income tax liabilities.

Subsection 96(9) provides that, where one of the main reasons that there is a member of the partnership who is resident in Canada is to avoid the application of subsection 96(8), that member will, for the purpose of applying subsection 96(8), be considered not to be resident in Canada.

Subsection 96(9) is amended to provide an explicit look-through rule for the purposes of subsection 96(8) so that members of partnerships may be identified through one or more tiers of partnerships that are members of other partnerships. Amended subsection 96(9) is consistent with new subsection 94.2(8).

Related Provisions: 94.2(8) — Parallel rule for foreign investment entities.

History: Subsec. 96(9) added by 1994, c. 21, s. 44, applicable to a particular partnership where a person or partnership becomes a member of the particular partnership after December 21, 1992, or where a member of the particular partnership becomes resident in Canada after August 30, 1993.

Proposed Amendment — 97(2) opening words

(2) Rules where election by partners — Notwithstanding any other provision of this Act other than subsection 13(21.2), where a taxpayer at any time in a taxation year disposes of any property (other than a specified participating interest) that is a capital property, Canadian resource property, foreign resource property, eligible capital property or inventory of the taxpayer to a partnership that immediately after that time is a Canadian partnership of which the taxpayer is a member, if the taxpayer and all the other members of the partnership jointly so elect in prescribed form within the time referred to in subsection 96(4),

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 1 — NRTs and FIEs), s. 21, will amend the opening words of subsec. 97(2) to read as above, applicable to dispositions that occur in taxation years that begin after 2006, except that that subsection also applies to dispositions of a taxpayer that occur in a taxation year of the taxpayer that begins before 2007 if ss. 94.1 to 94.4 apply to that taxation year of the taxpayer.

Technical Notes: Subsection 97(2) provides rules that allow a person to transfer certain types of property on a tax-deferred "rollover" basis to a partnership.

Subsection 97(2) is amended so that it does not apply to a transfer of property that is a specified participating interest. The concept of a specified participating interest is generally relevant in the context of the foreign investment entity rules in sections 94.1 to 94.4. For more information on the definition "specified participating interest" in subsection 248(1), see the commentary on that definition.

(1) Fiscal period of terminated partnership — Subject to subsection (2), if, at any particular time in a fiscal period of a partnership, the partnership would, if this Act were read without reference to subsection 98(1), have ceased to exist, the fiscal period is deemed to have ended immediately before the time that is immediately before that particular time.

Technical Notes: Subsection 99(1) provides that, generally, a fiscal period of a partnership is considered to end immediately before the particular time that the partnership ceases to exist. plus

(b) the whole of the remaining portion of that capital gain.

(2) Gain from disposition of interest in partnership — In computing a taxpayer's gain for a taxation year from the disposition of an interest in a partnership, there shall be included, in addition to the amount thereof determined under subsection 40(1), the amount, if any, by which

(a) the total of all amounts required by subsection 53(2) to be deducted in computing the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer, immediately before the disposition, of the interest in the partnership,

exceeds

(b) the total of

(i) the cost to the taxpayer of the interest in the partnership determined for the purpose of computing the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer of that interest at that time, and

(ii) all amounts required by subsection 53(1) to be added to the cost to the taxpayer of that interest in computing the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer of that interest at that time.

(a) the taxpayer shall be deemed to have acquired a right to receive partnership property and not to have acquired an interest in a partnership;

(b) the taxpayer shall be deemed to have acquired the right referred to in paragraph (a) at a cost equal to the amount determined to be the proceeds of disposition of the interest in the partnership to the deceased individual by virtue of paragraph 70(5)(a) or (6)(d), as the case may be; and

(c) section 43 is not applicable to the right.

(4) Loss re interest in partnership — Notwithstanding paragraph 39(1)(b), the capital loss of a taxpayer from the disposition at any time of an interest in a partnership is deemed to be the amount of the loss otherwise determined minus the total of all amounts each of which is the amount by which the taxpayer's share of the partnership's loss, in respect of a share of the capital stock of a corporation that was property of a particular partnership at that time, would have been reduced under subsection 112(3.1) if the fiscal period of every partnership that includes that time had ended immediately before that time and the particular partnership had disposed of the share immediately before the end of that fiscal period for proceeds equal to its fair market value at that time.

Proposed Addition — 100(5)

(5) Replacement of partnership capital — A taxpayer who pays an amount at any time in a taxation year is deemed to have a capital loss from a disposition of property for the year if

(a) the taxpayer disposed of an interest in a partnership before that time or, because of subsection (3), acquired before that time a right to receive property of a partnership;

(b) that time is after the disposition or acquisition, as the case may be;

(c) the amount would have been described in subparagraph 53(1)(e)(iv) had the taxpayer been a member of the partnership at that time; and

(d) the amount is paid pursuant to a legal obligation of the taxpayer to pay the amount.

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), s. 93, will add subsec. 100(5), applicable to 1995 et seq.

Technical Notes: Section 100 contains rules relevant to the calculation of capital gains and losses in respect of an interest in a partnership. There may be circumstances under which a former member of a partnership or an heir of a deceased member is required to pay an amount to the partnership to cover a deficit in the former member's equity account. Such a situation could arise, for instance, where the partnership has a net loss for the partnership's fiscal period in which the taxpayer ceased to be a member. The former member may have been deemed to have realized a capital gain under subsection 100(2) upon disposition of the partnership interest, if the former member had at that time a "negative" adjusted cost base under section 54 (if such a negative balance were allowed under that section).

New subsection 100(5), which generally applies to the 1995 and subsequent taxation years, deems a taxpayer to have a capital loss from the payment by the taxpayer of an amount after the time of disposition of the partnership interest, if that amount would have been a capital contribution to the partnership if the taxpayer had still been a member at the time of the payment. The loss is available to the former member or to an heir who has been deemed by subsection 100(3) to have acquired a right to acquire partnership property.

Example

Mr. Green was a partner in XYZ Partnership until June 30. The fiscal period end of the partnership was December 31. The adjusted cost base of his partnership interest on January 1 was Nil. From January to June 30 he withdrew $16,000 in capital.

Shortly after the fiscal period end, all the partners agree that Mr. Green's share of the partnership loss for the period was $20,000. During the following year he paid $36,000 owing by him to the partnership in satisfaction of his obligation.

A summary of Mr. Green's adjusted cost base is as follows:

January 1, Year 1		Nil
January 31, Drawings	$<16,000>	<16,000>
Retirement of Mr. Green, June 30
December 31, Year 1,
Share of loss for 6 months	<20,000>	<36,000>
March 31 — Repayment of partnership capital	36,000	Nil

Mr. Green is entitled to claim a partnership loss of $20,000 for the taxation year in which he retired ("Year 1"). He had a $36,000 "negative" adjusted cost base for his partnership interest as at the time that he left the partnership, giving rise to a deemed capital gain under subsection 100(2) for Year 1. However, he will be allowed a $36,000 capital loss under subsection 100(5) for the taxation year in which he repaid the deficit.

101. Disposition of farmland by partnership — Where a taxpayer was a member of a partnership at the end of a taxation year of the partnership in which the partnership disposed of land used in a farming business of the partnership, there may be deducted in computing the taxpayer's income for the taxpayer's taxation year in which the taxation year of the partnership ended, 1/2 of the total of all amounts each of which is an amount in respect of that taxation year of the taxpayer or any preceding taxation year of the taxpayer ending after 1971, equal to the taxpayer's loss, if any, for the year from the farming business, to the extent that the loss

(a) was, by virtue of section 31, not deductible in computing the taxpayer's income for the year;

(b) was not deducted for the purpose of computing the taxpayer's taxable income for the taxpayer's taxation year in which the partnership's taxation year in which the land was disposed of ended, or for any preceding taxation year of the taxpayer;

(c) did not exceed that proportion of the total of

(ii) interest paid by the partnership in its taxation year ending in the year or payable by it in respect of that taxation year, pursuant to a legal obligation to pay interest on borrowed money used to acquire the property or on any amount as consideration payable for the property,

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 94(1), will amend the opening words of subsec. 104(1.1) to read as above, applicable to 1998 et seq.

Technical Notes: Subsection 104(1.1) applies for the purpose of identifying beneficiaries under a trust for the purposes of subsection 104(1), subparagraph 73(1.02)(b)(ii) and paragraphs 104(4)(a.4) and 107.4(1)(e).

Subsection 104(1.1) is amended to clarify that it applies notwithstanding subsection 248(25). Subsection 248(25) describes, for other purposes of the Act, the circumstances in which a person or partnership is considered to be "beneficially interested" in a trust.

(2) Taxed as individual — A trust shall, for the purposes of this Act, and without affecting the liability of the trustee or legal representative for that person's own income tax, be deemed to be in respect of the trust property an individual, but where there is more than one trust and

(a) substantially all of the property of the various trusts has been received from one person, and

(b) the various trusts are conditioned so that the income thereof accrues or will ultimately accrue to the same beneficiary, or group or class of beneficiaries, such of the trustees as the Minister may designate shall, for the purposes of this Act, be deemed to be in respect of all the trusts an individual whose property is the property of all the trusts and whose income is the income of all the trusts.

(4) Deemed disposition by trust [every 21 years] — Every trust is, at the end of each of the following days, deemed to have disposed of each property of the trust (other than exempt property) that was capital property (other than excluded property or depreciable property) or land included in the inventory of a business of the trust for proceeds equal to its fair market value (determined with reference to subsection 70(5.3)) at the end of that day and to have reacquired the property immediately after that day for an amount equal to that fair market value, and for the purposes of this Act those days are

(a) where the trust

(i) is a trust that was created by the will of a taxpayer who died after 1971 and that, at the time it was created, was a trust,

(i.1) is a trust that was created by the will of a taxpayer who died after 1971 to which property was transferred in circumstances to which paragraph 70(5.2)(b) or (d) or (6)(d) applied and that, immediately after any such property vested indefeasibly in the trust as a consequence of the death of the taxpayer, was a trust,

Proposed Amendment — 104(4)(a)(i.1)

(i.1) is a trust that was created by the will of a taxpayer who died after 1971 to which property was transferred in circumstances to which paragraph 70(5.2)(b) or (d) (as that paragraph read in its application to taxation years that began before 2007 or, where sections 94.1 to 94.4 apply to a taxation year of a taxpayer that begins before 2007, as that paragraph read in its application to taxation years of the taxpayer that began before the first day of the first such taxation year) or paragraph (5.2)(c) or (6)(d) applied and that, immediately after any such property vested indefeasibly in the trust as a consequence of the death of the taxpayer, was a trust,

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 1 — NRTs and FIEs), subsec. 23(1), will amend subpara. 104(4)(a)(i.1) to read as above, applicable to trust taxation years that begin after 2006, except that it also applies to a taxation year of a trust that begins before 2007 if ss. 94.1 to 94.4 apply to that taxation year of the trust.

Technical Notes: Subsection 104(4) sets out what is generally referred to as the "21-year deemed realization rule" for trusts. The purpose of subsection 104(4) is to prevent the use of trusts to defer indefinitely the recognition for tax purposes of gains accruing on capital property. Subsection 104(4) generally treats capital property of a trust (other than certain trusts for the benefit of a spouse or common-law partner) as having been disposed of and reacquired by the trust every 21 years at the property's fair market value.

Subparagraph 104(4)(a)(i.1) is amended to apply to a trust to which property is transferred in circumstances to which paragraph 70(5.2)(c) applied. It is also amended to ensure that it continues to apply to a trust to which property was transferred in circumstances to which paragraph 70(5.2)(b) or (d) applied as those paragraphs read in their application to taxation years that began before 2007.

(ii) is a trust that was created after June 17, 1971 by a taxpayer during the taxpayer's lifetime that, at any time after 1971, was a trust, or

(ii.1) is a trust (other than a trust the terms of which are described in clause (iv)(A) that elects in its return of income under this Part for its first taxation year that this subparagraph not apply) that was created after 1999 by a taxpayer during the taxpayer's lifetime and that, at any time after 1999, was a trust under which

(iii) the taxpayer's spouse or common-law partner was entitled to receive all of the income of the trust that arose before the spouse's or common-law partner's death and no person except the spouse or common-law partner could, before the spouse's or common-law partner's death, receive or otherwise obtain the use of any of the income or capital of the trust, or

(iv) in the case of a trust described in subparagraph (ii.1) created by a taxpayer who had attained 65 years of age at the time the trust was created,

(A) the taxpayer was entitled to receive all of the income of the trust that arose before the taxpayer's death and no person except the taxpayer could, before the taxpayer's death, receive or otherwise obtain the use of any of the income or capital of the trust,

(B) the taxpayer or the taxpayer's spouse was, in combination with the spouse or the taxpayer, as the case may be, entitled to receive all of the income of the trust that arose before the later of the death of the taxpayer and the death of the spouse and no other person could, before the later of those deaths, receive or otherwise obtain the use of any of the income or capital of the trust, or

(C) the taxpayer or the taxpayer's common-law partner was, in combination with the common-law partner or the taxpayer, as the case may be, entitled to receive all of the income of the trust that arose before the later of the death of the taxpayer and the death of the common-law partner and no other person could, before the later of those deaths, receive or otherwise obtain the use of any of the income or capital of the trust, the day on which the death or the later death, as the case may be, occurs;

(a.1) where the trust is a pre-1972 spousal trust on January 1, 1993 and the spouse or common-law partner referred to in the definition "pre-1972 spousal trust" in subsection 108(1) in respect of the trust was

(i) in the case of a trust created by the will of a taxpayer, alive on January 1, 1976, and

(ii) in the case of a trust created by a taxpayer during the taxpayer's lifetime, alive on May 26, 1976, the day that is the later of

(iii) the day on which that spouse or common-law partner dies, and

(iv) January 1, 1993;

(a.2) where the trust makes a distribution to a beneficiary in respect of the beneficiary's capital interest in the trust, it is reasonable to conclude that the distribution was financed by a liability of the trust and one of the purposes of incurring the liability was to avoid taxes otherwise payable under this Part as a consequence of the death of any individual, the day on which the distribution is made (determined as if a day ends for the trust immediately after the time at which each distribution is made by the trust to a beneficiary in respect of the beneficiary's capital interest in the trust);

(a.3) where property (other than property described in any of subparagraphs 128.1(4)(b)(i) to (iii)) has been transferred by a taxpayer after December 17, 1999 to the trust in circumstances to which subsection 73(1) applied, it is reasonable to conclude that the property was so transferred in anticipation that the taxpayer would subsequently cease to reside in Canada and the taxpayer subsequently ceases to reside in Canada, the first day after that transfer during which the taxpayer ceases to reside in Canada (determined as if a day ends for the trust immediately after each time at which the taxpayer ceases to be resident in Canada);

(a.4) where the trust is a trust to which property was transferred by a taxpayer who is an individual (other than a trust) in circumstances in which section 73 or subsection 107.4(3) applied, the transfer did not result in a change in beneficial ownership of that property and no person (other than the taxpayer) or partnership has any absolute or contingent right as a beneficiary under the trust (determined with reference to subsection (1.1)), the day on which the death of the taxpayer occurs;

Proposed Addition — 104(4)(a.5)

(a.5) where the trust is deemed by subsection 94(3) to be resident in Canada for a taxation year for the purpose of computing the trust's income for the taxation year, the day (in that taxation year) on which, because a contributor (in this paragraph, as defined by subsection 94(1)) either ceases to be resident in Canada or ceases to be a contributor to the trust because of the application at any time of paragraph 94(2)(t), there is no resident contributor (in this paragraph, as defined by subsection 94(1)) to the trust (or the only resident contributors to the trust are entities (in this paragraph, as defined by subsection 94(1)) each of which is an entity the maximum amount recoverable from which under the provisions referred to in paragraph 94(3)(d) is limited to the entities' recovery limits determined under subsection 94(8)), unless subsection 94(5) applies in respect of the contributor ceasing on the day to be a resident contributor to the trust;

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 1 — NRTs and FIEs), subsec. 23(2), will add para. 104(4)(a.5), applicable to trust taxation years that begin after 2006, and to trust taxation years that begin

(a) after 2000, if the trust makes a valid election under para. (a) of the Application of the amendment to s. 94;

(b) after 2001, if the trust makes a valid election under para. (a) or (b) of the Application of the amendment to s. 94;

(c) after 2002, if the trust makes a valid election under any of paras. (a) to (c) of the Application of the amendment to s. 94;

(d) after 2003, if the trust makes a valid election under any of paras. (a) to (d) of the Application of the amendment to s. 94;

(e) after 2004, if the trust makes a valid election under any of paras. (a) to (e) of the Application of the amendment to s. 94; and

(f) after 2005, if the trust makes a valid election under any of paras. (a) to (f) of the Application of the amendment to s. 94.

Technical Notes: Paragraph 104(4)(a.5) is introduced to provide for a deemed disposition day for a trust that is deemed by subsection 94(3) to be resident in Canada for a taxation year for the purpose of computing the trust's income for the year. The deemed disposition day is the day (in that taxation year) on which, because a "contributor" (as defined in subsection 94(1)) to the trust either ceases to be resident in Canada or ceases to be a contributor to the trust because of the application at any time of paragraph 94(2)(t), there is no resident contributor to the trust (or the only resident contributors to the trust are entities each of which is an entity the maximum amount recoverable from which under the provisions referred to in paragraph 94(3)(d) is limited to the entities' recovery limits determined under subsection 94(8)). However, no deemed disposition will occur under paragraph 104(4)(a.5) if subsection 94(5) applies in respect of the contributor ceasing on that day to be a resident contributor of the trust. For more information on section 94, see the commentary on that section.

(b) the day that is 21 years after the latest of

(i) January 1, 1972,

(ii) the day on which the trust was created, and

(iii) where applicable, the day determined under paragraph (a), (a.1) or (a.4) as those paragraphs applied from time to time after 1971; and

(c) the day that is 21 years after any day (other than a day determined under any of paragraphs (a) to (a.4)) that is, because of this subsection, a day on which the trust is deemed to have disposed of each such property.

Proposed Amendment — 104(4)(c)

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 1 — NRTs and FIEs), subsec. 23(3), will amend para. 104(4)(c) to replace "(a.4)" with "(a.5)", applicable on the same basis as the addition of para. 104(4)(a.5).

Technical Notes: Paragraph 104(4)(c) is amended so that there is not a deemed disposition day for a trust 21 years after any day determined under new paragraph 104(4)(a.5). In effect, the time from which 21 years is counted under paragraph 104(4)(c) is determined without regard to days determined without regard to days determined under any of paragraphs 104 (4)(a) to (a.5).

(4.1) Mark-to-market property — In determining whether property is capital property for the purpose of subsection (4), this Act is to be read without reference to subparagraph 39(1)(a)(ii.3).

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 1 — NRTs and FIEs), subsec. 23(4), will add subsec. 104(4.1), applicable to trust taxation years that begin after 2006.

Technical Notes: New subsection 104(4.1) provides that, for the purposes of the deemed disposition rule in subsection 104(4), a property's status as capital property is determined without reference to new subparagraph 39(1)(a)(ii.3). As a result, if subsection 94.2(3) applies for a taxation year to a taxpayer that is a trust in respect of a participating interest of the trust and the trust is deemed to have disposed of the interest because of the application of subsection 104(4), there is a recognition of the "deferral amount" in applying subsection 94.2(4).

(5) Depreciable property [deemed disposition] — Every trust is, at the end of each day determined under subsection (4) in respect of the trust, deemed to have disposed of each property of the trust (other than exempt property) that was a depreciable property of a prescribed class of the trust for proceeds equal to its fair market value at the end of that day and to have reacquired the property immediately after that day at a capital cost (in this subsection referred to as the "deemed capital cost") equal to that fair market value, except that

(a) where the amount that was the capital cost to the trust of the property immediately before the end of the day (in this paragraph referred to as the "actual capital cost") exceeds the deemed capital cost to the trust of the property, for the purpose of sections 13 and 20 and any regulations made for the purpose of paragraph 20(1)(a) as they apply in respect of the property at any subsequent time,

(i) the capital cost to the trust of the property on its reacquisition shall be deemed to be the amount that was the actual capital cost to the trust of the property, and

(ii) the excess shall be deemed to have been allowed under paragraph 20(1)(a) to the trust in respect of the property in computing its income for taxation years that ended before the trust reacquired the property;

(b) for the purposes of this subsection, the reference to "at the end of a taxation year" in subsection 13(1) shall be read as a reference to "at the particular time a trust is deemed by subsection 104(5) to have disposed of depreciable property of a prescribed class"; and

(c) for the purpose of computing the excess, if any, referred to in subsection 13(1) at the end of the taxation year of a trust that included a day on which the trust is deemed by this subsection to have disposed of a depreciable property of a prescribed class, any amount that, on that day, was included in the trust's income for the year under subsection 13(1) as it reads because of paragraph (b), shall be deemed to be an amount included under section 13 in the trust's income for a preceding taxation year.

History: The opening words of subsec. 104(5) amended by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 78(7), applicable to days after December 23, 1998 that are determined under subsection 104(4), as amended. The opening words formerly read:

(5) Idem [depreciable property] — Every trust shall, at the end of each day determined under subsection (4) in respect of the trust, be deemed to have disposed of each property of the trust that was a depreciable property of a prescribed class of the trust for proceeds equal to its fair market value at the end of that day and to have reacquired the property immediately thereafter at a capital cost (in this subsection referred to as the "deemed capital cost") equal to that fair market value, except that

Subparas. 104(5)(a)(i) and (ii) substituted by 1994, c. 21, subsec. 46(1), applicable to days determined under subsec. 104(4) that are after 1992. Those subparas. formerly read:

(i) the capital cost to the trust of the property shall be deemed to be the amount that was the actual capital cost to the trust of the property, and

(ii) the excess shall be deemed to have been allowed to the trust in respect of the property under paragraph 20(1)(a) in computing income for taxation years before the reacquisition by the trust of the property, and any other amount allowed to the trust in respect of the property under that paragraph in computing income for those years shall be deemed to be nil;

Subsec. 104(5) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 42(1), applicable to taxation years of trusts ending after February 11, 1991 except that with respect to those days determined under subsec. 104(4) (as amended) that are before 1993, subsec. 104(5) shall be read without reference to the amendments made by subsection (1), and the portion of subsec. 104(5) preceding para. (c) shall be read as follows:

(5) Every trust shall, at the end of each day determined under subsection (4) in respect of the trust, be deemed to have disposed of all depreciable property of a prescribed class of the trust for proceeds equal to

(a) where the fair market value of that property at the end of the day exceeds the undepreciated capital cost thereof to the trust at the end of the day, the amount of that undepreciated capital cost plus ½ of the excess, and

(b) in any other case, the fair market value of that property at the end of that day plus ½ of the amount, if any, by which the undepreciated capital cost thereof to the trust at the end of that day exceeds that fair market value,

and to have reacquired each such depreciable property of that class immediately thereafter at a capital cost (in this subsection referred to as the "deemed capital cost") equal to that proportion of the proceeds determined under paragraph (a) or (b), as the case may be, that the amount that was the fair market value of that property is of the total of the amounts that were the fair market values of all properties of that class at the end of that day, except that

(5) Idem — Every trust shall, on each day determined under subsection (4) in respect of the trust, be deemed to have disposed of all depreciable property of a prescribed class of the trust for proceeds equal to,

(a) where the fair market value of that property on that day exceeds the undepreciated capital cost thereof to the trust on that day, the amount of that undepreciated capital cost plus ½ of the amount of the excess, and

(b) in any other case, the fair market value of that property on that day plus ½ of the amount, if any, by which the undepreciated capital cost thereof to the trust on that day exceeds that fair market value,

and to have reacquired each such depreciable property of that class immediately thereafter at a capital cost (in this subsection referred to as the "deemed capital cost") equal to that proportion of the proceeds determined under paragraph (a) or (b), as the case may be, that the amount that was the fair market value of that property on that day is of the total of the amounts that were the fair market values of all properties of that class on that day, except that

(c) where the amount that was the capital cost to the trust of any particular property of that class exceeds the deemed capital cost to the trust of the property, for the purposes of sections 13 and 20 and any regulations made under paragraph 20(1)(a) as they apply in respect of the property at any subsequent time,

(i) the capital cost to the trust of the property shall be deemed to be the amount that was the capital cost to the trust of the property, and

(ii) the excess shall be deemed to have been allowed to the trust in respect of the property under paragraph 20(1)(a) in computing income for taxation years before the reacquisition by the trust of the property, and any other amount allowed to the trust in respect of the property under that paragraph in computing income for those years shall be deemed to be nil,

(d) for the purposes of this subsection, the words "at the end of a taxation year," in subsection 13(1) shall be deemed to read "at the particular time a trust is deemed by subsection 104(5) to have disposed of depreciable property of a prescribed class," and

(e) for the purpose of computing the excess, if any, referred to in subsection 13(1) at the end of the taxation year of a trust that included a day on which the trust is deemed by this subsection to have disposed of all depreciable property of a prescribed class, any amount that, on that day, was included in the trust's income for the year by virtue of subsection 13(1) as it reads by virtue of paragraph (d), shall be deemed to be an amount included in the taxpayer's income by virtue of section 13 for a prior taxation year.

A is an amount (other than an amount described in subparagraph (i)) that

(A) is paid or credited (having the meaning assigned by Part XIII) in the year to the trust,

(B) would, if this Act were read without reference to subparagraph 94(3)(a)(viii), paragraph 212(2)(b) and sections 216 and 217, be an amount as a consequence of the payment or crediting of which the trust would have been liable to tax under Part XIII, and

(C) becomes payable in the year by the trust to a non-resident beneficiary under the trust in respect of an interest of the non-resident as a beneficiary under the trust, and

B is

(A) 0.35, if the trust can establish to the satisfaction of the Minister that the non-resident beneficiary to whom the amount described in the description of A is payable is resident in a country with which Canada has a tax treaty under which the income tax that Canada may impose on the beneficiary in respect of the amount is limited, and

(B) 0.6, in any other case.

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 1 — NRTs and FIEs), subsec. 23(6), will add subsec. 104(7.01), applicable to trust taxation years that begin after 2006, and to trust taxation years that begin

(a) after 2000, if the trust makes a valid election under para. (a) of the Application of the amendment to s. 94;

(b) after 2001, if the trust makes a valid election under para. (a) or (b) of the Application of the amendment to s. 94;

(c) after 2002, if the trust makes a valid election under any of paras. (a) to (c) of the Application of the amendment to s. 94;

(d) after 2003, if the trust makes a valid election under any of paras. (a) to (d) of the Application of the amendment to s. 94;

(e) after 2004, if the trust makes a valid election under any of paras. (a) to (e) of the Application of the amendment to s. 94; and

(f) after 2005, if the trust makes a valid election under any of paras. (a) to (f) of the Application of the amendment to s. 94.

Technical Notes: Subsection 104(6) generally permits a trust to deduct, in computing income for a taxation year, an amount not exceeding the portion of its income for the year that becomes payable in the year to a beneficiary under the trust. Because of subsection 104(24), trust income is deemed not to have become payable in the year to a beneficiary unless it is paid in the year to the beneficiary or the beneficiary was entitled in the year to enforce payment of the amount.

New subsection 104(7.01) restricts the amount that a trust, that is deemed by subsection 94(3) to be resident in Canada (referred to in this commentary as a "subsection 94(3) trust"), can deduct under subsection 104(6) in computing its income in the event that the trust has Canadian-source income and makes distributions to beneficiaries not resident in Canada.

In effect, subsection 104(7.01) acts as a proxy for taxes under Parts XII.2 and XIII of the Act in connection with Canadian-source income earned by a subsection 94(3) trust that has become payable by the trust to its non-resident beneficiaries.

New subsection 94(3) deems a trust to which it applies to be resident in Canada for certain purposes, not including Part XII.2. Accordingly, a trust that is resident in Canada solely because of the deeming provision in subsection 94(3) would generally be non-resident for purposes of Part XII.2. Because of an existing exemption for non-resident trusts in Part XII.2, a tax under that Part does not apply to such a trust.

A subsection 94(3) trust is also exempt from Part XIII withholding obligations on Canadian-source income earned by it that becomes payable by it in the year to non-resident persons.

However, to ensure that subsection 94(3) trusts are not inappropriately used to distribute Canadian-source income free of tax to non-resident beneficiaries, subsection 104(7.01) limits the amount of any trust deduction under subsection 104(6) for such distributions, thereby ensuring the income is subject to Part I tax in the trust.

(It should also be noted that persons that pay or credit an amount to a subsection 94(3) trust are still liable for a withholding obligation under section 215 notwithstanding that the trust itself is exempt from Part XIII tax. This is because new paragraph 94(4)(c) provides that the deemed Canadian residence under subsection 94(3) does not apply for the purposes of determining withholding obligations under section 215. The Canada Revenue Agency will hold the withholding taxes paid and apply them on account of the trust's Part I tax liability, but only to the extent the amount on which Part XIII tax is paid is an amount included in the trust's income. The existing provisions of the Act do not expressly give a Part XIII exemption in this regard to trusts that are subject to existing subsection 94(1). Instead, existing subparagraph 94(1)(c)(ii) allows a tax credit to be claimed by those trusts under section 126 in connection with Part XIII tax on payments made to those trusts.)

As mentioned above, subsection 104(7.01) reduces the maximum deduction under subsection 104(6). More specifically, the amount by which the maximum deduction under subsection 104(6) for a taxation year is reduced under subsection 104(7.01) is equal to the total of:

- the portion of the trust's "designated income" for the year (as defined in Part XII.2) that became payable in the year to a non-resident beneficiary under the trust in respect of an interest of the non-resident as a beneficiary under the trust, and
- all amounts each of which is the product obtained by multiplying a specified factor by each particular amount that is paid or credited in the year to the trust that would, disregarding express provisions to the contrary in the Act, be subject to Part XIII tax and that is payable in the year to a non-resident beneficiary under the trust in respect of an interest of the non-resident as a beneficiary under the trust.

The specified factor in respect of each particular amount described in the second paragraph above is 0.35, if the trust can establish to the satisfaction of the Minister of National Revenue that the non-resident beneficiary to whom the particular amount is payable is resident in a country with which Canada has a tax treaty under which the income tax that Canada may impose on the beneficiary in respect of the amount is limited. In any other case, the specified factor is 0.6.

This amendment applies to trust taxation years that begin after 2006. It also applies to trust taxation years that begin after 2000, after 2001, after 2002 after 2003 after 2004 or after 2005 if the trust makes the appropriate election under the coming-into-force provision for new section 94.

The example below illustrates the operation of new subsection 104(7.01).

Example

1. Trust X is an offshore trust established by Stefan, a long-term resident of Canada. The primary beneficiaries under the trust are Linda (a resident of Canada), Tim (a resident of non-Treatyland) and Bart (a resident of the United States).

2. Trust X receives $1,600 of income in its 2007 taxation year. This income consists of $400 of taxable dividends received from a taxable Canadian corporation. The remaining $1,200 of income is from other sources, none of which is "designated income" (as defined in Part XII.2) of the trust.

3. $1,050 of Trust X's income for 2007 is made payable in the year to Bart. Of this amount, $100 represents the taxable dividends. Trust X makes payable $200 of its income to Tim. Of this amount, $200 represents the taxable dividends. The remaining $350 of the trust's income is made payable in the year to Linda. Of this amount, $100 represents the taxable dividends.

4. Trust X is assumed to have designated the $400 of taxable dividends under subsection 104(19). (Where a designation under subsection 104(19) is available and the designation is made, the designated portion of the dividend income of the trust will, for the purposes of the Act (other than Part XIII), maintain its character, as dividend income, in the hands of the beneficiary.)

Results

1. Because Trust X has a resident contributor at the end of its 2007 taxation year, the trust is deemed by new subsection 94(3) to be resident in Canada for the purposes of computing its income.

2. Before taking into account any deduction under subsection 104(6), Trust X's income is $1,600. Note that the $400 in dividends is included in computing the trust's income.

3. Before taking into account new subsection 104(7.01), the maximum deduction under subsection 104(6) is also $1,600.

4. Because of subsection 104(7.01), the maximum deduction under subsection 104(6) is reduced to $1,445 (i.e., $1,600 minus the total of: nil + ((.60 × $200) and (0.35 × $100))).

5. Assuming that the trust claims a deduction of $1,445 under subsection 104(6), the trust would consequently have income of $155. If a tax rate of 42.92% were assumed (i.e., combined federal rates of 29% (because of subsections 122(1) and 117(2) and 13.92% (because of subsection 120(1)), the trust would be liable for Canadian income tax of approximately $67. Note that the trust is exempt from having to collect a Part XIII tax in respect of the amounts made payable to Bart and Tim that are referred to in paragraph 104(7.01)(b) in respect of the trust for the particular taxation year, because these are exempt amounts for the purposes of subparagraph 94(3)(a)(ix). Disregarding this exemption, the Part XIII tax that would have had to have been collected by the trust in respect of the amounts made payable to Bart and Tim would have been $65 (i.e., 25% of $200 and 15% of $100).

(a) a taxpayer has acquired a right to or to acquire an interest in a trust, or a right to or to acquire a property of a trust, and

(b) it is reasonable to consider that one of the main purposes of the acquisition was to avoid the application of subsection (7.1) in respect of the trust, on a disposition of the right (other than pursuant to the exercise thereof), the interest or the property, there shall be included in computing the income of the taxpayer for the taxation year in which the disposition occurs the amount, if any, by which

(c) the proceeds of disposition of the right, interest or property, as the case may be,

exceed

(d) the cost amount to the taxpayer of the right, interest or property, as the case may be.

(a) each beneficiary under the SIFT trust to whom at any time in the taxation year an amount became payable by the trust is deemed to have received at that time a taxable dividend that was paid at that time by a taxable Canadian corporation;

(b) the amount of a dividend described in paragraph (a) as having been received by a beneficiary at any time in a taxation year is equal to the amount determined by the formula

$$A/B \times C$$

A is the amount that became payable at that time by the SIFT trust to the beneficiary,

C is the SIFT trust's non-deductible distributions amount for the taxation year;

(c) the amount of a dividend described in paragraph (a) in respect of a beneficiary under the SIFT trust is deemed for the purpose of subsection (13) not to be an amount payable to the beneficiary; and

(17)–(17.2) [Repealed under former Act]

(18) Trust for minor — Where any part of the amount that, but for subsections (6) and (12), would be the income of a trust for a taxation year throughout which it was resident in Canada

(a) has not become payable in the year,

(b) was held in trust for an individual who did not attain 21 years of age before the end of the year,

(c) the right to which vested at or before the end of the year otherwise than because of the exercise by any person of, or the failure of any person to exercise, any discretionary power, and

(d) the right to which is not subject to any future condition (other than a condition that the individual survive to an age not exceeding 40 years), notwithstanding subsection (24), that part of the amount is, for the purposes of subsections (6) and (13), deemed to have become payable to the individual in the year.

Related Provisions: 94(3)(a)(iii) [proposed] — Application to trust deemed resident in Canada; 250(6.1) — Trust that ceases to exist deemed resident throughout year.

History: Subsec. 104(18) amended by 1996, c. 21, subsec. 18(10), applicable to trust taxation years that begin after 1995. The subsec. formerly read:

(18) Where all or any part of the income of a trust for a taxation year has not become payable in the year and was held in trust for a minor whose right thereto has vested and the only reason that it has not become payable in the year was that the beneficiary was a minor, it shall, for the purposes of subsections (6) and (13) be deemed to have become payable to the minor in the year.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-286R2: Trusts — amount payable; IT-342R: Trusts — income payable to beneficiaries; IT-381R3: Trusts — capital gains and losses and the flow-through of taxable capital gains to beneficiaries; IT-394R2: Preferred beneficiary election.

I.T. Technical News: 11 (payments made by a trust for the benefit of a minor beneficiary).

(19) Taxable dividends — Such portion of a taxable dividend received by a trust in a taxation year throughout which it was resident in Canada on a share of the capital stock of a taxable Canadian corporation as

(a) may reasonably be considered (having regard to all the circumstances including the terms and conditions of the trust arrangement) to be part of the amount that, by reason of subsection (13) or (14) or section 105, as the case may be, was included in computing the income for a particular taxation year of a beneficiary under the trust, and

(b) was not designated by the trust in respect of any other beneficiary under the trust is, if so designated by the trust in respect of the beneficiary in its return of income for the year, deemed, for the purposes of paragraphs 82(1)(b) and 107(1)(c) and (d) and section 112, not to have been received by the trust, and for the purposes of this Act (other than Part XIII), to be a taxable dividend on the share received by the beneficiary in the particular year from the corporation.

Proposed Amendment — 104(19)

(19) Designation in respect of taxable dividends — A portion of a taxable dividend received by a trust, in a particular taxation year of the trust, on a share of the capital stock of a taxable Canadian corporation is, for the purposes of this Act other than Part XIII, deemed to be a taxable dividend on the share received by a taxpayer, in the taxpayer's taxation year in which the particular taxation year ends, and is, for the purposes of paragraphs 82(1)(b) and 107(1)(c) and (d) and section 112, deemed not to have been received by the trust, if

(a) an amount equal to that portion

(i) is designated by the trust, in respect of the taxpayer, in the trust's return of income under this Part for the particular taxation year, and

(ii) may reasonably be considered (having regard to all the circumstances including the terms and conditions of the trust) to be part of the amount that, because of paragraph (13)(a) or subsection (14) or section 105, was included in computing the income for that taxation year of the taxpayer;

(b) the taxpayer is in the particular taxation year a beneficiary under the trust;

(c) the trust is, throughout the particular taxation year, resident in Canada; and

(d) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount designated, under this subsection, by the trust in respect of a beneficiary under the trust in the trust's return of income under this Part for the particular taxation year is not greater than the total of all amounts each of which is the amount of a taxable dividend, received by the trust in the particular taxation year, on a share of the capital stock of a taxable Canadian corporation.

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 94(4), will amend subsec. 104(19) to read as above, applicable to taxation years that end after February 27, 2004 except that, for taxation years that end before July 19, 2005, the reference to "paragraph (13)(a)" in subpara. 104(19)(a)(ii) is to be read as "subsection (13)".

Technical Notes: Subsection 104(19) permits a trust to designate a taxable dividend received by it in a taxation year on the share of a taxable Canadian corporation. Where the designation is made in respect of a beneficiary under the trust, the dividend is treated, for the purposes of the Act (other than Part XIII), as a taxable dividend received by the beneficiary from the corporation, and is treated, for the purposes of the dividend gross-up in paragraph 82(1)(b) and stop-loss rules in paragraphs 107(1)(c) and (d) and section 112, as not having been received by the trust.

Subsection 104(19) is amended to clarify that where a designation, in respect of a taxpayer, is made by a trust in respect of a taxable dividend received by the trust in a particular taxation year of the trust, on a share of the capital stock of a taxable Canadian corporation, the portion of the dividend in respect of which the designation is made is

- for the purposes of paragraphs 82(1)(b) and 107(1)(c) and (d) and section 112, deemed not to have been received by the trust, and
- for the purposes of the Act other than Part XIII, deemed to be a taxable dividend on the share received by the taxpayer in the taxpayer's taxation year in which the particular taxation year of the trust ends.

These deeming rules do not apply, however, unless a number of conditions are met. One of these conditions — that a designated amount not be made in respect of more than one beneficiary under the trust — is replaced with a new requirement that the total of all amounts designated by the trust under subsection 104(19) for the particular taxation year of the trust not exceed the total of all amounts each of which is the amount of a taxable dividend received by the trust in the particular taxation year on a share of the capital stock of a taxable Canadian corporation.

The deeming rules under subsection 104(19) apply, in respect of a beneficiary under the trust, only to the portion of the amount, designated under that subsection, that may reasonably be considered (having regard to all the circumstances including the terms and conditions of the trust arrangement) to be part of that amount that, by reason of subsection 104(13) or (14) or section 105, as the case may be, was included in computing the income for a particular taxation year of a beneficiary under the trust. This condition is also amended and now provides that the portion of a taxable dividend designated by a trust is deemed to be a taxable dividend of a taxpayer who is a beneficiary of the trust (and not to be a dividend received by the trust) only if an amount equal to the amount of the designated portion may reasonably be considered (having regard to all the circumstances including the terms and conditions of the trust) to be part of the amount that, because of paragraph 104(13)(a) or subsection 104(14) or section 105, was included in computing the income of that taxpayer (i.e., the taxpayer in respect of whom the amount is designated).

The amended reference in the above rule to paragraph 104(13)(a), instead of subsection 104(13), applies to taxation years that end after July 18, 2005. This change clarifies that the deeming rules do not apply to taxable dividends received by a trust governed by an employee benefit plan and paid to an employer under the plan. This is intended to ensure the appropriate characterization of such amounts for purposes of the rules relating to employee benefit plans. For taxation years that end after February 27, 2004 and on or before July 18, 2005, the referenced provision is subsection 104(13).

Related Provisions: 82(1) — Taxable dividends received; 94(3)(a)(iii) [proposed] — Application to trust deemed resident in Canada; 107(1)(c), (d) — Loss on disposition of capital interest in trust; 112(3.12) — Exclusion from stop-loss rule where beneficiary is partnership or trust; 112(3.2) — Stop-loss rule; 112(5.2)B(b)(iii) — Adjustment for dividends received on mark-to-market property; 250(6.1) — Trust that ceases to exist deemed resident throughout year.

(20) Designation in respect of non-taxable dividends — The portion of the total of all amounts, each of which is the amount of a dividend (other than a taxable dividend) paid on a share of the capital stock of a corporation resident in Canada to a trust during a taxation year of the trust throughout which the trust was resident in Canada, that can reasonably be considered (having regard to all the circumstances including the terms and conditions of the trust arrangement) to be part of an amount that became payable in the year to a particular beneficiary under the trust shall be designated by the trust in respect of the particular beneficiary in the return of the trust's income for the year for the purposes of subclause 53(2)(h)(i.1)(B)(II), paragraphs 107(1)(c) and (d) and subsections 112(3.1), (3.2), (3.31) and (4.2).

History: Subsec. 104(20) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 127(4), applicable after April 26, 1995. Subsec. 104(20) formerly read:

> (20) Such portion of the total of all amounts each of which is the amount of a dividend (other than a taxable dividend) paid on a share of the capital stock of a corporation resident in Canada to a trust during a taxation year of the trust throughout which the trust was resident of Canada as may reasonably be considered (having regard to all the circumstances including the terms and conditions of the trust arrangement) to be part of an amount that became payable in the year to a particular beneficiary under the trust, shall be designated by the trust in respect of the particular beneficiary in the return of the trust's income for the year for the purposes of subclause 53(2)(h)(i.1)(B)(II), paragraph 107(1)(c) and subsections 112(3.2) and (4.3).

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-328R3: Losses on shares on which dividends have been received.

(21) Taxable capital gains — Such portion of the net taxable capital gains of a trust for a taxation year throughout which it was resident in Canada as

> (a) may reasonably be considered (having regard to all the circumstances including the terms and conditions of the trust arrangement) to be part of the amount that, by virtue of subsection (13) or (14) or section 105, as the case may be, was included in computing the income for the taxation year of
> (i) a particular beneficiary under the trust, if the trust is a mutual fund trust, or
> (ii) a particular beneficiary under the trust who is resident in Canada, if the trust is not a mutual fund trust, and
> (b) was not designated by the trust in respect of any other beneficiary under the trust, shall, if so designated by the trust in respect of the particular beneficiary in the return of its income for the year under this Part, be deemed, for the purposes of sections 3 and 111, except as they apply for the purpose of section 110.6, and subject to paragraph 132(5.1)(b), to be a taxable capital gain for the year of the particular beneficiary from the disposition by that beneficiary of capital property.

Proposed Amendment — 104(21)

(21) Designation in respect of taxable capital gains — For the purposes of sections 3 and 111, except as they apply for the purposes of section 110.6, and subject to paragraph 132(5.1)(b), an amount in respect of a trust's net taxable capital gains for a particular taxation year of the trust is deemed to be a taxable capital gain, for the taxation year of a taxpayer in which the particular taxation year ends, from the disposition by the taxpayer of capital property if

(a) the amount

(ii) may reasonably be considered (having regard to all the circumstances including the terms and conditions of the trust) to be part of the amount that, because of paragraph (13)(a) or subsection (14) or section 105, was included in computing the income for that taxation year of the taxpayer;

(b) the taxpayer is

(i) in the particular taxation year, a beneficiary under the trust, and

(ii) resident in Canada, unless the trust is, throughout the particular taxation year, a mutual fund trust;

(c) the trust is, throughout the particular taxation year, resident in Canada; and

(d) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount designated, under this subsection, by the trust in respect of a beneficiary under the trust in the trust's return of income under this Part for the particular taxation year is not greater than the trust's net taxable capital gains for the particular taxation year.

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 94(5), will amend subsec. 104(21) to read as above, applicable to taxation years that end after February 27, 2004 except that, for taxation years that end on or before July 18, 2005, the reference to "paragraph (13)(a)" in subpara. 104(21)(a)(ii) is to be read as "subsection (13)".

Technical Notes: Subsection 104(21) permits a trust to designate, in respect of a beneficiary under the trust, a portion of its net taxable capital gains. Where the designation is made, the amount designated is deemed, for the purposes of sections 3 and 111 (except as they apply for the purposes of determining whether a beneficiary is entitled to claim a capital gains exemption under section 110.6 and subject to paragraph 132(5.1)(b)), to be a taxable capital gain for the year of the beneficiary from the disposition of capital property.

Subsection 104(21) is amended to clarify that where a designation, in respect of a taxpayer, is made by a trust in respect of its net taxable capital gains for a particular taxation year of the trust, the designated amount is deemed to be a taxable capital gain, for the taxation year of the taxpayer in which the particular taxation year ends, from the disposition by the taxpayer of capital property.

The deeming rule does not apply, however, unless a number of conditions are met. One of these conditions — that a designated amount not be made in respect of more than one beneficiary under the trust — is replaced with a new requirement that the total amounts designated under subsection 104(21) by the trust for a particular taxation year of the trust not exceed the trust's net taxable capital gains for the particular taxation year.

The deeming rule under subsection 104(21) applies, in respect of a beneficiary under a trust, only to the portion of the net taxable gains of the trust that may reasonably be considered (having regard to all the circumstances including the terms and conditions of the trust arrangement) to be part of the amount that, by reason of subsection 104(13) or 104(14) or section 105, as the case may be, was included in computing the income of a beneficiary under the trust. This condition is also amended and now provides that an amount, in respect of the trust's net taxable capital gains, is deemed to be a taxable capital gain from the disposition by a taxpayer of capital property only if the amount may reasonably be considered (having regard to all the circumstances including the terms and conditions of the trust) to be part of the amount that, because of paragraph 104(13)(a) or subsection 104(14) or section 105, was included in computing the income of that taxpayer (i.e., the taxpayer in respect of whom the amount is designated).

The amended reference in the above rule to paragraph 104(13)(a), instead of subsection 104(13), applies to taxation years that end after July 18, 2005. This change clarifies that the deeming rule does not apply to employee benefit plan trusts and ensures consistency with amended subsection 104(19). For taxation years that end after February 27, 2004 and on or before July 18, 2005, the referenced provision is subsection 104(13).

Subsection 104(21) is also amended to clarify that the deeming rule does not apply to a designation made by a trust, for a particular taxation year of the trust, in respect of a non-resident beneficiary, unless the trust is a mutual fund trust throughout the particular taxation year.

(a) the total of all amounts each of which is an allowable capital loss (other than an allowable business investment loss) of the trust for the year from the disposition of a capital property, and

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 1 — NRTs and FIEs), subsec. 23(7), will amend para. 104(21.3)(a) to read as above, applicable to trust taxation years that begin after 2000.

Technical Notes: Subsection 104(21.3) defines the expression "net taxable capital gains". The expression is used in subsections 104(21) and (21.2), which permit a trust to flow through its taxable capital gains realized in a year to a beneficiary to whom an amount of the trust's income for the year has been made payable. The trust can flow through its taxable capital gains to beneficiaries only to the extent of its net taxable capital gains for the year.

Under subsection 104(21.3), the amount of a trust's net taxable capital gains for a taxation year equals the amount, if any, by which its total taxable capital gains for the year exceeds the total of two amounts:

- its total allowable capital losses for the year, and
- the amount deducted by it under paragraph 111(1)(b) in computing its taxable income for the year (i.e., deduction of carried-over net capital losses for preceding years and for the three following years).

Subsection 104(21.3) is amended so that allowable business investment losses (ABILs) are disregarded for the purpose of the first of the two amounts. Accordingly, ABILs will not result in a reduction of taxable capital gains that may be flowed through to beneficiaries under trusts and against which allowable capital losses can be claimed.

(b) the amount, if any, deducted under paragraph 111(1)(b) in computing its taxable income for the year.

(a) the beneficiary is deemed to have realized capital gains (in this subsection referred to as the "deemed gains") from the disposition of capital property in the beneficiary's taxation year in which the particular taxation year ends equal to the amount, if any, by which

(i) the amount determined when the amount of the allocated gain is divided by the fraction in paragraph 38(a) that applies to the trust for the particular taxation year

exceeds

(ii) the amount claimed by the beneficiary not exceeding the beneficiary's exempt capital gains balance for the year in respect of the trust;

(b) notwithstanding subsection (21) and except as a consequence of the application of paragraph (a), the amount of the allocated gain shall not be included in computing the beneficiary's income for the beneficiary's taxation year in which the particular taxation year ends;

(c) the trust shall disclose to the beneficiary in prescribed form the portion of the deemed gains that are in respect of capital gains realized on dispositions of property that occurred before February 28, 2000, after February 27, 2000 and before October 18, 2000, and after October 17, 2000 and, if it does not do so, the deemed gains are deemed to be in respect of capital gains realized on dispositions of property that occurred before February 28, 2000; and

(d) where a trust so elects under this paragraph in its return of income for the year,

(i) the portion of the deemed gains that are in respect of capital gains from dispositions of property that occurred before February 28, 2000 is deemed to be that proportion of the deemed gains that the number of days that are in the particular year and before February 28, 2000 is of the number of days that are in the particular year,

(ii) the portion of the deemed gains that are in respect of capital gains from dispositions of property that occurred in the year and in the period that began at the beginning of February 28, 2000 and ended at the end of October 17, 2000, is deemed to be that proportion of the deemed gains that the number of days that are in the year and in that period is of the number of days that are in the particular year, and

(iii) the portion of the deemed gains that are in respect of capital gains from dispositions of property that occurred in the year and in the period that begins at the beginning of October 18, 2000 and ends at the end of the particular year, is deemed to be that proportion of the deemed gains that the number of days that are in the year and in that period is of the number of days that are in the particular year; and

(e) no amount may be claimed by the beneficiary under subsection 39.1(3) in respect of the allocated gain.

(a) the portion of the net capital gains or net capital losses that are in respect of capital gains and losses from dispositions of property that occurred before February 28, 2000 is deemed to be that proportion of the net capital gains or net capital losses, as the case may be, that the number of days that are in the year and before February 28, 2000 is of the number of days that are in the year,

(b) the portion of the net capital gains or net capital losses that are in respect of capital gains and losses from dispositions of property that occurred in the year and in the period that began at the beginning of February 28, 2000 and ended at the end of October 17, 2000, is deemed to be that proportion of the net capital gains or net capital losses, as the case may be, that the number of days that are in the year and in that period is of the number of days that are in the year, and

and, for the purpose of this subsection,

Proposed Addition — 104(21.6)(f.1)

(f.1) if the deemed gains are in respect of capital gains of the trust from dispositions of property after February 27, 2000 and before October 17, 2000 and the taxation year of the taxpayer began after February 27, 2000 and ended after October 17, 2000, the deemed gains are deemed to be a capital gain of the taxpayer from the disposition by the taxpayer of capital property in the taxpayer's taxation year and in the period that began after February 27, 2000 and ended before October 18, 2000;

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 94(6), will add para. 104(21.6)(f.1), applicable to taxation years that end after February 27, 2000.

Technical Notes: Subsection 104(21.6) provides rules for the determination of the inclusion rate to be used by a taxpayer for capital gains realized by a trust in 2000. This subsection applies to a taxpayer who has a taxation year that begins after October 17, 2000 and who is deemed by subsection 104(21.4) to have capital gains from the disposition of capital property in the year in respect of dispositions of property by a trust of which the taxpayer is a beneficiary.

This subsection ensures that the inclusion rate for capital gains realized on property disposed of by a trust prior to February 27, 2000 is 3/4, and is 2/3 in respect of property disposed of by a trust after February 27, 2000 and before October 18, 2000.

Subsection 104(21.6) is amended by adding new paragraph (f.1) to ensure that where the deemed gains are in respect of capital gains from dispositions of property by the trust that occurred after February 27, 2000 and before October 17, 2000 in circumstances where the taxation year of the taxpayer began after February 27, 2000 and ended after October 17, 2000, the gains are deemed to be a capital gain of the taxpayer from the disposition by the taxpayer of capital property in the taxpayer's taxation year and in the period that began after February 27, 2000 and ended before October 18, 2000. This amendment applies to taxation years that end after February 27, 2000.

(g) if the deemed gains are in respect of capital gains of the trust from dispositions of property after February 27, 2000 and before October 17, 2000 and the taxation year of the taxpayer began after February 27, 2000 and ended before October 17, 2000, the deemed gains are deemed to be a capital gain of the taxpayer from the disposition by the taxpayer of capital property in the taxpayer's taxation year; and

Proposed Amendment — 104(21.6)(g)

(g) if the deemed gains are in respect of capital gains of the trust from dispositions of property after February 27, 2000 and before October 17, 2000 and the taxation year of the taxpayer began after February 27, 2000 and ended before October 18, 2000, the deemed gains are deemed to be a capital gain of the taxpayer from the disposition by the taxpayer of capital property in the taxpayer's taxation year; and

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 94(6), will amend para. 104(21.6)(g) to read as above, applicable to trust taxation years that end after December 20, 2002.

Technical Notes: Paragraph 104(21.6)(g) is amended to correct a technical deficiency in a reference to a date. The reference to "October 17, 2000" is changed to "October 18, 2000" which reflects the date on which the reduction of the capital gain inclusion rate from 2/3 to 1/2 was announced. This amendment applies to trust taxation years that end after December 20, 2002.

(h) in any other case, the deemed gains are deemed to be a capital gain of the taxpayer from the disposition of capital property by the taxpayer in the taxpayer's taxation year and after October 17, 2000.

Related Provisions: 127.52(1)(d)(iii) — 104(21.6) ignored for minimum tax purposes.

History: Subsec. 104(21.6) added by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 78(23), applicable to taxation years that end after February 27, 2000.

(21.7) Deemed gains [transitional for 2000] — [where] subsec. (21.4) does not apply — Where an amount is designated under subsection (21) in respect of a beneficiary by a trust for a particular taxation year of the trust that ends in a taxation year of the beneficiary that includes February 28, 2000 or October 17, 2000 and subsection (21.4) does not apply in respect of the designated amount,

(a) notwithstanding subsection (21) and except as a consequence of the application of paragraph (b), the designated amount shall not be included in computing the beneficiary's income;

(b) the beneficiary is deemed to have a capital gain from the disposition by the beneficiary of capital property on the day on which the particular taxation year ends equal to the amount, if any, by which

(i) the amount determined by dividing the designated amount by the fraction in paragraph 38(a) that applies to the trust for the particular taxation year

exceeds

(ii) the amount claimed by the beneficiary, which amount may not be greater than the beneficiary's exempt capital gains balance for the year in respect of the trust; and

(c) no amount may be claimed under subsection 39.1(3) by the beneficiary in respect of the designated amount.

History: Subsec. 104(21.7) added by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 78(23), applicable to taxation years that end after February 27, 2000.

(22) Designation of foreign source income by trust — For the purposes of this subsection, subsection (22.1) and section 126, such portion of a trust's income for a taxation year (in this subsection referred to as "that year") throughout which it is resident in Canada from a source in a country other than Canada as

(a) can reasonably be considered (having regard to all the circumstances including the terms and conditions of the trust arrangement) to be part of the income that, because of subsection (13) or (14), was included in computing the income for a particular taxation year of a particular beneficiary under the trust, and

(b) is not designated by the trust in respect of any other beneficiary thereunder

shall, if so designated by the trust in respect of the particular beneficiary in its return of income under this Part for that year, be deemed to be the particular beneficiary's income for the particular year from that source.

Proposed Amendment — 104(22)

(22) Designation in respect of foreign source income — For the purposes of this subsection, subsection (22.1) and section 126, an amount in respect of a trust's income for a particular taxation year of the trust from a source in a country other than Canada is deemed to be income of a taxpayer, for the taxation year of the taxpayer in which the particular taxation year ends, from that source if

(a) the amount

(ii) may reasonably be considered (having regard to all the circumstances including the terms and conditions of the trust) to be part of the amount that, because of paragraph (13)(a) or subsection (14), was included in computing the income for that taxation year of the taxpayer;

(b) the taxpayer is in the particular taxation year a beneficiary under the trust;

(c) the trust is, throughout the particular taxation year, resident in Canada; and

(d) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount designated, under this subsection in respect of that source, by the trust in respect of a beneficiary under the trust in the trust's return of income under this Part for the particular taxation year is not greater than the trust's income for the particular taxation year from that source.

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 94(7), will amend subsec. 104(22) to read as above, applicable to taxation years that end after February 27, 2004 except that, for taxation years that end on or before July 18, 2005, the reference to "paragraph (13)(a)" in subpara. 104(22)(a)(ii) is to be read as "subsection (13)".

Technical Notes: Subsection 104(22) permits a trust to designate, in respect of a beneficiary under the trust, an amount of its foreign income. Such a designation is made by the trust on a source-by-source basis. Where the designation is made, the amount designated is deemed, for the purpose of subsections 104(22) and (22.1) and section 126, to be the beneficiary's income for the year from that source.

Subsection 104(22) is amended to clarify that where an amount is designated, in respect of a taxpayer, by a trust in respect of the trust's income for a particular taxation year of the trust from a source in a country other than Canada, the designated amount is deemed to be income of the taxpayer, for the taxation year of the taxpayer in which the particular taxation year of the trust ends, from that source.

The deeming rule does not apply, however, unless a number of conditions are met. One of these conditions — that a designated amount not be made in respect of more than one beneficiary under the trust — is replaced with a new requirement that the total amounts designated, in respect of the trust's income from a particular foreign source, under subsection 104(22) by the trust for a particular taxation year of the trust not exceed the trust's income for the particular taxation year from that source.

The deeming rule under subsection 104(22) applies, in respect of a beneficiary under a trust, only to the portion of the trust's income, from a source in a country other than Canada, that may reasonably be considered (having regard to all the circumstances including the terms and conditions of the trust arrangement) to be part of the amount that, by reason of subsection 104(13) or 104(14) or section 105, as the case may be, was included in computing the income of a beneficiary under the trust. This condition is also amended and now provides that an amount, in respect of the trust's income from a source in a country other than Canada, is deemed to be income, from that source, only if the amount may reasonably be considered (having regard to all the circumstances including the terms and conditions of the trust) to be part of the amount that, because of paragraph 104(13)(a) or subsection 104(14) or section 105, was included in computing the income of that taxpayer (i.e., the taxpayer in respect of whom the amount is designated).

The amended reference in the above rule to paragraph 104(13)(a), instead of subsection 104(13), applies to taxation years that end after July 18, 2005. This change clarifies that the deeming rule does not apply to employee benefit plan trusts and ensures consistency with amended subsection 104(19). For taxation years that end after February 27, 2004 and on or before July 18, 2005, the referenced provision is subsection 104(13).

(ii) was not designated by the trust in respect of any other beneficiary thereunder, shall, if so designated by the trust in respect of the particular beneficiary in its return of income for the year under this Part, be deemed to be income of the particular beneficiary for the taxation year from sources in that country;

(d) a trust shall be deemed to have paid as income tax to the government of a foreign country for a taxation year an amount equal to the income or profits tax actually paid by it for the year to the government of that country, or to the government of a state, province or other political subdivision of that country (except such portion of that tax as was deductible under subsection 20(11) or deducted under subsection 20(12) in computing its income for the year), minus the total of amounts deemed by paragraph (b) to have been paid to the government of that country for the year by all beneficiaries under the trust.

(23) Testamentary trusts — In the case of a testamentary trust, notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, the following rules apply:

(a) the taxation year of the trust is the period for which the accounts of the trust are made up for purposes of assessment under this Act, but no such period may exceed 12 months and no change in the time when such a period ends may be made for the purposes of this Act without the concurrence of the Minister;

Technical Notes: Subsection 104(23) provides special rules that apply to testamentary trusts. Paragraph 104(23)(a) defines the taxation year of a testamentary trust to be the period for which the accounts of the trust are made up for purposes of assessment under the Act. For this purpose, that paragraph also provides that no such period may exceed 12 months and no change in the time when such a period ends may be made for the purposes of the Act without the concurrence of the Minister of National Revenue. Paragraph 104(23)(b) provides that, in the case of a testamentary trust when a taxation year is referred to by reference to a calendar year, the reference is to the taxation year or years coinciding with, or ending in, that year.

Paragraphs 104(23)(a) and (b) are repealed.

Technical Notes: The determination of when an amount becomes payable in a taxation year is relevant for a number of purposes, including the determination of the amount deductible under subsection 104(6). Under subsection 104(24), an amount is deemed not to have become payable in the year to a beneficiary unless it was paid in the year to the beneficiary or the beneficiary was entitled in the year to enforce payment of the amount.

Subsection 104(24) is amended so that it also applies for the purposes of paragraph (c) of the definition "specified charity" in subsection 94(1), subsection 94(8) and subsection 104(7.01). For more information, see the commentary on those provisions.

This amendment applies to trust taxation years that begin after 2002 [now 2006 — ed.]. It also applies to trust taxation years that begin after 2000, or after 2001, if the trust makes the appropriate election under the coming-into-force provision for new section 94.

Proposed Amendment — 104(24) [coordinating amendment]

(24) Amount payable — For the purposes of subparagraph 53(2)(h)(i.1), paragraph (c) of the definition "specified charity" in subsection 94(1), subsection 94(8) and subsections (6), (7), (7.01), (13), (16) and (20), an amount is deemed not to have become payable to a beneficiary in a taxation year unless it was paid in the year to the beneficiary or the beneficiary was entitled in the year to enforce payment of it.

Application: S.C. 2007, c. 29 (Bill C-52, Royal Assent June 22, 2007), s. 40, states that if Bill C-10 (see proposed amendment above) receives Royal Assent, subsec. 104(24) is amended to read as above, applicable in respect of taxation years of a trust that begin after 2006.

(b) any taxable capital gain or allowable capital loss of the taxpayer from the disposition shall be deemed to be nil; and

(c) for greater certainty, the cost to the taxpayer of each property received by the taxpayer as consideration for the disposition is the fair market value of the property at the time of the disposition.

History: Para. 106(2)(a) amended by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 79(2), applicable to 2000 et seq. The para. formerly read:

(a) except where subsection (3) is applicable, there shall be included in computing the taxpayer's income for the year the proceeds of the disposition;

(3) Proceeds of disposition of income interest — For greater certainty, where at any time any property of a trust has been distributed by the trust to a taxpayer who was a beneficiary under the trust in satisfaction of all or any part of the taxpayer's income interest in the trust, the trust shall be deemed to have disposed of the property for proceeds of disposition equal to the fair market value of the property at that time.

107. (1) Disposition by taxpayer of capital interest — Where a taxpayer has disposed of all or any part of the taxpayer's capital interest in a trust,

(a) where the trust is a personal trust or a prescribed trust, for the purpose of computing the taxpayer's capital gain, if any, from the disposition, the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer of the interest or the part of the interest, as the case may be, immediately before the disposition is, unless any part of the interest has ever been acquired for consideration and, at the time of the disposition, the trust is non-resident, deemed to be the greater of

(i) its adjusted cost base, otherwise determined, to the taxpayer immediately before the disposition, and

(ii) the amount, if any, by which

(A) its cost amount to the taxpayer immediately before the disposition

exceeds

(B) the total of all amounts deducted under paragraph 53(2)(g.1) in computing its adjusted cost base to the taxpayer immediately before the disposition;

(b) [Repealed]

(c) where the taxpayer is not a mutual fund trust, the taxpayer's loss from the disposition is deemed to be the amount, if any, by which the amount of that loss otherwise determined exceeds the amount, if any, by which

(i) the total of all amounts each of which was received or would, but for subsection 104(19), have been received by the trust on a share of the capital stock of a corporation before the disposition (and, where the trust is a unit trust, after 1987) and

(A) where the taxpayer is a corporation,

(I) was a taxable dividend designated under subsection 104(19) by the trust in respect of the taxpayer, to the extent of the amount of the dividend that was deductible under section 112 or subsection 115(1) or 138(6) in computing the taxpayer's taxable income or taxable income earned in Canada for any taxation year, or

(II) was an amount designated under subsection 104(20) by the trust in respect of the taxpayer,

(B) where the taxpayer is another trust, was an amount designated under subsection 104(19) or (20) by the trust in respect of the taxpayer, and

(C) where the taxpayer is not a corporation, trust or partnership, was an amount designated under subsection 104(20) by the trust in respect of the taxpayer

exceeds

(ii) the portion of the total determined under subparagraph (i) that can reasonably be considered to have resulted in a reduction, under this paragraph, of the taxpayer's loss otherwise determined from a previous disposition of an interest in the trust, and

(d) where the taxpayer is a partnership, the share of a person (other than another partnership or a mutual fund trust) of any loss of the partnership from the disposition is deemed to be the amount, if any, by which that loss otherwise determined exceeds the amount, if any, by which

(i) the total of all amounts each of which is a dividend that was received or would, but for subsection 104(19), have been received by the trust on a share of the capital stock of a corporation before the disposition (and, where the trust is a unit trust, after 1987) and

(A) where the person is a corporation,

(I) was a taxable dividend that was designated under subsection 104(19) by the trust in respect of the taxpayer, to the extent of the amount of the dividend that was deductible under section 112 or subsection 115(1) or 138(6) in computing the person's taxable income or taxable income earned in Canada for any taxation year, or

(II) was a dividend designated under subsection 104(20) by the trust in respect of the taxpayer and was an amount received by the person,

(B) where the person is an individual other than a trust, was a dividend designated under subsection 104(20) by the trust in respect of the taxpayer and was an amount received by the person, and

(C) where the person is another trust, was a dividend designated under subsection 104(19) or (20) by the trust in respect of the taxpayer and was an amount received by the person (or that would have been received by the person if this Act were read without reference to subsection 104(19)),

exceeds

(ii) the portion of the total determined under subparagraph (i) that can reasonably be considered to have resulted in a reduction, under this paragraph, of the person's loss otherwise determined from a previous disposition of an interest in the trust.

Proposed Addition — 107(1)(e)

(e) if the capital interest is not a capital property of the taxpayer, notwithstanding the definition "cost amount" in subsection 108(1), its cost amount is deemed to be the amount, if any, by which

(i) the amount that would, if this Act were read without reference to this paragraph and the definition "cost amount" in subsection 108(1), be its cost amount

exceeds

(ii) the total of all amounts, each of which is an amount in respect of the capital interest that has become payable to the taxpayer before the disposition and that would be described in subparagraph 53(2)(h)(i.1) if that subparagraph were read without reference to its subclause (B)(I).

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 96(1), will add para. 107(1)(e), applicable to dispositions that occur, and valuations made,

(a) after 2001 in respect of a qualified trust unit, as defined in subsec. 260(1), as amended, in respect of which an amount described in para. 260(5.1)(b), as amended, or that would have been so described had no election been made under subsec. 194(10) of Bill C-10, is paid after 2001 and before February 28, 2004, except that subpara. 107(1)(e)(ii) shall, with respect to amounts described in subcl. 53(2)(h)(i.1)(B)(I) that were payable on or before 2002, be read without reference to the words "if that subparagraph were read without reference to its subclause (B)(I)"; and

(b) in any other case, after February 27, 2004, except that, subject to para. (a),

(i) the amendment does not apply to a disposition by a taxpayer after February 27, 2004 and before 2005 pursuant to an agreement in writing made by the taxpayer on or before February 27, 2004. and

(ii) subpara. 107(1)(e)(ii) shall, with respect to amounts described in subcl. 53(2)(h)(i.1)(B)(I) that were payable on or before February 27, 2004, be read without reference to the words "if that subparagraph were read without reference to its subclause (B)(I)".

Technical Notes: Subsection 107(1) contains special rules applicable to the disposition of an interest in a trust. A trust can distribute non-taxable amounts, such as returns of capital and the non-taxable portion of a capital gain, to the holders of interests in the trust. Currently, the Act requires a return of capital to be accounted for by reducing the recipient's adjusted cost base of the interest in the trust. While the effect of this general rule is clear where the interest is held as capital property, it is not as clear where the property is held as inventory.

New paragraph 107(1)(e) applies when a taxpayer disposes of an interest in a trust that is not held as capital property. The paragraph deems the taxpayer's cost amount of that interest to be the cost amount used for inventory valuation purposes less the total of all returns of capital and non-taxable capital gains payable to the taxpayer, in respect of the interest, prior to the disposition. This is to recognize that all receipts for a property held on income account should be treated as either income or a reduction in the cost of the property to the holder.

The new paragraph applies to dispositions after 2001 if the trust interest is a qualified security, as defined in subsection 260(1), and an SLA compensation payment or a dealer compensation payment, as defined in subsection 260(1) has been paid in respect of the trust unit after 2001 and before February 27, 2004. Otherwise, the new rule applies to dispositions after February 27, 2004, except that it will not apply to a disposition that took place after February 27, 2004 and before 2005, if the taxpayer had on or before February 27, 2004 entered into an agreement in writing for the disposition of the interest.

There is a further exception to the application of the new paragraph. Distributions of the non-taxable portion of capital gains will reduce the cost amount of an interest in a trust only if those distributions took place after the new paragraph came into effect — that is, in the case of a trust interest that was the subject of a security lending arrangement (SLA) that was made between January 1, 2002 and February 27, 2004, after 2001, and, in all other cases, after February 27, 2004.

History: The opening words of para. 107(1)(a) amended, para. 107(1)(b) and the closing words of para. 107(1)(d) repealed, by 2001, c. 17, subsecs. 80(1) to (3), applicable to 2000 et seq. except that, in respect of transfers in 2000 or 2001, for the purposes of subsec. 107(1), as amended, the residence of a transferee trust shall be determined without reference to s. 94, as it read before 2002. Those portions formerly read:

(a) where the trust is a personal trust or a prescribed trust, for the purpose of computing the taxpayer's taxable capital gain, if any, from the disposition, the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer of the interest, or the part of the interest, as the case may be, immediately before the disposition shall be deemed to be the greater of

(b) for greater certainty, for the purposes of computing the taxpayer's allowable capital loss, if any, from the disposition of the interest or part thereof, as the case may be, the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer of the interest or part thereof immediately before the disposition is the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer thereof immediately before that time as determined under this Act without reference to paragraph (a),

except that where the interest was an interest in an inter vivos trust not resident in Canada that was purchased by the taxpayer, paragraph (a) does not apply in respect of the disposition of all or any part thereof except where subsection (2) is applicable in respect of any distribution of property by the trust to the taxpayer in satisfaction of that interest or that part thereof, as the case may be.

Proposed Amendment — Application of S.C. 2001, c. 17, s. 80

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 1 — NRTs and FIEs), s. 46, will amend the application of the amendments made to subsec. 107(1) by S.C. 2001, c. 17, subsecs. 80(1) to (3) (see above), deemed in force on June 14, 2001, to read as follows:

The opening words of para. 107(1)(a) amended, para. 107(1)(b) and the closing words of para. 107(1)(d) repealed, by 2001, c. 17, subsecs. 80(1) to (3), applicable to 2000 et seq. except that, in respect of transfers after 1999 and before 2007, for the purposes of subsec. 107(1), as amended, the residence of a transferee trust shall be determined without reference to s. 94, in its application to taxation years that began before 2007.

Technical Notes: Paragraph 107(1)(a) applies for the purpose of computing a taxpayer's taxable capital gain from the disposition of a capital interest in a personal trust (or a prescribed trust described in section 4800.1 of the Income Tax Regulations), except where the interest was an interest in a non-resident inter vivos trust purchased by the taxpayer and the disposition was not by way of a distribution to which subsection 107(2) applies. For this purpose the residency of the trust is to be determined without reference to section 94 as it read before 2002.

This amendment to the Income Tax Amendments Act, 2000, ensures that, in applying subsection 107(1) in respect of transfers that occur after 1999 and before 2007, the residence of a transferee trust will be determined without reference to section 94, as it reads in its application to taxation years that began before 2007.

Para. 107(1)(c) amended, and para. (d) added by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 128(1), applicable to dispositions that occur after April 26, 1995 except that, for dispositions that occur before 1998, the first reference to "loss" in para. 107(1)(c) shall be read as "capital loss". Para. 107(1)(c) formerly read:

(c) where the taxpayer is a corporation and the interest is not an interest in a prescribed trust, its capital loss from the disposition at any time of the interest or part thereof shall be deemed to be the amount, if any, by which the amount of its loss otherwise determined exceeds the amount, if any, by which

(i) the total of all amounts each of which was received by the trust before that time (and, where the trust is a unit trust, after 1987) and designated by it under subsection 104(19) or (20) in respect of the corporation

exceeds

(ii) such portion of the total referred to in subparagraph (i) as can reasonably be considered to have resulted in a reduction under this paragraph of its capital loss otherwise determined from the disposition before that time of an interest in the trust,

Para. 107(1)(a) amended by 1995, c. 21, s. 35, applicable to taxation years that end after February 21, 1994. Para. (a) formerly read:

(a) where the trust is a personal trust or a prescribed trust, for the purposes of computing the taxpayer's taxable capital gain, if any, from the disposition of the interest or part thereof, as the case may be, the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer thereof immediately before the disposition shall be deemed to be an amount equal to the greater of the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer thereof otherwise determined immediately before that time and the cost amount to the taxpayer thereof immediately before that time,

Para. 107(1)(c) substituted by 1994, c. 21, s. 47, applicable to 1988 et seq. That para. formerly read:

(c) where the taxpayer is a corporation and the interest is not an interest in a prescribed trust, its capital loss from the disposition at any time of the interest or part thereof shall be deemed to be the amount of its loss otherwise determined minus the total of all amounts each of which is an amount received by the trust before that time and designated by it in respect of the corporation under subsection 104(19) or (20),

Para. 107(1)(a) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 76(1), to add "or a prescribed trust", applicable to dispositions occurring after 1987, other than a disposition of an interest in a trust, the units of which were listed on October 1, 1987 on a prescribed stock exchange, occurring before the earlier of

(a) January 1, 1991, and

(b) any date after October 1, 1987 on which a beneficial interest in the trust was or is issued.

Regulations: 4800.1 (prescribed trust).

Advance Tax Rulings: ATR-38: Distribution of all of the property of an estate.

(1.1) Cost of capital interest in a trust — The cost to a taxpayer of a capital interest of the taxpayer in a personal trust or a prescribed trust is deemed to be,

(a) where the taxpayer elected under subsection 110.6(19) in respect of the interest and the trust does not elect under that subsection in respect of any property of the trust, the taxpayer's cost of the interest determined under paragraph 110.6(19)(a); and

(b) in any other case, nil, unless

(i) any part of the interest was acquired by the taxpayer from a person who was the beneficiary in respect of the interest immediately before that acquisition, or

(ii) the cost of any part of the interest would otherwise be determined not to be nil under section 48 as it read in its application before 1993 or under paragraph 111(4)(e) or 128.1(1)(c) or (4)(c).

Proposed Addition — 107(1.1)(b)(iii)

(iii) at a time in a taxation year at which that cost is relevant, the interest is a participating interest in respect of which subsection 94.1(3) or 94.2(9) applies to the taxpayer for that taxation year.

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 1 — NRTs and FIEs), subsec. 24(1), will add subpara. 107(1.1)(b)(iii), applicable to taxation years that begin after 2006, except that it also applies to a taxation year of a taxpayer that begins before 2007 if ss. 94.1 to 94.4 apply to that taxation year of the taxpayer.

Technical Notes: Subsection 107(1.1) provides rules for computing the cost to a taxpayer of a capital interest in a personal trust or a prescribed trust. Paragraph 107(1.1)(b) provides that the cost is nil, except where certain conditions apply.

Paragraph 107(1.1)(b) is amended so that if a capital interest in a personal trust or prescribed trust is a participating interest in a foreign investment entity, the cost of the capital interest will not be deemed by that paragraph to be nil. For more details, see the commentary on new sections 94.1 to 94.4.

Related Provisions: 107.4(3)(k)–(m) — Cost of capital interest in trust following qualifying disposition; 107.4(4) — Fair market value of capital interest in trust; 248(25.4) — Addition to cost of capital interest in trust.

History: Subsec. 107(1.1) amended by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 80(4), applicable to 2000 et seq. The subsec. formerly read:

(1.1) For the purpose of subsection (1) and notwithstanding paragraph 69(1)(c), the cost to a taxpayer of a capital interest in a trust, other than an interest acquired by the taxpayer from a person who was the beneficiary in respect of the interest immediately before its acquisition by the taxpayer or an interest issued to the taxpayer for consideration paid by the taxpayer that is equal to the fair market value of the interest at the time of issuance, is deemed to be

(a) where the taxpayer elects under subsection 110.6(19) in respect of the interest and the trust does not elect under that subsection in respect of any property of the trust, the taxpayer's cost of the interest determined under paragraph 110.6(19)(a); and

Subsec. 107(1.1) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 128(2), applicable to 1994 et seq. Subsec. 107(1.1) formerly read:

(1.1) For the purposes of subsection (1) and notwithstanding paragraph 69(1)(c), the cost to a taxpayer of a capital interest in a trust, other than an interest acquired by the taxpayer from a person who was the beneficiary in respect of the interest immediately before the acquisition thereof by the taxpayer or an interest issued to the taxpayer for consideration paid by the taxpayer that is equal to the fair market value thereof at the time of issuance, shall be deemed to be nil.

Regulations: 4800.1 (prescribed trust).

(1.2) Deemed fair market value — non-capital property — For the purpose of section 10, the fair market value at any time of a capital interest in a trust is deemed to be equal to the amount that is the total of

(a) the amount that would, if this Act were read without reference to this subsection, be its fair market value at that time, and

(b) the total of all amounts, each of which is an amount that would be described, in respect of the capital interest, in subparagraph 53(2)(h)(i.1) if that paragraph were read without reference to its subclause (B)(I), that has become payable to the taxpayer before that time.

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 96(2), will add subsec. 107(1.2), applicable to dispositions that occur, and valuations made,

(a) after 2001 in respect of a qualified trust unit, as defined in subsec. 260(1), in respect of which an amount described in para. 260(5.1)(b), as amended, or that would have been so described had no election been made under subsec. 194(10) of Bill C-10, is paid after 2001 and before February 28, 2004, except that para. 107(1.2)(b) shall, with respect to amounts described in subcl. 53(2)(h)(i.1)(B)(I) that were payable on or before 2002, be read without reference to the words "if that subparagraph were read without reference to its subclause (B)(I)"; and

(b) in any other case, after February 27, 2004, except that, subject to para. (a), para. 107(1.2)(b) shall, with respect to amounts described in subcl. 53(2)(h)(i.1)(B)(I) that were payable on or before February 27, 2004, be read without reference to the words "if that subparagraph were read without reference to its subclause (B)(I)".

Technical Notes: Where an interest in a trust is held as an inventory, the fair market value of the interest at valuation for the purpose of section 10 can be affected by non-taxable distributions from the trust, potentially producing a tax loss to the holder of the interest even though the holder had suffered no economic loss (thanks to the non-taxable distribution the holder has already received).

New subsection 107(1.2) requires that at any particular valuation time the fair market value of an interest in a trust be deemed to be the total of the fair market value otherwise determined and the sum of any returns of capital and non-taxable capital gains payable before that time.

The new subsection applies to valuations of trust interest that take place after February 27, 2004, and to valuations after 2001 if the trust interest in question is a qualified security, as defined in subsection 260(1), and an SLA compensation payment or a dealer compensation payment, as defined in subsection 260(1), has been paid in respect of the trust unit after 2001 and before February 27, 2004.

There is an exception to the application of the new subsection. Distributions of the non-taxable portion of capital gains will be added to the fair market value of an interest in a trust only if those distributions took place after the new subsection came into effect — that is, in the case of a trust interest that was the subject of a security lending arrangement (SLA) that was made between January 1, 2002 and February 27, 2004, after 2001, and, in all other cases, after February 27, 2004.

Related Provisions: 107.4(4) — Fair market value of vested capital interest in trust.

(2) Distribution by personal trust — Subject to subsections (2.001), (2.002) and (4) to (5), where at any time a property of a personal trust or a prescribed trust is distributed by the trust to a taxpayer who was a beneficiary under the trust and there is a resulting disposition of all or any part of the taxpayer's capital interest in the trust,

Proposed Amendment — 107(2) opening words

(2) Distribution by personal trust — Subject to subsections (2.001), (2.002) and (4) to (5), if at any time a property of a personal trust or a prescribed trust is distributed (otherwise than as a SIFT trust wind-up event) by the trust to a taxpayer who was a beneficiary under the trust and there is a resulting disposition of all or any part of the taxpayer's capital interest in the trust,

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 26(1), will amend the opening words of subsec. 107(2) to read as above, applicable after July 14, 2008.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): Subsection 107(2) applies where a personal trust or a prescribed trust described in section 4800.1 of the Regulations distributes property to a beneficiary and there is a resulting disposition of part or all of the beneficiary's capital interest in the trust.

Subsection 107(2) of the Act is amended in conjunction with a series of other amendments intended to provide for the income tax effects on a reorganization into corporate form of a SIFT wind-up entity. The subsection is amended so that it does not apply to a distribution that is a SIFT trust wind-up event.

(a) the trust shall be deemed to have disposed of the property for proceeds of disposition equal to its cost amount to the trust immediately before that time;

(b) subject to subsection (2.2), the taxpayer is deemed to have acquired the property at a cost equal to the total of its cost amount to the trust immediately before that time and the specified percentage of the amount, if any, by which

(i) the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer of the capital interest or part of it, as the case may be, immediately before that time (determined without reference to paragraph (1)(a))

exceeds

(ii) the cost amount to the taxpayer of the capital interest or part of it, as the case may be, immediately before that time;

(b.1) for the purpose of paragraph (b), the specified percentage is,

(i) where the property is capital property (other than depreciable property), 100%,

(ii) where the property is eligible capital property in respect of a business of the trust, 100%, and

(iii) in any other case, 75%;

Proposed Amendment — 107(2)(b.1)(iii)

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 96(4), will amend subpara. 107(2)(b.1)(iii) to replace "75%" with "50%", applicable to distributions made after December 20, 2002.

Technical Notes: Subsection 107(2) applies where a personal trust or a prescribed trust described in section 4800.1 of the Regulations distributes property to a beneficiary and there is a resulting disposition of Part or all of the beneficiary's capital interest in the trust. Under paragraph 107(2)(a), the trust is deemed to have disposed of the property for proceeds of disposition equal to the property's cost amount. Under paragraph 107(2)(b), the property is deemed to have been acquired by the beneficiary for an amount equal to the total of the amount described in paragraph 107(2)(a) and a "bump" equal to the specified percentage of any excess of the adjusted cost base to the beneficiary of the capital interest over its cost amount (as defined by subsection 108(1)) to the beneficiary of the interest. Under subparagraph 107(2)(b.1)(iii), the specified percentage for property (other than non-depreciable capital property and eligible capital property) is 75%. Where subsection 107(2) applies, paragraph 107(2)(c) provides that the beneficiary is deemed to have disposed of all or part, as the case may be, of the capital interest for proceeds equal to the amount determined under that paragraph.

Subparagraph 107(2)(b.1)(iii) is amended to replace the reference to 75% with a reference to 50%, consistent with the current capital gains inclusion rate.

(c) the taxpayer is deemed to have disposed of all or part, as the case may be, of the capital interest for proceeds equal to the amount, if any, by which

(c) the taxpayer's proceeds of disposition of the capital interest in the trust (or of the part of it) disposed of by the taxpayer on the distribution are deemed to be equal to the amount, if any, by which

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 96(5), will amend the opening words of para. 107(2)(c) to read as above, applicable to distributions made after 1999.

Technical Notes: Paragraph 107(2)(c) is amended to clarify that it applies to determine a taxpayer's proceeds of disposition of the capital interest in a trust (or of the part of it) disposed of by the taxpayer on a distribution, to which subsection 107(2) applies, of property by the trust.

(i) the cost at which the taxpayer would be deemed by paragraph (b) to have acquired the property if the specified percentage referred to in that paragraph were 100%

exceeds

(ii) the total of all amounts each of which is an eligible offset at that time of the taxpayer in respect of the capital interest or the part of it;

(d) where the property so distributed was depreciable property of a prescribed class of the trust and the amount that was the capital cost to the trust of that property exceeds the cost at which the taxpayer is deemed by this section to have acquired the property, for the purposes of sections 13 and 20 and any regulations made under paragraph 20(1)(a)

(i) the capital cost to the taxpayer of the property shall be deemed to be the amount that was the capital cost of the property to the trust, and

(ii) the excess shall be deemed to have been allowed to the taxpayer in respect of the property under regulations made under paragraph 20(1)(a) in computing income for taxation years before the acquisition by the taxpayer of the property;

(d.1) the property is deemed to be taxable Canadian property of the taxpayer where

(i) the taxpayer is non-resident at that time,

(ii) that time is before October 2, 1996, and

(iii) the property was deemed by paragraph 51(1)(f), 85(1)(i) or 85.1(1)(a), subsection 87(4) or (5) or paragraph 97(2)(c) to be taxable Canadian property of the trust; and

Proposed Amendment — 107(2)(d.1)(iii)

(iii) the property was deemed by paragraph 51(1)(f), 85(1)(i) or 85.1(1)(a), subsection 85.1(5) or 87(4) or (5) or paragraph 97(2)(c) to be taxable Canadian property of the trust; and

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 96(7), will amend subpara. 107(2)(d.1)(iii) to read as above, applicable in determining after October 1, 1996 whether property is taxable Canadian property.

Technical Notes: Paragraph 107(2)(d.1) determines the tax consequences of the disposition of taxable Canadian property by a trust to a non-resident beneficiary before October 2, 1996. In the event that the property was explicitly deemed to have been taxable Canadian property under a number of specified provisions of the Act, paragraph 107(2)(d.1) ensures that it continues to be taxable Canadian property of the beneficiary.

Paragraph 107(2)(d.1) is amended by adding to the list of specified provisions, that explicitly deem property to be taxable Canadian property, a reference to subsection 85.1(5).

(e) [Repealed]

(i) where the eligible capital expenditure of the trust in respect of the property exceeds the cost at which the taxpayer is deemed by this subsection to have acquired the property, for the purposes of sections 14, 20 and 24,

(A) the eligible capital expenditure of the taxpayer in respect of the property shall be deemed to be the amount that was the eligible capital expenditure of the trust in respect of the property, and

(B) ¾ of the excess shall be deemed to have been allowed under paragraph 20(1)(b) to the taxpayer in respect of the property in computing income for taxation years ending

(I) before the acquisition by the taxpayer of the property, and

(II) after the adjustment time of the taxpayer in respect of the business, and

(ii) for the purpose of determining after that time the amount required by paragraph 14(1)(b) to be included in computing the taxpayer's income in respect of any subsequent disposition of property of the business, there shall be added to the value otherwise determined for Q in the definition "cumulative eligible capital" in subsection 14(5) the amount determined by the formula

A is the amount, if any, determined for Q in that definition in respect of the business of the trust immediately before the distribution,

Proposed Amendment — 107(2.1) opening words

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 26(2), will amend the opening words of subsec. 107(2.1) to substitute "subsections (2) and (3.1) and sections 88.1 and" for "subsection (2) and section", applicable after July 14, 2008.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): Where trust property is distributed by a trust to a beneficiary in satisfaction of the beneficiary's capital interest, the rules in subsection 107(2.1) apply if certain other sections do not apply. Subsection 107(2.1) is amended in conjunction with a series of other amendments intended to provide for the income tax effects on a reorganization into corporate form of a SIFT wind-up entity. The amendment ensures that subsection 107(2.1) does not apply to a distribution to which new section 88.1 or new subsection 107(3.1) applies.

(a) the trust is deemed to have disposed of the property for proceeds equal to its fair market value at that time;

(b) the beneficiary is deemed to have acquired the property at a cost equal to the proceeds determined under paragraph (a);

(c) subject to paragraph (e), the beneficiary's proceeds of disposition of the portion of the former interest disposed of by the beneficiary on the distribution are deemed to be equal to the amount, if any, by which

(i) the proceeds determined under paragraph (a) (other than the portion, if any, of the proceeds that is a payment to which paragraph (h) or (i) of the definition "disposition" in subsection 248(1) applies),

exceed the total of

(ii) where the property is not a Canadian resource property or foreign resource property, the amount, if any, by which

(A) the fair market value of the property at that time

exceeds the total of

(B) the cost amount to the trust of the property immediately before that time, and

(C) the portion, if any, of the excess that would be determined under this subparagraph if this subparagraph were read without reference to this clause that represents a payment to which paragraph (h) or (i) of the definition "disposition" in subsection 248(1) applies, and

(iii) all amounts each of which is an eligible offset at that time of the taxpayer in respect of the former interest;

(d) notwithstanding paragraphs (a) to (c), where the trust is non-resident at that time, the property is not described in paragraph (2.001)(b) or (c) and, if this Act were read without reference to this paragraph, there would be no income, loss, taxable capital gain or allowable capital loss of a taxpayer in respect of the property because of the application of subsection 75(2) to the disposition at that time of the property,

(i) the trust is deemed to have disposed of the property for proceeds equal to the cost amount of the property,

(ii) the beneficiary is deemed to have acquired the property at a cost equal to the fair market value of the property, and

(iii) the beneficiary's proceeds of disposition of the portion of the former interest disposed of by the beneficiary on the distribution are deemed to be equal to the amount, if any, by which

(A) the fair market value of the property

exceeds the total of

(B) the portion, if any, of the amount of the distribution that is a payment to which paragraph (h) or (i) of the definition "disposition" in subsection 248(1) applies, and

(C) all amounts each of which is an eligible offset at that time of the taxpayer in respect of the former interest; and

(e) where the trust is a mutual fund trust, the distribution occurs in a taxation year of the trust before its 2003 taxation year, the trust has elected under subsection (2.11) in respect of the year and the trust so elects in respect of the distribution in prescribed form filed with the trust's return of income for the year,

(i) this subsection shall be read without reference to paragraph (c), and

(ii) the beneficiary's proceeds of disposition of the portion of the former interest disposed of by the beneficiary on the distribution are deemed to be equal to the amount determined under paragraph (a).

History: Subsec. 107(2.1) amended by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 80(12), applicable to distributions made after 1999, except that

(a) the amendment does not apply to distributions made before March 2000 in satisfaction of rights described in subsec. 52(6) that were acquired before 2000; and

(b) for distributions made from a trust before June 14, 2001, an election under that subsec. 107(2.1) is deemed to have been made in a timely manner if it is made on or before the trust's filing-due date for the taxation year that includes June 14, 2001.

Subsec. 107(2.1) formerly read:

(2.1) Where at any time any property of a trust is distributed by the trust to a beneficiary under the trust in satisfaction of all or any part of the beneficiary's capital interest in the trust or in satisfaction of a right described in subsection 52(6), and subsection (2) does not apply in respect of the distribution, notwithstanding any other provision of this Act other than section 132.2,

(a) the trust shall be deemed to have disposed of the property for proceeds equal to its fair market value at that time;

(b) the beneficiary shall be deemed to have acquired the property at a cost equal to that fair market value; and

(c) the beneficiary shall be deemed to have disposed of the interest or part thereof in the trust or the right, as the case may be, for proceeds of disposition equal to the cost at which the beneficiary is deemed by paragraph (b) to have acquired the property.

The opening words of subsec. 107(2.1) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 128(4), applicable to distributions made after June 1994. The opening words formerly read:

(2.1) Where at any time any property of a trust has been distributed by the trust to a beneficiary under the trust in satisfaction of all or any part of the beneficiary's capital interest in the trust or in satisfaction of a right described in subsection 52(6) and subsection (2) is not applicable in respect of the distribution, notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, the following rules apply:

(2.11) Gains not distributed to beneficiaries — Where a trust makes one or more distributions of property in a taxation year in circumstances in which subsection (2.1) applies (or, in the case of property distributed after October 1, 1996 and before 2000, in circumstances in which subsection (5) applied)

(a) where the trust is resident in Canada at the time of each of those distributions and has so elected in prescribed form filed with the trust's return for the year or a preceding taxation year, the income of the trust for the year (determined without reference to subsection 104(6)) shall, for the purposes of subsections 104(6) and (13), be computed without regard to all of those distributions to non-resident persons (including a partnership other than a Canadian partnership); and

(b) where the trust is resident in Canada at the time of each of those distributions and has so elected in prescribed form filed with the trust's return for the year or a preceding taxation year, the income of the trust for the year (determined without reference to subsection 104(6)) shall, for the purposes of subsections 104(6) and (13), be computed without regard to all of those distributions.

Proposed Amendment — 107(2.11)

Letter from Dept. of Finance, March 15, 2002:

Dear [xxx]

Thank you for your letters of April 4, 2001 and October 19, 2001, concerning the application of the Income Tax Act ("the Act") to a distribution of property by a mutual fund trust. I would also like to acknowledge your conversations with Mr. Grant Nash of this Division.

You have raised an issue concerning the possible taxation of income at the trust level where a trust, that has elected under subsection 107(2.11) in respect of the distribution of its property, makes a cash payment to unitholders out of the trust's income or capital gains. You submit that the effect of the election under subsection 107(2.11) extends to all of the trust's distributions, including cash payments to beneficiaries out of trust income or capital gains. If, as a result of subsection 107(2.11), the payments out of income or capital gains were ignored for the purposes of subsection 104(6) and (13), you submit that the corresponding amounts of income and capital gains would be recognized at the trust level. We confirm that such a result would be unintended.

The purpose of subsection 107(2.11) is to provide trusts with a mechanism of ensuring that capital gains, that arguably would otherwise be considered to be paid out to a unitholder upon a distribution of property from the trust to the unitholder, are not paid out on the distribution. Given this policy, the provision should generally apply only to distributions of property that would be expected to result in the realization at the trust level of such capital gains. Accordingly, the effect of an election under subsection 107(2.11) should not extend to distributions of cash denominated in Canadian dollars.

We are prepared to recommend amendments to subsection 107(2.11) of the Act to clarify its intended application in the circumstances described above. In addition, we are prepared to recommend that such an amendment apply to distributions of property made by a mutual fund trust after 2001, and, where the trust so elects, to distributions made by a mutual fund trust after 1999.

Thank you for writing.

Yours sincerely,

Brian Ernewein, Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

History: Subsec. 107(2.12) added by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 80(12), in force June 14, 2001.

(2.2) Flow-through entity — Where at any time before 2005 a beneficiary under a trust described in paragraph (h), (i) or (j) of the definition "flow-through entity" in subsection 39.1(1) received a distribution of property from the trust in satisfaction of all or a portion of the beneficiary's interests in the trust and the beneficiary files with the Minister on or before the beneficiary's filing-due date for the taxation year that includes that time an election in respect of the property in prescribed form, there shall be included in the cost to the beneficiary of a particular property (other than money) received by the beneficiary as part of the distribution of property the least of

(a) the amount, if any, by which the beneficiary's exempt capital gains balance (as defined in subsection 39.1(1)) in respect of the trust for the beneficiary's taxation year that includes that time exceeds the total of all amounts each of which is

(i) an amount by which a capital gain is reduced under section 39.1 in the year because of the beneficiary's exempt capital gains balance in respect of the trust,

(ii) twice an amount by which a taxable capital gain is reduced under section 39.1 in the year because of the beneficiary's exempt capital gains balance in respect of the trust, or

(iii) an amount included in the cost to the beneficiary of another property received by the beneficiary at or before that time in the year because of this subsection,

(b) the amount by which the fair market value of the particular property at that time exceeds the adjusted cost base to the trust of the particular property immediately before that time, and

(c) the amount designated in respect of the particular property in the election.

Related Provisions: 39.1(1)"exempt capital gains balance"F(a) — Exempt capital gains balance of flow-through entity.

History: Subpara. 107(2.2)(a)(ii) amended by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 80(13), to replace the reference to the expression "4/3 of" with a reference to the word "twice", applicable to taxation years that end after February 27, 2000 except that, for a beneficiary's taxation year that includes February 28, 2000 or October 17, 2000, or began after February 28, 2000 and ended before October 17, 2000, the reference to the word "twice" shall be read as a reference to the expression "the fraction that is the reciprocal of the fraction in para. 38(a), as amended by 2001, c. 17, that applies to the beneficiary for the year, multiplied by".

Subsec. 107(2.2) added by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 128(5), applicable to distributions made after 1993, and a prescribed form filed under subsec. 107(2.2) before January 1999 is deemed to be filed on time.

(3) [Repealed]

History: Subsec. 107(3) repealed by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 80(14), applicable to distributions made after 1999. The subsec. formerly read:

(3) Cost of property other than non-depreciable capital property — Where the property referred to in subsection (2) that was distributed by a trust to a taxpayer was property other than capital property that was not depreciable property, for the purpose of determining the cost to the taxpayer of the property under paragraph (2)(b) (except for the purposes of that paragraph as it applies to determine the taxpayer's proceeds of disposition of the taxpayer's capital interest under paragraph (2)(c)), the reference in paragraph (2)(b) to "the amount" shall be read as a reference to "½ of the amount".

Proposed Addition — 107(3), (3.1)

(3) Application of subsec. (3.1) — Subsection (3.1) applies to a trust's distribution of property to a taxpayer if:

(a) the distribution is a SIFT trust wind-up event to which section 88.1 does not apply;

(b) the property is a share and the only shares distributed on any SIFT trust wind-up event of the trust are of a single class of the capital stock of a taxable Canadian corporation; and

(c) where the trust is a SIFT wind-up entity, the distribution occurs no more than 60 days after the earlier of

(i) the first SIFT trust wind-up event of the trust, and

(ii) the first distribution to the trust that is a SIFT trust wind-up event of another trust.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): New subsections 107(3) and (3.1) are part of a series of amendments intended to provide for the income tax effects on a reorganization into corporate form of a SIFT wind-up entity.

Subsection 107(3) sets out conditions that must be met for the rules in subsection 107(3.1) to apply. Generally, this subsection allows subsection (3.1) to apply to a distribution that is a "SIFT trust wind-up event" (newly defined in subsection 248(1)) provided certain requirements are met. Those requirements are that section 88.1 does not apply, that the property distributed is shares of a taxable Canadian corporation, and, if the trust is a "SIFT wind-up entity", that the distribution occurs no more than 60 days after the earlier two events. Those events are the trust's own first distribution that is a SIFT trust wind-up event and the first distribution to it that is a SIFT trust wind-up event of a subsidiary trust.

(3.1) SIFT trust wind-up event — If this subsection applies to a trust's distribution of property, the following rules apply:

(a) the trust is deemed to have disposed of the property for proceeds of disposition equal to the adjusted cost base to the trust of the property immediately before the distribution;

(b) the taxpayer is deemed to have disposed of the taxpayer's interest as a beneficiary under the trust for proceeds of disposition equal to the cost amount to the taxpayer of the interest immediately before the distribution;

(c) the taxpayer is deemed to have acquired the property at a cost equal to

(i) if, at all times at which the trust makes a distribution that is a SIFT trust wind-up event, the taxpayer is the only beneficiary under the trust and is a SIFT wind-up entity or a taxable Canadian corporation, the adjusted cost base to the trust of the property immediately before the distribution, and

(ii) in any other case, the cost amount to the taxpayer of the taxpayer's interest as a beneficiary under the trust immediately before the distribution;

(d) if the taxpayer's interest as a beneficiary under the trust was immediately before the disposition taxable Canadian property of the taxpayer, the property is deemed to be taxable Canadian property of the taxpayer; and

(e) if a liability of the trust becomes as a consequence of the distribution a liability of the corporation described in paragraph (3)(b) in respect of the distribution, and the amount payable by the corporation on the maturity of the liability is the same as the amount that would have been payable by the trust on its maturity,

(i) the transfer of the liability by the trust to the corporation is deemed not to have occurred, and

(ii) the liability is deemed

(A) to have been incurred or issued by the corporation at the time at which, and under the agreement under which, it was incurred or issued by the trust, and

(B) not to have been incurred or issued by the trust.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): Subsection 107(3.1) allows for a tax-deferred distribution of a SIFT trust's property.

This is achieved by deeming the trust being wound up to dispose of the property for proceeds of disposition equal to the adjusted cost base of the property immediately before the disposition.

The taxpayer holding the beneficial interest in the trust who receives the property is deemed to have disposed of its interest as a beneficiary of the trust for proceeds of disposition equal to the cost amount to the taxpayer of the interest immediately before the distribution.

If the taxpayer is the only beneficiary of the trust, as would happen where the trust is wholly owned by another trust or corporation, and the taxpayer is a "SIFT wind-up entity" or a taxable Canadian corporation, the taxpayer is deemed to have acquired the trust property at a cost equal to the adjusted cost base to the trust immediately before the disposition.

In any other case, such as where the beneficial interests in the trust are held by the public, the property is deemed to be acquired at the cost amount to the taxpayer of the taxpayer's interest as a beneficiary of the trust.

If the taxpayer's interest as a beneficiary under the trust was taxable Canadian property, the new property received is deemed to continue to be taxable Canadian property of the taxpayer.

Subsection (3.1) also provides a rule in respect of certain of the trust's debts and other obligations. If a liability owed by the trust is, as a consequence of the distribution, assumed by the corporation described in paragraph 107(3)(b) in respect of the distribution (that is, the corporation the shares of which are being distributed) and the amount payable on maturity by the corporation is the same as that amount payable by the trust, then a rule similar to that in subsection 87(7) is applied. That is, no income tax consequences will arise from the assumption of that liability and the liability is deemed to have been incurred or issued by the corporation and not the trust.

For more information, readers may refer to the notes under the definition "SIFT trust wind-up event" in subsection 248(1).

Related Provisions: 80.01(5.1) — Debt settlement on wind-up event; 85.1(7), (8) — Alternate mechanism for rollover of SIFT units to corporation; 88.1(2) — Wind-up of SIFT trust to single corporation; 107(2), (2.1) — Regular rollout rules do not apply; 107(3) — Conditions for 107(3.1) to apply; 107.4(3)(f) — Deemed taxable Canadian property retains status on rollover; 108(1)"cost amount" — Definition does not apply to 107(3.1); 248(25.1) — Deemed taxable Canadian property retains status through trust-to-trust transfer.

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 26(3), will add subsecs. 107(3) and (3.1), applicable after July 14, 2008, except that para. 107(3)(b) is to be read without reference to "of a single class" in its application to a trust's distribution of property before February 3, 2009; and subsec. 107(3) is to be read without reference to its para. (c) in its application to a trust's distribution of property, if the distribution occurs no more than 60 days after Royal Assent.

(4) Trusts in favour of spouse, common-law partner or self — Subsection (2.1) applies (and subsection (2) does not apply) at any time to property distributed to a beneficiary by a trust described in paragraph 104(4)(a) where

(a) the beneficiary is not

(i) in the case of a post-1971 spousal or common-law partner trust, the spouse or common-law partner referred to in paragraph 104(4)(a),

(ii) in the case of an alter ego trust, the taxpayer referred to in paragraph 104(4)(a), and

(iii) in the case of a joint spousal or common-law partner trust, the taxpayer, spouse or common-law partner referred to in paragraph 104(4)(a); and

(b) a taxpayer, spouse or common-law partner referred to in subparagraph (a)(i), (ii), or (iii), as the case may be, is alive on the day of the distribution.

Related Provisions: 53(4) — Effect on ACB of share, partnership interest or trust interest; 104(6) — Deduction in computing income of trust; 107(5) — Distribution to non-resident beneficiary; 108(1) — "accumulating income".

History: Subsec. 107(4) amended by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 80(15), applicable to distributions made after 1999. The subsec. formerly read:

(4) Where trust in favour of spouse [or common-law partner] — Where

(a) at any time property of a trust is distributed by the trust to a beneficiary in circumstances to which subsection (2) would, but for this subsection, apply,

(a.1) the trust is described in paragraph 104(4)(a),

(a.2) the property so distributed by the trust was capital property, a Canadian resource property, a foreign resource property or property that was land included in the inventory of the trust,

(b) the taxpayer to whom the property is so distributed is a person other than the spouse or common-law partner referred to in paragraph 104(4)(a) in respect of the trust, and

(c) that spouse or common-law partner is alive on the day the property is so distributed,

notwithstanding paragraphs (2)(a) to (c), the following rules apply:

(d) the trust shall be deemed to have disposed of the property and to have received proceeds of disposition therefor equal to its fair market value at that time,

(e) the taxpayer shall be deemed to have acquired the property at a cost equal to those proceeds, and

(f) the taxpayer shall be deemed to have disposed of all or part, as the case may be, of the taxpayer's capital interest in the trust for proceeds of disposition equal to the cost at which, but for this subsection, the taxpayer would be deemed by paragraph (2)(b) to have acquired the property, minus the amount of any debt assumed by the taxpayer or of any other legal obligation assumed by the taxpayer to pay any amount, if the distribution of the property to the taxpayer was conditional on the assumption by the taxpayer of the debt or obligation.

Subsec. 107(4) amended by 2000, c. 12, Sch. 2, s. 1, to replace "spouse" with "spouse or common-law partner", applicable to 2001 et seq., in force July 31, 2000. See also the transitional rules reproduced in the History to 248(1)"common-law partner".

All that portion of subsec. 107(4) preceding para. (e) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 43(4), applicable to distributions occurring after December 20, 1991 except that para. (d) as amended does not apply to distributions occurring before 1993. That portion formerly read:

(4) Where trust in favour of spouse — Where the trust referred to in subsection (2) was a trust described in paragraph 104(4)(a) and

(a) the property so distributed by the trust was capital property, a Canadian resource property, a foreign resource property or property that was land included in the inventory of the trust,

(b) the taxpayer to whom the property was so distributed was a person other than the spouse, and

(c) the spouse was alive at the time the property was so distributed,

notwithstanding paragraphs (2)(a) to (c), the following rules apply:

(d) the trust shall be deemed to have disposed of the property and to have received proceeds of disposition therefor equal to,

(i) where the property was depreciable property of the trust of a prescribed class and the fair market value of that property at that time exceeds its cost amount to the trust at that time, the amount of that cost amount plus ½ of the amount of the excess,

(ii) where the property was depreciable property of the trust of a prescribed class and the cost amount of that property to the trust at that time exceeds its fair market value at that time, the amount of that fair market value plus ½ of the amount of the excess, and

(iii) in any other case, its fair market value at that time,

(4.01) Specified participating interest — Subsection (2.1) applies (and subsection (2) does not apply) at any time to a distribution to a beneficiary by a trust of a property that is at that time a specified participating interest.

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 1 — NRTs and FIEs), subsec. 24(2), will add subsec. 107(4.01), applicable to distributions that occur in taxation years that begin after 2006, except that it also applies to distributions that occur in a taxation year of the taxpayer that begins before 2007 if ss. 94.1 to 94.4 apply to that taxation year of the taxpayer.

Technical Notes: New subsection 107(4.01) provides that subsection 107(2.1) applies (and subsection 107(2) does not apply) to a distribution to a beneficiary by a trust of a property that is a specified participating interest. The concept of a specified participating interest is generally relevant in the context of the foreign investment entity rules in sections 94.1 to 94.4. For more information on the definition "specified participating interest" in subsection 248(1), see the commentary on that definition.

(4.1) Where subsec. 75(2) applicable to trust — Subsection (2.1) applies (and subsection (2) does not apply) in respect of a distribution of any property of a particular personal trust or prescribed trust by the particular trust to a taxpayer who was a beneficiary under the particular trust where

(a) the distribution was in satisfaction of all or any part of the taxpayer's capital interest in the particular trust;

(b) subsection 75(2) was applicable at a particular time in respect of any property of

(i) the particular trust, or

(ii) a trust the property of which included a property that, through one or more dispositions to which subsection 107.4(3) applied, became a property of the particular trust, and the property was not, at any time after the particular time and before the distribution, the subject of a disposition for proceeds of disposition equal to the fair market value of the property at the time of the disposition;

(c) the taxpayer was neither

(i) the person (other than a trust described in subparagraph (b)(ii)) from whom the particular trust directly or indirectly received the property, or property for which the property was substituted, nor

(ii) an individual in respect of whom subsection 73(1) would be applicable on the transfer of capital property from the person described in subparagraph (i); and

(d) the person described in subparagraph (c)(i) was in existence at the time the property was distributed.

Proposed Amendment — 107(4.1)

Letter from Dept. of Finance, Oct. 19, 2007:

Ms. Kathy M. Munro, [xxx]

Dear Ms. Munro:

I am writing in connection with your letter, and subsequent discussions with officials of the Tax Policy Branch, concerning the application of subsection 107(4.1) of the Income Tax Act. In your view, subsection 107(4.1) is inappropriately broad in its effect on distributions from trusts, particularly where the trust was created before the provision's introduction.

You have provided an example of an inter vivos trust that was settled in 1986 through the gift of a gold coin with nominal value. Because the terms of the trust set out that decisions of the trust are to be determined by a majority that includes the settlor of the trust, subsection 75(2) of the Act may apply to attribute any income earned on the gold coin back to the settlor. As a result of the application of subsection 75(2) to the gold coin, subsection 107(4.1) will also apply to distributions of property from the trust. The effect of the application of subsection 107(4.1) will be to have subsection 107(2.1) of the Act apply to the distributions of property and thus prevent a rollover of the trust's properties to the beneficiaries (other than the settlor). Unlike subsection 75(2), which applies only in respect of the property contributed to the trust by the settlor, subsection 107(4.1) will apply not just to the gold coin, but to all of the properties of the trust that are distributed to beneficiaries. In your view, because the trust was established before 1989 (the year in which distributions were first subject to subsection 107(4.1)) it would be appropriate to allow some form of relief to the trust, particularly in respect of the property of the trust to which subsection 75(2) has never applied.

Having regard to your submission, we are prepared to recommend to the Minister of Finance that subparagraph 107(4.1)(b)(ii) of the Act be amended so as not to apply in determining whether subsection 107(2.1) applies in respect of a trust distribution that occurs after 2001 and before 2009 where

(a) the distribution is of property to which subsection 75(2) had not applied at any time while the property was held by any of the trusts referred to in subparagraph 107(4.1)(b)(ii),

(b) one of the trusts referred to in subparagraph 107(4.1)(b)(ii),

- was created before 1989, and

- held, at a time before 1989, particular property that was, at that time, subject to subsection 75(2), and

(c) none of the trusts referred to in subparagraph 107(4.1)(b)(ii) held any property (other than the particular property) that was subject to subsection 75(2).

While I cannot offer any assurance that Parliament will agree with our recommendation, I hope that this statement of our intentions is helpful to you.

Yours sincerely,

Brian Ernewein, General Director — Legislation, Tax Policy Branch

Related Provisions: 248(5) — Substituted property.

History: Subsec. 107(4.1) amended by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 80(17), applicable to distributions made after March 16, 2001. The subsec. formerly read:

(4.1) Where any property of a personal trust or a prescribed trust is distributed by the trust to a taxpayer who was a beneficiary under the trust in satisfaction of all or any part of the taxpayer's capital interest in the trust and

(a) subsection 75(2) was applicable at any time in respect of any property of the trust,

(b) the taxpayer was a person other than

(i) the person from whom the trust directly or indirectly received the property, or property for which the property was substituted, or

(ii) an individual in respect of whom subsection 73(1) would be applicable on the transfer of capital property from the person described in subparagraph (i), and

(c) the person described in subparagraph (b)(i) was alive at the time the property was distributed, subsection (2.1) applies (and subsection (2) does not apply) in respect of the distribution.

The closing words of subsec. 107(4.1) amended by the said c. 17, subsec. 80(16), applicable to distributions made after 1999. The closing words formerly read:

notwithstanding paragraphs (2)(a) to (c), the rules described in paragraphs (4)(d) to (f) apply.

Regulations: 4800.1 (prescribed trust).

Proposed Addition — 107(4.2)

(4.2) Distribution of property received on qualifying disposition — Subsection (2.1) applies (and subsection (2) does not apply) at any time to property distributed after December 20, 2002 to a beneficiary by a personal trust or a trust prescribed for the purpose of subsection (2), if

(a) at a particular time before December 21, 2002 there was a qualifying disposition (within the meaning assigned by subsection 107.4(1)) of the property, or of other property for which the property is substituted, by a particular partnership or a particular corporation, as the case may be, to a trust; and

(b) the beneficiary is neither the particular partnership nor the particular corporation.

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 96(24), will add subsec. 107(4.2), applicable to distributions made after December 20, 2002.

Technical Notes: New subsection 107(4.2) prevents a tax-deferred distribution of property after December 20, 2002 from a personal trust or a trust prescribed for the purpose of subsection 107(2) to a beneficiary of the trust if specified conditions are met. The specified conditions are that:

- at a particular time before December 21, 2002 there was a qualifying disposition (within the meaning assigned by subsection 107.4(1)) of the property, or of other property for which the property is substituted, by a particular partnership or a particular corporation, as the case may be, to any trust; and
- the beneficiary is neither the particular partnership nor the particular corporation.

Where the specified conditions are met, subsection 107(2.1) will apply so that the trust is deemed to have disposed of the property for proceeds equal to the property's fair market value at the time of distribution.

Related Provisions: 248(5) — Substituted property.

(5) Distribution to non-resident — Subsection (2.1) applies (and subsection (2) does not apply) in respect of a distribution of a property (other than a share of the capital stock of a non-resident-owned investment corporation or property described in any of subparagraphs 128.1(4)(b)(i) to (iii)) by a trust resident in Canada to a non-resident taxpayer (including a partnership other than a Canadian partnership) in satisfaction of all or part of the taxpayer's capital interest in the trust.

Proposed Amendment — 107(5)

(5) Distribution to non-resident — Subsection (2.1) applies (and subsection (2) does not apply) in respect of a distribution of a property (other than a share of the capital stock of a non-resident-owned investment corporation or property described in any of subparagraphs 128.1(4)(b)(i) to (iii)) by a trust to a non-resident taxpayer (including a partnership other than a Canadian partnership) in satisfaction of all or part of the taxpayer's capital interest in the trust.

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 96(24), will amend subsec. 107(5) to read as above, applicable to distributions made after February 27, 2004.

Technical Notes: Subsection 107(5) applies to the distribution of property (other than shares in non-resident-owned investment corporations or property described in any of subparagraphs 128.1(4)(b)(i) to (iii))) by a trust resident in Canada to a non-resident beneficiary (note that new paragraph 94(3)(a) does not apply in determining the residency of the beneficiary where it is a trust). In these circumstances, the rollover under subsection 107(2) is not available and instead subsection 107(2.1) will apply to determine the Canadian income tax consequences of the distribution to the trust and the beneficiary.

Subsection 107(5) is amended so that it applies whether the trust making the distribution is resident in Canada or not.

Related Provisions: 53(4) — Effect on ACB of share, partnership interest or trust interest; 94(4)(h) [proposed] — Deeming non-resident trust to be resident in Canada does not apply to 107(5); 107(2.11) — Election for gain not to be flowed out to beneficiary; 107(5.1) — Gain does not increase instalment requirements; 126(2.22) — Foreign tax credit to trust on disposition of property by non-resident beneficiary; 212(11) — Payment to non-resident beneficiary deemed paid as income of trust for withholding tax purposes; 220(4.6)–(4.63) — Security for tax on distribution of taxable Canadian property to non-resident beneficiary.

History: Subsec. 107(5) amended by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 80(18), applicable to distributions made after October 1, 1996, except that for distributions made after October 1, 1996 and before 2000, subsec. 107(5) shall be read as follows:

(5) Where subsection (2) applies to a distribution at any time by a trust resident in Canada of a property (other than a share of the capital stock of a non-resident-owned investment corporation or property described in any of subparagraphs 128.1(4)(b)(i) to (iii)) to a non-resident taxpayer (including a partnership other than a Canadian partnership) who is a beneficiary under the trust in satisfaction of the taxpayer's capital interest in the trust, notwithstanding paragraphs (2)(a) to (c),

(a) the trust is deemed to have disposed of the property for proceeds equal to its fair market value at that time;

(b) the taxpayer is deemed to have acquired the property at a cost equal to that fair market value; and

(c) the taxpayer is deemed to have disposed of all or part, as the case may be, of the taxpayer's capital interest in the trust, for proceeds of disposition equal to the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer of that interest or part of the interest, as the case may be, immediately before that time.

Subsec. 107(5) formerly read:

(5) Where subsection (2) applies to the distribution by a trust of any property (other than a Canadian resource property, excluded property or property that would, if at no time in the taxation year of the trust in which it is so distributed the trust is resident in Canada, be taxable Canadian property) to a non-resident taxpayer (including a partnership other than a Canadian partnership) who is a beneficiary under the trust, notwithstanding paragraphs (2)(a) to (c),

(a) the trust shall be deemed to have disposed of the property for proceeds equal to its fair market value at that time;

(b) the taxpayer shall be deemed to have acquired the property at a cost equal to that fair market value; and

(c) the taxpayer shall be deemed to have disposed of all or part, as the case may be, of the taxpayer's interest in the trust, for proceeds of disposition equal to the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer of the interest or part thereof, as the case may be, immediately before the property was so distributed.

That portion of subsec. 107(5) preceding para. (a) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 43(5), applicable to distributions occurring after 1991. That portion formerly read:

(5) Where subsection (2) is applicable in respect of the distribution by a trust of any property (other than a Canadian resource property or property that is or would, if at no time in the taxation year of the trust in which it was so distributed the trust had been resident in Canada, be taxable Canadian property) to a non-resident taxpayer (including a partnership other than a Canadian partnership) who was a beneficiary under the trust, notwithstanding paragraphs (2)(a) to (c), the following rules apply:

Advance Tax Rulings: ATR-70: Distribution of taxable Canadian property by a trust to a non-resident.

(5.1) Instalment interest — Where, solely because of the application of subsection (5), paragraphs (2)(a) to (c) do not apply to a distribution in a taxation year of taxable Canadian property by a trust, in applying sections 155, 156 and 156.1 and subsections 161(2), (4) and (4.01) and any regulations made for the purpose of those provisions, the trust's total taxes payable under this Part and Part I.1 for the year are deemed to be the lesser of

(a) the trust's total taxes payable under this Part and Part I.1 for the year, determined before taking into consideration the specified future tax consequences for the year, and

(b) the amount that would be determined under paragraph (a) if subsection (5) did not apply to each distribution in the year of taxable Canadian property to which the rules in subsection (2) do not apply solely because of the application of subsection (5).

History: Subsec. 107(5.1) added by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 80(18), applicable to distributions made after October 1, 1996.

(6) Loss reduction — Notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, where a person or partnership (in this subsection referred to as the "vendor") has disposed of property and would, but for this subsection, have had a loss from the disposition, the vendor's loss otherwise determined in respect of the disposition shall be reduced by such portion of that loss as may reasonably be considered to have accrued during a period in which

(a) the property or property for which it was substituted was owned by a trust; and

(b) neither the vendor nor a person that would, if section 251.1 were read without reference to the definition "controlled" in subsection 251.1(3), be affiliated with the vendor had a capital interest in the trust.

Related Provisions: 248(5) — Substituted property.

Proposed Amendment — 107.4(1) opening words

107.4 (1) Qualifying disposition — In this section, a "qualifying disposition" of a property means a disposition of the property before December 21, 2002 by a person or partnership, and a disposition of property after December 20, 2002 by an individual, (which person, partnership or individual is referred to in this subsection as the "contributor") as a result of a transfer of the property to a particular trust where

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 99(1), will amend the opening words of subsec. 107.4(1) to read as above, deemed to have come into force on December 20, 2002.

Technical Notes: Subsection 107.4(3) generally provides for a rollover of property to a trust where the property is transferred to the trust by way of a qualifying disposition. For this purpose, subsection 107.4(1) defines "qualifying disposition" to be a disposition of property to a trust that does not result in any change in the beneficial ownership of the property and that otherwise meets the conditions set out in that subsection. A partnership, corporation or individual (including a trust) are all qualified transferors for the purpose of applying the definition "qualifying disposition" in subsection 107.4(1). Where the transferee trust is a non-resident trust, a qualifying disposition will occur only where the conditions in paragraph 107.4(1)(c) are satisfied. Another condition that must be met for there to be a qualifying disposition is found in paragraph 107.4(1)(d), which requires that the disposition not be by a partnership, if the disposition is part of a series of transactions or events that begins after December 17, 1999 and includes the cessation of the partnership's existence and a subsequent distribution from a personal trust to a former member of the partnership in circumstances to which subsection 107(2) applies.

Subsection 107.4(1) is amended so that after December 20, 2002 only an individual (including a trust) may make a qualifying disposition to a trust. As a result, paragraph 107.4(1)(d) is repealed.

For a related amendment, see the commentary to new subsection 107(4.2).

(a) the disposition does not result in a change in the beneficial ownership of the property;

(b) the proceeds of disposition would, if this Act were read without reference to this section and sections 69 and 73, not be determined under any provision of this Act;

(c) if the particular trust is non-resident, the disposition is not

(i) by a person resident in Canada or by a partnership (other than a partnership each member of which is non-resident), or

(ii) a transfer of taxable Canadian property from a non-resident person who was resident in Canada in any of the ten calendar years preceding the transfer;

Proposed Amendment — 107.4(1)(c)

(c) the particular trust is resident in Canada at the time of the transfer;

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 99(2), will amend para. 107.4(1)(c) to read as above, applicable to dispositions that occur after February 27, 2004.

Technical Notes: In addition, paragraph 107.4(1)(c) is amended so that a qualifying disposition can only be made where the transferee trust is resident in Canada at the time of the transfer. This amendment applies to dispositions that occur after February 27, 2004. For this purpose, the residency of a trust is determined without regard to new paragraph 94(3)(a). For more detail, see the commentary to new paragraph 94(4)(b).

(d) the contributor is not a partnership, if the disposition is part of a series of transactions or events that begin after December 17, 1999 that includes the cessation of the partnership's existence and a subsequent distribution from a personal trust to a former member of the partnership in circumstances to which subsection 107(2) applies;

Proposed Repeal — 107.4(1)(d)

Technical Notes: See under 107.4(1) opening words above.

(e) unless the contributor is a trust, there is immediately after the disposition no absolute or contingent right of a person or partnership (other than the contributor or, where the property was co-owned, each of the joint contributors) as a beneficiary (determined with reference to subsection 104(1.1)) under the particular trust;

(f) the contributor is not an individual (other than a trust described in any of paragraphs (a) to (e.1) of the definition "trust" in subsection 108(1)), if the particular trust is described in any of paragraphs (a) to (e.1) of the definition "trust" in subsection 108(1);

(g) the disposition is not part of a series of transactions or events

(i) that begins after December 17, 1999 and that includes the subsequent acquisition, for consideration given to a personal trust, of a capital interest or an income interest in the trust,

(ii) that begins after December 17, 1999 and that includes the disposition of all or part of a capital interest or an income interest in a personal trust, other than a disposition solely as a consequence of a distribution from a trust to a person or partnership in satisfaction of all or part of that interest, or

(iii) that begins after June 5, 2000 and that includes the transfer to the particular trust of particular property as consideration for the acquisition of a capital interest in the particular trust, if the particular property can reasonably be considered to have been received by the particular trust in order to fund a distribution (other than a distribution that is proceeds of disposition of a capital interest in the particular trust);

(h) the disposition is not, and is not part of, a transaction

(i) that occurs after December 17, 1999, and

(ii) that includes the giving to the contributor, for the disposition, of any consideration (other than consideration that is an interest of the contributor as a beneficiary under the particular trust or that is the assumption by the particular trust of debt for which the property can, at the time of the disposition, reasonably be considered to be security);

(i) subsection 73(1) does not apply to the disposition and would not apply to the disposition if

(i) no election had been made under that subsection, and

(ii) section 73 were read without reference to subsection 73(1.02); and

(j) if the contributor is an amateur athlete trust, a cemetery care trust, an employee trust, an inter vivos trust deemed by subsection 143(1) to exist in respect of a congregation that is a constituent part of a religious organization, a related segregated fund trust (as defined by section 138.1), a trust described in paragraph 149(1)(o.4) or a trust governed by an eligible funeral arrangement, an employees profit sharing plan, a registered disability savings plan, a registered education savings plan, a registered supplementary unemployment benefit plan or a TFSA, the particular trust is the same type of trust; and

Proposed Addition — 107.4(1)(k)

(k) the property is not, immediately before the disposition, a specified participating interest.

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 1 — NRTs and FIEs), s. 25, will add para. 107.4(1)(k), applicable to dispositions that occur in taxation years that begin after 2006, except that that subsection also applies to dispositions that occur in a taxation year of the taxpayer that begins before 2007 if ss. 94.1 to 94.4 apply to that taxation year of the taxpayer.

Technical Notes: Subsection 107.4(1) defines a qualifying disposition of property to a trust to be a disposition of property to the trust that does not result in any change in the beneficial ownership of the property and that otherwise meets the conditions set out in that subsection. Under subsection 107.4(3), a qualifying disposition generally qualifies for a tax-deferred "rollover" of the property to the trust.

New paragraph 107.4(1)(k) provides that a disposition of property to a trust does not include a disposition of property that is, immediately before the disposition, a specified participating interest.

107.4 (1) For the purpose of this section, a "qualifying disposition" of a property means a transfer of the property to a particular trust that was not a disposition of the property for the purpose of subdivision c because of paragraph (e) of the definition "disposition" in section 54, except where

(a) if the transfer is from another trust to the particular trust,

(i) each trust can reasonably be considered to act as agent for the same beneficiary or beneficiaries in respect of the property transferred, or

(ii) the transferee trust can reasonably be considered to act as agent for the transferor trust in respect of the property transferred; and

(b) in any other case, it is reasonable to consider that the particular trust acts as agent in respect of the property transferred.

(2) Application of paragraph (1)(a) — For the purpose of paragraph (1)(a),

(a) except where paragraph (b) applies, where a trust (in this paragraph and subsection (2.1) referred to as the "transferor trust"), in a period that does not exceed one day, disposes of one or more properties in the period to one or more other trusts, there is deemed to be no resulting change in the beneficial ownership of those properties if

(i) the transferor trust receives no consideration for the disposition, and

(ii) as a consequence of the disposition, the value of each beneficiary's beneficial ownership at the beginning of the period under the transferor trust in each particular property of the transferor trust (or group of two or more properties of the transferor trust that are identical to each other) is the same as the value of the beneficiary's beneficial ownership at the end of the period under the transferor trust and the other trust or trusts in each particular property (or in property that was immediately before the disposition included in the group of identical properties referred to above); and

(b) where a trust (in this paragraph referred to as the "transferor") governed by a registered retirement savings plan or by a registered retirement income fund transfers a property to a trust (in this paragraph referred to as the "transferee") governed by a registered retirement savings plan or by a registered retirement income fund, the transfer is deemed not to result in a change in the beneficial ownership of the property if the annuitant of the plan or fund that governs the transferor is also the annuitant of the plan or fund that governs the transferee.

History: Subsec. 107.4(2) added by 2001, c. 17, s. 82, applicable to dispositions that occur after December 23, 1998.

(2.1) Fractional interests — For the purpose of applying paragraph (2)(a) in respect of a transfer by a transferor trust of property that includes a share and money, the other trust or trusts referred to in that paragraph may receive, in lieu of a transfer of a fractional interest in a share that would otherwise be required, a disproportionate amount of money or interest in the share (the value of which does not exceed the lesser of $200 and the fair market value of the fractional interest).

History: Subsec. 107.4(2.1) added by 2001, c. 17, s. 82, applicable to dispositions that occur after December 23, 1998.

(3) Tax consequences of qualifying dispositions — Where at a particular time there is a qualifying disposition of a property by a person or partnership (in this subsection referred to as the "transferor") to a trust (in this subsection referred to as the "transferee trust"),

(a) the transferor's proceeds of disposition of the property are deemed to be

(i) where the transferor so elects in writing and files the election with the Minister on or before the transferor's filing-due date for its taxation year that includes the particular time, or at any later time that is acceptable to the Minister, the amount specified in the election that is not less than the cost amount to the transferor of the property immediately before the particular time and not more than the fair market value of the property at the particular time, and

(ii) in any other case, the cost amount to the transferor of the property immediately before the particular time;

(b) the transferee trust's cost of the property is deemed to be the amount, if any, by which

(i) the proceeds determined under paragraph (a) in respect of the qualifying disposition

exceed

(ii) the amount by which the transferor's loss otherwise determined from the qualifying disposition would be reduced because of subsection 100(4), paragraph 107(1)(c) or (d) or any of subsections 112(3) to (4.2), if the proceeds determined under paragraph (a) were equal to the fair market value of the property at the particular time;

(c) [Repealed]

(d) if the property was depreciable property of a prescribed class of the transferor and its capital cost to the transferor exceeds the cost at which the transferee trust is deemed by this subsection to have acquired the property, for the purposes of sections 13 and 20 and any regulations made for the purpose of paragraph 20(1)(a),

(i) the capital cost of the property to the transferee trust is deemed to be the amount that was the capital cost of the property to the transferor, and

(ii) the excess is deemed to have been allowed to the transferee trust in respect of the property under regulations made for the purpose of paragraph 20(1)(a) in computing income for taxation years that ended before the particular time;

(e) if the property was eligible capital property of the transferor in respect of a business of the transferor,

(i) where the eligible capital expenditure of the transferor in respect of the property exceeds the cost at which the transferee trust is deemed by this subsection to have acquired the property, for the purposes of sections 14, 20 and 24,

(A) the eligible capital expenditure of the transferee trust in respect of the property is deemed to be the amount that was the eligible capital expenditure of the transferor in respect of the property, and

(B) ¾ of the excess is deemed to have been allowed under paragraph 20(1)(b) to the transferee trust in respect of the property in computing income for taxation years that ended

(I) before the particular time, and

(II) after the adjustment time of the transferee trust in respect of the business, and

(ii) for the purpose of determining after the particular time the amount required by paragraph 14(1)(b) to be included in computing the transferee trust's income in respect of any subsequent disposition of the property of the business, there shall be added to the value otherwise determined for Q in the definition "cumulative eligible capital" in subsection 14(5) the amount determined by the formula

where

A is the amount, if any, determined for Q in that definition in respect of the business of the transferor immediately before the particular time,

B is the fair market value of the property immediately before the particular time, and

C is the fair market value immediately before the particular time of all eligible capital property of the transferor in respect of the business;

(f) if the property was deemed to be taxable Canadian property of the transferor by this paragraph or paragraph 51(1)(f), 85(1)(i) or 85.1(1)(a), subsection 87(4) or (5) or paragraph 97(2)(c) or 107(2)(d.1), the property is deemed to be taxable Canadian property of the transferee trust;

Proposed Amendment — 107.4(3)(f)

(f) if the property was deemed to be taxable Canadian property of the transferor by this paragraph or paragraph 44.1(2)(c), 51(1)(f), 85(1)(i) or 85.1(1)(a), subsection 85.1(5) or 87(4) or (5) or paragraph 97(2)(c) or 107(2)(d.1), the property is deemed to be taxable Canadian property of the transferee trust;

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007, requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 99(5), will amend para. 107.4(3)(f) to read as above, applicable

(a) to dispositions that occur after that occur after December 23, 1998; and

(b) in respect of 1996 et seq., to transfers of capital property that occurred before December 24, 1998.

Technical Notes: Subsection 107.4(3) provides a number of income tax consequences that apply in respect of a "qualifying disposition" (as defined in subsection 107.4(1)) of property to a trust. Paragraph 107.4(3)(f) ensures that, in the event that the property was explicitly deemed to have been taxable Canadian property under a number of specified provisions of the Act, the property continues to be taxable Canadian property of the trust.

Paragraph 107.4(3)(f) is amended by adding to the list of specified provisions, that explicitly deem property to be taxable Canadian property, a reference to paragraph 44.1(2)(c) and to subsection 85.1(5).

Proposed Amendment — 107.4(3)(f)

(f) if the property was deemed to be taxable Canadian property of the transferor by this paragraph or paragraph 44.1(2)(c), 51(1)(f), 85(1)(i), 85.1(1)(a) or (8)(b), subsection 85.1(5) or 87(4) or (5) or paragraph 97(2)(c), 107(2)(d.1) or (3.1)(d), the property is deemed to be taxable Canadian property of the transferee trust;

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), s. 27, will amend para. 107.4(3)(f) to read as above, applicable

(a) to dispositions that occur after December 23, 1998; and

(b) in respect of the 1996 et seq., to transfers of capital property that occurred before December 24, 1998.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): Subsection 107.4(3) applies where there has been a "qualifying disposition" of property to a trust within the meaning of subsection 107.4(1). Paragraph 107.4(3)(f) deems the transferred property to be taxable Canadian property ("TCP") of the trust if it was — by operation of any one of a number of specified provisions that deem property to be TCP — TCP of the transferor.

Paragraph 107.4(3)(f) is amended to add to the list of specified deeming provisions existing paragraph 44.1(2)(c) and subsection 85.1(5), and new paragraphs 85.1(8)(c) and 107(3.1)(d). Those new paragraphs apply to deem, in certain circumstances involving the conversion of a SIFT windup entity into a corporation, a share to be TCP of a taxpayer.

(g) where the transferor is a related segregated fund trust (in this paragraph having the meaning assigned by section 138.1),

(i) paragraph 138.1(1)(i) does not apply in respect of a disposition of an interest in the transferor that occurs in connection with the qualifying disposition, and

(ii) in computing the amount determined under paragraph 138.1(1)(i) in respect of a subsequent disposition of an interest in the transferee trust where the interest is deemed to exist in connection with a particular life insurance policy, the acquisition fee (as defined by subsection 138.1(6)) in respect of the particular policy shall be determined as if each amount determined under any of paragraphs 138.1(6)(a) to (d) in respect of the policyholder's interest in the transferor had been determined in respect of the policyholder's interest in the transferee trust;

(h) if the transferor is a trust to which property had been transferred by an individual (other than a trust),

(i) where subsection 73(1) applied in respect of the property so transferred and it is reasonable to consider that the property was so transferred in anticipation of the individual ceasing to be resident in Canada, for the purposes of paragraph 104(4)(a.3) and the application of this paragraph to a disposition by the transferee trust after the particular time, the transferee trust is deemed after the particular time to be a trust to which the individual had transferred property in anticipation of the individual ceasing to reside in Canada and in circumstances to which subsection 73(1) applied, and

(ii) for the purposes of paragraph (j) of the definition "excluded right or interest" in subsection 128.1(10) and the application of this paragraph to a disposition by the transferee trust after the particular time, where the property so transferred was transferred in circumstances to which this subsection would apply if subsection (1) were read without reference to paragraphs (1)(h) and (i), the transferee trust is deemed after the particular time to be a trust an interest in which was acquired by the individual as a consequence of a qualifying disposition;

(i) if the transferor is a trust (other than a personal trust or a trust prescribed for the purposes of subsection 107(2)), the transferee trust is deemed to be neither a personal trust nor a trust prescribed for the purposes of subsection 107(2);

(j) if the transferor is a trust and a taxpayer disposes of all or part of a capital interest in the transferor because of the qualifying disposition and, as a consequence, acquires a capital interest or part of it in the transferee trust

(i) the taxpayer is deemed to dispose of the capital interest or part of it in the transferor for proceeds equal to the cost amount to the taxpayer of that interest or part of it immediately before the particular time, and

(ii) the taxpayer is deemed to acquire the capital interest or part of it in the transferee trust at a cost equal to the amount, if any, by which

(A) that cost amount

exceeds

(B) the amount by which the taxpayer's loss otherwise determined from the disposition referred to in subparagraph (i) would be reduced because of paragraph 107(1)(c) or (d) if the proceeds under that subparagraph were equal to the fair market value of the capital interest or part of it in the transferor immediately before the particular time;

(k) where the transferor is a trust, a taxpayer's beneficial ownership in the property ceases to be derived from the taxpayer's capital interest in the transferor because of the qualifying disposition and no part of the taxpayer's capital interest in the transferor was disposed of because of the qualifying disposition, there shall, immediately after the particular time, be added to the cost otherwise determined of the taxpayer's capital interest in the transferee trust, the amount determined by the formula

where

A is the cost amount to the taxpayer of the taxpayer's capital interest in the transferor immediately before the particular time,

B is the fair market value immediately before the particular time of the taxpayer's capital interest in the transferor,

C is the fair market value at the particular time of the taxpayer's capital interest in the transferor (determined as if the only property disposed of at the particular time were the particular property), and

D is the lesser of

(i) the amount, if any, by which the cost amount to the taxpayer of the taxpayer's capital interest in the transferor immediately before the particular time exceeds the fair market value of the taxpayer's capital interest in the transferor immediately before the particular time, and

(ii) the maximum amount by which the taxpayer's loss from a disposition of a capital interest otherwise determined could have been reduced because of paragraph 107(1)(c) or (d) if the taxpayer's capital interest in the transferor had been disposed of immediately before the particular time;

(l) where paragraph (k) applies to the qualifying disposition in respect of a taxpayer, the amount that would be determined under that paragraph in respect of the qualifying disposition if the amount determined for D in that paragraph were nil shall, immediately after the particular time, be deducted in computing the cost otherwise determined of the taxpayer's capital interest in the transferor;

(m) where paragraphs (j) and (k) do not apply in respect of the qualifying disposition, the transferor is deemed to acquire the capital interest or part of it in the transferee trust that is acquired as a consequence of the qualifying disposition

(i) where the transferee trust is a personal trust, at a cost equal to nil, and

(ii) in any other case, at a cost equal to the excess determined under paragraph (b) in respect of the qualifying disposition; and

(n) if the transferor is a trust and a taxpayer disposes of all or part of an income interest in the transferor because of the qualifying disposition and, as a consequence, acquires an income interest or a part of an income interest in the transferee trust, for the purpose of subsection 106(2), the taxpayer is deemed not to dispose of any part of the income interest in the transferor at the particular time.

B is the total of all amounts each of which is the amount of a debt owing by the trust at that time or the amount of any other obligation of the trust to pay any amount that is outstanding at that time,

C is the fair market value at that time of the particular interest (determined without reference to this subsection), and

108. (1) Definitions — In this subdivision,

"accumulating income" of a trust for a taxation year means the amount that would be the income of the trust for the year if that amount were computed

(a) without reference to paragraphs 104(4)(a) and (a.1) and subsections 104(5.1), (5.2) and (12) and 107(4),

(b) as if the greatest amount that the trust was entitled to claim under subsection 104(6) in computing its income for the year were so claimed, and

(c) without reference to subsection 12(10.2), except to the extent that that subsection applies to amounts paid to a trust to which paragraph 70(6.1)(b) applies and before the death of the spouse or common-law partner referred to in that paragraph;

History: The definition "accumulating income" in subsec. 108(1) amended by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 83(1), applicable to 2000 et seq. The definition formerly read:

"accumulating income" of a trust for a taxation year means the amount that would be the income of the trust for the year if that amount were

(a) computed without reference to subsections 104(5.1) and (12),

(b) computed as if the greatest amount that the trust was entitled to claim under subsection 104(6) in computing its income for the year were so claimed,

(c) where the trust

(i) is a pre-1972 spousal trust at the end of the year,

(ii) is described in paragraph 104(4)(a), or

(iii) elected under subsection 104(5.3) for a preceding taxation year, computed without reference to subsections 104(4), (5) and (5.2) and 107(4),

(d) where the trust is described in paragraph 104(4)(a) and the taxpayer's spouse or common-law partner referred to in that paragraph died on a day in that year, computed as if any disposition by the trust before the end of that day of capital property, land described in an inventory of the trust, Canadian resource property or foreign resource property had not occurred, and

(e) computed without reference to subsection 12(10.2), except to the extent that that subsection applies to amounts paid to a trust to which paragraph 70(6.1)(b) applies and before the death of the spouse or common-law partner referred to in that paragraph;

The definition "accumulating income" in subsec. 108(1) amended by 2000, c. 12, Sch. 2, s. 1, to replace "spouse" with "spouse or common-law partner", applicable to 2001 et seq., in force July 31, 2000. See also the transitional rules reproduced in the History to 248(1)"common-law partner".

The definition "accumulating income" in subsec. 108(1) amended by 1996, c. 21, subsec. 19(1), applicable to trust taxation years that end after July 19, 1995. The definition formerly read:

"accumulating income" of a trust for a taxation year means the amount that would be the income of the trust for the year if this Act were read without reference to

(a) subsections 104(5.1) and (12),

(b) where the trust

(i) is a pre-1972 spousal trust at the end of the year,

(ii) is described in paragraph 104(4)(a), or

(iii) elected under subsection 104(5.3) for a preceding taxation year,

subsections 104(4), (5), (5.2) and 107(4), and

(c) subsection 12(10.2), except to the extent that that subsection applies to amounts paid to a trust to which paragraph 70(6.1)(b) applies and before the death of the spouse referred to in that paragraph;

The definition "accumulating income" in subsec. 108(1) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 44(1), applicable to 1991 et seq. The definition formerly read:

"accumulating income" of a trust for a taxation year means the amount that would, but for subsection 104(12) and, where the trust is a trust described in paragraph 104(4)(a), subsections 104(4), (5), (5.2) and 107(4), be its income for the year;

"beneficiary" under a trust includes a person beneficially interested therein;

Related Provisions: 104(1.1) — Restricted meaning of "beneficiary" for certain purposes; 104(5.5) — Meaning of "beneficiary" for purposes of election to postpone deemed disposition; 143.1(1)(e) [to be repealed], 143.1(1.2)(e) [proposed] — Deemed beneficiary of amateur athletes' reserve fund; 248(3) — Rules applicable in Quebec; 248(13) — Deemed beneficiary for certain purposes; 248(25) — Meaning of "beneficially interested".

"capital interest" of a taxpayer in a trust means all rights of the taxpayer as a beneficiary under the trust, and after 1999 includes a right (other than a right acquired before 2000 and disposed of before March 2000) to enforce payment of an amount by the trust that arises as a consequence of any such right, but does not include an income interest in the trust;

Related Provisions: 53(2)(h), (i) — Reduction in ACB of capital interest; 248(1)"capital interest" — Definition applies to entire Act; 248(1)"disposition"(d), (h) — Whether transfer by trust is a disposition of capital interest.

History: The definition "capital interest" in subsec. 108(1) amended by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 83(2), applicable after 1999. The definition formerly read:

"capital interest" of a taxpayer in a trust means

(a) in the case of a personal trust or a prescribed trust, a right (whether immediate or future and whether absolute or contingent) of the taxpayer as a beneficiary under the trust to, or to receive, all or any part of the capital of the trust, and

(b) in any other case, a right of the taxpayer as a beneficiary under the trust;

"cost amount" to a taxpayer at any time of a capital interest or part of the interest, as the case may be, in a trust (other than a trust that is a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer) means, except for the purposes of section 107.4 and notwithstanding subsection 248(1),

Proposed Amendment — 108(1)"cost amount" opening words

"cost amount" to a taxpayer at any time of a capital interest or part of it, as the case may be, in a trust, means (notwithstanding subsection 248(1) and except for the purposes of section 107.4 and, if that time is in a taxation year of the trust that began before 2007 (or, where sections 94.1 to 94.4 apply to a taxation year of the trust that begins before 2007, if that time is in a taxation year of the trust that began before the first day of the first such taxation year to which those sections apply), except in respect of a capital interest in a trust that is at that time a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer),

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 1 — NRTs and FIEs), subsec. 26(2), will amend the opening words of the definition "cost amount" in subsec. 108(1) to read as above, applicable to trust taxation years that begin after 2006, except that is also applies to trust taxation years that begin before 2007 if ss. 94.1 to 94.4 apply to that taxation year of the trust.

Technical Notes: The definition "cost amount" in subsection 108(1) applies, for the purposes of sections 104 to 108 (except section 107.4), in determining the cost amount to a taxpayer of the taxpayer's capital interest (and any Part of it relevant in the circumstances) in a trust. However, where the trust is a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer this definition of "cost amount" does not apply. (A trust may be a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer because of the operation of paragraph 94(1)(d), which can deem a trust to be in certain circumstances a non-resident corporation in which the taxpayer own shares.)

The definition "cost amount" in subsection 108(1) is amended to reflect the repeal of paragraph 94(1)(d).

Note that, while the cost amount to a taxpayer of its capital interest in a trust may be relevant in applying sections 94.1 to 94.4 to the taxpayer where the trust is a "foreign investment entity" (as defined in new subsection 94.1(1)) in which the taxpayer's capital interest is a "participating interest" (as defined in new subsection 94.1(1)), the definition cost amount in subsection 108(1) does not apply for these purposes.

Proposed Amendment — 108(1)"cost amount" opening words

"cost amount" to a taxpayer at any time of a capital interest or part of it, as the case may be, in a trust, means (notwithstanding subsection 248(1) and except for the purposes of subsection 107(3.1) and section 107.4 and except in respect of a capital interest in a trust that is at that time a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer),

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), s. 28, will amend the opening words of the definition "cost amount" in subsec. 108(1) to read as above, applicable after July 14, 2008.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): The definition "cost amount" in subsection 108(1) generally applies, for the purposes of sections 104 to 108, in determining the cost amount to a taxpayer of the taxpayer's capital interest in a trust.

The definition is amended as part of a series of amendments intended to provide for the income tax effects on a reorganization into corporate form of a SIFT wind-up entity. This amendment ensures that the references in new paragraphs 107(3.1)(b) and (c) to the cost amount to a taxpayer of the taxpayer's beneficial interest in a trust is determined without reference to the special definition "cost amount" in subsection 108(1). As a result, that cost amount is to be determined under the definition of that expression in subsection 248(1).

(a) where any money or other property of the trust has been distributed by the trust to the taxpayer in satisfaction of all or part of the taxpayer's capital interest (whether on the winding-up of the trust or otherwise), the total of

(i) the money so distributed, and

(ii) all amounts each of which is the cost amount to the trust, immediately before the distribution, of each such other property,

(iii) [Repealed]

(a.1) where that time is immediately before the time of the death of the taxpayer and subsection 104(4) or (5) deems the trust to dispose of property at the end of the day that includes that time, the amount that would be determined under paragraph (b) if the taxpayer had died on a day that ended immediately before that time, and

(b) in any other case, the amount determined by the formula

where

A is the total of

(i) all money of the trust on hand immediately before that time, and

(ii) all amounts each of which is the cost amount to the trust, immediately before that time, of each other property of the trust,

B is the total of all amounts each of which is the amount of any debt owing by the trust, or of any other obligation of the trust to pay any amount, that was outstanding immediately before that time,

C is the fair market value at that time of the capital interest or part thereof, as the case may be, in the trust, and

D is the fair market value at that time of all capital interests in the trust;

Proposed Amendment — 108(1)"testamentary trust" opening words

"testamentary trust", in a taxation year, means a trust that arose on and as a consequence of the death of an individual (including a trust referred to in subsection 248(9.1)), other than

Technical Notes: Subsection 108(1) defines "testamentary trust" generally as a trust or estate that arose on and in consequence of the death of an individual, and provides some exceptions to that definition.

Subsection 104(1) provides that references to a "trust" in subdivision k of the Act (i.e., sections 104 to 108) of Division B of Part I of the Act include a trust or estate. The definition "testamentary trust" in subsection 108(1) is therefore amended to remove the reference to "estate" because the references in that definition to a "trust" include an estate.

(a) a trust created by a person other than the individual,

(b) a trust created after November 12, 1981 if, before the end of the taxation year, property has been contributed to the trust otherwise than by an individual on or after the individual's death and as a consequence thereof, and

(c) a trust created before November 13, 1981 if

(i) after June 28, 1982 property has been contributed to the trust otherwise than by an individual on or after the individual's death and as a consequence thereof, or

(ii) before the end of the taxation year, the total fair market value of the property owned by the trust that was contributed to the trust otherwise than by an individual on or after the individual's death and as a consequence thereof and the property owned by the trust that was substituted for such property exceeds the total fair market value of the property owned by the trust that was contributed by an individual on or after the individual's death and as a consequence thereof and the property owned by the trust that was substituted for such property, and for the purposes of this paragraph the fair market value of any property shall be determined as at the time it was acquired by the trust; and

Proposed Addition — 108(1)"testamentary trust"(d)

(d) a trust that, at any time after December 20, 2002 and before the end of the taxation year, incurs a debt or any other obligation owed to, or guaranteed by, a beneficiary or any other person or partnership (which beneficiary, person or partnership is referred to in this paragraph as the "specified party") with whom any beneficiary of the trust does not deal at arm's length, other than a debt or other obligation

(i) incurred by the trust in satisfaction of the specified party's right as a beneficiary under the trust

(A) to enforce payment of an amount of the trust's income or capital gains payable at or before that time by the trust to the specified party, or

(B) to otherwise receive any part of the capital of the trust,

(ii) owed to the specified party, if the debt or other obligation arose because of a service (for greater certainty, not including any transfer or loan of property) rendered by the specified party to, for or on behalf of the trust, or

(iii) owed to the specified party, if

(A) the debt or other obligation arose because of a payment made by the specified party for or on behalf of the trust,

(B) in exchange for the payment, the trust transfers property, the fair market value of which is not less than the principal amount of that debt or other obligation, to the specified party within 12 months after the payment was made (or, where written application has been made to the Minister by the trust within that 12 months, within any longer period that the Minister considers reasonable in the circumstances), and

(C) it is reasonable to conclude that the specified party would have been willing to make the payment if the specified party dealt at arm's length with the trust, except where the trust is the individual's estate and that payment was made within the first 12 months after the individual's death (or, where written application has been made to the Minister by the estate within that 12 months, within any longer period that the Minister considers reasonable in the circumstances);

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 100(2), will add para. (d) to the definition "testamentary trust" in subsec. 108(1), applicable to taxation years that end after December 20, 2002, except that

(a) a transfer that is required, by cl. (d)(iii)(B) of the definition, as amended, to be made within 12 months after a payment was made is deemed to be made in a timely manner if it is made within 12 months after Bill C-10 is assented to; and

(b) for those taxation years that end before the day on which Bill C-10 is assented to, the reference to "the individual's death" in cl. (d)(iii)(C) of the definition, as amended, shall be read as a reference to "after the individual's death and no later than 12 months after the day on which the Income Tax Amendments Act, 2006 [Bill C-10] is assented to".

Technical Notes: New paragraph (d) of the definition "testamentary trust" is an anti-avoidance rule. That new paragraph provides that a testamentary trust in a taxation year does not include a trust (in the commentary on this amendment, references to "trust" include an estate) that incurs, after December 20, 2002 and before the end of the taxation year, a debt or any other obligation to pay an amount to, or guaranteed by, a beneficiary or any other person or partnership (referred to in this commentary as the "specified party") with whom any beneficiary of the trust does not deal at arm's length. However, such a debt will not affect the status of the trust as a testamentary trust if it is a debt or other obligation owed to the specified party and

- it is incurred by the trust in satisfaction of the specified party's right as a beneficiary under the trust to enforce payment of an amount of income or capital gains payable by the trust to the specified party or to otherwise receive any part of the capital of the trust,
- it arose because of a service (for greater certainty, not including any transfer or loan of property) rendered by the specified party to, for or on behalf of the trust; for example, this would include debts or other obligations arising in respect of services rendered in a person's capacity as an executor or administrator of an estate, as a liquidator of succession or as a trustee of a trust, or
- it arose because of a payment made by the specified party for or on behalf of (but not to) the trust; for example, a payment of funeral expenses on behalf of the deceased's estate. However, to qualify under this provision, additional conditions must be satisfied. In very general terms, these conditions are that the trust fully reimburse the specified party within a year of the specified party making the payment. More precisely, in exchange for the payment the trust must transfer property (the fair market value of which is not less than the principal amount of that debt or other obligation that arose because of the payment) to the specified party within 12 months after the specified party made the payment (or, where written application has been made to the Minister by the trust within that 12 months, within any longer period that the Minister considers reasonable in the circumstances). A transfer of property, within the required period by the trust to the specified party, which does not result in the settlement or cancellation of that debt or obligation would not satisfy this requirement. It must also be reasonable to conclude that the specified party would have been willing to make the payment if the specified party dealt at arm's length with the trust. This third requirement is suspended, however, where the trust is an individual's estate and the payment giving rise to the debt or obligation was made within the first 12 months after the individual's death (or, where written application has been made to the Minister of National Revenue by the estate within that 12 months, within any longer period that the Minister considers reasonable in the circumstances).

These amendments apply to trust taxation years that end after December 20, 2002. However, a transfer that is required, by clause (d)(iii)(B) of the definition "testamentary trust" in subsection 108(1) to be made within 12 months after a payment was made, is deemed to have been made in a timely manner if it is made no later than 12 months after this amended definition receives Royal Assent. In effect, the deadline imposed by that clause for the full reimbursement of the specified party by the trust or estate is extended, without need for written application, provided that the full reimbursement is made within 12 months after Royal Assent.

In addition, for taxation years that end before Royal Assent, the exception from the arm's length condition for obligations owed by an estate (which condition and exception are set out in clause (d)(iii)(C) of the definition) will apply so that a payment that is made by a specified party for or on behalf of the estate and that is described in clause (d)(iii)(A) will not be subject to the arm's length requirement where the payment is made at any time after the individual's death and not later than 12 months after Royal Assent. For these taxation years, if such a qualifying payment is not made within 12 months after Royal Assent, then the Minister may grant a further extension of the period, beyond 12 months after Royal Assent, if written application is made to the Minister by the estate within 12 months after Royal Assent.

Letter from Dept. of Finance, April 28, 2004:

Dear [xxx]

Thank you for your letter of March 3, 2004, concerning proposed paragraph (d) of the definition "testamentary trust" in subsection 108(1) of the Income Tax Act, contained in the Legislative Proposals and Draft Regulations relating to Income Tax ("Legislative Proposals"), released by the Minister of Finance on February 27, 2004.

Subsection 108(1) of the Act defines "testamentary trust" generally as a trust that arose on and as a consequence of the death of an individual, and provides some exceptions to that definition. A reference in that definition to a trust includes an estate.

Proposed paragraph (d) of the definition "testamentary trust" is an anti-avoidance rule that is intended to respond to the use of testamentary trusts as vehicles for income splitting. That new paragraph provides that a testamentary trust in a taxation year does not include a trust or estate that incurs, after December 20, 2002 and before the end of the taxation year, a debt or any other obligation to pay an amount to, or guaranteed by, a beneficiary or any other person or partnership (referred to in the proposed definition as the "specified party") with whom any beneficiary of the trust or estate does not deal at arm's length.

Certain of such debts and obligations would, however, not cause a trust or estate to lose its status as a testamentary trust. For example, under proposed subparagraph (d)(iii) of the definition, a debt or obligation would not affect the status of a trust or estate as a testamentary trust if it is a debt or other obligation owed to the specified party, it arose because of a payment made by the specified party for or on behalf of the trust or estate, the trust or estate fully reimburses the specified party within a year of the specified party making the payment and it is reasonable to conclude that the specified party would have been willing to make the payment if the specified party dealt at arm's length with the trust or estate.

In your letter you have expressed concern that the last condition in subparagraph (d)(iii) of that definition — that the specified party would have been willing to make the payment if the specified party dealt at arm's length with the trust or estate — will, in practice, not be satisfied in the case of the vast majority of estates of deceased individuals. We understand from your letter that this is because of the legal limitations placed on the estate executor's ability to deal with property of the estate, such that family members of a deceased individual will often undertake to make payments on behalf of the estate — for example, the payment of funeral expenses or a tax liability — without any expectation, or arrangement to the effect, that the reimbursement by the estate of such payments include an arm's length amount of interest. As a result, under that proposed paragraph of the definition "testamentary trust" the estate would lose its status under the Act as a testamentary trust.

We are of the view that the loss of an estate's status as a testamentary trust, in these circumstances, would be inconsistent with the policy objectives of proposed paragraph (d) of the definition. Therefore, we are prepared to recommend a modification to proposed subparagraph (d)(iii) of the definition "testamentary trust", to provide that the requirement in clause (C) of that subparagraph — that the specified party would have been willing to make the payment if the specified party dealt at arm's length with an individual's estate — not apply where the payment for or on behalf of an estate is made within the first 12 months after the individual's death (or, where written application has been made to the Minister of National Revenue by the estate within that 12 months, within any longer period that that Minister considers reasonable in the circumstances). As a result, where the remaining conditions of proposed subparagraph (d)(iii) of that definition are satisfied, to the extent that the circumstances do not involve an attempt to use the estate as a vehicle for income splitting, the anti-avoidance provisions of the Act would not be expected to apply to cause the estate to lose its status as a testamentary trust.

For these purposes, we will also recommend that an application, otherwise required to be filed before 120 days after the amending legislation containing that proposed subparagraph (d)(iii) receives Royal Assent, be deemed to have been filed on a timely basis if it is filed in writing with the Minister of National Revenue within 120 days after that Royal Assent.

Thank you for writing.

Yours sincerely,

Brian Ernewein, Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

Technical Notes: Subsection 108(1) defines "trust", for the purposes of the 21-year deemed disposition rule and other specified measures, to exclude certain listed trusts.

Paragraph (a.1) of that definition is amended to clarify that its intended application should be limited to health and welfare trusts.

This amendment applies to trust taxation years that begin after 2006. It also applies to trust taxation years that begin after 2000, after 2001, after 2002 after 2003 after 2004 or after 2005 if the trust makes the appropriate election under the coming-into-force provision for new section 94.

Proposed Amendment — 108(1)"trust" between (e.1) and (f)

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 100(3), will delete "and section 106" from the portion of the definition "trust" in subsec. 108(1) between paras. (e.1) and (f), applicable to 1998 et seq.

Technical Notes: For the purposes of the 21-year deemed disposition rule and other specified measures, subsection 108(1) defines "trust" to exclude certain listed trusts.

For these purposes, paragraph (f) of the definition excludes unit trusts (as defined in subsection 108(2)) and paragraph (g) excludes, except as specified, trusts all interests in which have vested indefeasibly.

This definition is amended so that section 106 is not a provision for the purposes of which paragraphs (f) and (g) of the definition apply. Section 106 provides rules in respect of an "income interest" (as defined in subsection 108(1)) in a "personal trust" (as defined in subsection 248(1)). As a result of this amendment, for the purpose of section 106, references to a trust will include a trust described in paragraph (g) of the definition "trust" in subsection 108(1). (As the definition "personal trust" expressly excludes a unit trust, paragraph (f) of the definition "trust" in subsection 108(1) is not relevant for this purpose.)

(f) a trust that, at that time, is a unit trust, or

(g) a trust all interests in which, at that time, have vested indefeasibly, other than

(i) an alter ego trust, a joint spousal or common-law partner trust, a post-1971 spousal or common-law partner trust or a trust to which paragraph 104(4)(a.4) applies,

(ii) a trust that has elected under subsection 104(5.3),

(iii) a trust that has, in its return of income under this Part for its first taxation year that ends after 1992, elected that this paragraph not apply,

(iv) a trust that is at that time resident in Canada where the total fair market value at that time of all interests in the trust held at that time by beneficiaries under the trust who at that time are non-resident is more than 20% of the total fair market value at that time of all interests in the trust held at that time by beneficiaries under the trust,

(v) a trust under the terms of which, at that time, all or part of a person's interest in the trust is to be terminated with reference to a period of time (including a period of time determined with reference to the person's death), otherwise than as a consequence of terms of the trust under which an interest in the trust is to be terminated as a consequence of a distribution to the person (or the person's estate) of property of the trust if the fair market value of the property to be distributed is required to be commensurate with the fair market value of that interest immediately before the distribution, or

(vi) a trust that, before that time and after December 17, 1999, has made a distribution to a beneficiary in respect of the beneficiary's capital interest in the trust, if the distribution can reasonably be considered to have been financed by a liability of the trust and one of the purposes of incurring the liability was to avoid taxes otherwise payable under this Part as a consequence of the death of any individual;

Proposed Amendment — 108(2)(b)(iv)

Letter from Dept. of Finance, March 7, 2003:

Dear [xxx]

Thank you for your letter of October 17, 2002, concerning the interaction of paragraph 108(2)(b) and subsection 39(2) of the Income Tax Act.

As you know, if the issued units of a trust do not meet the conditions of paragraph 108(2)(a) of the Act, the trust must at that time meet the requirements of paragraph 108(2)(b) or (c) in order to qualify at any time as a "unit trust" under the Act. For a trust that relies upon paragraph 108(2)(b), subparagraph 108(2)(b)(iii) imposes upon the trust the condition that at least 80% of the trust's property consist of any combination of property described in clauses 108(2)(b)(iii)(A) to (G). Subparagraph 108(2)(b)(iv) requires, in general terms, that at least 95% of the trust's income over certain periods of time be derived from investments, or dispositions of investments, in property described in subparagraph (iii).

Subsection 39(2) of the Act deems certain gains resulting from the fluctuation in value of foreign currency to be capital gains from the disposition of foreign currency.

In your letter, you describe a trust that seeks to rely on paragraph 108(2)(b) to qualify as a unit trust. Some of the trust's property may consist of foreign investments. The trust may seek to minimize its risk of foreign currency fluctuations by funding its foreign investments with debt denominated in the foreign currency in which those foreign investments are denominated. We assume that the trust carries on, at all relevant times, these activities in a manner that permits it to satisfy the limitations, in subparagraph 108(2)(b)(ii), on its undertaking.

You are concerned that the portion, if any, of the trust's income in a given year that arises from the application of subsection 39(2) would not be income derived from investments, or the disposition of investments, described in subparagraph 108(2)(b)(iii), such that the trust might not be able to satisfy the conditions of subparagraph 108(2)(b)(iv). As a result, you are seeking an amendment to subparagraph 108(2)(b)(iv) so that the trust's income would be computed without regard to subsection 39(2).

In our view, the deemed capital gains that arise because of the application of subsection 39(2) should not be included in computing the income of a trust for the purpose of subparagraph 108(2)(b)(iv). We are, therefore, prepared to recommend a clarifying amendment to the Act so that, in applying subparagraph 108(2)(b)(iv), the trust's income would be computed without regard to subsection 39(2). We will also recommend that such an amendment apply for the 2003 and subsequent taxation years.

Of course, we cannot offer any assurance that either the Minister of Finance or Parliament will agree with the recommendation that we intend to make in this regard. Nonetheless, we trust that this statement of our position is helpful.

Thank you for writing.

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 1 — NRTs and FIEs), subsec. 26(5), will amend the opening words of subsec. 108(7) to read as above, applicable in determining after 2006 (or, where s. 94 applies to a taxation year of the trust that begins before 2007, on or after the first day of the first such taxation year to which that section applies), whether an interest in a trust has been acquired for consideration.

Technical Notes: Subsection 108(7) contains a rule that, in general terms, provides that a person (or two or more related persons) can make a contribution to a trust and retain an interest under the trust without the interest being considered to have been acquired for consideration. This rule applies for the purposes of paragraph 53(2)(h), subsection 107(1), paragraph (j) of the definition "excluded right or interest" in subsection 128.1(10) and the definition "personal trust" in subsection 248(1).

Subsection 108(7) is amended so that it also applies for the purpose of paragraph (b) of the definition "exempt amount" in subsection 94(1). For more detail on that definition, see the commentary above.

(a) an interest in a trust is deemed not to be acquired for consideration solely because it was acquired in satisfaction of any right as a beneficiary under the trust to enforce payment of an amount by the trust; and

(b) where all the beneficial interests in a particular inter vivos trust acquired by way of the transfer, assignment or other disposition of property to the particular trust were acquired by

(i) one person, or

(ii) two or more persons who would be related to each other if

(A) a trust and another person were related to each other, where the other person is a beneficiary under the trust or is related to a beneficiary under the trust, and

(B) a trust and another trust were related to each other, where a beneficiary under the trust is a beneficiary under the other trust or is related to a beneficiary under the other trust, any beneficial interest in the particular trust acquired by such a person is deemed to have been acquired for no consideration.

(k) Part VI.1 tax — ¾ of the tax payable under subsection 191.1(1) by the taxpayer for the year.

Proposed Amendment — 110(1)(k)

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 101(1), will amend para. 110(1)(k) to replace "¾ of" with "three times", applicable to 2003 et seq.

Technical Notes: Paragraph 110(1)(k) provides a deduction in computing a corporation's taxable income equal to a multiple of the amount of any tax payable by it for the year under Part VI.1 of the Act on dividends it paid on taxable preferred shares. The deduction approximates the income that would have generated an amount of income tax equal to the Part VI.1 tax. The multiple used to produce this result is currently ¾, which implies a total federal and provincial income tax rate of 44.44%.

As part of a series of amendments reflecting recent and planned reductions in income tax rates, the multiple in paragraph 110(1)(k) is increased to 3. This amendment, which applies for the 2003 and subsequent taxation years, implies a total tax rate of 33.3%.

(1.8) Conditions for subsec. (1.7) to apply — The following are the conditions in respect of the reduction;

(a) it is filed on or before the 60th day after Bill C-10 is assented to;

(b) it is in respect of a security acquired by the taxpayer before Bill C-10 is assented to;

(c) the taxpayer is entitled to a deduction under para. 110(1)(d) in respect of the acquisition; and

(d) the taxpayer would not have been so entitled if subsec. 110(1.7), as amended, did not apply.

I.T. Technical News: 38 (employee stock option deduction).

Technical Notes: Subsection 110(1.7) provides that the definitions in subsection 7(7) relating to employee security options also apply for the purposes of subsections 110(1.5) and 110(1.6). Since subsection 7(7) also provides for the definitions to so apply, existing subsection 110(1.7) is unnecessary and is repealed.

A new subsection 110(1.7) is added that applies in circumstances where there is a reduction in the amount (referred to in these notes as the "exercise price") payable by an employee to acquire securities under an employee security option and the conditions in new subsection 110(1.8) are satisfied.

This new subsection ensures that a reduction in the exercise price under an employee security option does not disqualify the employee from claiming the security option deduction under paragraph 110(1)(d), if the reduction could have been effected by way of an exchange of options without jeopardizing the employee's eligibility for the deduction.

Paragraph 110(1)(d) provides a deduction in computing taxable income in circumstances where subsection 7(1) deems an employee to have received a benefit from employment in connection with the exercise or disposition of rights under an employee option agreement. The deduction is currently equal to one-half of the amount of the employment benefit, and the effect of the deduction is to tax the benefit at a rate equivalent to the capital gains inclusion rate.

Paragraph 110(1)(d) sets out certain conditions that must be satisfied in order to qualify for the security option deduction. These conditions include a minimum exercise price requirement under the option giving rise to the benefit under subsection 7(1) and, if that option was acquired as a consequence of one or more qualifying exchanges of options, under each of the previous options. Thus, if a reduction in the exercise price under an employee security option causes the exercise price to fall below the minimum threshold established under paragraph 110(1)(d) for that option, the employee will not be entitled to claim the security option deduction.

However, there are situations in which an otherwise disqualifying reduction in an option exercise price could be effected by way of an exchange of options without jeopardizing the employee's eligibility for the deduction. This would be the case, for example, if the exercise price had originally been set at the fair market value (FMV) of the underlying securities at the time of grant, there is a subsequent decline in the FMV of the securities and the exercise price is adjusted to that lower FMV. The combined effect of subsections 110(1.7) and (1.8) is to deem such a reduction to have been effected by way of an exchange, thus ensuring that the employee remains eligible for the security option deduction.

In particular, new subsection 110(1.7) provides that, where there is a reduction in the exercise price under an employee security option and the conditions in subsection 110(1.8) are satisfied, the employee is deemed to have disposed of the rights under the option immediately before the reduction and to have acquired the amended rights immediately thereafter as consideration for the disposition.

New subsection 110(1.8) sets out two conditions that must be satisfied in order for new subsection 110(1.7) to apply.

- First, the employee would not qualify for the security option deduction if the option were exercised immediately after the exercise price reduction (and subsection 110(1.7) were disregarded).
- Second, the employee would have been eligible for the deduction had there, in fact, been an exchange of options and the employee exercised the option immediately after the exchange.

These conditions ensure that the provisions of subsection 110(1.7) apply only where an otherwise disqualifying reduction in the exercise price under an employee security option could have been effected by way of an exchange of options without so disqualifying the employee.

Example:

Pierre is granted an option to acquire ten shares of Company A at an exercise price of $100 a share, which is the FMV of such a share at that time. After a downturn of the business, the Company amends the option to reduce the exercise price to $30 a share, which is the new FMV of such a share.

Results:

Without the benefit of subsection 110(1.7), paragraph 110(1)(d) would require that the exercise price under the option at the time of exercise be no less than the FMV of the underlying share at the time the option was granted. Since the exercise price of $30 would be less than the FMV of $100 at the time the option was issued, this condition would not be met and Pierre would not be eligible for the security option deduction.

If the reduction had been effected by way of an exchange of options, there would have been no increase in the net benefit associated with the option (i.e., the difference between the FMV of the shares under the "new option" and the "new exercise price" ($300 - $300 = $0) would have been no greater than the difference between the FMV of the shares under the "old option" and the "old exercise price" ($300 - $1,000 = $0)). Thus, the exchange would have been an exchange to which subsection 7(1.4) applied.

If Pierre had exercised the new option immediately after the exchange, paragraph 110(1)(d) would have required that the following exercise price tests be met:

- The exercise price under the old option at the time it was disposed of would have to be not less than the FMV of the underlying shares when the option was granted. Since the exercise price of $100 was equal to the FMV at the date of grant, this condition would have been met.
- The exercise price under the new option at the time of exercise would have to be not less than the exercise price set when the new option was acquired. Since Pierre would have paid $30 a share on exercise, which was the exercise price established when the new option was acquired, this condition would have been met.

Thus, if the reduction had been effected by way of an exchange and Pierre had exercised the option immediately after the exchange, he would have been eligible for the security option deduction.

Since the requirements of subsection 110(1.8) are satisfied, subsection 110(1.7) applies to deem the reduction to have been effected by way of an exchange. Consequently, the reduction will not disqualify Pierre from claiming the stock option deduction.

Extended Deadline for Deferral Election

Where certain conditions are satisfied, subsection 7(8) allows an employee to defer taxation of a security option benefit to the year in which the employee disposes of the security. One condition is that the employee be eligible to claim the deduction under paragraph 110(1)(d) in respect of the benefit. Another condition is that the employee files an election to defer before January 16th of the year following the year in which the option is exercised (or before August 14, 2001 for securities acquired in 2000).

The coming-into-force provisions for subsections 110(1.7) and (1.8) extend the deferral election deadline for securities which are acquired before this legislation receives Royal Assent, and which become qualified for the deduction under paragraph 110(1)(d) only by reason of amended subsection 110(1.7), to the later of

- the election deadline that would otherwise apply, and

• the day that is 60 days after Royal Assent.

Letter from Dept. of Finance, July 13, 2001:

Dear [xxx]

This is in response to your letters of August 5, 1999 and October 3, 2000 concerning the stock option deduction provided under paragraph 110(1)(d) of the Income Tax Act (Act).

As you know, we are prepared to recommend that the Act be amended to ensure that an employee is not disqualified from claiming the stock option deduction because of a reduction in the option exercise price to an amount below the value of the underlying share when the option was granted, provided the reduction could have been accomplished by way of an exchange of options to which subsection 7(1.4) of the Act would have applied. The effect of the amendment would be to allow paragraph 110(1)(d) to apply as though there had, in fact, been such an exchange of options. By requiring that the hypothetical option exchange satisfy the conditions of subsection 7(1.4), this relief would be limited to those situations in which the reduction in exercise price provides no immediate increase in the net benefit associated with the option. We will recommend that this amendment, if adopted, apply to reductions in exercise price occurring after 1998.

We are also prepared to recommend the [sic] section 6204 of the Income Tax Regulations be amended. That section sets out certain conditions that must be met in order for an employee who has acquired a stock option share to be eligible for the stock option deduction. One of the conditions [Reg. 6204(1)(b) — ed.] is that there be no reasonable expectation, at the time the share is acquired, that the paid-up capital (PUC) of the share will be reduced in the following two years, although an exception is made for a reduction in PUC that may be expected to occur in the context of an amalgamation or wind-up of a subsidiary.

We will recommend that an exception also be made for a reduction in PUC that may be expected to occur in the context of a distribution which, because of subsection 84(2) of the Act, would not be recharacterized as a dividend for tax purposes. This would ensure that an employee who acquires a stock option share of a Canadian-resident corporation, while the corporation is in the process of a reorganization, discontinuance or wind-up, is not precluded from claiming the stock option deduction simply because that activity may give rise to a reasonable expectation of a distribution by the corporation and an associated reduction in PUC. We will recommend that this amendment, if adopted, apply with respect to options exercised after 1998.

Thank you for bringing these matters to our attention.

Yours sincerely,

Brian Ernewein, Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

Letter from Dept. of Finance, May 29, 2002:

Dear [xxx]

This is in response to your letter of March 12, 2002 concerning proposed amendments to the Income Tax Act to ensure that an employee is not disqualified from claiming the stock option deduction under paragraph 110(1)(d) of the Act because of a reduction in the option exercise price.

As you know, it is intended that the proposed relief be provided in those situations where a disqualifying reduction in exercise price could have been effected by way of an exchange of options without jeopardizing an employee's eligibility for the stock option deduction. This would require that the hypothetical exchange satisfy the conditions of subsection 7(1.4) of the Act, which means that there must be no immediate increase in the net benefit associated with the option. We expect to recommend that relief be provided in these situations by deeming the amendment to have been effected by way of an exchange of options.

You have noted that, in order to reflect a diminishment in share value following a spin-off transaction, a corporation will commonly amend outstanding employee stock options to both reduce the exercise price and increase the number of shares, and that such amendments are structured so that there is no increase in the net benefit associated with the stock option. You have asked if the proposed relieving provision is meant to apply in such a situation, or if the fact that there is a share increase in conjunction with the exercise price reduction will serve to deny access to the provision.

I wish to confirm that there is no intent to preclude the application of the relieving provision to an amendment that reduces the exercise price under a stock option simply because the amendment also increases the number of shares covered by the option. However, as with a simple reduction in exercise price, the proposed relieving provision is intended to apply only if the stock option amendment could have been effected by way of an exchange of options without jeopardizing access to the stock option deduction. Consequently, a prerequisite for the proposed provision to apply is that the combined changes not result in an increase in the net benefit associated with the option.

I wish to thank you for writing and trust that this letter provides you with the clarification you require.

Yours sincerely,

Brian Ernewein, Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

Proposed Amendment — 110.1(1)(a) opening words

(a) charitable gifts — the total of all amounts each of which is the eligible amount of a gift (other than a gift described in paragraph (b), (c) or (d)) made by the corporation in the year or in any of the five preceding taxation years to

Technical Notes: Section 110.1 provides a deduction in computing taxable income in respect of gifts made by corporations to registered charities and to certain other entities. Section 110.1 is amended to expand the entities referred to in this section to include municipal or public bodies performing a function of government in Canada. This amendment is in response to the Quebec Court of Appeal decision in Tawich Development Corporation v. Deputy Minister of Revenue of Quebec, 2001 D.T.C. 5144. For additional information, see the commentary to paragraph 149(1)(d.5).

Section 110.1 is also amended as a consequence of the addition of new subsections 248(30) to (38). Generally, those subsections clarify the circumstances under which a transfer of property will be considered a gift notwithstanding that the transferor may be entitled to receive an advantage or benefit in respect of the property. New subsection 248(31) generally provides that the "eligible amount" of the gift is the excess of the fair market value of a property transferred by way of gift over the value of the advantage or benefit, if any, to which the transferor is entitled. For additional information, see the commentary to new subsections 248(30) to (39).

Paragraphs 110.1(1)(a) to (d) provide, respectively, for the deduction by a corporation of amounts in respect of "charitable gifts", "gifts to Her Majesty", "gifts to institutions" and "ecological gifts". The amount deductible by the corporation is generally the fair market value of the gift. These paragraphs are amended, consequential to the addition of new subsection 248(31), to provide that the amount deductible by the corporation is generally the "eligible amount" of a gift.

In addition, paragraphs 110.1(1)(a) and 110.1(1)(d) are expanded to provide that a deduction is available in respect of gifts made by corporations to municipal or public bodies performing a function of government in Canada.

Paragraph 110.1(1)(d) is also amended to clarify its application to "real servitudes" under the Civil Code of Quebec.

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 102(3), will amend the description of B in para. 110.1(1)(a) to read as above, applicable to gifts made after December 20, 2002.

(II) that proportion, of the capital cost to the corporation of the property, that the eligible amount of the gift is of the corporation's proceeds of disposition in respect of the gift;

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 102(4), will amend cl. (B) of the description of D in para. 110.1(1)(a) to read as above, applicable to gifts made after December 20, 2002.

(2) Proof of gift — An eligible amount of a gift shall not be included for the purpose of determining a deduction under subsection (1) unless the making of the gift is evidenced by filing with the Minister

(i) capital property to a donee described in paragraph (1)(a), (b) or (d), or

(ii) in the case of a corporation not resident in Canada, real property situated in Canada to a prescribed donee who provides an undertaking, in a form satisfactory to the Minister, to the effect that the property will be held for use in the public interest, and

(b) the fair market value of the property at that time exceeds its adjusted cost base to the corporation, such amount, not greater than the fair market value otherwise determined and not less than the adjusted cost base to the corporation of the property at that time, as the corporation designates in its return of income under section 150 for the year in which the gift is made is, if the making of the gift is proven by filing with the Minister a receipt containing prescribed information, deemed to be its proceeds of disposition of the property and, for the purposes of subsection (1), the fair market value of the gift made by the corporation.

Proposed Amendment — 110.1(2.1), (3)

(2.1) Where subsec. (3) applies — Subsection (3) applies in circumstances where

(a) a corporation makes a gift at any time of

(i) capital property to a donee described in paragraph (1)(a), (b) or (d), or

(ii) in the case of a corporation not resident in Canada, real or immovable property situated in Canada to a prescribed donee who provides an undertaking, in a form satisfactory to the Minister, to the effect that the property will be held for use in the public interest; and

(b) the fair market value of the property otherwise determined at that time exceeds

(i) in the case of depreciable property of a prescribed class, the lesser of the undepreciated capital cost of that class at the end of the taxation year of the corporation that includes that time (determined without reference to the proceeds of disposition designated in respect of the property under subsection (3)) and the adjusted cost base to the corporation of the property immediately before that time, and

(ii) in any other case, the adjusted cost base to the corporation of the property immediately before that time.

Related Provisions: 118.1(5.4) — Parallel rule for individuals; 248(35)–(39) — Value of gift limited to cost if acquired within 3 years or as tax shelter.

(3) Gifts of capital property — If this subsection applies in respect of a gift by a corporation of property, and the corporation designates an amount in respect of the gift in its return of income under section 150 for the year in which the gift is made, the amount so designated is deemed to be its proceeds of disposition of the property and, for the purpose of subsection 248(31), the fair market value of the gift, but the amount so designated may not exceed the fair market value of the property otherwise determined and may not be less than the greater of

(a) in the case of a gift made after December 20, 2002, the amount of the advantage, if any, in respect of the gift, and

(b) the amount determined under subparagraph (2.1)(b)(i) or (ii), as the case may be, in respect of the property.

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 102(8), will add subsec. 110.1(2.1) and amend subsec. (3) to read as above, applicable to gifts made after 1999 except that, for gifts made after 1999 and before December 21, 2002, the expression "subsection 248(31)" in subsec. 110.1(3) shall be read as "subsection (1)".

Technical Notes: Subsection 110.1(3) provides that, if a corporation donates capital property to a charity, it may designate a value between the adjusted cost base and the fair market value of the donated property to be treated both as the proceeds of disposition for the purpose of calculating its capital gain and the amount of the gift for the purpose of the deduction allowed for charitable donations under subsection 110.1(1).

Subsection 110.1(3) is restructured as new subsection 110.1(2.1) and revised subsection 110.1(3). New subsection 110.1(2.1) describes the circumstances under which amended subsection 110.1(3), which remains generally unchanged, will apply. However, where the property is depreciable property, subsection 110.1(2.1) includes those situations where the actual value of the gifted property is between the undepreciated capital cost of that class at the end of the taxation year of the corporation and the fair market value of the donated property.

Amended subsection 110.1(3) provides for the amount that may be designated by the corporation. As with the former provision, the amount designated is considered to be the corporation's proceeds of disposition of the gift. The subsection also continues to provide that the amount designated is treated as the fair market value of the property transferred by way of gift. However, under the amended version, this is for the purpose of new subsection 248(31) instead of for subsection 110.1(1). New subsection 248(31) generally provides that the "eligible amount" of a gift is the excess of the fair market value of a property transferred by way of gift over the value of the advantage or benefit, if any, to which the transferor is entitled. The "eligible amount" is relevant to the determination of the amount deductible under subsection 110.1(1) by the corporation.

Finally, amended subsection 110.1(3) allows a corporation to reduce the amount of recaptured depreciation that might otherwise be calculated in respect of a gift of depreciable property, with a corresponding reduction to the eligible amount deductible under subsection 110.1(1) in respect of the gift. However, the designated amount may not be lower than the amount of any actual proceeds of disposition in respect of the property (or, more specifically, the amount of the advantage in respect of the gift, as defined in new subsection 248(32)).

In particular, the amount designated by the corporation in respect of the property transferred may not exceed the fair market value of the property otherwise determined, and may not be less than the greater of

- the amount of the advantage, if any, in respect of the gift, and
- the adjusted cost base of the property or, if the property is depreciable property of the corporation, the undepreciated capital cost of the class of the property at the end of the corporation's taxation year (determined without reference to the proceeds of disposition designated in respect of the property).

See also the example in the commentary to subsections 118.1(5.4) and (6), which apply similarly to individuals as do subsections 110.1(2.1) and (3) to corporations.

For additional details regarding the eligible amount and the amount of the advantage in respect of a gift, see the commentary to new subsections 248(31) and (32).

History: The closing words of subsec. 110.1(3) amended by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 85(3), applicable in respect of gifts made after February 27, 1995. The closing words formerly read:

> such amount, not greater than the fair market value and not less than the adjusted cost base to the corporation of the property at that time, as the corporation designates in its return of income under section 150 for the year in which the gift is made shall, if the making of the gift is proven by filing with the Minister a receipt containing prescribed information, be deemed to be its proceeds of disposition of the property and, for the purposes of subsection (1), the fair market value of the gift made by the corporation.

(4) Gifts made by partnership — If at the end of a fiscal period of a partnership a corporation is a member of the partnership, its share of any amount that would, if the partnership were a person, be the eligible amount of a gift made by the partnership to any donee is, for the purpose of this section, deemed to be the eligible amount of a gift made to that donee by the corporation in its taxation year in which the fiscal period of the partnership ends.

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 102(9), will amend subsec. 110.1(4) to read as above, applicable to gifts made after December 20, 2002.

Technical Notes: Subsection 110.1(4) allows the attribution of gifts made by a partnership to its corporate members, according to each member's share in the partnership. Subsection 110.1(4) is amended, consequential to the addition of new subsection 248(31), in respect of gifts made by a partnership after December 20, 2002, to refer to the "eligible amount" of a gift made because of a corporation's membership in a partnership.

Technical Notes: Subsection 110.1(5) provides that the fair market value of a gift of ecologically sensitive land (or a covenant, easement or servitude in respect of ecologically sensitive land) is deemed to be the amount determined by the Minister of the Environment. Paragraph 110.1(5)(b) provides that the amount so determined in respect of a covenant, easement or servitude will not be considered to be less than the decrease in value of the subject land that resulted from the making of the gift.

Paragraph 110.1(5)(b) is amended to clarify its application to "real servitudes" under the Civil Code of Quebec.

Subsec. 110.1(5) amended by the said c. 17, subsec. 85(4), applicable in respect of gifts made after February 27, 1995 and before February 28, 2000. The subsec. formerly read:

> (5) For the purposes of paragraph (1)(d) and section 207.31, the fair market value of a gift of a servitude, a covenant or an easement to which land is subject is deemed to be the greater of its fair market value otherwise determined and the amount by which the fair market value of the land is reduced as a consequence of the making of the gift.

Subsec. 110.1(6) added by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 20(2), applicable after July 1997.

(7) Corporation ceasing to exist — If, but for this subsection, a corporation (other than a corporation that was a predecessor corporation in an amalgamation to which subsection 87(1) applied or a corporation that was wound up in a winding-up to which subsection 88(1) applied) would be deemed by subsection 118.1(13) to have made a gift after the corporation ceased to exist, for the purpose of this section, the corporation is deemed to have made the gift in its last taxation year, except that the amount of interest payable under any provision of this Act is the amount that it would be if this subsection did not apply to the gift.

(c) the medicine qualifies as a drug, within the meaning of the Food and Drugs Act, and the drug

(i) meets the requirements of that Act, or would meet those requirements if that Act were read without reference to its subsection 37(1), and

(ii) is not a food, cosmetic or device (as those terms are defined in that Act), a natural health product (as defined in the Natural Health Products Regulations) or a veterinary drug;

(d) the property was, immediately before the making of the gift, described in an inventory in respect of a business of the corporation; and

(e) the donee is a registered charity that, in the opinion of the Minister of International Cooperation (or, if there is no such Minister, the Minister responsible for the Canadian International Development Agency) meets prescribed conditions.

Proposed Amendment — 110.1(8)(e)

(e) the donee is a registered charity that, in the opinion of the Minister for International Cooperation (or, if there is no such Minister, the Minister responsible for the Canadian International Development Agency) meets conditions prescribed by regulation.

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 29(1), will amend para. 110.1(8)(e) to read as above, applicable in respect of gifts made after June 2008.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): The English version of subsection 110.1(8)(e) is amended to correct the title of the Minister for International Cooperation and to clarify that the conditions referred to paragraph are prescribed by the Income Tax Regulations.

Subsec. 110.1(8) added by 2007, c. 35, subsec. 30(2), applicable in respect of gifts of property made after March 18, 2007.

Regulations: 3505 (conditions to qualify).

Proposed Addition — 110.1(9)

(9) Rules governing international medical charities — For the purpose of paragraph (8)(e),

(a) for greater certainty, nothing in paragraph (8)(b) modifies the application to a registered charity of the prescribed conditions referred to in paragraph (8)(e);

(b) if, in respect of a registered charity, the Minister referred to in paragraph (8)(e) is of the opinion described in that paragraph

(i) that Minister may also designate a period of time during which that opinion is valid, and

(ii) notwithstanding subparagraph (i), the opinion may be revoked at any time by that Minister if

(A) that Minister is of the opinion that the registered charity no longer meets prescribed conditions referred to in paragraph (8)(e), or

(B) any person has made any misrepresentation that is attributable to neglect, carelessness or wilful default for the purpose of obtaining the opinion; and

(c) a revocation referred to in subparagraph (b)(ii) is effective as of the time that notice, in writing, of the revocation is issued by that Minister to the registered charity.

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 29(2), will add subsec. 110.1(9), applicable in respect of gifts made after June 2008.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): Section 110.1 provides for the deductibility, in computing the income of a corporation, of charitable donations and certain other gifts. New subsection 110.1(9) applies for the purpose of an "eligible medical gift" made by a corporation after June 30, 2008 and described in subsection 110.1(8) and is applicable if the Minister for International Cooperation is of the opinion that the donee is a registered charity that meets certain conditions.

These conditions are prescribed by new section 3505 of the Income Tax Regulations and are introduced concurrently with paragraph 110.1(9)(a). Paragraph 110.1(9)(a) clarifies that nothing in paragraph 110.1(8)(b) modifies the application to a registered charity of those prescribed conditions. In particular, those prescribed conditions make reference to the requirements of the inter-agency Guidelines for Drug Donations issued by the World Health Organization ("WHO Guidelines"). The WHO Guidelines specify that donated drugs generally should have a remaining shelf-life of 12 months upon arrival in a recipient country. The application of those prescribed conditions is not modified by the reference to a six-month period in paragraph 110.1(8)(b), which is an absolute period applicable to any eligible medical gift under subsection 110.1(8).

New paragraph 110.1(9)(b) allows that Minister to designate a period of time for which such an opinion will be valid, and to revoke an opinion previously given in respect of a registered charity if the registered charity no longer meets the prescribed conditions or any person has made any misrepresentation that is attributable to neglect, carelessness or wilful default for the purpose of obtaining that Minister's opinion.

New paragraph 110.1(9)(c) provides that the revocation of an opinion is effective as of the time that notice in writing is issued to the registered charity.

Dept. of Finance news release 2008-038, May 16, 2008: Canada Acting to Improve the Regime for Donations of Medicines to the Developing World

The Honourable Jim Flaherty, Minister of Finance, and the Honourable Beverley J. Oda, Minister of International Cooperation, today announced draft amendments to the provisions of the Income Tax Act and the Income Tax Regulations that provide an incentive for Canadian corporations to donate excess inventories of medicine for the purpose of international development.

"Our Government is committed to ensuring that corporate donations of medicines to developing nations provide optimal benefits for the health needs of their citizens," said Minister Flaherty. "The regulations proposed today will better ensure that donated medicines are delivered and administered to the people who need them in accordance with international standards for drug donations."

Budget 2007 introduced a tax incentive that provides a special deduction in respect of approved medicines donated, for the purpose of international aid, to a registered charity that has received funding under a program of the Canadian International Development Agency.

"This partnership between the public and private sectors will enable life-saving medicines to reach some of the developing world's most vulnerable people," said Minister Oda. "Access to medicines is one of the greatest challenges facing international assistance efforts, and through today's announcement, Canada will be helping to provide improved health care to families across the world in an effective way."

To better ensure that donations of medicines are undertaken in accordance with accepted international standards, Budget 2008 proposed to change the definition of charities that are eligible to receive these donations to require that they be registered charities that, in the opinion of the Minister of International Cooperation, meet the conditions prescribed by regulations. The proposed regulations are being released today. Related changes to the Income Tax Act are also proposed to support the regulations.

Under the proposed regulations, to be eligible to receive donated medicines that qualify the corporate donor for the special deduction, charities will have to:

- act in a manner consistent with principles and objectives of the World Health Organization Guidelines for Drug Donations;
- have expertise in delivering medical donations to the developing world; and
- implement appropriate policies and practices with respect to the delivery of international development assistance.

The new rules will apply to gifts made on or after July 1, 2008. The Minister of International Cooperation will implement a process based on these new rules to assess charities to determine their eligibility to receive donations from corporate donors that would qualify for the special deduction.

Additional information on the approvals process will be available in the coming weeks on the Canadian International Development Agency website at www.acdi-cida.gc.ca.

The draft amendments and explanatory notes are appended to this news release and are also available on the Department of Finance website at www.fin.gc.ca.

Proposed Amendment — 110.6(1)"qualified farm property"(a) opening words

Letter from Dept. of Finance, March 20, 2008: Mr. L. Dean Gallimore, KPMG LLP

Dear Mr. Gallimore:

I am writing in response to your letter of December 20, 2007 in which you identified an issue with respect to a change in the application of the definition of "qualified farm property" in subsection 110.6(1) of the Income Tax Act (Act). In your letter you noted that the addition of the word "principally" in paragraph (a) of the definition of "qualified farm property" may result in an overly restrictive interpretation of the definition of "qualified farm property" under the Act.

We agree with your concern that the new definition of "qualified farm property" in subsection 110.6(1) of the Act may be overly restrictive with regard to the circumstances under which property will meet the definition of "qualified farm property" under the Act. As such, we are prepared to recommend to the Minister that paragraph (a) of the definition of "qualified farm property" in subsection 110.6(1) of the Act be amended to remove the word "principally". If our recommendation is acted upon, we anticipate that the amendments would be included in a future technical bill and would apply with respect to taxation years that end on or after May 6, 2006. While I cannot offer any assurance that the Minister will agree with our recommendation, I hope that this statement of our intentions is helpful to you.

Yours sincerely,

Gérard Lalonde, Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 103(1), will add para. 110.6(14)(d.1), applicable to dispositions that occur after December 20, 2002; and to dispositions made by a taxpayer after 1999, if the taxpayer so elects in writing and files the election with the Minister of National Revenue on or before the taxpayer's filing-due date for the taxpayer's taxation year in which Bill C-10 is assented to.

Technical Notes: Subsection 110.6(14) provides certain rules that apply for the purposes of the definition "qualified small business corporation share" in subsection

110.6(1) and the capital gains exemption in respect of such shares. This subsection is amended to add new paragraph 110.6(14)(d.1).

New paragraph 110.6(14)(d.1) deems a person who is a member of a partnership that is a member of another partnership (a lower-tiered partnership) to be a member of the lower-tiered partnership. This amendment will permit such a taxpayer to have access to the deduction for taxable capital gains arising on the disposition of a qualified small business corporation share by the lower-tiered partnership.

Letter from Dept. of Finance, Aug. 17, 2001:

Monsieur,

La présente fait suite à votre lettre du 18 janvier 2001 relativement à la déduction pour gains en capital pour les actions admissibles de petite entreprise.

Les commentaires que vous avez formulés soulignent le caractère restrictif de l'alinéa 110.6(14)(d) de la Loi de l'impôt sur le revenu (LIR). Présentement la LIR stipule qu'une société de personnes est réputée liée à une personne pendant chaque période tout au long de laquelle cette personne est une associé de la société de personnes. Elle ne permet donc pas à un particulier qui est l'associé d'une société de personnes, qui elle-même est l'associée d'une autre société de personnes qui dispose d'actions admissibles de petite entreprise, de bénéficier de la déduction pour gain en capital prévue au paragraphe 110.6(2.1) de la LIR puisque cet associé n'est pas réputé lié à cette dernière.

La politique fiscale qui sous-tend cette mesure m'amène toutefois à considérer que la déduction pour gains en capital pour les actions admissibles de petite entreprise ne devrait pas être refusée dans le cas susmentionné. Par conséquent, je suis disposé à recommander que la LIR soit modifiée en ce sens.

Brian Ernewein

(1.1) [Adjustments to] Net capital losses — Notwithstanding paragraph (1)(b), the amount that may be deducted under that paragraph in computing a taxpayer's taxable income for a particular taxation year is the total of

(a) the lesser of

(i) the amount, if any, determined under paragraph 3(b) in respect of the taxpayer for the particular year, and

(ii) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount determined by the formula

where

A is the amount claimed under paragraph (1)(b) for the particular year by the taxpayer in respect of a net capital loss for a taxation year (in this paragraph referred to as the "loss year"),

B is the fraction that would be used for the particular year under section 38 in respect of the taxpayer if the taxpayer had a capital loss for the particular year, and

C is the fraction required to be used under section 38 in respect of the taxpayer for the loss year; and

(b) where the taxpayer is an individual, the least of

(i) $2,000,

(ii) the taxpayer's pre-1986 capital loss balance for the particular year, and

(iii) the amount, if any, by which

(A) the amount claimed under paragraph (1)(b) in respect of the taxpayer's net capital losses for the particular year

exceeds

(B) the total of the amounts in respect of the taxpayer's net capital losses that, using the formula in subparagraph (a)(ii), would be required to be claimed under paragraph (1)(b) for the particular year to produce the amount determined under paragraph (a) for the particular year.

Proposed Addition — 111(1.1)(c)

(c) the amount, if any, that the Minister determines to be reasonable in the circumstances, after considering the application of subsections 104(21.6), 130.1(4), 131(1) and 138.1(3.2) to the taxpayer for the particular year.

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 104(1), will add para. 111(1.1)(c), applicable to 2000 et seq.

Technical Notes: Subsection 111(1.1) determines the amount that a taxpayer may deduct in respect of a net capital loss claimed under paragraph 111(1)(b). The 2000 Budget and the 2000 Economic Statement provided for the reduction of the capital gains inclusion rate from ¾ to ⅔ and then to ½, respectively. This reduction in the inclusion rate gave rise to changes to the adjusting factors in subsection 111(1.1). An additional amendment is made to subsection 111(1.1) to permit the Minister of National Revenue to determine a reasonable amount of deduction in respect of net capital loss carryovers where the other rules in that subsection produce inappropriate results.

Related Provisions: 111(2) — Year of death. See also at end of s. 111.

History: Subsec. 111(1.1) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 83(1), applicable to the computation of taxable income for 1985 et seq. Subsec. 111(1.1) formerly read:

(1.1) Notwithstanding paragraph (1)(b), where a taxpayer has claimed an amount under that paragraph for a particular taxation year in respect of the taxpayer's net capital losses, the amount that may be deducted under that paragraph in respect of those losses for that year is the lesser of

(a) the total of

(i) the amount, if any, determined under paragraph 3(b) in respect of the taxpayer for the particular year, and

(ii) where the taxpayer is an individual, the lesser of

(A) $2,000, and

(B) the taxpayer's pre-1986 capital loss balance for the particular year; and

(b) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount determined by the formula

where

A is the amount of a net capital loss for a taxation year (in this paragraph referred to as a "loss year") claimed under paragraph (1)(b),

B is the fraction that would be used for the particular year under section 38 in respect of the taxpayer if the taxpayer had a capital loss for that year, and

C is the fraction required to be used under section 38 in respect of the taxpayer for the loss year.

(2) Year of death — Where a taxpayer dies in a taxation year, for the purpose of computing the taxpayer's taxable income for that year and the immediately preceding taxation year, the following rules apply:

(a) paragraph (1)(b) shall be read as follows:

"(b) the taxpayer's net capital losses for all taxation years not claimed for the purpose of computing the taxpayer's taxable income for any other taxation year;"; and

(b) paragraph (1.1)(b) shall be read as follows:

"(b) the amount, if any, by which

(i) the amount claimed under paragraph (1)(b) in respect of the taxpayer's net capital losses for the particular year

exceeds the total of

(ii) all amounts in respect of the taxpayer's net capital losses that, using the formula in subparagraph (a)(ii), would be required to be claimed under paragraph (1)(b) for the particular year to produce the amount determined under paragraph (a) for the particular year, and

(iii) all amounts each of which is an amount deducted under section 110.6 in computing the taxpayer's taxable income for a taxation year, except to the extent that, where the particular year is the year in which the taxpayer died, the amount, if any, by which the amount determined under subparagraph (i) in respect of the taxpayer for the immediately preceding taxation year exceeds the amount so determined under subparagraph (ii)."

History: Subsec. 111(2) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 83(1), applicable to the computation of taxable income for 1985 et seq. Subsec. 111(2) formerly read:

(2) Where a taxpayer dies in a taxation year, for the purposes of computing the taxpayer's taxable income for that year and the immediately preceding taxation year, subsection (1.1) shall be read as follows:

"(1.1) Notwithstanding paragraph (1)(b), where a taxpayer has claimed an amount under that paragraph for a particular year in respect of the taxpayer's net capital losses, the amount that may be deducted under that paragraph in respect of those losses (to the extent they are not deducted in computing the taxpayer's income for any other taxation year) for that year is the total of

(a) an amount not exceeding the amount, if any, determined under paragraph 3(b) in respect of the taxpayer for the particular year, equal to the total of all amounts each of which is an amount determined by the formula

where

A is the net capital losses for a taxation year (in this paragraph referred to as a "loss year") claimed under paragraph (1)(b),

B is the fraction that would be used for the particular year under section 38 in respect of the taxpayer if the taxpayer had a capital loss for that year, and

C is the fraction required to be used under section 38 in respect of the taxpayer for the loss year; and

(b) the amount, if any, by which

(i) the amount of the taxpayer's net capital losses claimed under paragraph (1)(b) for the particular year

exceeds the total of

(ii) the amount of the taxpayer's net capital losses claimed under paragraph (1)(b) that was determined under paragraph (a) for the particular year, and

(iii) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount deducted by the taxpayer under section 110.6 in computing the taxpayer's taxable income for a taxation year."

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-232R3: Losses — their deductibility in the loss year or in other years. See also at end of s. 111.

(3) Limitation on deductibility — For the purposes of subsection (1),

(a) an amount in respect of a non-capital loss, restricted farm loss, farm loss or limited partnership loss, as the case may be, for a taxation year is deductible, and an amount in respect of a net capital loss for a taxation year may be claimed, in computing the taxable income of a taxpayer for a particular taxation year only to the extent that it exceeds the total of

(i) amounts deducted under this section in respect of that non-capital loss, restricted farm loss, farm loss or limited partnership loss in computing taxable income for taxation years preceding the particular taxation year,

(i.1) the amount that was claimed under paragraph (1)(b) in respect of that net capital loss for taxation years preceding the particular taxation year, and

(ii) amounts claimed in respect of that loss under paragraph 186(1)(c) for the year in which the loss was incurred or under paragraph 186(1)(d) for the particular taxation year and taxation years preceding the particular taxation year, and

(b) no amount is deductible in respect of a non-capital loss, net capital loss, restricted farm loss, farm loss or limited partnership loss, as the case may be, for a taxation year until

(i) in the case of a non-capital loss, the deductible non-capital losses,

(ii) in the case of a net capital loss, the deductible net capital losses,

(iii) in the case of a restricted farm loss, the deductible restricted farm losses,

(iv) in the case of a farm loss, the deductible farm losses, and

(v) in the case of a limited partnership loss, the deductible limited partnership losses, for preceding taxation years have been deducted.

(b) no amount in respect of a net capital loss for a taxation year ending after that time is deductible in computing the corporation's taxable income for a taxation year ending before that time, and where, at that time, the corporation neither became nor ceased to be exempt from tax under this Part on its taxable income,

(c) in computing the adjusted cost base to the corporation at and after that time of each capital property, other than a depreciable property, owned by the corporation immediately before that time, there shall be deducted the amount, if any, by which the adjusted cost base to the corporation of the property immediately before that time exceeds its fair market value immediately before that time,

(i) the fair market value of the property immediately before that time, and

(ii) the greater of the adjusted cost base to the corporation of the property immediately before the disposition and such amount as is designated by the corporation in respect of the property, and shall be deemed to have been reacquired by it at that time at a cost equal to the proceeds of disposition thereof, except that, where the property is depreciable property of the corporation the capital cost of which to the corporation immediately before the disposition time exceeds those proceeds of disposition, for the purposes of sections 13 and 20 and any regulations made for the purpose of paragraph 20(1)(a),

(f) each amount that by virtue of paragraph (d) or (e) is a capital loss or gain of the corporation from a disposition of a property for the taxation year that ended immediately before that time shall, for the purposes of the definition "capital dividend account" in subsection 89(1), be deemed to be a capital loss or gain, as the case may be, of the corporation from the disposition of the property immediately before the time that a capital property of the corporation in respect of which paragraph (e) would be applicable would be deemed by that paragraph to have been disposed of by the corporation.

(8) Definitions — In this section,

Proposed Addition — 111(8)"exchange rate"

"exchange rate" at any time in respect of a currency of a country other than Canada means the rate of exchange between that currency and Canadian currency quoted by the Bank of Canada at noon on the day that includes that time or, if that day is not a business day, on the day that immediately precedes that day, or a rate of exchange acceptable to the Minister;

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 30(1), will add the definition "exchange rate" to subsec. 111(8), applicable to any acquisition of control of a corporation that occurs

(a) after March 7, 2008, other than an acquisition of control that occurs before 2009 pursuant to the terms of an agreement made in writing on or before March 7, 2008; or

(b) after 2005, if the corporation so elects in writing and files the election with the Minister of National Revenue on or before the corporation's filing due-date for the corporation's taxation year that includes the day on which the amending legislation is assented to.

If an election under paragraph (b) above is made by the corporation in respect of an acquisition of control, a designation under para. 111(4)(e) by the corporation for its taxation year that ended immediately before the acquisition of control is deemed to have been made in a timely manner if that designation is made on or before the corporation's filing due-date for its taxation year that includes the day on which the amending legislation is assented to.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): The new definitions "exchange rate" and "foreign currency debt" are added to subsection 111(8). As well, new subsection 111(12) is added to extend the general treatment of accrued capital gains and losses on an acquisition of control of a corporation, so that that treatment applies also to a corporation's accrued capital gains and capital losses resulting from foreign currency fluctuations on debt liabilities denominated in a foreign currency.

The new definition "exchange rate" is relevant for the purposes of new subsections 40(10) and (11) and for new subsection 111(12), regarding capital gains and losses resulting from foreign currency fluctuations on debt liabilities denominated in a foreign currency. The "exchange rate" at any time in respect of a foreign currency is the rate of exchange between that currency and Canadian currency quoted by the Bank of Canada at noon (often referred to as the "Noon Rate") on the day that includes that time or, if that day is not a business day, on the day before; or a rate of exchange acceptable to the Minister.

(ii) the total of all amounts each of which is the taxpayer's income for the year from a farming or fishing business, and

(b) the amount that would be the taxpayer's non-capital loss for the year if each of the amounts determined for C and D in the definition "non-capital loss" in this subsection were zero, and

B [Repealed]

C is the total of all amounts by which the farm loss of the taxpayer for the year is required to be reduced because of section 80;

See also at end of s. 111.

History: The formula in the definition "farm loss" in subsec. 111(8) amended to remove reference to B and the description of B repealed by 2000, c. 19, subsecs. 19(1) and (2), applicable to 1998 et seq. The description of B formerly read:

B is the amount, if any, by which any amount specified by the taxpayer in the taxpayer's election for the year under subsection 110.4(2) exceeds the amount that would be the taxpayer's non-capital loss for the year if the amount determined for C in the definition "non-capital loss" in this subsection were zero, and

The formula in the definition "farm loss" in subsec. 111(8) amended to add C, and the description of C added, by 1995, c. 21, subsecs. 36(1), (2), applicable to taxation years that end after February 21, 1994.

(b) after 2005, if the corporation so elects in writing and files the election with the Minister of National Revenue on or before the corporation's filing due-date for the corporation's taxation year that includes the day on which the amending legislation is assented to.

If an election under paragraph (b) above is made by the corporation in respect of an acquisition of control, a designation under para. 111(4)(e) by the corporation for its taxation year that ended immediately before the acquisition of control is deemed to have been made in a timely manner if that designation is made on or before the corporation's filing due-date for its taxation year that includes the day on which the amending legislation is assented to.

The description of C formerly read:

C is the least of

C is the total of all amounts deducted under section 110.6 in computing the individual's taxable income for taxation years that ended before 1988 or begin after October 17, 2000,

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 104(2), will amend the description of C in the definition "pre-1986 capital loss balance" in subsec. 111(8) to read as above, applicable to 2000 et seq.

Technical Notes: An individual's "pre-1986 capital loss balance" for a taxation year is relevant for the purpose of paragraph 111(1.1)(b) and represents the individual's unused pre-1986 capital losses that the individual can deduct, to a maximum of $2,000 per year, from income other than capital gains of the individual. The reference in the description of C in the definition to "taxation years that end before 1988 or after October 17, 2000" is corrected to refer to "taxation years that end before 1988 or begin after October 17, 2000".

D is ¾ of the total of all amounts each of which is an amount deducted under section 110.6 in computing the individual's taxable income for a taxation year, preceding the particular year, that

(a) ended after 1987 and before 1990, or

(b) began after February 27, 2000 and ended before October 18, 2000,

E is ⅔ of the total of all amounts deducted under section 110.6 in computing the individual's taxable income for taxation years, preceding the particular year, that ended after 1989 and before February 28, 2000, and

where

J is the amount deducted by the individual under section 110.6 for a taxation year of the individual, preceding the particular year, that includes February 28, 2000 or October 17, 2000, and

K is the fraction in paragraph 38(a) that applies to the individual for the individual's taxation year referred to in the description of J.

Related Provisions: 161(7) — Effect of carryback of loss; 257 — Formula amounts cannot calculate to less than zero. See also at end of s. 111.

History: The first formula in the definition "pre-1986 capital loss balance" in subsec. 111(8) amended by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 87(4) to add "+ E.1", applicable to taxation years that end after February 27, 2000.

The descriptions of C to E in the definition "pre-1986 capital loss balance" in subsec. 111(8) amended, and the description of E.1 added, by the said c. 17, subsec. 87(5), applicable to taxation years that end after February 27, 2000. The descriptions of C to E formerly read:

C is the total of all amounts deducted under section 110.6 in computing the individual's taxable income for taxation years preceding 1988,

D is ¾ of the total of all the amounts deducted under section 110.6 in computing the individual's taxable income for taxation years preceding the particular year and ending after 1987 and before 1990, and

G is the total of all amounts deducted by the individual under this section in respect of that loss in computing the individual's taxable income for taxation years preceding the particular taxation year,

I is the total of all amounts deducted by the individual under this section in respect of the individual's net capital loss for the 1985 taxation year in computing the individual's taxable income for taxation years preceding the particular taxation year,

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-232R3: Losses — their deductibility in the loss year or in other years; IT-262R2: Losses of non-residents and part-year residents. See also at end of s. 111.

(9) Exception [non-residents] — In this section, a taxpayer's non-capital loss, net capital loss, restricted farm loss, farm loss and limited partnership loss for a taxation year during which the taxpayer was not resident in Canada shall be determined as if

(a) in the part of the year throughout which the taxpayer was non-resident, if section 114 applies to the taxpayer in respect of the year, and the taxpayer had no income other than income described in any of subparagraphs 115(1)(a)(i) to (vi), the taxpayer's only taxable capital gains, allowable capital losses and allowable business investment losses were from dispositions of taxable Canadian property (other than treaty-protected property) and the taxpayer's only other losses were losses from the duties of an office or employment performed by the taxpayer in Canada and businesses (other than treaty-protected businesses) carried on by the taxpayer in Canada.

(b) throughout the year, in any other case,

Proposed Addition — 111(12)

(12) Foreign currency debt on acquisition of control — For the purposes of subsection (4), if at any time a corporation owes a foreign currency debt in respect of which the corporation would have had, if the foreign currency debt had been repaid at that time, a capital loss or gain, the corporation is deemed to own at the time (in this subsection referred to as the "measurement time") that is immediately before that time a property

(a) the adjusted cost base of which at the measurement time is the amount determined by the formula

where

A is the amount of principal owed by the corporation under the foreign currency debt at the measurement time, calculated, for greater certainty, using the exchange rate applicable at the measurement time,

B is the portion of any gain, previously recognized in respect of the foreign currency debt because of this section, that is reasonably attributable to the amount described in A, and

C is the portion of any capital loss previously recognized in respect of the foreign currency debt because of this section, that is reasonably attributable to the amount described in A; and

(b) the fair market value of which is the amount that would be the amount of the principal owed by the corporation under the foreign currency debt at the measurement time if that amount were calculated using the exchange rate applicable at the time of the original borrowing.

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 30(2), will add subsec. 111(12), applicable to any acquisition of control of a corporation that occurs

(a) after March 7, 2008, other than an acquisition of control that occurs before 2009 pursuant to the terms of an agreement made in writing on or before March 7, 2008; or

(b) after 2005, if the corporation so elects in writing and files the election with the Minister of National Revenue on or before the corporation's filing due-date for the corporation's taxation year that includes the day on which the amending legislation is assented to.

If an election under paragraph (b) above is made by the corporation in respect of an acquisition of control, a designation under para. 111(4)(e) by the corporation for its taxation year that ended immediately before the acquisition of control is deemed to have been made in a timely manner if that designation is made on or before the corporation's filing due-date for its taxation year that includes the day on which the amending legislation is assented to.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): Under subsection 111(4) of the Act, a corporation that undergoes an acquisition of control is required to recognize, for income tax purposes, all of its accrued capital losses on property that the corporation owns at that time. Those newly-realized capital losses, together with the corporation's existing net capital losses, cannot be used after the acquisition of control. The corporation can, however, elect to realize any accrued capital gains on other property that the corporation owns, allowing it to use some or all of its capital losses to offset those capital gains.

Unlike other accrued capital gains and losses, capital gains and losses resulting from foreign currency fluctuations on a corporation's debt liabilities have not been subject to these rules, even though in other respects the Act generally treats capital gains and losses realized in respect of foreign currency fluctuations like other capital gains and losses.

New subsection 111(12) extends the general treatment of accrued capital gains and losses on an acquisition of control of a corporation to a corporation's accrued capital gains and capital losses resulting from foreign currency fluctuations on debt liabilities denominated in a foreign currency. It should be noted that these rules apply only to foreign currency debts the repayment of which would have generated a capital loss or gain.

New subsection 111(12) provides that for the purposes of subsection 111(4), if at any time a corporation owes a foreign currency debt, the corporation is deemed to own, immediately before that time (referred to in these notes and in new subsection 111(12) as the 'measurement time'), a property with an adjusted cost base (ACB) and fair market value (FMV) determined by the formulas contained in paragraphs 111(12)(a) and (b) respectively. Establishing an ACB and an FMV for this notional property allows for the calculation of capital losses or gains, as the case may be, in respect of the foreign currency debt.

Under new paragraph 111(12)(a), the ACB of the notional property at the measurement time is determined by the formula:

$$A + B - C$$

A is the amount of principal owed by the corporation under the foreign currency debt at the measurement time (calculated, for greater certainty, using the exchange rate applicable at the measurement time).

B is the portion of any gain previously recognized in respect of the foreign currency debt because of section 111 that is reasonably attributable to the principal owed by the corporation as described in A.

C is the portion of any capital loss previously recognized in respect of the foreign currency debt because of section 111 that is reasonably attributable to the principal owed by the corporation as described in A.

Under new paragraph 111(12)(b), the FMV of the notional property at the measurement time is the amount that would be the amount of the principal owed by the corporation under the foreign currency debt at the measurement time if that amount were calculated using the exchange rate applicable at the time of the original borrowing.

For this purpose, new borrowings under an existing credit facility after an acquisition of control will be treated as a separate debt, pursuant to subsection 248(27).

New subsection 111(12) will apply to acquisitions of control that occur after March 7, 2008, other than an acquisition of control that occurs before 2009, where the persons acquiring control are obligated to acquire the control pursuant to the terms of an agreement in writing made by them on or before March 7, 2008. Corporations will also be able to elect to have new subsection 111(12) apply to acquisitions of control that occur after 2005.

Department of Finance news release 2008-026, March 7, 2008: Government of Canada Announces Technical Changes to the Income Tax Treatment of Gains and Losses on Debt Denominated in a Foreign Currency

The Honourable Jim Flaherty, Minister of Finance, today proposed technical changes to extend the application of certain income tax rules that apply to capital gains and losses of a corporation on an acquisition of control to also apply to capital gains and losses on debt denominated in a foreign currency.

Under existing tax rules in the Income Tax Act (or Act), a corporation that undergoes an acquisition of control (for example, when another taxpayer buys all of its shares) is required to recognize, for income tax purposes, all of its accrued capital losses on property that the corporation owns at that time. Those newly-realized capital losses, together with the corporation's other capital losses, cannot be used after the acquisition of control. The corporation can, however, elect to realize any accrued capital gains on other property that the corporation owns, allowing it to use some or all of its capital losses to offset those capital gains.

Unlike other accrued capital gains and losses, capital gains and losses resulting from foreign currency fluctuations on a corporation's debt liabilities have not been subject to these rules, even though in other respects the Act generally treats capital gains and losses realized in respect of foreign currency fluctuations like other capital gains and losses. Under this proposal, the Act would be amended to extend the general treatment of accrued capital gains and losses on an acquisition of control of a corporation to also apply to a corporation's accrued capital gains and capital losses resulting from foreign currency fluctuations on debt liabilities denominated in a foreign currency.

The new rules will generally apply to acquisitions of control that occur after today's date, other than an acquisition of control that occurs before 2009, where the persons acquiring control are obligated to acquire the control pursuant to the terms of an agreement in writing made by them on or before today's date. Corporations will also be able to elect to have the new rules apply to acquisitions of control that occur after 2005.

The Government will introduce legislation at an early opportunity.

Proposed Amendment — 114 opening words

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 1 — NRTs and FIEs), s. 28, will amend the opening words of s. 114 to add "and subject to subsection 94.2(5)", applicable to taxation years that begin after 2006, except that that subsection also applies to a taxation year of a taxpayer that begins before 2007 if ss. 94.1 to 94.4 apply to that taxation year of the taxpayer.

Technical Notes: Section 114 provides rules for computing the taxable income of an individual who is resident in Canada for a period or periods in a taxation year, and is non-resident for the rest of the year.

Section 114 is amended so that it is subject to paragraph 94.2(5)(c), a rule that applies in connection with a participating interest, in a foreign investment entity, in respect of which the mark-to-market regime under section 94.2 applies to a taxpayer. Paragraph 94.2(5)(c) is, however, only relevant to an individual who ceases to be, and later becomes, resident in Canada in the same taxation year. For further information, see the commentary on new subsection 94.2(5).

(ii) income that would have been included in the individual's taxable income earned in Canada for the year under subparagraph 115(1)(a)(v) if the part of the year throughout which the individual was non-resident were the whole taxation year,

exceeds the total of

(b) the deductions permitted by subsection 111(1) and, to the extent that they relate to amounts included in computing the amount determined under paragraph (a), the deductions permitted by any of paragraphs 110(1)(d) to (d.2) and (f), and

(c) any other deduction permitted for the purpose of computing taxable income to the extent that

(i) it can reasonably be considered to be applicable to the part of the year throughout which the individual was resident in Canada, or

(ii) if all or substantially all of the individual's income for the part of the year throughout which the individual was non-resident is included in the amount determined under paragraph (a), it can reasonably be considered to be applicable to that part of the year.

Division D — Taxable Income Earned in Canada by Non-Residents

115. (1) Non-resident's taxable income [earned] in Canada — For the purposes of this Act, the taxable income earned in Canada for a taxation year of a person who at no time in the year is resident in Canada is the amount, if any, by which the amount that would be the non-resident person's income for the year under section 3 if

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), s. 31, will amend subpara. 115(1)(a)(iii.21) to read as above, applicable to 2008 et seq.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): Subparagraph 115(1)(a)(iii.21) is amended to ensure that any amounts received under the Wage Earner Protection Program Act (WEPP) are included in computing a non-resident's taxable income earned in Canada. For further information regarding WEPP, readers may refer to the commentary on paragraph 56(1)(r) of the Act.

(iii.3) in any case where, in the year, the non-resident person carried on a business in Canada described in any of paragraphs (a) to (g) of the definition "principal-business corporation" in subsection 66(15), all amounts in respect of a Canadian resource property that would be required to be included in computing the non-resident person's income for the year under this Part if the non-resident person were resident in Canada at any time in the year, to the extent that those amounts are not included in computing the non-resident person's income by virtue of subparagraph (ii) or (iii.1),

(iv) the amount, if any, by which any amount required by subsection 106(2) to be included in computing the non-resident person's income for the year as proceeds of the disposition of an income interest in a trust resident in Canada exceeds the amount in respect of that income interest that would, if the non-resident person had been resident in Canada throughout the year, be deductible under subsection 106(1) in computing the non-resident person's income for the year,

Proposed Amendment — 115(1)(a)(vii)

(vii) in the case of an authorized foreign bank,

(A) the amount claimed by the bank to the extent that the inclusion of the amount in income

(I) increases any amount deductible by the bank under subsection 126(1) for the year, and

(II) does not increase an amount deductible by the bank under section 127 for the year, and

(B) all amounts required by paragraph 12(1)(k) to be included in computing the bank's income, except to the extent that

(I) subparagraph (ii) or clause (A) applies to those amounts, or

(II) those amounts are in respect of a business of the bank that is not its Canadian banking business,

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 1 — NRTs and FIEs), s. 29, will amend subpara. 115(1)(a)(vii) to read as above, applicable to taxation years that begin after July 18, 2005.

Technical Notes: Section 115 determines the amount of a non-resident person's income that is subject to tax under Part I of the Act. This amount is referred to as the non-resident's "taxable income earned in Canada". Subsection 115(1) provides general rules to be applied in calculating a non-resident's "taxable income earned in Canada". Paragraphs 115(1)(a) to (c) set out special assumptions that are applied in computing the taxable income earned in Canada of a non-resident taxpayer. Subparagraph 115(1)(a)(vii) includes in the taxable income earned in Canada of an authorized foreign bank the amount claimed by the bank to the extent that the inclusion increases the bank's usable foreign tax credit under subsection 126(1) but does not increase any amount deductible by the bank under section 127.

Subparagraph 115(1)(a)(vii) is amended so that, in computing the taxable income earned in Canada of an authorized foreign bank, there must also be included amounts (not otherwise included in computing its taxable income earned in Canada) that are required by paragraph 12(1)(k) to be included in computing the bank's income, but only to the extent that the income is earned in its Canadian banking business.

This amendment is made in conjunction with paragraph 94.1(2)(t), which ensures that an authorized foreign bank is subject to the FIE rules in respect of participating interests held by it in a FIE.

(c) the only losses for the year referred to in paragraph 3(d) were losses from duties of an office or employment performed by the person in Canada and businesses (other than treaty-protected businesses) carried on by the person in Canada and allowable business investment losses in respect of property any gain from the disposition of which would, because of this subsection, be included in computing the person's taxable income earned in Canada,

(e) the deductions permitted by any of subsections 112(1) and (2) and 138(6) in respect of a dividend received by the non-resident person, to the extent that the dividend is included in computing the non-resident person's taxable income earned in Canada for the year,

(f) where all or substantially all of the non-resident person's income for the year is included in computing the non-resident person's taxable income earned in Canada for the year, such of the other deductions permitted for the purpose of computing taxable income as may reasonably be considered wholly applicable.

Proposed Amendment — 115.2(2)(c)

Letter from Dept. of Finance, June 4, 2002:

Dear [xxx]

I am writing further to discussions you and your colleague, [xxx] have had with Ryan Hall of this Division and your letter of April 8, 2002, in which you raise a concern about the application of paragraph 115.2(2)(c) of the Income Tax Act to non-resident persons who are members of a partnership of which residents of Canada are also members, and you request that certain amendments be made to address this concern.

As you know, section 115.2 is an interpretive rule which ensures that, provided certain conditions are met, the receipt of Canadian investment management services does not by itself cause a non-resident person to be considered to be carrying on business in Canada. (However, it should be noted that the section does not protect from Canadian taxation non-residents who for other reasons would be considered to be earning income from carrying on business in Canada.)

This section was recently amended so that it applies to all non-resident persons, including those who are members of a partnership of which one or more members are resident in Canada. As a result, the rule no longer applies to partnerships per se, but rather to the partners themselves. Paragraph 115.2(2)(c) sets out the circumstances under which the rule applies where investment services are not directly provided to non-residents but to a partnership, of which the non-residents are members.

Your concern is that the restriction in subparagraph 115.2(2)(c)(ii), which places a 25% limit on investments held in a partnership by persons who are affiliated with the Canadian service provider, may in some cases lead to consequences which are inconsistent with the Government's stated policy objectives.

You note in your letter that the explanatory notes for the amendments to section 115.2 explain that the restrictions found in subparagraphs 115.2(2)(c)(i) and (ii) are comparable to those found in subparagraph 115.2(2)(b)(iii), but you express the view that these two restrictions are not analogous. Although we consider the mechanics of the provisions to be comparable, it would appear that the two rules differ substantively: paragraph (b) applies to limit investments in non-residents (in that paragraph, corporations and trusts) to which subsection 115.2(2) applies whereas paragraph (c) does not operate to restrict investments in non-residents who benefit from that subsection, but rather in partnerships of which they are members.

The underlying policy for the investment restrictions in subsection 115.2(2) is to ensure that a reasonable measure of independence exists between non-resident persons who benefit from section 115.2 and their service providers. Making section 115.2 available in those cases where a non-resident is a member of a partnership, of which 25% of the investments are held by persons and partnerships which are affiliated with a service provider but not with the non-resident, would not appear to compromise this policy objective. In short, it seems that the limitation found in paragraph (c) may not be an accurate proxy for gauging the level of independence between any given non-resident and a service provider who supplies investment services to a partnership of which the non-resident is a member.

Given the foregoing, the Government's policy objective — both to treat partnerships as flow-through entities for the purposes of section 115.2 and to ensure a reasonable measure of independence exists between non-resident persons who avail themselves of the benefit of this section and their service providers — would likely be met by replacing the restriction found in paragraph (c) with a limitation that better relates to the measure of independence vis-à-vis a non-resident person and a service provider who provides investment services to a partnership of which the non-resident is a member.

We therefore intend to recommend two things: that subsection 115.2(2) be amended so that a non-resident who is a member of a partnership which receives investment services will not be denied the benefit of section 115.2 because other persons or partnerships, which are affiliated with the service provider but not with the non-resident, hold more than 25% of the fair market value of the interests in the partnership; and that, in keeping with the principle of applying section 115.2 at the partner rather than at the partnership level, the 25% investment limit apply to the non-resident partners themselves. We are prepared to recommend that these amendments apply to the 2002 and subsequent taxation years, if the non-resident so chooses.

Of course, we cannot offer any assurance that either the Minister of Finance or Parliament will agree with the recommendation that we intend to make in this regard. Nonetheless, we trust that this statement of our position is helpful.

Yours sincerely,

Brian Ernewein, Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

Proposed Amendment — 115.2(2)

Letter from Dept. of Finance, Nov. 26, 2002:

Dear [xxx]

I am writing further to your letter of August 20, 2002 and your discussions with Ryan Hall, of this Division, concerning section 115.2 of the Income Tax Act. In particular, you ask that the section, which currently applies only for the purposes of subsection 115(1) and Part XIV of the Act, be broadened to apply also for the purposes of the corporate filing requirements under section 150 of the Act.

As you know, section 115.2 is an interpretive rule which ensures that, provided certain conditions are met, the receipt of Canadian investment management services does not by itself cause a non-resident person to be considered to be carrying on business in Canada. (However, it should be noted that the section does not protect from Canadian taxation non-residents who for other reasons would be considered to be earning income from carrying on business in Canada.)

You explain that a non-resident corporation that is entitled to benefit from the protection of section 115.2 may in some cases be required to file a return in Canada solely because of the provision of designated investment services to the non-resident by a Canadian investment manager. Technical Interpretation 2001-0089875, a copy of which you attached to your letter and to which you refer, makes it clear that section 253 will deem a non-resident to be carrying on business in Canada if, for example, the non-resident carries on business outside Canada and receives designated investment services from a Canadian investment manager. Unlike section 115.2, section 253 applies for the purposes of the Act, and, as a result, the non-resident in the example would be required to file a return in Canada under section 150, which requires corporations to file returns if at any time in the year they carry on business in Canada.

You suggest that the filing requirement deters non-resident investment, and that this result is inconsistent with the policy behind section 115.2. While we are not in a position to judge its effect on non-resident investors, we recognize that the requirement adds another step and cost to non-residents who wish to invest through a Canadian investment manager. It is worth noting that the requirement to file under section 150 does not necessarily mean that a corporation entitled to benefit from the protection of section 115.2 will be taxed as if it were carrying on business in Canada. Rather, the corporation is being treated for filing purposes as if it were carrying on business in Canada. That said, expanding the application of section 115.2 to apply for the purposes of section 150 would appear to be consistent with the general policy intent of the section 115.2: to ensure that the use of a Canadian investment manager does not, by itself, cause non-residents to be treated as though they are carrying on business in Canada.

We are therefore prepared to recommend amendments to the Act along the foregoing lines. As you suggest, we will recommend that these amendments be made effective as of the original effective date of section 115.2, namely for taxation years that end after 1998.

Of course, we cannot offer any assurance that either the Minister of Finance or Parliament will agree with the recommendations that we intend to make in this regard. Nonetheless, we trust that this statement of our position is helpful.

Yours sincerely,

Brian Ernewein, Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

Proposed Amendment — 115.2(2)

Letter from Dept. of Finance, April 28, 2008:

Dear Mr. [xxx]:

I am writing in response to your correspondence of January 2 and 16, 2008 in which you express a number of concerns, as summarized below, in respect of section 115.2 of the Income Tax Act (Act).

Services Causing a Partnership Interest to be Taxable Canadian Property

As you know, section 115.2 is an interpretive rule for the purposes of subsection 115(1) and Part XIV of the Act; it ensures that, if certain conditions are met, the provision of designated investment services by a Canadian service provider to a non-resident person does not by itself cause the non-resident person to be considered to be carrying on business in Canada.

You are concerned that the interpretive rule in section 115.2 applies only for the purposes of subsection 115(1) and Part XIV of the Act and not for the purposes of applying the definition "taxable Canadian property" in subsection 248(1) of the Act. In particular, you are concerned that the receipt of Canadian investment management services by a non-resident partnership may still result in the partnership being considered, for the purposes of applying the "taxable Canadian property" definition, to be carrying on business in Canada and that an interest in the partnership would therefore, because of the combined effect of paragraphs (b) and (g) of the definition "taxable Canadian property", be considered taxable Canadian property.

In your view, this result is not appropriate from a tax policy viewpoint. We agree with you and, therefore, we are prepared to recommend to the Minister of Finance that subsection 115.2(2) of the Act be amended to ensure that, if the condition in paragraph (c) of the subsection is met (which paragraph requires that the time of the provision of the designated investment services to the partnership by the Canadian service provider be not more than one year after the partnership was formed and that the condition in subparagraph 115.2(2)(c)(ii) placing a 25 percent limit on investments held in the partnership by persons who are affiliated with the Canadian service provider be satisfied), property of a partnership shall, for the purposes of determining whether the non-resident's partnership interest in the partnership is "taxable Canadian property" as defined in subsection 248(1) of the Act, not be considered to be used or held by the partnership in a business carried on in Canada. We will recommend that this amendment be made applicable for taxation years that end after 2007.

Similarly, you are concerned that the interpretive rule in section 115.2 may not apply for the purposes of section 229 of the Income Tax Regulations (Regulations), which requires members of a partnership that carries on business in Canada to file information returns. You are, therefore, concerned that non-resident members of a partnership who are entitled to benefit from the protection of section 115.2 may nonetheless be required to file a partnership information return in Canada solely because of the provision of designated investment services to the partnership by a Canadian service provider.

You suggest that amendments be made to eliminate the requirement for non-resident members of a partnership to make a partnership information return for a partnership in respect of which section 115.2 applies. You argue that such a change would be consistent with the purpose of section 115.2; that it would be consistent with the comfort letter dated November 26, 2002 and signed by Mr. Brian Ernewein in which he indicated the intention of this Division to recommend to the Minister a change to section 115.2 to broaden that section such that it applies also for the purpose of the filing requirements of a corporation under section 150 of the Act; and that it would reduce the administrative burden and costs incurred in respect of the preparation of partnership information returns.

While we are in general agreement with the substance of your request, I should note that in one important respect your analysis seems to misinterpret the policy basis of section 115.2. You imply that, because this provision applies in respect of a partnership, the partnership is not carrying on business in Canada, and therefore its members should be excused from having to file information returns. In fact, section 115.2 provides only the assurance that the activities it describes do not in themselves cause a non-resident to carry on business in Canada. A given person or partnership may be the beneficiary of the section and still, as a result of its other activities, be carrying on business in Canada.

That said, we agree that expanding the application of section 115.2 of the Act such that it applies for the purpose of section 229 of the Regulations is consistent with the general policy intent of section 115.2: i.e., to ensure that the use of a Canadian service provider does not, by itself, cause non-residents to be treated as though they are carrying on business in Canada. Accordingly, we are prepared to recommend to the Minister that subsection 115.2(2) of the Act be amended so that it applies also for the purposes of section 229 of the Regulations. We will recommend that this amendment be made applicable for taxation years that end after 2007.

Marketing partnership interests to Canadian residents

Paragraph (d) of the definition "designated investment services" in subsection 115.2(1) applies in the case of a corporation, trust, or partnership the only undertaking of which is the investing of its funds in qualified investments; it includes, in designated investment services, the marketing of investments in the corporation, trust or partnership to non-resident investors. You argue that the scope of paragraph (d) is too narrow in that section 115.2 offers protection to non-resident members of a partnership regardless of whether the partnership has a combination of Canadian resident and non-resident members, yet paragraph (d) requires that the Canadian service provider not market investments in the partnership to Canadian residents. You also argue that such a requirement hinders the ability of Canadian asset managers to compete internationally. You therefore propose that paragraph (d) of the definition "designated investment services" in subsection 115.2(1) be broadened to permit Canadian service providers to market investments in the partnership to Canadian residents. We understand your concern; however, we are not prepared to recommend any change at this time. We will keep this matter under consideration.

While we cannot offer any assurance that either the Minister of Finance or Parliament will agree with our recommendations in respect of the first two matters, we hope that this statement of our intentions is helpful.

Thank you for writing.

Yours sincerely,

Gerard Lalonde
Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

Letter from Dept. of Finance, Dec. 18, 2001:

Dear [xxx]:

I am writing in reply to your letter of October 24, 2001, regarding the conversion rules of foreign bank branches, particularly subsection 142.7(8) and subparagraph 212(1)(b)(vii) of the Income Tax Act, as well as your letter of November 13, 2001 regarding the application of section 116 of the Act where an authorized foreign bank disposes of its property to a Canadian resident.

You suggest that it would be difficult for the purchaser of a taxable Canadian property from an authorized foreign bank to determine if the property were used in the bank's Canadian banking business, and thus was an "excluded property" under section 116 such that the transaction would have no withholding implications. Therefore, you request that the purchaser be exempt from the withholding obligation in a manner similar to the relief proposed for the purposes of Part XIII and Regulation 105.

We understand the difficulty facing purchasers and, as a result, are prepared to recommend amendments to alleviate the compliance burden of purchasers acquiring taxable Canadian properties from an authorized foreign bank similar to the relief available to qualified non-resident insurance corporations described in Regulation 810.

It is also our intention to recommend that the above-noted changes be effective after June 27, 1999, coinciding with the other aspects of the taxation rules of authorized foreign bank. While I can offer no assurance that the Minister will accept our recommendations, we expect that measures along the lines I have described will be included in the next package of draft income tax technical amendments.

I trust that the above will satisfy your requirements.

Yours sincerely,

Brian Ernewein, Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

Letter from Dept. of Finance, July 13, 2001: See under 212(13.3).

Federal Budget, Notice of Ways and Means Motion, Jan. 27, 2009: Basic Personal Amount

(1) That, for the 2009 taxation year, the basic personal amount, the spouse or common law partner amount, and the eligible dependant amount be increased to $10,320 and be indexed to inflation for subsequent taxation years.

Federal Budget, Supplementary Information, Jan. 27, 2009: Personal Amounts and Income Tax Brackets

Budget 2009 proposes significant new personal income tax relief that will provide immediate benefits, particularly for low- to middle-income Canadians.

Budget 2009 proposes to increase the basic personal amount and the two lowest personal income tax brackets by 7.5% above their 2008 levels [instead of the 2.5% required by 117.1(1) — ed.], effective January 1, 2009. As a result of these measures:

- the basic personal amount, the spousal and common-law partner amount, and the eligible dependant amount will increase for 2009 to $10,320 from $9,600 in 2008,
- [tax bracket changes reproduced under 117(2) — ed.]

The increased amounts and bracket thresholds will be indexed to account for inflation for 2010 and subsequent years.

C is the income of the individual's spouse or common-law partner for the year or, where the individual and the individual's spouse or common-law partner are living separate and apart at the end of the year because of a breakdown of their marriage or common-law partnership, the spouse's income for the year while married to, or in a common-law partnership with, the individual and not so separated,

Proposed Amendment — 118(1)B(a)(ii)C

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 34(2), will substitute "spouse's or common-law partner's income" for "spouse's income" in the description of C in subpara. (a)(ii) of the description of B in subsec. 118(1), applicable to 2009 et seq.

Para. (a) formerly read:

Federal Budget, Supplementary Information, Jan. 27, 2009: Age Credit

Budget 2009 proposes to increase the Age Credit, a federal income tax credit for Canadians 65 years of age and older, for the 2009 and subsequent taxation years.

The Age Credit is calculated by multiplying the lowest personal income tax rate, 15%, by an amount that is indexed to compensate for inflation. The Age Credit is subject to an income test that targets the assistance to those seniors who need it most. The unused portion of an individual's Age Credit may be transferred to the individual's spouse or common-law partner.

For 2009, the amount on which the Age Credit is based will be increased by $1,000 to $6,408, effective January 1, 2009, and indexed thereafter. This increase will help eligible low- and middle-income seniors by providing up to $150 of additional federal income tax relief each year.

For 2009, the net income level at which the Age Credit begins to be phased out will remain unchanged at $32,312. The phase-out rate is 15%. With this enhancement of the Age Credit amount, the income level at which the Age Credit is fully phased out will increase by over $6,600 to $75,032 from $68,365.

The True North Strong and Free*, Conservative Party election platform (conservative.ca), Oct. 7, 2008: Helping Seniors by Increasing the Credit Amount

A re-elected Conservative Government led by Stephen Harper will increase the Senior Age Credit Amount by an additional $1,000, on top of already planned increases. Once this increase is fully implemented, it will result in savings of more than $400 per year for eligible seniors receiving the full value of the credit.

History: The definition "eligible pension income" added to subsec. 118(7) by 2007, c. 29, subsec. 9(11), applicable to 2007 et seq.

"pension income" received by an individual in a taxation year means the total of

(a) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount included in computing the individual's income for the year that is

(i) a payment in respect of a life annuity out of or under a superannuation or pension plan,

(ii) an annuity payment under a registered retirement savings plan, under an "amended plan" as referred to in subsection 146(12) or under an annuity in respect of which an amount is included in computing the individual's income by reason of paragraph 56(1)(d.2),

(iii) a payment out of or under a registered retirement income fund or under an "amended fund" as referred to in subsection 146.3(11),

Proposed Addition — 118(7)"pension income"(a)(iii.1)

(iii.1) a payment (other than a payment described in subparagraph (i)) payable on a periodic basis under a money purchase provision (within the meaning assigned by subsection 147.1(1)) of a registered pension plan,

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 106(2), will add subpara. (a)(iii.1) to the definition "pension income" in subsec. 118(7), applicable to 2004 et seq.

Technical Notes: Section 118 provides for a number of credits that are deductible in computing the tax payable by an individual, including the pension credit in subsection 118(3). The pension credit available to a taxpayer who is 65 years of age or older is based on the taxpayer's "pension income", as defined in subsection 118(7). Pension income includes lifetime annuity payments under a pension plan and payments under a registered retirement income fund (RRIF).

The definition "pension income" is amended to add periodic payments under a money purchase provision of a registered pension plan (RPP), to the extent that such payments are not already included. This amendment is consequential on amendments to section 8506 of the Regulations, the purpose of which is to allow money purchase RPPs to provide members with retirement benefits that are payable in the same manner as is permitted under a RRIF. Since these benefits would not be considered to be lifetime annuity payments, it is necessary to ensure that they qualify for the purpose of the pension credit.

(iv) an annuity payment under a deferred profit sharing plan or under a "revoked plan" as referred to in subsection 147(15),

(v) a payment described in subparagraph 147(2)(k)(v), or

(vi) the amount by which an annuity payment included in computing the individual's income for the year by reason of paragraph 56(1)(d) exceeds the capital element of that payment as determined or established under paragraph 60(a), and

(b) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount included in computing the individual's income for the year by reason of section 12.2 of this Act or paragraph 56(1)(d.1) of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952;

Related Provisions: 60.03(1)"pension income" — Definition applies to pension income splitting rules; 104(27) — Flow-out of pension benefits by trust; 118(8) — Limitations; 118(8.1) — Bridging benefits included in "payment in respect of a life annuity under a superannuation or pension plan"; 118.7 — Credit for UI/EI premium and CPP contribution.

I.T. Application Rules: 69 (meaning of "chapter 148 of ...").

"qualified pension income" received by an individual in a taxation year means the total of all amounts each of which is an amount included in computing the individual's income for the year and described in

(a) subparagraph (a)(i) of the definition "pension income" in this subsection, or

(b) any of subparagraphs (a)(ii) to (vi) or paragraph (b) of the definition "pension income" in this subsection received by the individual as a consequence of the death of a spouse or common-law partner of the individual.

Related Provisions: 104(27) — Flow-out of pension benefits by trust; 118(5) — Alimony and maintenance; 118(8) — Limitations; 118.7 — Credit for UI/EI premium and CPP contribution; 248(8) — Occurrences as a consequence of death.

History: Para. (b) of the definition "qualified pension income" in subsec. 118(7) amended by 2000, c. 12, Sch. 2, s. 1, to replace "spouse" with "spouse or common-law partner", applicable to 2001 et seq., in force July 31, 2000. See also the transitional rules reproduced in the History to 248(1)"common-law partner".

Para. (b) of "qualified pension income" amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 52(2), applicable after 1992. Para. (b) formerly read:

(b) any of subparagraphs (a)(ii) to (vi) or paragraph (b) of the definition "pension income" in this subsection received by the individual as a consequence of the death of the spouse (within the meaning assigned by subsection 146(1.1)) of the individual.

(8) Interpretation — For the purposes of subsection (7), "pension income" and "qualified pension income" received by an individual in a taxation year do not include any amount that is

(b) the amount of a benefit under the Canada Pension Plan or under a provincial pension plan as defined in section 3 of that Act;

(c) a death benefit;

(d) the amount, if any, by which

(ii) the amount, if any, by which the amount referred to in subparagraph (i) exceeds the total of all amounts deducted (other than under paragraph 60(c)) by the individual for the year in respect of that amount;

(e) a payment received out of or under a salary deferral arrangement, a retirement compensation arrangement, an employee benefit plan, an employee trust or a prescribed provincial pension plan; or

(f) a payment (other than a payment under the Judges Act or the Lieutenant Governors Superannuation Act) received out of or under an unfunded supplemental plan or arrangement, being a plan or arrangement where

(i) the payment was in respect of services rendered to an employer by the individual or the individual's spouse or common-law partner or former spouse or common-law partner as an employee, and

(ii) the plan or arrangement would have been a retirement compensation arrangement or an employee benefit plan had the employer made a contribution in respect of the payment to a trust governed by the plan or arrangement.

(8.1) Bridging benefits — For the purposes of subsection (7), a payment in respect of a life annuity under a superannuation or pension plan is deemed to include a payment in respect of bridging benefits, being benefits payable under a registered pension plan on a periodic basis and not less frequently than annually to an individual where

(a) the individual or the individual's spouse or common-law partner or former spouse or common-law partner was a member (as defined in subsection 147.1(1)) of the registered pension plan;

(b) the benefits are payable for a period ending no later than the end of the month following the month in which the member attains 65 years of age or would have attained that age if the member had survived to that day; and

(c) the amount (expressed on an annualized basis) of the benefits payable to the individual for a calendar year does not exceed the total of the maximum amount of benefits payable for that year under Part I of the Old Age Security Act and the maximum amount of benefits (other than disability, death or survivor benefits) payable for that year under either the Canada Pension Plan or a provincial pension plan as defined in section 3 of that Act.

(9) Rounding — If an amount determined under any of paragraphs (3.1)(a) to (f) and (3.2)(a) to (f) is not a multiple of one dollar, it shall be rounded to the nearest multiple of one dollar or, where it is equidistant from two such consecutive multiples, to the greater multiple.

Proposed Repeal — 118(9)

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 34(7), will repeal subsec. 118(9), applicable to 2009 et seq.

History: Subsec. 118(9) amended to substitute "(3.1)(a) to (f) and (3.2)(a) to (f)" for "(3.1)(a) to (f), (3.2)(a) to (f) and (3.3)(a) to (f)" by 2007, c. 29, subsec. 9(15), applicable to 2007 et seq.

Subsec. 118(9) added by 2006, c. 4, subsec. 60(2), applicable to 2005 et seq.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): Subsection 118(10) provides to an individual a non-refundable tax credit on up to $1,000 of employment income for a taxation year. The employment income eligible for the tax credit is calculated without taking into account any deductions allowed under section 8. Paragraph (b) of the description of B in the formula in subsection 118(10) is amended so that the credit also applies to amounts received under the Wage Earner Protection Program Act (WEPP).

Proposed Addition — Home Renovation Tax Credit

Federal Budget, Notice of Ways and Means Motion, Jan. 27, 2009: Home Renovation Tax Credit

(4) That the Act be modified consequential on the introduction of the Home Renovations Tax Credit in accordance with proposals described in the budget documents tabled by the Minister of Finance in the House of Commons on January 27, 2009.

Federal Budget, Supplementary Information, Jan. 27, 2009: Home Renovation Tax Credit

To stimulate economic growth and encourage Canadians to invest in improvements to their homes, Budget 2009 proposes to introduce a temporary Home Renovation Tax Credit (HRTC). The HRTC will provide meaningful tax relief to help Canadian homeowners make improvements to their property while promoting broad-based economic activity. The design elements of the HRTC are described below.

Design of the Credit

Individuals will be able to claim a 15% non-refundable tax credit for eligible expenditures made in respect of eligible dwellings.

The credit will apply to expenditures in excess of $1,000, but not more than $10,000, resulting in a maximum credit of $1,350 ($9,000 × 15%).

Eligibility Period

The credit will apply only to the 2009 taxation year. Expenditures for work performed, or goods acquired, after January 27, 2009 and before February 1, 2010, will be eligible for the credit. The credit will, however, not be available in respect of expenditures for work performed or goods acquired in that period if the expenditure is made pursuant to an agreement entered into before January 28, 2009. Individuals may claim this credit (including in respect of expenditures made in January 2010) in their 2009 income tax returns.

Eligible Individuals

Eligibility for the HRTC will be family-based. For this purpose, a family will generally be considered to consist of an individual, and where applicable, the individual's spouse or common-law partner, and their children who were, throughout 2009, under the age of 18 years.

Family members will be subject to a single limit based on their pooled expenditures.

While it is anticipated that in most cases one family member will claim the whole of the credit, any unused portion may be claimed by one or more of the other family members as a credit against that person's tax otherwise payable.

Two or more families that share ownership of an eligible dwelling will each be eligible for their own credit. Each family's credit will be determined by their respective eligible expenditures in excess of $1,000, but not more than $10,000.

Eligible Dwellings

Individuals will be able to claim the HRTC on eligible expenditures made at any time after January 27, 2009 and before February 1, 2010 in respect of dwellings that are eligible at any time during that period to be their principal residence or that of one or more of their other family members under the existing tax law [see 54"principal residence" — ed.].

In general, a housing unit is considered to be eligible to be an individual's principal residence where it is owned by the individual and ordinarily inhabited by the individual, the individual's spouse or common-law partner or their children.

In the case of condominiums and co-operative housing corporations, the credit will be available for eligible expenditures incurred to renovate the unit that is eligible to be the individual's principal residence as well as the individual's share of the cost of eligible expenditures incurred in respect of common areas.

Individuals who earn business or rental income from part of their principal residence will be allowed to claim the credit for the full amount of expenditures made in respect of the personal-use areas of the residence. For expenditures made in respect of common areas or that benefit the housing unit as a whole (such as re-shingling a roof), the administrative practices ordinarily followed by the Canada Revenue Agency (CRA) to determine how business or rental income and expenditures are allocated as between personal use and income-earning use will apply in establishing the amount qualifying for the credit.

Eligible Expenditures

Expenditures will qualify for the HRTC if they are incurred in relation to a renovation or alteration of an eligible dwelling (including land that forms part of the eligible dwelling) provided that the renovation or alteration is of an enduring nature and is integral to the eligible dwelling. Such expenditures would include the cost of labour and professional services, building materials, fixtures, equipment rentals, and permits.

The following expenditures will not be eligible for the credit:

- The cost of routine repairs and maintenance normally performed on an annual or more frequent basis.
- Expenditures for appliances and audio-visual electronics.
- Financing costs associated with a renovation (e.g. mortgage interest costs).

Alterations or other items, such as furniture or draperies, and other indirect expenditures for items that retain a value independent of the renovation, such as the purchase of construction equipment (e.g. tools) will not be considered integral to the dwelling and therefore will not qualify for the credit.

The HRTC will not be reduced by any other tax credits or grants to which a taxpayer is entitled under other government programs. For instance, in the case of an individual who makes an eligible expenditure that also qualifies for the Medical Expense Tax Credit (METC), the individual will be permitted to claim both the HRTC and the METC in respect of that expenditure.

Expenditures will not be eligible if the related goods or services are provided by a person not dealing at arm's length with the individual, unless that person is registered for Goods and Services Tax/Harmonized Sales Tax purposes under the Excise Tax Act. Any eligible expenditure claimed for the HRTC must be supported by receipts.

CRA Q&A, Feb. 2, 2009: Home Renovation Tax Credit

1. What is the Home Renovation Tax Credit (HRTC)? The proposed HRTC is a non-refundable tax credit for work performed or goods acquired in respect of an eligible dwelling.

2. What is meant by eligible dwelling? An eligible dwelling is a housing unit that is an individual's principal residence or that of one or more of their family members. In general, a housing unit is considered eligible to be an individual's principal residence where it is owned by the individual and ordinarily inhabited by the individual, the individual's spouse or common-law partner, or their children.

3. What is the eligibility period? The credit will be based on eligible expenditures for work performed or goods acquired after January 27, 2009, and before February 1, 2010. Expenditures incurred pursuant to an agreement that was entered into before January 28, 2009, will not be eligible for the credit.

4. Who will be eligible for the credit? Eligibility for the HRTC will be family based. A family will generally be considered to consist of an individual or an individual and his or her spouse or common-law partner, including children who will be under 18 years of age, at the end of 2009. A family will be allowed a single credit that may be shared within the family.

If two or more families share the ownership of an eligible dwelling, each family will be eligible for their own separate credit (i.e. each up to $1,350) that will be calculated on their respective eligible expenditures.

5. How will the credit be calculated? The credit will only be available for the 2009 tax year and applies to eligible expenditures of more than $1,000, but not more than $10,000, resulting in a maximum credit of $1,350 ($9,000 × 15%).

6. What are eligible expenditures? To be eligible, expenditures incurred in relation to a renovation or alteration to an eligible dwelling (or the land that forms part of the eligible dwelling) must be of an enduring nature and integral to the dwelling, and includes the cost of labour and professional services, building materials, fixtures, rentals, and permits.

Eligible expenditures must be supported by acceptable documentation.

7. What does the CRA consider to be acceptable documentation? Documentation, such as agreements, invoices, and receipts, must clearly identify the type and quantity of goods purchased or services provided, including, but not limited to, the following information:

- information that clearly identifies the vendor/contractor, their business address and, if applicable, the GST/HST registration number;
- a description of the goods and the date when the goods were purchased;
- the date the goods were delivered (keep your delivery slip as proof) and/or when the work or services were performed;
- a description of the work (including the address of where the work was performed);
- the amount of the invoice; and
- proof of payment.

Please consult our Underground Economy Web page, for tips to protect yourself when hiring a contractor.

To verify whether someone is registered for GST/HST, please consult the GST/HST Registry <cra.gc.ca/gsthstregistry>.

8. I am planning to replace my windows in 2009: can I hire my brother-in-law to help me out and still be eligible? It depends. Expenditures will not be eligible if the related goods or services are provided by a person not dealing at arm's length with the individual, unless that person is registered for the Goods and Services Tax/Harmonized Sales Tax under the Excise Tax Act. So, in your case, if your brother-in-law is registered for GST/HST and if all other conditions are met, the expenditure will be eligible for the credit.

9. Will expenditures for the common areas of condominiums and co-operative housing corporations qualify for the credit? In the case of condominiums and co-operative housing corporations, the individual's share of the cost of eligible expenditures for common areas will qualify.

10. I rent out my basement. If I renovate the basement for my tenant, will I be allowed to claim the credit? No. Individuals who earn business or rental income from part of their principal residence will be allowed to claim the credit only for expenditures made for the personal-use areas of the residence.

For expenditures made for common areas or that benefit the housing unit as a whole (such as re-shingling a roof), you must divide the expense between personal use and income-earning use. For further information, please consult the Business and Professional Income Guide [T4002] or the Rental Income Guide [T4036], as applicable.

11. If an eligible expenditure also qualifies for the Medical Expense Tax Credit (METC), will I be allowed to claim both the HRTC and METC? Yes. Where an eligible expenditure qualifies for the METC the individual will be permitted to claim both the METC and the HRTC for that expenditure.

12. Will the credit be reduced by other government grants or credits that I may receive for the same expenditures? No. Eligible expenditures will not be reduced by other government tax credits or grants that the individual may be entitled to.

13. Could you provide me with some examples of eligible and ineligible expenditures? Yes, some examples are:

Eligible

- Renovating a kitchen, bathroom or basement
- New carpet or hardwood floors
- Building an addition, deck, fence
- Purchasing a new furnace
- A new driveway
- Painting of interior or exterior of a house

Ineligible

- Furniture, appliances, and audio and visual electronics
- Curtains and draperies
- Purchasing of tools
- Cleaning carpets
- House cleaning

14. What types of expenditures will not qualify? The following expenditures will not be eligible for the HRTC:

- the cost of routine repairs and maintenance normally performed on an annual or more frequent basis;
- expenditures that are not integral to the dwelling, and other indirect expenditures that retain a value independent of the renovation; and
- financing costs.

15. Do I have to submit any supporting documents with my income tax return? No. However, you must ensure that this information is available, should it be requested by the CRA.

16. How will I claim the HRTC? Beginning with the 2009 personal income tax return, a new line will be incorporated to allow you to claim the credit.

17. Where can I get more information about this new tax credit? Additional information will be posted on the CRA's Web site as it becomes available. In the meantime, please see the Department of Finance's Budget 2009 documents for details.

Proposed Addition — First-Time Home Buyer's Credit and Disability Home Purchase Credit

Federal Budget, Notice of Ways and Means Motion, Jan. 27, 2009: First-Time Home Buyer's Tax Credit

(6) That the Act be modified consequential on the introduction of the First-Time Home Buyer's Tax Credit in accordance with proposals described in the budget documents tabled by the Minister of Finance in the House of Commons on January 27, 2009.

Federal Budget, Supplementary Information, Jan. 27, 2009: First-Time Home Buyers' Tax Credit

Budget 2009 proposes to introduce a new non-refundable tax credit based on an amount of $5,000 [i.e., a federal credit of up to $750 — ed.] for first-time home buyers who acquire a qualifying home after January 27, 2009 (i.e. the closing is after that date). The credit for a taxation year will be calculated by reference to the lowest personal income tax rate for the year and is claimable for the taxation year in which the home is acquired.

An individual will be considered a first-time home buyer if neither the individual nor the individual's spouse or common-law partner owned and lived in another home in the calendar year of the home purchase or in any of the four preceding calendar years. A qualifying home is one that is currently eligible for the Home Buyers' Plan that the individual or individual's spouse or common-law partner intends to occupy as the principal place of residence [note that this is more restrictive than 54"principal residence" — ed.] not later than one year after its acquisition.

Budget 2009 also proposes that the credit be available for certain acquisitions of a home by or for the benefit of an individual who is eligible for the disability tax credit (DTC). In particular, the credit will be available in respect of a home acquired after January 27, 2009 (i.e. the closing is after that date) by an individual who is eligible for the DTC. or by an individual for the benefit of a related individual who is DTC-eligible, if the home is acquired to enable the DTC-eligible individual to live in a more accessible dwelling or in an environment better suited to the personal needs and care of that person.

For the purpose of this credit, a "DTC-eligible" individual is an individual in respect of whom an amount is deductible under the DTC for the taxation year in which the agreement to acquire the home is entered into, or would be deductible if costs for an attendant or care in a nursing home were not claimed for Medical Expense Tax Credit purposes by or on behalf of that person. Where the home is acquired by or for the benefit of a DTC-eligible individual, the home must be intended to be the principal place of residence [note that this is more restrictive than 54"principal residence" — ed.] of that individual no later than one year after its acquisition.

The credit may be claimed by the individual who acquires the home or by that individual's spouse or common-law partner. For the purpose of this credit, a home is considered to be acquired by an individual only if the individual's interest in the home is registered in accordance with the applicable land registration system.

Any unused portion of an individual's First-Time Home Buyers' Tax Credit may be claimed by the individual's spouse or common-law partner. Where more than one individual is entitled to the First-Time Home Buyers' Tax Credit (for example, where two individuals jointly buy a home), the total amount of the credits claimable for the year by those individuals shall not exceed the maximum amount of the credit that would be claimable for the year by any one of those individuals.

The True North Strong and Free*, Conservative Party election platform (conservative.ca), Oct. 7, 2008: Helping First-Time Homebuyers with High Closing Costs

A re-elected Conservative Government led by Stephen Harper will give first-time homebuyers a tax credit for up to $5,000 of eligible closing costs on the purchase of a new home.

CRA Q&A, Feb. 2, 2009: First-Time Home Buyers' Tax Credit (HBTC)

1. What is the Home Buyers' Tax Credit (HBTC)? For 2009 and subsequent years, the budget proposes to introduce a new non-refundable tax credit, based on an amount of $5,000, for certain home buyers that acquire a qualifying home after January 27, 2009 (i.e., closing after this date).

2. How is the new HBTC calculated? The HBTC is calculated by multiplying the lowest personal income tax rate for the year (15% in 2009) by $5,000. For 2009, the credit will be $750.

3. Who is eligible for the HBTC? An individual will qualify for the HBTC if:

- they acquire a qualifying home; and
- neither the individual nor the individual's spouse or common-law partner owned and lived in another home in the year of purchase or any of the four preceding years.

If you are a person with a disability or are buying a house for a related person with a disability, you do not have to be a first time home buyer. However, the home must be acquired to enable the person with a disability to live in a more accessible dwelling or in an environment better suited to the personal needs and care of that person.

4. What is a qualifying home? A qualifying home is a housing unit located in Canada. This includes existing homes and those being constructed. Single-family homes, semi-detached homes, townhouses, mobile homes, condominium units, and apartments in duplexes, triplexes, fourplexes, or apartment buildings, all qualify. A share in a co-operative housing corporation that entitles you to possess and gives you an equity interest in a housing unit located in Canada also qualifies. However, a share that only provides you with a right to tenancy in the housing unit does not qualify.

As well, you or the related person with a disability must intend to occupy the home as a principal place of residence no later than one year after buying it.

5. If I buy a house, can my spouse or common-law partner claim the HBTC? Either one of you can claim the credit or you can share the credit. However, the total of both your claims cannot exceed $750.

6. My friend and I intend to purchase a home, and we both meet the conditions for the HBTC. Can we both claim the credit? Either one of you can claim the credit or you can share the credit. However, the total of both your claims cannot exceed $750.

7. Do I have to register the acquisition of the home under the applicable land registration system? Yes. The individual's interest in the home must be registered in accordance with the applicable land registration system.

8. Who is considered a person with a disability for purposes of the HBTC? For the purposes of the HBTC, an individual eligible for the Disability Tax Credit (DTC) is one for whom an amount can be claimed under the DTC for the year in which an agreement to acquire the home is entered into, or could be claimed if costs for an attendant care or care in a nursing home were not claimed for the [Medical Expense Tax Credit].

9. How will I claim the HBTC? Beginning with the 2009 personal income tax return, a new line will be incorporated to allow you to claim the credit.

10. Do I have to submit any supporting documents with my income tax return? No. However, you must ensure that this information is available, should it be requested by the CRA.

11. Is the HBTC connected to the existing Home Buyer's Plan? No. Although some of the eligibility conditions for the HBTC and the Home Buyer's Plan are similar, they are not connected. Your eligibility for the HBTC will not change whether or not you also participate in the Home Buyer's Plan.

12. Where can I get more information about the new HBTC? The CRA encourages taxpayers to check our Web site often — all new forms, policies, and guidelines will be posted here as they become available.

118.1 (1) Definitions — In this section

"total charitable gifts" of an individual for a taxation year means the total of all amounts each of which is the fair market value of a gift (other than a gift the fair market value of which is included in the total Crown gifts, the total cultural gifts or the total ecological gifts of the individual for the year) made by the individual in the year or in any of the 5 immediately preceding taxation years (other than in a year for which a deduction under subsection 110(2) was claimed in computing the individual's taxable income) to

Proposed Amendment — 118.1(1)"total charitable gifts" opening words

"total charitable gifts", in respect of an individual for a taxation year, means the total of all amounts each of which is the eligible amount of a gift (other than a gift described in the definition "total Crown gifts", "total cultural gifts" or "total ecological gifts") made by the individual in the year or in any of the five preceding taxation years (other than in a year for which a deduction under subsection 110(2) was claimed in computing the individual's taxable income) to

Technical Notes: Section 118.1 provides for a charitable donations tax credit to individuals in respect of gifts made to registered charities and to certain other entities. Section 118.1 is amended to expand the entities referred to in this section to include municipal or public bodies performing a function of government in Canada. This amendment is in response to the Quebec Court of Appeal decision in Tawich Development Corporation v. Deputy Minister of Revenue of Quebec, 2001 D.T.C. 5144. For additional information, see the commentary to paragraph 149(1)(d.5).

The amendments to section 118.1, described below, are made consequential to the addition of new subsections 248(30) to (39). Generally, those subsections clarify the circumstances under which a transfer of property will be considered a gift notwithstanding that the donor may be entitled to receive an advantage or benefit in respect of the property. New subsection 248(31) generally provides that the "eligible amount" of the gift is the excess of the fair market value of a property transferred by way of gift over the value of the advantage or benefit, if any, to which the transferor is entitled. For additional information, see the commentary to new subsections 248(30) to (39).

Subsection 118.1(1) provides definitions of the terms "total charitable gifts", "total Crown gifts", "total cultural gifts" and "total ecological gifts". These definitions apply for the purpose of the tax credit available under subsection 118.1(3) to individuals who make such gifts. The amount of a gift that is eligible for a tax credit is, generally, the fair market value of the property disposed of by the individual in the making of the gift.

The definitions "total charitable gifts", "total Crown gifts", "total cultural gifts" and "total ecological gifts" in subsection 118.1(1) are amended, as a consequence of the addition of new subsection 248(31), to provide that the amount that qualifies for the credit under subsection 118.1(3) is the "eligible amount" of a gift.

In addition, the definition of "total charitable gifts" and the definition of "total ecological gifts" in subsection 118.1(1) are expanded to include a gift to a municipal or public body performing a function of government in Canada.

(b) a registered Canadian amateur athletic association,

(a) the individual claims an amount under subsec. 118.1(3) in respect of the gift for the individual's 2004 taxation year;

(b) the gift was made to a registered charity listed under the International Humanitarian Assistance program of the Canadian International Development Agency;

(c) the individual directed the charity to apply the gift to the tsunami relief effort; and

The opening words of the definition "total charitable gifts" in subsec. 118.1(1) amended by 1996, c. 21, subsec. 23(1), applicable to gifts made after February 27, 1995. The opening words formerly read:

"total charitable gifts" of an individual for a taxation year means the total of all amounts each of which is the fair market value of a gift (other than a gift the fair market value of which is included in the total Crown gifts or the total cultural gifts of the individual for the year, or would have been so included for a preceding taxation year if this section had applied to that preceding year) made by the individual in the year or in any of the 5 immediately preceding taxation years (other than in a year for which a deduction under subsection 110(2) was claimed in computing the individual's taxable income) to

Definition "total charitable gifts" amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 88(1), applicable after December 11, 1988. That definition formerly read:

"total charitable gifts" of an individual for a taxation year means the total of all amounts each of which is the amount of a gift made by the individual in the year or in one of the 5 immediately preceding taxation years to

(a) a registered charity,

(b) a registered Canadian amateur athletic association,

(d) a Canadian municipality,

(e) the United Nations or an agency thereof,

(f) a university outside Canada prescribed to be a university the student body of which ordinarily includes students from Canada, or

(g) a charitable organization outside Canada to which Her Majesty in right of Canada has made a gift during the individual's taxation year or the 12 months immediately preceding that taxation year, to the extent that the amounts of those gifts have been neither
